The talkie at the Capitol was taken from the stage play, "One Hal Hour." Well one lady attending the show last night spent a hectic "half" hour looking after a youngster that she had brought. Thank goodnes it did not cry—that is, not much, but it spent most of its time rolling around the aisle.

AN OLD LETTER.

During Old Home Week, many rare old letters, pictures, photos, tintypes, etc., came into The Examiner office, and one of the most interesting was a letter left in by Robert G. Glover, written from Scotland, Dec. 27, 1868 to his mother in Alnwick, Ont.

In those days envelopes were not used, the letter simply folded, and the pages gummed. The letter is well preserved and is a most interesting one to those whom it concerns.

GOVERNMENT WILL MEET LEGISLATURE

SPANISH SENORA RETURNS TO CITY TO VISIT MATERNAL RELATIVES IS PERSONAL FRIEND OF RULERS

Senora Luis de Laviega Cebrian is Niece of Sheriff F. J. A. Hall.

SAYS SPAIN WONDERFUL.

Mother Was Edith Hall, Daughter of Late Sheriff James A. Hall.

Senora Luis de Laviega Cebrian is visiting her maternal relatives in Peterborough after years of absence in Spain, the country of her adoption.

Senora Cebrian is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Crofton of San Francisco and is a niece of Sheriff F. J. A. Hall. Her mother was Edith Hall, daughter of the late Sheriff James A. Hall.

Senor Luis de Laviega Cebrian is a Spanish business magnate and son of a man whose name is a household word in the world of science and letters in Madrid. While in San Francisco on a business trip in the years before their marriage, he met Katherine Crofton, the daughter of a Peterborough girl. They were married and went to live in Spain where the romance of the Golden Gate was transferred to the royal court of Spain. For Senora Cebrian is one of the very few Canadian women ever presented to the picturesque and ancient court of Aragon and Castile.

Friends of the King.

Senor Cebrian was brought up in the same surroundings as King Alphonso of Spain, and as children they played together. Both he and Senora Cebrian are personal friends of the King, whom they describe as one of the most democractic of individuals.

"King Alphonso detests all the trappings and pomp commonly associated with a kingly figure," Senor Cebrian remarked in the course of an interview. "It is with great difficulty that the private detectives who watch over him are able to keep him in sight."

Says Spain Wonderful.

"The Spanards are charming," his wife said, "and I have never had cause for a moment to wish I had never adopted their country as my own. Spain is wonderful. Madrid and Barcelona with their high combs and mantillas are still in use, and the men wear what you might term here as "toreador suits." Tourists agencies like to tell people that Spain's hotels are poor, but I have found them excellent. I think this propaganda against Spanish hotels must have originated from the French desire to get the most of the huge number of tourists that come over from this continent every year."

"It is a pity," the Senora remarked, "that Spain is so much misunderstood Canadians know Spain only from the impression that the moving pictures have given them. If they knew it as I do, its beauty and old world charm, they would love it as I do."

A Family Reunion.

The occasion of Senora Cebrian's visit to her Canadian home has been expanded into a happy family reunion at Miss Nan Hall's summer cottage at Stoney Lake. With Miss Hall are sisters, Mrs. McKenzie of Toronto, Mrs. Greenless of Montreal, Mrs. Austin of Detroit, and Mrs. Crofton of San Francisco, her husband Mr. A. Crofton, their daughter, Mrs. Cebrian and her husband, Senor Cebrian.

Senora Cebrian was enthusiastic about her visit—"not that I have not grown to love the land of my adoption, but there is always that gnawing desire to get back to one's own home—you know the feeling," she explained.

A Memorable Incident.

Senor Cebrian was within a few feet of the King when an attempt was made on his life a few years ago. He described the incident: "The King was riding in a procession on a festive occasion of note when a man dashed out of the crowd and pointed a revolver at him. Quick as a flash, the King caused his horse to rear up on his hind legs, and that, only just in time, for the bullet from the assassin's gun went right through the horse's neck. As the horse fell the King jumped agilely off, grasped his would-be assailant by the arms and held him prisoner until officers of the law captured him. Some time later, the man's sentence was commuted by especial order of the King."

Dismissal Of Gov't Held

CONFIDENCE LACKING.

Thirty-five Members Petition That Saskatchewan Group Vacate Office.

REGINA, July 27 (Canadian Press) —The petition presented to-day by Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, leader of the allied opposition groups elected in the recent provincial election, requesting the dismissal from office of the Gardiner Government, has been refused by Lieut.-Governor H. W. Newlands.

The Lieut.-Governor to-night announced that Premier James G. Gardiner, as the leader of the largest group in the House, was entitled to meet the Legislature and let it decide the course of events.

Lieutenant-Governor's Letter.

The Lieutenant-Governor's reply is contained in a letter sent to Dr. Anderson to-night:

The petition presented this morning by the Opposition leader declared that the Gardiner Government should "vacate the parliament buildings on the ground that the administration no longer possesses the confidence of the Legislature."

Mr. Newlands in his letter states that he discussed the situation with Mr. Gardiner yesterday afternoon and had agreed with him that as the leader of the largest group in the House, he was entitled to meet the Legislature and let it decide the course of events.

Informs Premier Gardiner.

At the same time, the Lieutenant-Governor informed Premier Gardiner of the receipt of the petition, which was handed to him personally by Dr. Anderson and supplied the Premier with a copy for his information.

The text of Lieutenant-Governor Newland's communication to Dr. Anderson is as follows:

"Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, Saskatoon.

"Dear Mr. Anderson:

the earliest it can be called after the forming him of the contents of the petition signed by 35 members-elect to the legislature.

"I may say that I have already discussed this matter with Mr. Gardiner and he claims the right as the leader of the largest party elected, to meet the legislature and let the members decide the future government of the province.

"I have agreed to this on the understanding that the legislature is to be called together at the earliest possible moment.

"The legislature will be summoned to meet on September 3rd, which is the earliest it can be calle dafter the deferred objections are completed.

"Your obedient servant,
(signed) H. W. Newlands,
Lieutenant-Governor."

Premier Gardiner has a following of 27 members, while the Conservatives number 24, Independents, 5; Independent-Farmer, 1, and Progressives, 5. One deferred election, in the Cumberland constituency, will be held August 12.

Leaders Decline Comment.

Both Premier James G. Gardiner and Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, leader of the Opposition members of the Saskatchewan Legislature, refused to comment last night on the refusal of Lieutenant-Governor H. W. Newlands to dismiss the Liberal regime as requested in the petition presented to him yesterday morning.

"I have no comment to make because I expect to hear directly from the Lieutenant-Governor," said Dr. Anderson. "It would not be courteous on my part to make any comment until I receive his written statement."

Mr. Gardiner said he had no statement to make, indicating that there was really nothing new in the situation that has arisen.

LIONTREAL, Que., July 27—(Canadian Press).—Declaring that after two months in Great Britain and on the continent they return better Canadians than ever with a wider outlook and appreciation of world events fifty Canadian newspaper men and their wives landed last night from the Canadian Pacific Liner Duchess of Bedford.

During their tour the newspapermen, who represented journals from coast to coast, were received by His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, entertained by the President and Chancellor of Australia, the German Foreign Official, Col. Grant Morden, Lord Astor, and many other prominent men in the various countries they visited.

Held Conference

While in England the party met Lord Passfield, Minister for the dominions and J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal, and held a conference on unemployment lasting an hour and a half. Throughout the tour, although the trip was largely for pleasure, the Canadians were given an opportunity to look into economy conditions. W. Rupert Davies, Vice-President and editor of the Kingston Whig-Standard, who led the party, was most enthusiastic in

City Water Department Is Working Overtime

The hot dry spell may mean hardships for the farmers but the citizens of Peterborough experience no lack of water in spite of the fact that there have been no heavy rains for some time.

The water works of the city keep working overtime to make Peterborough an oasis in a drying up country. The average amount of water pumped during the past couple of weeks is about 3,000,000 gallons a day when compared with the average of 2,500,000, in other times.

The peak load came last Monday when 3,625,000 gallons of water were taken from the river and sent through the mains into the city for people to use on their lawns, flowers, cars and for personal use. If the pumping station had maintained the pace that was set at 7 p.m., on that day, there would have been 7,000,000 gallons sent into the city.

PREMIER OF FRANCE REFUSES TO RECONSIDER RESIGNATION ON PLEA OF CABINET MINISTERS

HANDED PRESIDENT.

Resignation Is Accepted and Members Are Asked to Carry On For a Time.

PREMIER OF FANCE C ngiaAit

PARIS, July 27. — The French Cabinet presented their resignation collectively to President Doumergue this morning, their action followed refusal of Premier Raymond Poincare to reconsider his own decision to resign due to an impending operation.

The cabinet ministers issued the following statement:

"The efforts we have made with M. Poincare to persuade him in the interests of his country to retain direction of public affairs has not met with the result we had hoped.

"We must bow to his decision with the regret of not being able to continue a collaboration that was accompanied by our admiration and respectful devotion. Therefore, we beg you, M. President, kindly to accept our resignation and the expression of our profound respect."

President Doumergue, after the usual exchange of compliments accepted the ministry's resignation, asking them to continue their work until a new ministry can be formed.

He then summoned M. Fernand Bouisson, president of the Chamber of Deputies and M. Paul Doumer, President of the Senate, to ask their advice about a successor to M. Poincare.

No one doubted he would choose Aristide Briand, former Foreign Minister to assume government leadership.

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 27 (Canadian Press).—Attacked as he alighted from his automobile at his home with $9,000, which he had just drawn from a bank here, Ferdinand Fechter, 52, proprietor of a soda grill was fatally shot by one of three bandits, who escaped with the money.

Fechter died soon after being taken to the City Hospital. The gunmen made their getaway in a black sedan.

Drive Victim Around City Before Taking 80 Packages of Cut Diamonds.

SECOND TIME ROBBED.

DETROIT, July 27.—Threatening him with death if he made an outcry, three bandits yesterday imprisoned Albert Ginzberg, diamond salesman, drove him about the city in his own car for two hours, then threw him out near Lawton and Myrtle Avenues and escaped with 80 packages of diamonds valued at approximately $100,000.

The diamonds taken from him, it was learned, ranged from small stones weighing one-sixtieth of a carat to larger ones weighing more than two and one-half carats. They were all cut diamonds ready to be delivered to the purchaser.

Ginzberg was weak from fright and shock when the bandits threw him out of the car, and it was not until a nearby druggist had given him a sedative that he learned his location.

He then called the private detective agency but instructed them not to notify the police.

It is the second time that Ginzberg, representative of a New York diamond house, has been the victim of bandits. Three others who robbed him of gems worth $50,000 in Highland Park on April 3, 1928, are now serving 15 years each at Marquette.

Warned of Vengeance.

The bandits, it was learned last night, apparently were friends of the three bandits convicted for the first robbery, who are said to have warned Ginzberg that they were after vengeance.

Ginzberg was driving along Coolidge highway at 9.30 o'clock yesterday morning, when a bandit car containing four men crowded him to the curb.

Three men jumped into his car, each showing a revolver, and threatened immediate death if he called for help. One of them pushed him over from the driver's seat and took possession of the wheel.

"We've been after you for a long time. You sent those kids up for 18 years," they told him. "Now we are going to get even. We are going to throw you in the river at Wyandotte."

Spanish applause consists of a peculiar hiss.

ECUADOR CITY FALLS IN RUINS AS SERIES OF SHOCKS ARE FELT

QUAKE CONFINED TO VALLEY

QUITO, Ecuador, July 27.—Sixty persons were reported killed in an earthquake which destroyed most of the buildings of the town of Moyurgo, half way between this city and Machachi, at dawn to-day. General panic was caused in the vicinity of the shocks.

A strong shock first tumbled the buildings of the mountain village and following lighter shocks added to the terror of those inhabitants who escaped. Much damage was also done in Tambillo, Machachi and Latacunga.

Physicians and Red Cross workers rushed from here to the assistance of the injured and homeless. The earth movements still continued this evening. Near the centre of the disturbance fissures were opened in the ground, in some cases two feet wide.

All of the towns which suffered damage in the earthquake lie in a comparatively narrow valley running south from Quito. Latacunga is 65 miles from Quito and the other places named lie between it and the capital. Latacunga has a population of about 17,000, but the other towns are much smaller.

On the east of the valley towers the active volcano Potopaxi, rising more than 19,000 feet. To the north and south of it are lesser peaks, either active or inactive volcanoes. The western rampart of the valley is another volcanic chain of which Illiniz, soaring more than 17,000 feet stands out, Machachi, which is also sometimes spelled Machache, is about half-way between Quito and Latacunga.

Quake Felt at Tokio

TOKIO, July 27.—An earthquake of unusual strength and duration was felt here at 7:48 a.m. Two hours later no reports of damage had been made.

Clocks were stopped and telegraphs seriously interrupted. Persons here and in Yokohoma rushed from their homes in panic.

It was a little less than six years ago that this section was devasted by the great earthquake.

Fast Work By Authorities Sends Mail Thief To Jail

NORTH BAY, Ont., July 27.—(Canadian Press). — Pleading guilty to theft from His Majesties mails, William Herbert Lynham, 40, an employee of the North Bay Post Office was to-day sentenced to three years in the Portsmouht Penitentiary, when he appeared before Magistrate Weager.

Lynham was arrested early today in a local recreation club and when searched at police headquarters a marked one dollar bill was found in his possession.

Postal Officials testified that letters had been missing regularly for some time, suspicion eventually fastening itself on Lynham and his arrest and conviction followed quickly.

Eighty Golfers Commence Last Day of Championships

KANAWAKI, Que., July 27. — (Canadian Press).—Clear and hot weather came to Kanawaki today to see the Canadian open golf championship through. There was little wind as the field of 80 started its trek of 36 holes, promising to continue until nightfall. Charlie Murray, Montreal pro., had to withdraw from the championship and leave for Toronto, where his mother is sick. Joe Kirkwood was the first of the low scorers to start the third round, getting away among the first dozen pairs.

Is Left On Verandah in Serious Condition After 14 Days' Absence.

POLICE SEARCH FOR MAN

TORONTO, Ont., July 27 (Canadian Press).—A warrant was issued by the police to-day for the arrest of a middle-aged man, in connection with the mistreatment of a young girl.

According to information given the police, nine-year-old Betty Perry, of East York Township, was allowed to accompany a man, who had advertised in a daily paper, for a little girl to act as companion to his own little girl, on a motor camping trip. After an absence of 14 days, the youngster was returned to her home yesterday in a serious condition, badly injured and bruised about the body. She is now under a doctor's care.

The girl was brought to the verandah of her home Thursday by a man who immediately disappeared.

Deputy Commissioner Alfred Cuddy of the Provincial Police early yesterday notified all district inspectors to search for the alleged kidnapper. The inspectors were told that the man wanted was aged 35 to 45, from five feet seven inches to nine inches in height, of slight build, weighing about 150 pounds, brown hair streaked with gray, brown eyes, wrinkled face, wearing a dark fedora and driving a 1920 sedan.

Supplied with a good description of the wanted man, officers are concentrating their hunt in the area between Kingston and Belleville, while the tiny victim of the alleged fiendish attack slowly recovered in hospital from bruises and welts received at his hands.

The boat is en route to Port Colborne.

NOTED LAWYER PRESENTS CASE OF THE DOMINION GOVERNMENT NOT CAPABLE UNBIASED OPINION

Leaves To Court Whether Or Not a Woman Can Keep Secrets.

No Room For Interference.

Terms of British North America Act Basis of Argument.

LONDON, July 27. —After hearing the arguments of counsel for the Dominion of Canada, the Judical Committee of the Privy Council yesterday reserved decision on the question as to whether women are eligible to sit in the Senate of Canada. The question is raised in appeal taken by five Alberta women from the judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada holding women are not "qualified persons," within the meaning of the British North American Act, to be summoned to the Senate. The Dominion is opposing the appeal.

Eugene Lafleur, K. C., for the Dominion, argued the British North America Act should be construed according to the natural meaning of the words used at the date the statute was passed. The title Senator was a strictly masculine term.

No Room for Inference.

He declared the object of the act, which constitutes the Constitution of the Dominion, was to unite the various Provinces. There was no room for an inference that the framers of the statute intended to render women eligible for membership in the upper Chamber of the Canadian Parliament while they remained excluded from the upper Chamber of the British Parliament, on which the Canadian Parliament was expressly modelled.

Such a change, he contended, would have been so fundamental and so momentous that any such intention would have been expressed explicitly. Furthermore, the terms of the union between the Provinces afforded strong grounds for inferring it was intended to make the constitution of the Senuate similar to that of the upper House or Legislative Council in those Provinces which had an upper house. Women have never been admitted to the Legislative Council of Quebec, the only Provincial Upper House now remaining nor were they ever admitted to any of the Legislative Councils in those Provinces which have done away with their upper Houses since Confederation.

Countess of Pembroke.

For the same side Hon. Geoffrey Lawrence, K.C., submitted there had never been an instance, prior to 1919, of a woman being summoned to the Privy Council, and there was no suggestion they could have been summoned. At this Lord Merrivale remarked it was recorded how centuries ago Anne, Countess of Pembroke, sat on the Bench of his Majesty's Judges, and therefore any broad statement on women's former postion should be scrutinized closely.

Lord Darling then invited counsel's attention to certain terms in the oath taken by Privy Councillors. "For instance," he said, "he must advise the King 'without regard to love and affection.' Is any woman capable of that?" Mr. Lawrence replied with an emphatic "No." A Privy Councillor has also, his Lordship continued, "to keep the King's counsel secret," and he asked if any woman was able to do that. "I leave that to your Lordships," Mr. Lawrence replied.

Amendment Urged.

In a brief reply, Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., counsel for the appellant women alluded to suggestions made that the proper procedure would be to secure an amendment to the British North America Act. It was not a very easy matter to secure such an amendment, he pointed out.

"It is always difficult to alter the act of the Government," remarked the Lord Chancellor.

Later Mr. Rowell said the Attorney General of Canada, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, had announced if the women did not succeed in their appeal he would take steps to have such legislation introduced. Here Mr. Lafleur interrupted with "No; he said he will consider it," and Lord Merrivale remarked: "It will probably depend on whether the pressure applied is strong enough."

Counsel Thanked.

At the close of Mr. Rowell's argument the Lord Chancellor, Lord Sankey, said: "We will take time to consider what advice we should humbly tender his Majesty. We cannot decide at this term, which is just closing. We thank you gentlemen for the great assistance you have rendered us, and we wish you a pleasant journey to Canada."

POINCARE HAS TENDERED HIS RESIGNATION

BE DISABLED 3 MONTHS.

Briand and Barthou Could Carry On Duties Till His Return.

PARIS, July 27.—(Canadian Press)—Premier Raymond Poincare late last night sent a letter of resignation to his cabinet. It has not yet been submitted to President Doumergue and some ministers hoped that he might be prevailed upon to withdraw it.

The premier, who has held office since July, 1926, stressed in his letter that as he was forced to undergo an operation which will disable him for three months he asked his colleagues that he be relieved.

There was more than a little belief that M. Poincare would accede to a request of his ministers and retire his letter of resignation. In that case, it was considered that his duties while he is incapacitated would be carried on jointly by Foreign Minister Aristide Briand and Minister of Justice Louis Barthou.

The cabinet was deeply affected by the decision of the premier and decided to send to his bedside M. Barthou and M. Briand to convey their affectionate best wishes and begged him not to persist in his resignation.

It was decided that the cabinet would meet again in extraordinary session at 10.30 p.m., to-morrow, for final action on the matter.

Action Anticipated.

The action of the premier had been generally anticipated in view of his serious illness of the past week, growing out of the overstrain of long parliamentary debates in seeking ratification of the war debts settlements. Only a few hours before the cabinet met to-night the senate had given final parliamentary approval of both debt accords with Great Britain and the United States, on which Premier Poincare had staked his entire political fortunes.

The premier has worked almost beyond human strength since he was called in 1926 to the presidency of the French council. While parliament, and even his ministers, has rested, he alone has labored without any real vacation. He had undertaken in his painstaking way the most minute details of the government.

The Premier's letter to President Doumergue, sent last night, read:

"The fears that I expressed to you have been realised. It is impossible for me to be restored to health completely without a surgical operation the preparations for which and the convalescence will condemn me to enforced rest two or three months.

"I cannot therefore, especially under the present circumstances, fulfill as I should the functions that you have been good enough to entrust to me, the last three years, and I find myself, to my deep regret, in the necessity of presenting to you my resignation.

"I remain profoundly grateful to you for the good will you never ceased to show me and I beg you to receive Mr. President, the renewed assurance of my respect.

"Raymond Poincare."

President Doumergue then will call the Presidents of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies into consultation as to a New Government. It was considered certain the advice they will give him will be that Aristide Briand, at present Foreign Minister, is the one for the place. He probably will be asked to form a New Cabinet.

Briand, Foreign Minister, and Louis Barthou, Vice Premier, called at the home of Premier Raymond Poincare at 10 a.m. to attempt to dissuade him from retiring as head of the Government.

They requested that he retain their normal leadership although refraining from actual labour.

The ministers remained with the Premier half an hour and then went directly to the meeting of the Cabinet which had been called to await their return.

CANADA ENTERS IN WATER POLO

JACKSON PT. SWIM AUG. 12.

TORONTO, July 27. — An event of paramount importance has taken place in the world of water polo. It has been the formation of a new league which insures first-class water polo being played this coming winter in Canada. The Toronto Varsity, the Montreal A. A. A., The New York A. C., and the Pennsylvannia A. C. are the four teams involved. Mr. D. R. Carswell, the general-manager of Vickers Limited, Montreal, has presented a valuable trophy and Joe Ruddy of New York is the active President. Eddie Sinclair is the vice-president. We can now be sure of seeing water polo as it is played by the leading teams on the continent. Hart House, Toronto, should be packed to the roof on the occasion of the visits from these crack teams. The importance of the formation of this league can hardly be appreciated in cold print. It will only be realized when spectators witness these games.

A. P. Phillips took a flying trip to Lake Placid, New York, last week with a view to competing in a diving competition there. He found on arriving that the divers who were to take part would be outclassed by him. This was also known to those conducting the meet and Alfie very generously declined to compete, but gave one of his masterly exhibitions to the great delight of our American cousins. Our diver-in-chief is a sportsman through and through.

Swimming Events.

Arrangements are about complete for the Jackson's Point, Canadian and Ontario championship gala to be held on August 5, bank holiday. The C. A. S. A. expect to be responsible for the transportation and care of about one hundred and fifty swimmers and officials. Included in the long programme there has been two added events namely fifty yards free style each for boys and girls thirteen years and under. There is also the marathon about a mile to a mile and half in length for which there will be four cups for the winners of each class and second and third prizes together with medals for all who finish.

The most important event of the day will be the Dominion championship off the tower diving. Monte from Montreal is expected and Alfie Phillips will also be there to defend his title. Cyril Kennett is in great form just now and the title holder will have to be at his best to hold his laurels.

CAMPBELLFORD ALL PREPARED

Streets Are Gay With Bunting and Waiting Start of Old Home Week.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 27.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence). — During the last few days Campbellford has undergone many changes. During the next eight days, others will follow. Then the town will revert to normal. Only a few days ago, the streets and the buildings were just the ordinary thoroughfares and structures to be found in any town of its size. Now they are both streets and buildings, gay with decorations of many colors and with people who are looking forward to next week as the greatest which Campbellford and vicinity has ever seen. Already many former residents are drifting in and not a few visitors. The sight of the "Old Home Town" with all its gayety has appealed to them in no small measure.

To-morrow the celebration opens with church services conducted by former ministers and with all the available former members of the choirs again in their places. In the afternoon the Old Boys who will never return will be honored by a public memorial service at the cenotaph. Their graves in the cemeteries will be decorated by the Legion and members of the several organizations of the town. Sunday the first day, will be one not soon forgotten by those who have already arrived back in their home town.

Everything Ready

To the spectator, there seems little to be done but wait for the big doings to begin. To the committee men, the situation is viewed from a different angle. Although the town seems well decorated, there is still much to be put up, and those engaged in this work, are rushing it to completion to-day. Various groups are remembering smaller details that have not been attended to. Last minute arrangements are the order of the day. When Monday arrives, there will be a pleasant surprise for many in the form of the Old Home Week Fair, being held under the auspices of St. Mary's Parish. The fair is in Davidson's Arena, Front and Market streets, and the ladies have been at work for several days, arranging the booths and decorating the interior of the huge building. It will be a place where many may spend a few enjoyable hours each day.

Old Fisherman Still Parader

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., July 27.—A unique figure in the Independence Day celebrations in this town is Manuel Thomas, 70, veteran Grand Banks fisherman.

Each year, Manuel turns out dressed in the quaint frontiersman outfit that he had worn in parades of Provincetown for the past 45 years. This year he was resplendent in the old frontier suit, a false face with a long iron-gray false mustache and an old-fashioned Colonial rifle.

Manuel's history is somewhat hazy although everyone knows his delight in turning out for parades. Years ago, longer than many can remember, he used to sail out to the Grand Banks with the fishing fleet but later he gave up the sea and retired to a little house outside the town here.

EIGHTY LADIES ATTEND PICNIC

Members of Marmora and Madoc Institutes Picnic at Crowe Lake.

NEW ZEALAND DESCRIBED.

MARMORA, July 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—In the form of a delightful picnic, the members of Marmora Women's Institute held their monthly meeting on Friday afternoon at the cottage of Mrs. C. A. Bleecker, Crowe Lake, with Madoc Women's Institute as guests, over eighty ladies were present. The roll call was "The name of a Canadian author." Miss McCaffrey of Madoc gave an interesting talk on New Zealand, entertaining one and all as she described the physical features of South Island, and the life and habits of the people. The visit of Miss McCaffrey was all the more popular because a few years ago she was one of the teaching staff at Marmora Public School.

After a vote of thanks had been passed by the visitors, the gathering broke up with "For they are jolly good fellows."

THE STORY OF DANIEL

Lesson Text—Daniel 1:8-20. Study also Daniel 1; 1-7; 21; 2:13-19; 4-18; 7;28; 8:15. 18; 9:20-23; 10: 1-19; 12:9.

The Committee has assigned all the passages given above for the Lesson, but has suggested that (in part) less important verses than those we have chosen be printed. The book of Daniel is one of the most remarkable and instructive books in the Bible. It has been well said that "no man is a thorough Bible student who is ignorant of Daniel, or study of it has been shallow."

"Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself."; this is the key to Daniel's life and the secret of his power and success. Daniel had a sound heart, and so his whole life was sound (Prov. 4:23). The real purpose of a man's heart tells what the man is. It is this that God looks at (2 Cor. 9:7, 6:12; Lu. 16:15. There can be no steadiness of life and action without steadfastness of purpose (Acts 11:23) Daniel's purposes was fixed and unalterable. Carrying it out involved great daily sacrifice and great peril, but there Daniel stood, and God of course stood by him. Daniel's purpose was a good one in itself, "not to defile himself."

The king's meat and wine were very agreeable to the palate, much more agreeable than pulse but they had been offered as a sacrifice and libation to false gods and Daniel would keep himself free from all compromise with devil worship (Deut. 32:38; Ps. 106:28; 141:4; 1 Cor. 10:18-21, 28-31). He would be absolutely clean from any partnership with the whole miserable business.

Lesson for Today

What a lesson Daniel gives us in this day of easy-going worldy conformity. He was in Babylon but he would not do as the Babylonians did. He lost nothing by his unwavering fidelity to God. No one ever loses anything by such fidelity (Ps. 84:11). But Daniel was not arrogant and self-assertive in his fidelity. There was no parade of his conscientiousness, "he requested of the prince of the Eunuchs that he might not defile himself." He was very modest and courteous in taking his stand.

Many men who are unbending in their loyalty to God and His Word spoil it all by their pharisaical parade of their fidelity to conscience. How seldom it is that a spotless puritanism and sweet reasonableness go hand in hand. If we are careful to please God we may safely leave in His hands the matter of our pleasing men (v. 9, R.V.). "When a man's ways please the Lord, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him" (Prov. 16-7).

This great truth is illustrated here in Daniel. It was illustrated in Joseph (Gen. 39:21; Ac. 1:11; 2:4), and it is being illustrated every day. "If we are in God's line, God will bring things into line with us." All we need see to is that we please God. "Prove thy servants, I beseech thee, ten days;" this suggestion was born of faith. He knew God would not leave one of His children to suffer because of his loyalty to Him. Daniel had enough confidence in his religion to have it put to a practical test. His wisdom was indeed the wisdom that cometh from above. (Jas. 3:17).

Daniel's faith was not disappointed, "at the end of the ten days their countenance appeared fairer and fatter in flesh than all the children which did eat the portion of the king's meat." Some would see in this an argument for a vegetable diet. What strange vision some have. It is an argument for obeying God and seeking to please Him in everything (comp. Ex. 23:24; Deut. 28:14; Ps. 37: 16). "God gave them knowledge and skill in all learning and wisdom, "true wisdom in God's gift (ch. 2:20-23; I Ki. 3:12, 28; 4:29-31; I Chron. 1:10-12; Job 32:8; Prov. 2:6.)

Bestowal of Wisdom

This is true of wisdom in all its forms, but it is pre-eminently true of the wisdom that is of perennial worth. The conditions upon which God bestows wisdom are, first, as illustrated here, unwavering obedience to His will (comp. Jno. 14:15, 15, 26, R. V.); second, prayer (Jas. 1:5-7; Col. 1:9); third, the study of the Word (Ps. 119:98-100, 130). It is through His Spirit that wisdom is given (Lu. 21:15; Ac. 6:10).

Daniel had wisdom given to him in an especial direction, "in all visions and dreams." This was because Daniel had an especial work to perform in the purposes of God and an especial place to fill in the plan of God. It illustrates the principle that holds in the Church today, that while there is one Spirit there are diversities of gifts, ministrations, workings and manifestations, and that the one and and the self-same Spirit divideth to each one severally even as He will (see I cor. 12:4-11, R. V.). There is wisdom the Spirit for every child of God, but whether there shall be "understanding in all visions and dreams" depends entirely upon the sovereign will of the Holy Spirit and the work to which God in His wisdom and grace calls us. "Therefore stood they before the king," their loyalty to God had paid. Where did those Israelies who had compromised and eaten the king's defiled meat and drank his defiled wine stand? It seemed three years back as if Daniel and his friends had sacrificed everything by their sterm conscientiousness, but in reality they had gained everything. It always comes out that way in the long run. But those who are loyal today will stand some day before a greater king than Nebauchadnezzar.

Earthborn wisdom will never bear comparison with God-given wisdom. Would that we might never forget that. There is one more thing that must be noted, "Daniel continued," he had good staying qualities. What was the secret of it? Others came and went, even great kings and dynasties, but Danie continued (I John 2:17).

EVANGELIST SPEAKS IN BAPTIST CHURCH

Splendid Addres Is Given By Mr. Gregory On Subject of Salvation.

WARSAW, July 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—"How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?" was the text taken for the evening evangelist meeting conducted in the Baptist Church on Wednesday evening.

There was a short song service before the meeting, and during the service, Messrs. Brown and Gregory sang a duet, "Drifting," and Mr. Brown sang a solo entitled "The Dreams of the Judgment Day."

Mr. Gregory, in his remarks, said: "In the Garden of Eden, after Adam and Eve disobeyed, they knew they had done wrong, and hid themselves, but God called in such a way they had to answer, and they found God a just God, Who meant what He said. Thus the beautiful fellowship was broken. God always gives warning.

Flood Destroyed World.

Later a great flood destroyed all the known world and God had Noah building the ark and preaching to the people for one hundred years. In time the ark was filled and closed and the floods came."

Mr. Gregory said he did not feel the message was an easy or a pleasant one to give, but that it was necessary. God's judgment is true and certain. It is appointed unto man once to die, and after that the judgment. But there is brightness for he that believeth and repenteth hath everlasting life, so that just as truly as there is a judgment, there is a way of escape. There is great salvation free to all. God uses men to do His work, not always because of their ability, but because of their willingness. What a man sow, that shall he reap.

Mr. Gregory closed his remarks with the plea, "Be ye reconciled to God."

DRIVING TESTS.

It is intimated by Hon. George S. Henry, Provincial Minister of Highways, that tests for driving permits may be made more severe.

That policy is all right so far as it goes, but it should be kept in mind that it is not the technique of the driver in securing a permit but rather how he drives afterward that counts.

There are many reckless motorists driving on the highways and on city streets who had no difficulty in convincing the examiner of their ability to handle a car.

The trouble is, that once they are in possession of the necessary permit these people proceed to forget all about traffic rules and become a menace to public safety.

Let the department tighten up the test if this course be thought necessary—but let more attention be paid to the manner in which license holders are driving.

It should be as easy to lose a driving license as it is to obtain one—and if the public understood that to be the case there might not be so many drivers ready to take a chance.

THE PROPER COURSE.

Magistrate Hopewell, of Ottawa, in disposing of a recent case in which a drunken driver had been involved in an accident, ruled that the offender's driving license should be cancelled for two years.

Sentence of that sort would do much to improve conditions on the highway, and it would be well if other magistrates were to follow the example set by the Ottawa court.

If the knowledge that conviction for drunkenness while driving means the loss of the right to handle an automobile for several years becomes general, it is to be imagined that most people will be afraid to take a chance of drinking when they know they are to be called upon to drive.

Men who refuse to follow the dictates of common sense and who persist in attempting to drink and drive deserve scanty consideration.

If they are reckless or obstinate enough to ignore both the law and the possibility of accidents, there is one logical course for the authorities, and that is to chase them away from the wheel of a car.

Magistrate Hopewell, of Ottawa, has shown what can be done, and if his policy is adopted in other courts the problem of the drunken driver will be well on its way to solution.

A READY ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.

The telegram received by Premier Ferguson from the Federal Motor Club of Michigan pointing out that complaints of ill-treatment of American tourists in Ontario were a "tempest in a teapot created by a few disgruntled motorists," appears to be a reasonable statement of the case.

Reports from all over Ontario deny that visitors from below the border have been the victims of extortion on the part of officials, and the general impression is that the tourists receive preferential treatment at the hands of police and traffic officers.

The Federal Motor Club is quick to acknowledge this fact.

"Members of the Federal Motor Club are included," says its statement, "in the many thousands of motorists from the United States who with deep appreciation hasten to testify to the unending courtesy and generous consideration shown them by constables, road patrols, other Government officials and the people of the Province."

That is a generous acknowledgment on the part of this Michigan organization, and residents of Ontario will appreciate the friendliness of the club officials in offering such testimony at a time when the Province's reputation for courteous hospitality has been attacked.

AN INTERESTING INQUIRY.

The investigation launched by the Social Service Council of Ontario into the matter of living conditions and other sociological problems in the township of Nottawasaga, in Simcoe County, is an interesting departure, the results of which will be awaited with considerable interest.

Hitherto the Social Service Council has confined its attention in this respect to urban centres, and its action now in breaking into new fields should be attended by worth-while results.

Two young women investigators are at work in Nottawasaga Township, which was chosen as presenting all the elements for the desired inquiry.

They will not only study the living conditions, but the social activities and all other features of life in the district under review—and their report is expected to present an accurate picture of conditions in that part of rural Ontario.

There are many sections of the Province in which an investigation of this nature might be expected to bring out data of value, sections while living conditions might be materially improve d, where the general standard is not at as high a level as might be desired.

Before suggesting a reme dy it is necessary to study all the symptoms, and the Social Service Council is evimight be materially improved, where the general standate and first-hand.

THE CHANNEL TUNNEL.

Britain's new Government is giving consideration to the old and much-discussed scheme for a traffic tunnel connecting England and France. As an engineering problem the proposition presents no difficulties, and most experts appear to agree that a tunnel would pay its way and would be of economic advantage to the nation. In the past, however, it has been opposed vigorously for military reasons. In the event of war with France, it was claimed, there would be a distinct danger of the tunnel falling into enemy hands and so much of England's isolation as had escaped the airplane and dirigible would be swept away as hostile troops poured into Kent from the English approach.

Lieut.-Col. A. Baird-Smith, D.S.O. (retired), who writes in the Empire Review from the military viewpoint, expresses a different opinion. He thus summarizes his argument:

"In the event of Great Britain being at war, in alliance with France, the advantages of the tunnel, important in any case, would in certain contingencies be decisively so. In a war against France the tunnel could be hardly a danger—it would remain out of action, useless to either belligerent. It remains for the experts who calculate its cost and plan its construction to set the convenience of the public and the expected return for its money against these positive and negative military values."

Col. Baird declares that even if the tunnel were seized and held by an enemy force its usefulness would be limited. If rail approaches to the tunnel were destroyed trains would have nowhere to go, deploying troops would emerge into the fire of concealed batteries, and motor-vehicles, jammed in the tunnel with exits blocked, would be in an equally awkward position. Furthermore, points out this military writer, it would be a simple matter to block the tunnel after it reaches the English coast, without ruining the submarine section.

Thus Col. Baird comes to the conclusion that use of the tunnel as a line of invasion of Great Britain, "as long as the most elementary precautions are observed on this side," would be out of the question. Naturally it would be equally useless to a British force seeking to invade France.—Ottawa Journal.

CANADA'S TASK.

The Hon. Herbert Marler, Canada's newly-appointed Minister to Japan, puts the situation in a striking way when he says that this country's boundaries now touch every nation of the world.

Mr. Marler was referring, of course, to the rapid expansion of the nation's export trade. Trade alone, however, is not sufficient to warrant the sending of a Canadian envoy to Japan. "We should have," the first Minister to Tokio says, "an ambition to consolidate the friendship of Canada and the other nations of the British Commonwealth of nations and the friendship of that commonwealth and the rest of the world. The aim, object and ambition of every nation to-day should be the peace of the world. It is well known that the solidarity of our Empire is the greatest factor in world peace to-day, and we on our part should do our utmost to promote that solidarity."

Canada, as Mr. Marler points out, is wonderfully qualified for her new responsibilities in the Orient, because this country forms a bridge between the Orient and the Occident, because Canada is the only country in North America that holds membership in the League of Nations, and because this nation is representative of the two greatest pioneer races ever known, the British and the French.

Canada's responsibility in the world situation is an important one. This country has a definite mission. Not only is it in a position to serve as a helpful interpreter between Great Britain and the United States, but it is on unexcelled ground, as Mr. Marler so well reminds us, to take a leading part in the paramount work of spreading friendship throughout the world. It is not often that such an opportunity comes to a nation still so comparatively young and with a population that cannot be called large. Canada, however, may be trusted to make the most of the situation and to do her duty in a broad way, as she has done on other occasions.

Though there were rumblings and mutterings in certain circles when first it was suggested that this country should send her ministers to various capitals, most of the criticism has died down and most persons now appreciate the value of the idea—not only for Canada but to the whole of the British Commonwealth of Nations. It will be recalled that the appointment of the Hon. Vincent Massey, an outstanding young Canadian, as our first Minister to Washington, was greeted with some protests—despite the fact that the idea of sending a Canadian representative to the American capital had been initiated by a Conservative Premier, Sir Robert Borden. However, during the last year or two Mr. Massey has rather convincingly demonstrated that it is an excellent plan for this country to have diplomatic representation across the line. His services in more ways than one have been decidedly helpful. The Border Cities, for instance, remember, with gratitude, his hard work in connection with immigration problems. It is worth noting, also, that Mr. Massey's appointment was well received in the United States and that since going to that country he has been highly honored, not only by the American Government, but by important organizations. Various public ceremonies in which he has participated, with credit to himself and to his country, have given the Minister an opportunity to stress the qualities of Canadian-American friendship, and to give our American friends a better impression of this land than many of them enjoyed before.

Similarly, the appointment of the Hon. Philippe Roy as Canadian Minister to Paris, and the recent naming of Mr. Marler for the Tokio post, have created excellent impressions, not only in the countries referred to, but throughout the world in general. Aside from the importance of the duties these Ministers are to look after, the appointments are further symbols of Canadian nationhood and, as such, of real consequence to our country. They are among the outward and visible signs of Canadian nationhood, the external indications of the great change that has come in recent years—a change officially recognized by the last Imperial Conference.

Nationhood involves widespread responsibilities. With the same splendid effort that has brought Canada through the struggles of colonial days, however, this country will grapple with the future and move on to new and loftier achievements. Slowly, but surely, we are establishing our place among the great nations of the world. We can look back with pride and forward with confidence.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Make it a safe week-end by being careful at all times.

The French hold on the tennis honors shows little sign of relaxing, and it looks as if Uncle Sam will once more have to admit the superiority of Monsieur Cochet and his associates.

Among the individuals most deserving of sympathy at the present time is the fellow whose vacation for this year is over.

Judging from the scores, it looks as if the big leagues would soon be playing "home run or no count."

What To-day Means To You.

JULY 27TH—"LEO"

If July 27th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from noon to 2 p. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger period is from 7:15 a. m. to 11:30 a. m.

Your reactions to the very positive astrological influences on this day will be unusual. It will be a period of contradictions, and you will act contrary to previous intentions. Your luck will be turned on traditions and customs, and many of your old habits will be broken.

Children born on this day will demand considerable love and attention, and their winning personalities will probably secure these for them. Their persistency will be a marked trait, and they will stubbornly hang on until they have won that for which they are fighting.

The charm of your personality lies in your naturalness. You are simple, sincere and spontaneous. Your bluntness of speech is at times disarming, but your unstudied candor is usually received with delight and amusement. You never intentionally say things to hurt or belittle.

The strength of your character lies in your common-sense. You are too practical and sane-minded to do silly things. You are not easily illuded, and you are not given to pretences. You do not easily lose your nerve, and are never hysterical in an emergency.

The woman born on this date is very attractive to those of both sexes on account of her real sympathy. She is able to take a genuine interest in one's joys, troubles and humdrum doings, and does not want to talk about herself. She is a very good listener. The man who chooses her for a life companion will find her more than a fifty-fifty partner. She will do more than her share to make the union a happy and an agreeable one.

If you are a man, you are not as sympathetic or understanding as those of the opposite sex. You demand much more from others with less returns. Although a very able and willing talker, you are rather disinterested in the affairs of others, and few can hold your attention for long.

News of Our Own Village

They aint no Yankee tourists in the village hoosegow so Howie Ferguson don't need to do no investigating in these parts, say we.

A truck load of beer was burned up on the highway, south of the village Wed, but it was all gone before an excursion could be run from this burg.

Jeff Hardill, who used to pitch for the village ball club, went fishing last Sat., but caught nothing. He caught plenty over at the ball yard the week before if you remember.

The Rotarians of this village is going to picnic up at Clear Lake, north of here, Mon., and Mac McDermid is expected to supply the mosquito dope and the ant poison for the same.

The local foot soldiers intends holding a camp in the near future at the rifle ranges just east of here, so they won't be too far away from home cooking.

Sandy MacTavish sez he was mentioned in all the papers the other day when it was reported that "some thousand" radio owners in Canada hadn't taken out no license.

Mart Chenhall and Rupe Gliddon got together and put on a concert in the Court House park Fri. nite. The folks liked it too. Better do it again boys, say we.

The naval holiday aint going to have no effect here. The boat factories is going right ahead building sea fleas and such.

Bill Euler, who holds a good job in the Revenue Dept. down at Ottawa, threatens to refuse clearance papers to Canadian rum runner but our lads in that business around here don't cover enough territory to be worried about Bill's warning.

A new gas station is going to be built on Main St., south of Doc. Morgan's but so far nobody aint bought the City Hall corner for that purpose.

Either the fishing in these parts is better than usual or some of the lads aint as careful about the truth as they used to be. Your scribe aint prepared to say which.

Many of the villagers is planning to visit Campbellford, east of here, for Old Home Week. A

THE MAKE-BELIEVE WIFE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 2.

Houston Challoner, had brought Beatrice home in his car, but did not mention that. She felt troubled about the whole situation. Marcia might as well know the truth, now as later, if it were the truth, after all. But what a waste it was! Why should Houston Challoner like her, like Beatrice St. John' who was not even thinking about him, and overlook completely darling old Marcia, who had worked so hard for him, who had loved his wife, and who was so pitifully ready to drop into his hand like a ripe fruit!

"I'll get you girls anything you want for lunch," Mrs. St. John offered without moving. Her eyes were still far away.

"You will not," Beatrice said lazily. "Marcia, would you have scrambled eggs or tea if I brought a tray in here?"

"I'd love some tea," Marcia answered gratefully. "Any—any objection to letting me see the card, Bee?" she asked suddenly, out of a silence, when Beatrice had carefully brought in the lunch tray and their mother was out of the room.

"Now, what did I do with it?" Beatrice murmured, setting the tray down carefully, and looking about with an excellent simulation of uncertainty. "It must be in the other room."

"What did it say?" Marcia asked, taking her napkin out of its ring.

It was in Beatrice's jacket pocket, still unread, still twisted in its envelope and wire loop. The jacket had been hung in the shallow bedroom closet, Beatrice felt as if Marcia could see it, could sense its presence through the door.

"Oh, just—" But Marcia might as well know the truth, she persisted courageously, if it were the truth! No use pretending that Mr. Challoner wasn't—wasn't—wasn't—well, acting, anyway, as if he were— "It just said 'with kindest regard,'" Beatrice fabricated uncomfortably.

"'With kindest regard!'" Marcia echoed. "But isn't that funny! Why should he say 'with kindest regard' to you? It sounds so old-fashioned. It sounds as if—" Suddenly she smiled, and an odd light came into her eyes. "Bee," she said animatedly, "there's just a chance that those flowers were for me, after all! Did you look at the card? I didn't . I thought the boy said 'Miss Beatrice St. John' when he brought them, because flowers almost always are for you, but its' possible he said 'Miss St. John.' After all," Marcia went on, with that sweet, stupid eagerness of hers that somehow always wrung Bee's heart, and that wrung it more than ever to-day—"for afterall, Bee, I went home from the office sick yesterday, and it's extremely likely—or at least it's possible——"

Bee's instinct leaped toward the offered loophole. But a second impulse restrained her, and she reminded herself again that Marcia might as well know the truth, if it were the truth.

"No, they were for me," she said mildly.

"Well, of course I thought they were," Marcia agreed, subsiding. "Do you like him?" she asked suddenly, painfully, as Beatrice, established now at the center table, with her own teacup and plate, composedly continued her luncheon.

"Mr. Challoner?" the younger girl asked thoughtfully.

"Oh, here her! And see the blush!"

It was Marcia being arch, pretending to know all about flirting and love affairs again: an attitude that always made Bee's blood run cold with a sort of shame and pity combined. She knew instinctively that Marcia had no knowledge of these things; that it was all unconscious imitation and acting; that Marcia had never felt and never would feel the wild warm rush of consciousness youth and power and instinct that had belonged to her, Beatrice, from her first happy high-school summer.

"He's ever so old," she said carelessly, buttering toast.

"Forty-eight," Marcia supplied quickly, jealously. "Couldn't you—couldn't you ever—like him, Bee?" the older sister pursued lightly.

It was part of Marcia's general, pathetic ineptness, where these so much more than delicate matters were concerned, that she could trample into them roughshod, could discuss love and emotion with all the bland assurance of the born outsider.

"Oh, like him—!" Beatrice said, with an unhappy laugh. "A man sends me violets— Why, Roger has sent me carloads, and you and Mummy don't get excited—"

But this was equivocating, and she knew it. Houston Challoner, quiet, clever, rich, handsome, forty-eight, had just turned her whole world topsy-turvy by asking her, as ,as he drove her home through the softly powdered snow—well, no, not exactly to marry him, but what would she say if he did ask her to marry him.

She had been conscious of heart pounding and cheeks blazing, of course. A mere clerk in the big architectural firm's employ—one of the "librarians" who hunted through old blue prints for details or through files for letters, and was paid eighteen dollars a week for her labors—she had never thought of the big architect himself as being, by any possibility, aware of her existence at all. That Marcia, his trusted confidential secretary, cherished a hopeless, secret, uncomfortable feeling for Houston Challoner Beatrice alone knew.

Sometimes she thought that even Marcia did not know it. Certainly it was not "love", Bee would reflect, with healthy distaste for her sister's humbly adoring, blindly jealous feeling toward their employer. Marcia had felt much the same feeling for Mrs. Challoner, in her lifetime: a passionate, almost angry conviction that whatever the Challoners did was perfection; that they were the most significant and important persons in the world. After all this was not fair that he should fancy her, Beatrice, instead of Marcia!

In the apartment's tiny kitchen, a little later, she washed the lunch dishes, and could talk more freely to her mother.

"Marsh looks awfully run down, to me, Mummy."

"Marcia hasn't been well for a long time," Mrs. St. John agreed, without uneasiness.

"But what's the matter with her, Mummy?"

"Oh, she's just—run down," the older woman conceded indifferently. Mrs. St. John was incurably romantic, and Beatrice's affairs, as far more romantic than Marcia's interested her at the moment, more deeply than the older daughter's. "What's this about an important man like Mr. Challoner sending you flowers, lovey?" she demanded.

"Violets," Beatrice said simply, to retard, if not quash, the subject. She picked the teacups daintily from the warm dishwater by their handles, and held them under the hot-water faucet, rinsing them before she inverted them on the little drain.

She knew the kitchen by heart; the St. Johns had lived in this apartment for eight years.

It was a decent, uninteresting, old-fashioned apartment, containing a small, square parlor with two windows and a false mantel; a small, square bedroom where Mrs. St. John and her older daughter slept; a small square dining-room finished in cheap dark wood, with a strip of red papering above, where there was a sewing machine, and a couch for Beatrice, and this angle of crowded kitchen, whose single chair and small garbage bucket and drop-leaf pine table and broom, were always bumping into whatevermember of the family was operating at the four-burner gas stove, or at the sink, or at the wall cupboard, where boxes of spices, and paper cartons of crackers, and single onions or oranges were mixed in among the humble showing of china and glass.

Poverty had ruled the kitchen and the apartment for long years—poverty made difficult and ugly by the mother's entire ignorance of cooking, managing and dietetics. Mrs. St. John rejoiced in her limitations; she felt that any woman who studied menus and cookbooks and budgets must necessarily be of an inferior type.

NICHOLLS HOSPITAL

To Editor, Peterboro Examiner.

Sir:

This is a true expression: Where there is no sense there is no feeling. This not only applies to a person rendered unconscious, but can also be applied to some persons who believe themselves to be very conscious in all their actions. I venture to say that those voters who turned down the appeal for an extension of Nicholls Hospital believed they had performed a noble duty to their fellowman, having convinced themselves (only) that there was no necessity for such a waste of money. They stand hard and fast against an absolute human and christian necessity. To describe the conditions of the institution, through lack of accomodations, to persons of the above type, would be like Mary and Joseph's appeal to the inn-keeper of Bethlem. Having neither sense or feeling they turn a deaf ear to all appeals to all requirements necessary to restore the suffering to health and strength. But for the information of those who have the welfare and good name of the city and its institutions at heart they will be surprised to hear that two American visitors, who were invited by numerous advertisements to visit our surroundings, met with an accident and were rushed post haste to Nicholls Hospital, but they only got to the entrance. No room. A call to St. Joseph's which is also full. But by chance were able to take our visitors in.

The children's ward is full and some young children are in wards with old men. The sun room which is used for convalescent patients to read and chat together, is occupied with three beds. But why continue speaking of the conditions. The Examiner, prior to the vote, pointed all those out. Just at this moment four American tourists are visiting the hospital. What impression will be created in their minds will be told when they return across the border. Peterborough is well blessed with a class of medical officers, which would be hard to find their equal. When we take into consideration that several operations takes place every day in the week and often at night and it is a very rare occasion when any prove fatal. How they are successful with their present surroundings is a mystery. There is only one way to overcome this blot on the city. That is let the Council which was elected by the people to look after their welfare (that includes their health) cease asking a few, will you let us do this or that, but act like men, as the London Council has done and provide accommodations for your sick. It is your duty and you will find at your next election that your action will meet with the hearty approval of the citizens at large. It is a by-word on those who turned the hospital appeal down, that they voted for daylight saving because it cost them nothing.

Surely this growing, prosperous city is not waiting for another Miss Nicholls to supply our needs. Hoping some one more able than the writer will take this matter up and continue agitating until the City Council does their duty by either building or extending the present building to suit the growing population and be prepared to meet the ever increasing accidents.

Night Ordery.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

CASTAWAY: Migosh, I thought I'd at least gotten away from the sound movies.

IT SOMETIMES HAPPENS

(A Fable for Scoffers)

When Smith got out of high school he entered the employ
Of Applejack and Company as a simple office boy.
Although of private matters I have found him loath to speak,
I've learned by shrewd inquiry that they paid him eight a week.

The president, a genial man, on
Smith's first morning there,
Addressed the lad judicially from his revolving chair,
"My boy," with wedded fingers, he benevolently said,
"Take the advice I give you now if you would get ahead.

"Be early at your work each day; if need be, stay till late.
Let no task be too small for your, no labor be too great.
God gave you brains, so use them, and, though progress may seem
slow,
Some day you will be president of Applejack & Co."

Well, Smith, who, as I've said above, was nothing but a youth,
Took, unsophisticatedly, these words
as gospel truth.
He tried to do exactly as the president had said,
Because he thought that that must be the way to get ahead.

He was at the office early and when needful, stayed there late;
No task he found too small for him,
no labor was too great.
He used the brains God gave him—and, though progress did seem slow.
To-day he is the president of Applejack & Co.

Coldfield Consolidated Has Large Capitalization

Coldfield Consolidated Mines Co., capitalized at 3,560,000 shares, has controlling interests in the Dolly Vardon Mines of British Columbia, Ash Peak Mines of Arizona and Base Metal Mines of British Columbia. In the past the company has paid dividends to the extent of $30,000,000. At the present time they are pinning their faith to their controlling interest in Base Metal Mines. Base Metal Mines has 2,000,000 shares issued: 1,100,000 belonging to Goldfield Consolidated, 700,000 shares owned by Mining Corporation of Canada and 200,000 shares sold to the public.

The properties are located in the Kicking Horse Valley near Field, British Columbia. They consist of two square miles covering approximately 10,000 feet of known ore horizons. Three known ore bodies have been developed—two on the south side of the valley in Mount Stephen and one in Mount Field on the north side of the Valley—These ore bodies are known as the East and West Monarch and Kicking Horse Mines. In the West Monarch ore body approximately 225,000 tons of ore ha been developed by drifts, raises, winzes and and crosscuts. The length of this ore body developed is said to be over 700 feet with very wide widths. Samples taken show 1.9 ounches of silver, 15 per cent lead and 12 per cent zinc. In the East Monarch ore body about 25,000 tons has been developed. The Kicking Horse ore body has some 30,000 tons of ore developed and all faces still in ore. The railway spur through the property is now finished. The mill and power plant have been practically completed and are ready for the installation of machinery. The power plant will produce 1,000 horsepower with provision made for an additional 400 horse power. The mill is so constructed that with a slight operation the capacity can be increased from 300 to 500 tons per day.

Goldfield Consolidated shares are worth $1.45 in value of Base Metals alone, plus 25c the company has in its treasury, which makes it approximately $1.70 per share. In other words, the market valuation of Goldfield Consolidated is only half of the market valuation of their holdings of Base Metals.

HEAVY SELLING FEATURES DAY

SALES TOTAL 1,250,000.

NE WYORK, N.Y., July 27 (Canadian Press). — Stock prices displayed a decidedly reactionary tone in today's brief session of the market. Selling represented realising on the part of professional traders who had piled up profits earlier in the week, as well as considerable bear selling, based on the belief that a further corrective reaction was necessary.

Continued firmness of money rates at a time when normal developments call for an easing in rates was a source of widespread uneasiness. Renewal of Senator King's proposal of Congressional action to check stock speculation also was a disturbing factor.

The closing was heavy. Total sales approximated 1,250,000 shares.

RAIN IMMINENT PRICES SLIDE

Advance On Liverpool Bids But Drop On Rain Forecasts.

CORN ONE CENT UP.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 27 (Canadian Press). — With rain reported in Canada and chances of more, wheat prices turned downward to-day after an early advance. Initial gains were on account of a temporary outburst of buying largely the result of Liverpool quotations higher than due, opening ½ to 1⅝c up. Chicago wheat later fluctuated on a general downhill course. Corn, oats and provisions were relatively firm, with corn starting unchanged to 1c higher and subsequently holding near to the opening limits.

CARS COLLIDE AT CROSSING

Two Local Men Figure in Smash At London and Aylmer Streets.

NONE HURT.

A light roadster owned by a young man named Gainey and a touring car owned by E. Gross of Rubidge street figured in a collision about 1.30 this afternoon at the corner of London and Aylmer streets with disastrous results to the open vehicle.

Gainey, it is alleged, was proceeding east on London street at a fairly fast clip and shot out in front of Gross's car which clipped the roadster on the rear right hand side, spinning it completely around until it faced west about fifty feet from the corner. It only damaged the fender of the light car.

Gross's car suffered greater damages. After the impact, the front wheel broke, swerving the car sharply to the right when it hurdled the sidewalk at the north east corner and came to rest between a tree and telegraph pole, luckily not hitting either.

The front wheel was broken, and the frame slightly bent. The car was just bought this morning and B. Bailey and L. Tobin who were with Gross at the time of the accident and escaped injury, intended to go to Burleigh Falls over the week-end in it, but the mix up spoiled their plans. Gainey in the other car also was not injured.

CRYSTAL WALTZ DEMONSTRATED

Splendid Effect Is Made By New Arrangement At Melody Inn.

Dancers in Peterborough and district were given a new treat as they stepped into Melody Inn at Lakefield last night when a crystal waltz was in progress. The crystal waltz is a novelty in dancing as far as the younger set of this city is concerned, and is very effective.

A huge crystal, containing two thousand two hundred mirrors is suspended from the centre of the ceiling and on this from the four corners of the dance floor is focused red, blue, green, and amber spotlights, which have a power of 1,000 watts.

This crystal revolves and as it does the light from these spots is caught and throws flakes of light around the floor, and on the dancers. The orchestra plays under a soft red light, and the total effect is one which is exceptional and reminds the spectator of something such as would be experienced in a night club.

"Rick Roberts," the manager of the pavilion, stated that it was installed at a high cost with the idea to give the patrons something worth while in the line of a modern dancing rendezvous. De Sourges, a New York amusement company, installed this new lighting effect.

NEW ORE BODY IS DEFINED

Waite - Ackerman- Montgomery Defines Ore Body.

LENGTH 200 FEET.

Waite-Ackerman-Montgomery's new ore body has now an indicated length of 200 feet. The latest hole to intersect it, and the third to enter it, gave a width of 41 feet of ore running better than five per cent. copper. There is no zinc to speak of. The hole was drilled nearly vertical, and results indicate that the body dips gently to the east. A large tonnage of copper ore is presented and probably W.A. M's reserves of straight copper ore have been doubled by the recent disclosures.

Last week this third hole-in-ore, No. 8, was in rock below the new body. Previous drilling showed two sections of lower grade ore lying below. Word should be had any time as to the presence of these other bodies in No. 8. The underlying bodies are not altogether low grade; five per cent. copper was had in one place.

No. 7 hole, drilled from the end of the crosscut southeast from the shaft at the 300-foot level, gave 51 feet running 6.33 per cent. copper, and No. 4, drilled 100 feet southwest of No. 7 gave 33 feet running 5.6 per cent. copper. The new hole No. 8, is another 100 feet southwest again, giving a disclosed length of 200 feet. It is safe to assume that further exploration will prove the body to be much longer, and also show a considrable width. It present sight it is indicated to contain 150,000 tons of $20 ore, and could be larger. Then the other sections, running around two per cent copper in No. 4 hole might develop size and higher grade.

With the delivery late in August of a new eight-drill compressor and other equipment it will be possible to sink the shaft another 300 feet or more, to at least 600 feet. Then a cross-cut will be run over and the new ore laterally explored. If the bodies that lie below prove up worth under drilling the shaft might be carried to around 800 feet. In any event, by the closing months of the year the workings will be carried into the new ore series.

No great increase in shipments, which are running around 4,000 tons monthly will probably wait upon the results had from development work.

The question of Waite's zinc and zinc-copper ores remains unspoken. Apparently nothing will be done until facilities for handling concentrates are established in Eastern Canada. As a profit of $60,000 monthly is being made from shipping copper ores, there is no reason why the company should rush into zinc production.

10,000 Members of Ancient Mystic Order of Samaritans Journey To Hartford.

The following Samaritans of Cyzicus Sanctorum, No. 24, Ancient Mystic Order of Samaritans, leave on Sunday morning to motor by way of Gananoque to Martford, Conn., where they will attend the annual convention of the Order: Harry S. QUICK ACTION SAVES INJURY

Man Jumps On Bumper As Woman Driver Bears Down On Him.

DID NOT BLOW HORN.

A woman driver came within an ace of running a man down and doing bodily injury to him at the corner of George and McDonnel Streets yesterday afternoon at six o'clock. Only the agility of the man, who jumped onto the bumper of the car, saved him from being knocked down and run over.

The man was returning from work and was walking north on George Street crossing the intersection of McDonnel. The woman was driving north and took a short turn, in order to get ahead of a car coming south, across the corner on to McDonnel. The man was half-way across the intersection when struck, and received not even the warning signal of the horn.

He had some intuition of the approaching car, and turned quickly to face it, and jumped onto the bumper saving himself from serious injury. He told the woman what he thought of her driving in a few words and then continued on home.

TORONTO STOCK MART DECLINES

Trading Slow In All Lines With Prices Fairly Slow.

CANADIAN BUSINESS FAIR.

TORONTO, Ont., July 27 (Special to The Examiner). — Volume of sales on Toronto Stock Exchange has declined steadily sinbe the middle of the month, with this week's average the lowest since the corresponding week in June when several sessions of under twenty thousand shares were reported. Prices on the whole have been uniform with only fractional variations marking day by day fluctuations of the most active leaders. After declining steadily last week, Ford of Canada has straightened out at from 47 to 48. Nickel, which at the beginning of the week reached the lowest point of the month, has been somewhat firmer, while Brazilian, swinging idly, then thrust suddenly upward on a burst of buying on Wednesday continued to gain on Thursday, easing only a very little the final session.

Occasional puffs of news or rumors caused a sudden movement in individual stocks, but invariably they have flapped back into idleness. For the market as a whole there has been no sustained movement either forward or backward. It has to rely on the sporadic spurts of individual stocks to afford any interest whatever, otherwise it is becalmed in the summer doldrums.

The advance staged by the utilities the latter part of the week was the one enlivening feature. Activity in this group has not been surprising in view of the rapid upswing which characterized utilities in New York. There has been some wonder that movement in sympathy with Wall Street has been so belated, especially in view of the rapid strides made in power development in this country and the very favorable outlook for this branch of industry. Earnings of utility corporations have shown to better advantage every quarter and the trend is distinctly higher. That utilities have been slow to swing into action perhaps can be explained by the sluggishness of the market and the fact that the majority of the Canadian public trading in the stock market are convinced the market will remain dull for another month, at least, and perhaps on into September.

U.S. Business Slowing.

Canadian exchanges contrast strikingly with New York. The New York Exchange is recording a good volume of transactions for summer months, while the turnover on the New York curb market this week surpassed all former records. Yet at the same time business in the United States is slowing down. Another decline is forecast in building activity and regarding general business conditions the general opinion is that the "top" has been reached. The main trend is downward. The second half of the year is likely to witness a lower rate of activity than did the first half. It is argued that the decline will not be severe as the Federal Reserve Banks have the ability to ease the pressure of credit strain when the proper time comes. The rise in commodity prices the last month to a point only slightly below the high for the year is a favorable sign.

MINING MARKET MUCH IMPROVED

Although Prices Were Irregular Losses and Gains Were About Even.

GOLDS STRONGEST.

Under the leadership of a few individual issues, the mining market displayed a marked improvement in general tone in the past week. The price trend of the majority was highly irregular. Losses and gains were about evenly divided throughought the list. A basic index number of the market would show a decided advance for the week, as losses were confined to a few points in most cases, and might be considered a natural reaction to seasonal depression.

The "big shots" of the market, International Nickel and Noranda, continued to ease during the week, each closing at approximately a point lower than the previous week. This weakness is not securing the attention it would warrant in an active market. The only traders taking an active interest in mines at present are those anxious to secure a quick profit for a small outlay; an action that is practically impossible in stocks at the current prices of these two issues.

The strength being displayed by the golds, especially higher-priced shares is still attracting a good deal of attention. After displaying weakness for several months, Hollinger came back strong the latter part of the week, following the announcement that a statement would be issued by the government on the construction of a branch line into Kamiskotia, which involves an early operation of the company's extensive properties. McIntyre and Lake Shore both gained, while the lower-priced golds, with the outstanding exception of Sylvanite, which moved up sharply, were steady.

Small Groups Weaker

A slightly reactionary tone developed in the smaller groups, the Lindsleys weakening under liquidation. The Manitoba issues, which have been brought into a fairly prominent position by the tour of the Flin Flon district under the auspices of the Manitoba chamber of mines, eased somewhat, and the Pacific coast stocks were just holding.

Interest was centered around the action of Amulet this week following reports. After sky-rocketing suddenly last Saturday the stock again moved upward at the first of the week, but encountered profit-taking. A resultant reaction took place, but, with the news of additional developments, the movement again became pronounced, the issue closing the period for a substantial gain.

A lack of interest was noticeable in Newbec, for the first time in several weeks, but other parts of the general list benefitted by the attention received as a result of this deflection. Nipissing Siscoe, and Quemont all improved their positions, and buying was evident in many of the other stocks. Abana, following the issuance of the new manager's report which contained little news regarding the property itself, was subjected to some pressure, but appared to be recovering towards the end of the week.

Oils Easy

The oils, with a few exceptions, continued to ease, though no important movement was made in any individual issue. Ajax, Baltac, Mayland and Sterling were among those which made small advances, and Wainwell, Alberta, East Crest and Home Oil closed off slightly for the week. Associated was the active member of the unlisted group, breaking during the early part of the week as a result of adverse reports. The issue, appeared to be mending its position during the last few sessions.

MINING BRIEFS.

From a reliable source comes the news that a good body of ore located on 2750 foot level of Schumacher property and preparations are being made to cut stations from this level to 3900 foot level.

Work on the mill is progressing rapidly at Base Metals, and should the present schedule keep up the mill will be in operation by November.

Greater activity than at any time since the war days is reported from Stevens County, Washington, on the International line. In addition to Smelters, other big companies are looking over the field. A representative of American Smelting and Refining Company, is looking over the Big Iron property, at Orient, now shipping iron ore of $3 gold content to the magnesite plant of Northwest Magnesite Company at Chewelah, and a representative of the latter is on his way to Germany to make arrangements for use of his company's product in manufacture of Fabrikoid under German patents. Many other properties are being looked over by responsible mining concerns and Spokane, mining center of the area, is looking for important developments. Old Dominion Mine, near Colville is one of the properties mentioned as under negotiation.

The development work at Acadia is progressing rapidly. Milling operations are steadily increasing, and plans are being made for another mill unit which will increase milling capacity to 200 tons per day. No. 1 shaft is down over 1,000 feet. Operations on No. 2 shaft will start early in August. At present Acadia is reported to have over 200,000 tons of ore above ground ready for milling. From the Acadia property 72,000 ounces of bullion has been recovered and shipped to the Royal Mint.

The Sudbury Drilling Co., which has been drilling the Edgar Stuart property for Canam Metals Company has stopped work and is loading up its drills there and also on the Silverlead property adjoining, on which drilling ceased a couple of weeks ago. No statements were given out by the drillers but it is rumored that these orebodies did not prove to be of sufficient size to lead the mining companies to close the options and install mining machinery.

At the time of writing the bit that tangled up the Associated well has not been lessened. The acid placed in the well yesterday with pumps and periodical pressure exerted on the bit failed to move it.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

THE KINGBIRD

The owl comes hooting through the dark,
His wicked wings outspread,
And thrush and oriole and lark
Flee shivering with dread.
The kingbird scowls a fearless scowl
Upon the hickory limb
For well he knows that not an owl
Would dare to tackle him

The hawk goes soaring through the sky
His eyes in search of prey
And swallow, jay, and catbird fly
In shuddering fear away.
The kingbird chuckles with delight,
And forth to battle starts,
He swiftly wings his upward flight
And Mr. Hawk departs.

He is not terrible to see,
As here and there he flies
A rather smallish bird is he
With shining, beady eyes.
He does not trouble peaceful fowls
As on his rounds he goes,
But saves his wrath for hawks and owls
And thievish plundering crows

But when these pirates of the air
Sail sullenly in view
The little battler is aware
He has a job to do.
And though they're twice as big again
And many times more strong
They always run to cover, when
The kingbird comes along.

GRAHAM—IVEY

On Tuesday, the 16th inst., at 11 a.m., the marriage of Margaret Clemena, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ivey of Campbellford, to Mr. John Douglas Graham of Roland, Man., youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Graham of Carman, Man., was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents by the Rev. J. C. Grier of Lindsay.

The bride and bridegroom, who were unattended, took their places under a beautiful bridal arch, to the accompaniment of the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus, played by Miss Eva Brady. The bride was gowned in a dress of shell-pink, silk, flat crepe, and carried a bouquet of carnations, rosebuds, baby's breath and maiden-hair fern.

Immediately after the ceremony, the company sat down to a bridal luncheon served by the Misses Gladys Turner, Viola Wilson, and Clara Coward. At the conclusion of the luncheon, Mr. George Oliver, acting as toastmaster, called upon Mr. Grier to propose the toast to the bride and bridegroom. This done, and all having attested their concurrence in the time-honored custom, the bridegroom replied very happily in behalf of both his bride and himself.

The happy couple left amid showers of confetti by the 1.30 p.m. train for a honeymoon trip among The Thousand Islands and to the Rideau Lakes. The bride's going-away dress was a maize, silk celanese, with hat, hose and gloves to match. On their return they will proceed to Roland, Man., where they will make their future home on what has long been known in the western province as Forest Home Farm.

District Churches

ROSENEATH UNITED.

ROSENEATH, July 24. — "Almost thou persuaded me to be a Christian" were the words chosen by Rev. M. R. Brown for his text on Sunday evening. Beginning he said, the word almost stands here a perpetual symbol of one of the commonest and yet one of the most neglected factors of human life. "Almost" with our rough and ready way of classifying things we are forever dividing persons and events with a hard and fast line. Everything black on one side and everything white on the other. Good or evil, right or wrong, successful or failure, well or sick, we chop life in two and catalogue the opposites. We are in a hurry, there isn't time for the fine shadings. Real life is largely made up of "almosts." How unpleasant this word sounds.

The motorist tries to take a corner at forty miles an hour and "almost" succeeds. The student "almost" passes his examination.

Rev. Brown gave several phrases to illustrate the word "almost" given in his text, again saying, most of us are not sinners or saints, we are approximately so. While there is a tragic side to the word there is a good side also. Almost, to reach a high ideal is surely better than to harbor a low one. To travel hopefully is better to arrive. There are some people who never even travel toward an ideal.

"What I aspired to be and was not comforts me." But we know where nobility resides. To have a high aim, to fail, and failing still hand on a contribution to some one's ultimate success— that is far better than cherishing a low aim. What he aspired to do and was not comforts him.

Continuing Rev. Brown said he did not see many thoroughly bad people, but the near goods the streets are full of them. "Not far," said Jesus to the high young ruler. "Thou are not far from the kingdom of God. Aye, not far, nearly, not quite, almost! To analyse this situation "almost" of fear. Fear of the new is of course one of the most familiar facts. We are afraid of facing our own spiritual possibilities and undertaking a new kind of life.

2. "Almost of indecisiveness. When a man in public position makes a decision, all that we on the outside who look on at a distance can see is the results that get published.

3. "Alas, the 'almosts' inside of us that people do not know about. Some of us almost missed the thing we got and some of us almost got the thing we missed.

The hardest thing in the world to achieve is an interior majority and because it is so hard, we stand like Agrippe—undecided, nearly, not quite, almost.

In the garden Jesus did not stop His disciples. "He went a little farther." His victory lay in his power to say on Calvary, "It is finished."

But the significance of his life hung on his ability to say "I have finished the course, I have kept the faith."

Almost is but to fail. Almost cannot avail. Come over to Him now.

The choir sang the beautiful anthem, "Almost Persuaded," and a duet by Mrs. Lily Turner and Mr. Willis Dowler, "Ivory Palaces," which were well rendered and fitting to the sermon.

Next Sunday morning is communion service and the pastor requests all members to be present.

IMMENSE POWER IN ELECRICAL STORMS

Tests Prove Distance of Storm Centre Can be Told by Static Crackles.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26.— With the lightning flash comes the static crash. The tremendous electrical power of a bolt of lightning indicates the violence of the atmospheric disturbance that accompanies a thunder storm and spoils clear radio reception.

A single flash during a severe storm may release 1,000,000 kilowatts of power, engineers at the bureau of standards have ascertained. While the duration of a flash is only three one hundred-thousandths of a second, flashes coming every few seconds keep the atmosphere in a constant turmoil.

The transmission power used by the largest program broadcasting stations is only 50 kilowatts, a tiny fraction of the energy released by hundreds of lightning flashes in a violent storm.

Scientific observations made in France over a period of one year led to the deduction that "heavy crackles of static in a radio receiver indicate a thunder storm, approaching if the crackles become more and more frequent, receding if they become less frequent or less strong. A slight 'sifflement' was produced by a heavy hailstorm approaching near the receiver."

On the north Atlantic coast of the United States an outburst of static was found to follow a sudden change of wind, particularly a change from south to north. Static also accompanied a rise of temperature there.

Observations made at Mt. St. Aubert in Belgium showed that the absence of static characterized the approach of fine weather, little precipitate cracklings accompany hail or heavy rain, distant cracklings, fine weather and numerous and prolonged cracklings, stormy weather.

A prolonged sound like water from a gutter accompanied a sudden change of weather and a prolonged and singing sound, seeming distant at first and approaching little by little until strong, characterized a violent thunder storm or tempest.

Inventor's applications filed in England in 1927 numbered 35,500.

Watch your growing children!

WATCH the health of your growing children! See that they have the health and energy necessary for their school work and play. For growing children—particularly girls—a rich supply of red blood is essential. Languor, nervousness, depression, fickle appetite or pallor indicate anaemia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood, prevent anaemia and build healthy bone and tissue. Thousands of mothers have proved this.

"My twelve-year-old girl," writes Mrs. Robert Devitt of Brougham, Ontario, "became so pale, so ill and nervous that we had to take her out of school. I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her and she gained in weight and strength. She is now the picture of health."

Buy a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at all druggists and dealers in medicine or, postpaid, by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ontario.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, July 27.—July wheat advanced 4c in the early trading yesterday to touch a new record for the season at $1.80½, but failed to hold at that level. Final quotations were ¼c higher to ¼c lower.

A rush to buy wheat at the start found numerous orders from locals and Eastern interests reaching the pit, but at the top heavy selling set in and the market receded. Bullish crop and weather reports had no effect, due to heavy profit-taking.

Liverpool wheat closed 3⅞d to 4½d higher, and cables indicated that importers were disturbed by the news from Canada, Australia and Argentina.

There was no interest in cash wheat.

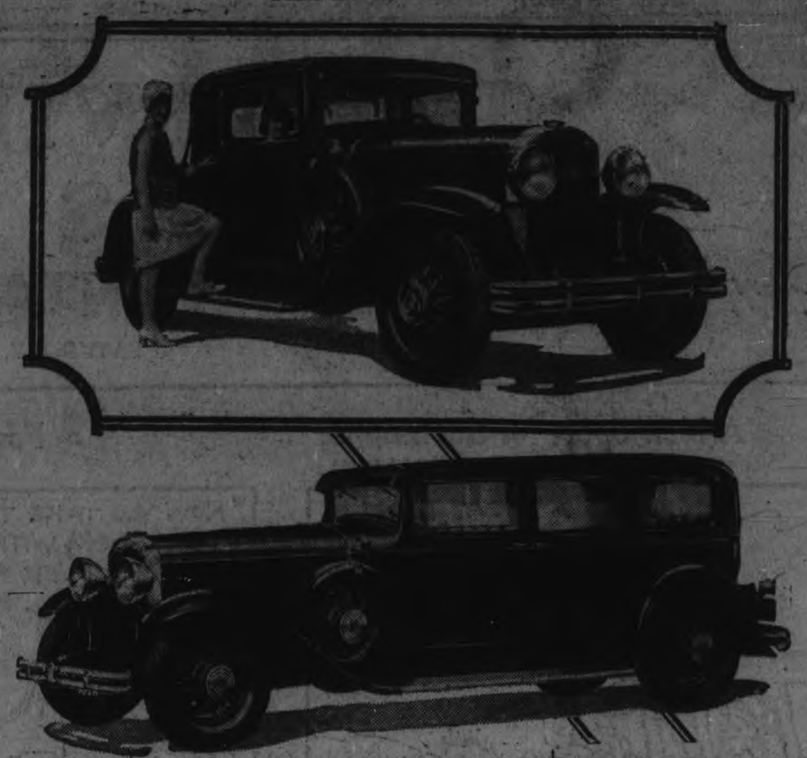
Wheat delivered through the clearing-house on July contract totalled 227,000 bushels. Deliveries to country elevators yesterday totalled 83,552 bushels, compared with 164,050 for the same date last year.

BUTTER AND EGGS

TORONTO, July 27.—Trading on the local wholesale produce market this week was of a much more active character than last week, and toward the end of the period a marked tendency in the direction of stronger prices was evidenced. Hot dry weather began to cut down butter production to a marked degree, and with fewer arrivals No. 1 creamery strengthened to a quotation of from 38 to 38½c per pound, with the No. 2 grade keeping pace with a rise to a figure of from 36¾ to 46¾ cents per pound. The increased consumption by summer resorts during July had the effect of keeping the country creameries' supplies away from the Toronto market, and this had an added effect on the size of receipts. Western butter continued to arrive in large quantities despite the severe drought in that section, and a great deal of the local offering was of this variety; trade closed at a brisk rate with demand much more in evidence than had been the case in the week previous.

The local wholesale egg market also showed definite signs of firmer prices, and the unprecedented quantity of arrivals during recent times has at last fallen off under continued heat. Dealers are quoting country shippers for ungraded eggs delivered and cases returned as follows: Fresh extras, 27 to 28 cents per dozen; fresh firsts, 25 to 26 cents per dozen; fresh seconds, 21 cents per dozen.

THE NEW McLAUGHLIN BUICK



More powerful engines, new wheelbase lengths, and lower prices are features of the three new series of McLaughlin-Buicks on view today for the first time.

The external appearance of the cars has been modified to such an extent that the 1930 McLaughlin-Buicks are distinctive creations.

Fourteen models are included in the new line. Shown above are a sport coupe and one of the seven-passenger sedans included in the new line.

NEW MODEL OF McLAUGHLINS DISPLAYED BY GENERAL MOTORS

LOWER PRICES.

Three entirely new series of cars, more powerful and more impressive than those they replace, constitute the 1930 McLaughlin-Buicks, on display for the first time today.

The three series are known as the "40", "50" and "60" series, and include, in all, fourteen models. The former 116 inch, 121 inch, and 129 inch series have been entirely eliminated, and a new grouping of models made. Although larger and more powerful than any cars ever offered by McLaughlin-Buick, the series "60" models represent a considerable reduction in price from the previous highest-priced McLaughlin - Buick models; and this attractive pricing carries down through the other two series.

The valve-in-head master-six engine which powers the series "40" models develops 80 1-2 horsepower. The larger master-six engine used in the "50" and "60" series gives these cars a full 98 horse-power. In this connection it is interesting to recall that the engines used last year developed 74 and 90 horsepower respectively.

118-inch Wheelbase

Wheelbases new to McLaughlin-Buick characterize the 1930 cars. The 118-inch wheelbase of the series "40" models represents a length two inches greater than any previously found in the lowest-priced series of McLaughlin-Buicks. Series "50" has a wheelbase of 124 inches; and the magnificent series "60" models, with 132-inch wheelbase, are three inches longer than any McLaughlin-Buick in history. A new type of spring suspension has permitted the lowering of all models by approximately two inches.

More attractive bodies and innumerable mechanical improvements and refinements are among the many surprises that await the interested motorist who visits the local McLaughlin-Buick showrooms. While retaining McLaughlin-Buick individuality of appearance, the lines and contours of the body have been refined to such an extent that the new cars are distinctive creations. The radiator shape has been revised, the margin of the radiator shell has been reduced to more slender dimensions and the radiator core has been protected with thermostatically controlled shutters.

The nose of the front fenders has been dropped closer to the tires; new designs have been embodied in the large chromium-plated head and tail lamps and the headlamps have been mounted on much sturdier chromium-plated support posts. New hub-caps, longer brake drums, stocky wooden wheel-spokes and large section balloon tires give this new McLaughlin-Buick a pleasing appearance that if further enchanced by use of a wider metal gas tank cover which gives the rear a smooth finished appearance.

Eliminates Shock

A steering wheel road shock eliminating device is one of the many outstanding mechanical improvements offered in this new car. Four wheel internal-expansion service brakes, semi-elliptic rear springs and double-acting shock absorbers are additional advances achieved, together with a sloping non-glare windshield, re-designed transmission and clutch, larger rubber motor mountings and a sturdier and wider chassis frame.

The top road speed on all models is obtained at slower engine speeds than were possible with previous models, due to the increased piston displacement. Fuel economy has been maintained due to a better balance weight, plus improved carburetion.

HOME TOWNERS

CAMPBELLFORD
Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

One of the old timers in town yesterday afternoon noticed that there was a flag flying over McKe vie's Mill, Mill Street. He claimed that there had not been a flag on the mill for more than twenty years, and he was more than a little pleased to see it again.

The town must look pretty good from up above, because an airman spent quite a little while yesterday morning just flying around. He was pretty low at that, and the general opinion was that he was looking for a landing place. One of "The Boys" who had a cramp in his neck from looking up, ventured the opinion that perhaps the flier was just a little leery of tearing down some of the decorations.

Earl Stephens is going to look after the Cadet uniforms for the parade, and will be on deck at ten o'clock on Monday morning to issue the outfits to the boys. If necessary, he has agreed to return to the school at two o'clock that afternoon.

The Legionaires are going to decorate the graves of ex-soldiers in the local cemeteries. Every name of veterans of the Great War, South African War, Reil Rebellion, and the Fenian Campaign, has been listed as far as possible. The Legionaires are anxious to have a complete list, and would like the names of all veterans of all campaigns in which anyone interred in th local cemeteries took part. If you know of any, send them to Jack McEachern, with the location of the grave, if possible.

For the first time in three years, the Campbellford Tennis Club has requested that a tournament be postponed. They were scheduled to play in Bowmanville in a C.O.L.T.A tournament. The request was made necessary by the fact that the club members are so busy with Old Home Week committees, that they can not get away even for an afternoon. Yesterday afternoon several members of the Peterborough Club paid a friendly visit to the local courts and enjoyed an afternoon's play. Lunch which was sort of a mutual affair, was served in the club house after the games. The visitors had suggested a sort of picnic when the Campbellford players were in the city last Saturday, and so they brought most of their own lunch. The home towners provided what was lacking in the line of hot coffee, etc.

Last night, at a special meeting, the Legionaires decided to accept the offer of the Girl Guides to run a booth during the week. It will be run on the profit sharing plan. The work will also be divided.

The Big Swim is getting bigger. Eleven more entries were chalked up yesterday, which brings the number to an even three-score up to last night. Naturally, the Swim Committee is glad to see the increase and hopes for more, but there are some people who have reason to be less jubilant. It is necessary, so we are told, that each swimmer be examined before he or she is allowed to enter the water for the big event. Two local doctors have been secured to perform the required examination. They are to have a tent near the water's edge, and expect to begin operations about ten in the morning.

Although entries for the swim have come in from all parts of the continent and two from across the Atlantic, only one local swimmer has sent in his name as yet. The third to be opened yesterday was from Peterborough, but came from a former resident of Campbellford. Vern Janeway, whose father formerly operated a barber shop on Front Street, will take his chances with the rest. Campbellford people will remember Vern as a boy in his early teens. Tommy Dobinson, Picton, is the nearest to Campbellford after Janeway. There is a general feeling in local circles that both Janeway and Dobinson will show up well in the race.

Among other details arranged by the Legionaires for Old Home Week is a firing party composed of all ex-service men, to take part in the memorial service to-morrow.

WHEAT IS DOWN TO HALF NORMAL

53 PER CENT OF 1928.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 27 (C.P.)—Present condition of the wheat crop in the Prairie Provinces is 53 per cent. of normal as compared to 102 per cent. at the same time last year, A. Cairns, Statistician of the Canadian Wheat Pool reported today. His report is based upon information received on July 25 from Pool telegraphic correspondents.

Conditions by Provinces

Wheat:—
Manitoba, 60; Saskatchewan, 56.6; Alberta, 44.
Oats:—
Manitoba, 45; Saskatchewan, 53; Alberta, 42.
Barley:—
Manitoba, 50; Saskatchewan, 56; Alberta, 44.

Rain Needed Generally

All Manitoba points reporting need rain; sixty per cent said rain urgently needed, crops suffering severely, only four Saskatchewan correspondents reported sufficient moisture, the remainder requiring rain; 94 per cent reported rain urgently needed, crops suffering severely. Fifty per cent of Saskatchewan correspondents told of excessive heat, and 30 per cent said hot winds had damaged crops. All Alberta correspondents said rain needed, 70 per cent of which stated rain urgently required.

Manitoba's Crop Better

There was a slight improvement in the condition of Manitoba's wheat crop due to showers the latter part of week particularly in the western part of the province.

Present conditions of all crops in Saskatchewan and Alberta is lower than last week owing to severe heat and almost complete lack of rainfall. The average precipitation received at 24 meteorological stations in Saskatchewan for the week ending July 24 was only 0.09 of an inch and only 0.05 of an inch at 14 meteorological stations in Alberta.

NEW COMPANY FORMED

Shareholders of Conlaurum Mines have ratified proposal to sell assets to New Company and charter will be surrendered. Development work is now proceeding under the new company.

WHEAT HARVEST ONLY A VISION

Burning Sun Wilting Grain Crops Steals Dreams of Prosperity.

RAINS NEVER COME.

By T. W. Banton.
(Special to the Examiner.)

TORONTO, July 27. — "Whither is fled the visionary gleam."

The gleam and promise of a golden harvest; a vision of golden sheaves of wheat; a vision of mortgages paid off; of wealth and affluence, and a life of ease and comfort, after years of toil and pioneering hardships; all! all! "like the baseless fabric of a dream, to wilt and pass away.

Such, o rsomething like it, may be the sad reflection in the mind of many an immigrant settler on the distant prairies of Western Canada, as, with burning eyes, he watches and prays, his parched crops, which promised so much, wilt and burn up under the scorching rays of a pitiless sun.

"But," says the purist and too captious critic, who rises to object that the above play of words is a misquotation, and misapplied, since the long haired poot quoted, or misquoted, had no such thought in his own troubled mind, as the troubles and the trials of an immigrant settler, or of parched crops, and imagined fortunes that fade away.

Well, what of it? 'This no matter. For on the authority of still another member of the long-haired tribe, who openly avows that:

"When Berkeley said there was no matter; 'twas no matter what he said."

However, 'tis writ, and having writ though you worry your heart out, you shall not obliterate one word of it.

Crops Less Than Half.

But to get away from this slight "detour," and to get down to the dry as dust, and matter of fact business before us, let it at once be recorded and set down, on the tablets of our memory, that the combined and total wheat crops for this year, of the three great prairie provinces of Canada, are in imminent danger of being wittled down to the pitiably small proportions of a two hundred million bushel crop, as compared with grand and majestic crop last year of 533 million bushels. A truly pitiful falling off, at which the gods well might weep.

"Thus, at least," spoke Zarathustra, and 'he knows.'

That mysterious, but powerful personage, in this instance, being represented in person by ordinary mortals such as: B. W. Snow; Messrs. Donovan; Cromwell; Nat. C. Murray, and others equally learned in the ancient lore of the crops.

Take Mr. Snow's figures for instance. Early this week this well-known crop expert issued what was described as a sensational report in which he asserted that nature has unexpectedly come to the aid of President Hoover's Farm Relief Board, by removing wheat for the next year or two from the group of products that need assistance. Snow based his statement on detailed reports from the world's wheat areas, and a two weeks personal investigation of the crop situation in Canada.

Too Much Rain in U. S.

Excessive rainfall has cut the prospective winter crop in the U. S. more than 50,000,000. Lack of rain in the spring wheat country of the north-west has cut the expected 400,000,000 bu. crop to 200,000,000 or less. Heat and drought in Canada have reduced the expected 550,000,000 crop to not more than 300,000,000.

In two months the North American wheat crop has shrunk from a possible 1,600,000,000 to 1,050,000,000 bu. if not less, considerably more than wiping out the surplus that sent wheat down to less than $1.

That is the summing up of the situation as it was at the time the report was issued, by a man whose experience extends over many years, has agences scattered all over the country from whom he receives reliable reports of conditions as they exist, and whose judgment and opinion is highly regarded by the trade generally.

Since Mr. Snow's sensational and market shaking report was issued, conditions have swiftly been going from bad to worse, in the stricken crop areas.

Other reports have daily been issued, sponsored by responsible authorities, in which the 300 million crop prospect for Western Canada of the early part of the week has steadily but surely dwindled until, at this week end, a two hundred million bushel, crop, or even less, should the fatal drought continue, is freely spoken of.

And so the luring vision in the early spring of another bumper Canadian crop of possibly 550 million bushels, has faded and passed away.

Prices Will Be High.

There is, of course, the other side to the story, and that is the story of the entrancing values of the crops, such as may ultimately be harvested. Just how high these values may go, no one at present can tell, or scarce even hazard a guess. It is well known however, that there are scores of well known and responsible men in the trade, not merely the occasional market dabblers who come in at such times as these to "take a fly," but men with years of experience as farmers, in the west, and who know the conditions which assure either bountiful or sparce crops, as the case may be; and also men with years of trading in wheat, as responsible grain dealers, millers; and speculators or a big scale; many of these men, who are not afraid to take their reputation and judgment, on the openly avowed opinion that wheat values before the end of the present season will go up to two dollars a bushel, and perhaps even higher.

"And for why?" as one may fairly ask. What are the reasons behind such an opinion, and such a price?

Among them are:

Bradstreet's world's available stocks gave a total of 270,000,000 bu. compared with 189,000,00 bu. one year ago.

Such a figure would under ordinary circumstances indicate over supply. With crop prospects as they are, it caused not even a ripple of apprehension.

And thes. figures include, of course, the tremendous "carry overs" which loomed so large a few short weeks ago.

Nat Murray indicates that world wheat crop looks like from 12 to 13 per cent. less than last year and total supply including carry-over 10 p. c. less.

Australian Crops Smaller.

Australian crop prospects, private cable says, too early to estimate, prospects are for smaller crop than last year by 25 per cent. No subsoil moisture, heavy rain in spring essential.

The past week has been prolific of such "bullish" estimates as the above. One could go on piling them up until one might easily convince oneself that there will be next to no crop at all.

There are, of course, limits to such estimating. It is well to remember the human tendency to exaggerate, and to look too intently upon the blackest side of things.

But even the most sober and sanest of calculators, admit the situation has become most serious, and fast approaching the calamitous.

One would fain be glad to introduce a brighter note into the picture. But, truth to tell, it is difficult at the moment to glimpse the silver lining. It may be there, and doubtless is, could we but discern it. This year's failure in grains in the west, may lead to farming of a more mixed character, thus averting failure in the future.

For this year, however, it is still true that—"Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: "It might have been."

GERMAN SHIPS MUCH IMPROVED

Are Within Limits Set by Treaty Yet Have Greater Speed and Firing Range.

NEW TYPE ENGINES

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 27.—(By Kirke Simpson, A. P. Writer.)—One factor apparently overlooked thus far in the international hubbub over further naval reductions and limitations is the German navy.

It does not amount to much in size, due to severe restrictions of the treaty that ended the war. But German mechanical ingenuity has found a way, within those restrictions, to produce a class of hybrid fighting ships that can conceivably be difficult to fit into any accepted category for limitation purposes.

The new German ships, limited to 10,000 tons displacement, are the same size as the 10,000-ton post-Washington treaty cruisers of England, the United States, Japan, France and Italy. Such vessels were the chief bone of contention in the fruitless three-power naval conference sponsored by President Coolidge.

But while the ships are limited to guns of eight-inch caliber, the German vessels could carry guns twice that size and do, in fact, mount 11-inch batteries.

German naval designers never have followed the big gun ideas of their British and American rivals. They were content before the world war was to build German high seas battleships and battle cruisers with long range 11-inch weapons.

In the war they used 11-inch batteries against British heavy war dogs mounting 13.5 inch and even 15-inch weapons.

Improvement in Guns

It is to be assumed that the German 11-inch naval rifle of today is as vastly improved over war time guns of the same size, as are the eight-inchers of other naval powers.

The result, then, of post-war and post-treaty German naval development is the creation of a new naval weapon. It is a cruiser in size but a battleship in hitting power and gun range. That is a factor that cannot be overlooked by naval experts when and if the discussions precipitated by President Hoover's suggestion for a naval yardstick of fighting relativities gets down to a practical basis.

Nor are previous naval relativity formulae upset by the German super-cruisers on the score of gun power alone. They are motor instead of turbine driven. American naval information credits their propelling machinery with the staggering weight reduction evolution that gives them one brake horse power per 17 1-2 pounds of engine weight.

New Idea in Engines

The same type of internal combustion engines used ashore never before have been brought down to less than 51 pounds per brake horse power. The saving in engine weight for the German cruisers means more gun power, more speed, and, a very vital consideration in naval fighting relativities, more cruising radius.

This is what the United States navy department has had to say of the new German ship:

"She scarcely can be called a battleship or a battle cruiser; but whatever definition be given, it appears clear that only by the adoption of internal combustion machinery has it been possible to build a vessel restricted to a displacement of 10,000 tons with a maximum speed of 26 knots and with a radius of action exceeding 10,000 miles at a speed of approximately 20 knots."

The navy experts credit the German design as "an outstanding development" in naval history.

An important seat for Germany seems indicated at any naval limitations and reduction conferences of the future.

JAPANESE CONCLUDE CONSTRUCTION WORK

Have Finished Re-building 'Quake Damage at Yokohoma in 1923.

TOKYO, July 27 (C.P.).—Yokohama leads in the proportion of the reconstruction program which has been carried out since the earthquake in 1923, according to surveys recently completed. The work of rebuilding houses, constructing bridges and laying out streets in the port city is now completed and the reconstruction board was disbanded.

Work in Tokyo was delayed for some itme but has been going on recently at a rapid rate and it is believed that the programs of rebuilding the capital will be completed before the end of the year.

The principal projects in the reconstruction of Yokohama have been the exchange of lots to make room for the many new streets which have been put through. In these cases there had to be many complicated negotiations so as to satisfy the claims of those whose property was being used.

In Tokyo the principal new streets have been cut, the schools have been rebuilt and all necessary changes in the city water system have been made Arrangements have also been made for the exchange of lots. Part of the rebuilding scheme involved the moving of 200,000 houses, and this has now been accomplished.

THE MEAT DIET.

I have spoken before about two strong men, one of whom ate meat three times a day, and the other had not eaten meat in two years.

They both worked hard;the meat eater in a foundry and the non meat eater in a bakery. The non meat eater ate eggs daily instead of meat.

I wrote also about Steffanson the explorer who lived on meat only for years in the Arctic regions, and saw no cancer; also of Mr. Garrison who lived in a portion of India where no meat was eat on and likewise saw no cancer.

You naturally wonder therefore, about the eating of meat, and whether or not it is a safe food for those of us who live in a temperate climate, where it is neither very hot nor very cold.

Drs. Leit and Tolstoi report an experiment of the effects of a diet composed of meat only, on two healthy explorers who had spent many years in the Arctic Circle, and while there had lived for the greater part of the time on occasionally 100 percent. meat and fat diet.

They were first given a thorough examination, and found to be in excellent physical condition.

Examinations were then made of th chemical contents of the blood. Both men ate nothing but meat cooked raw. Two experienced dietians prepared and served the meat.

Both men were up and about and took their exercise in walking.

The experiments were continued for 11 months, and were done in duplicates.

What was the result?

They felt no ill effects, maintained their weight, and were in excellent health, and no evidence of any kidney disturbance could be found.

Now does this mean that everybody should eat meat only or that it would be safe for everybody to eat only meat?

No. These were two healthy men whose systems were used to such a diet and who walked every day in the open air.

Ir does mean however, that if you are a healthy individual and live an outdoor life with plenty of exercise, that you can eat meat in safety. It is an ideal builder

FASHION SERVICE

Black and white combinations are favored by Paris. This suit in black satin which Philippe and Gaston have created has a blouse in white satin.

This is an unusually smart interpretation of the black and white mode which is popular in Paris this season. The simple coat and draped skirt are in black satin, trimmed with a series of triangular decoupes, and the blouse is in the same material in white, with trimmings of black. For the tea hour this costume is smart and becoming.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

A Column of Particular Interest to Women Readers, Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

WELL, THE CHAUTAUQUA is over for another year! The committee under whom it is sponsored in Peterborough must have been delighted when they were able to secure a Canadian organization this year. Other years, I am told, you have had an American organization, but we hope that the Canadians have proven to the citizens of Peterborough that just as good a program was presented as they had been accustomed to.

* * * * * * *

We are aways told to boost our country—Canada—so let us boost Canadian Chautauqua so that even bigger and better programs may be presented to us year after year

* * * * * * *

I noticed, in looking over the audience while in attendance at one of the meetings, how many grey-haired men and women there were. They seemed to be in their glory, listening with strained ears and often their eyes were glistening.

* * * * * * *

The concluding presentation was, I believe, one of the best of the week. Everyone enjoys hearing Jubilee singers, and the emotion which is always with the negro songs adds even more interest, and the negrillo very imitative while not giving his own act, more than pleased the large audience when his own act was given.

* * * * * * *

The interest of the large number of the children, present through the kindness of the Rotary Club, I am told, was held throughout. When the leader announced the concluding number a loud "aw——" was heard from one of the small members on the front row.

* * * * * * *

"Smilin' Through," although rather sad, was a wonderful story, a story which makes one realize that forgiveness must be granted before we can be really happy.

* * * * * * *

The play given on the first evening of the series of programs, while of a very different character, displayed a picture very real in many homes to-day—one could see that each member of the family was deeply in love with the rest, but with all the quarrelling and squabbling, one would sometimes doubt its existence.

* * * * * * *

I was glad to hear to-day that as well as being a success educationally, it was a success financially. Other years, I have been told, large sums of money had to be paid at the close of the performances—this usually financed by a small group of men who were anxious that Peterborough citizens might have the opportunity of hearing these talented artists year after year.

* * * * * * *

So we ought to be especially thankful to this small group who kept it going year after year until at last they have come to a time when it can be financed itself.

* * * * * * *

Other years when I have attended Chautauqua, on the last day or the two last days, an appeal was always made for the signing for season tickets for the following year, but I noticed that this is not done in Peterborough—at least not this year. This mars the program, and I was delighted when the buying of season tickets for next year was not mentioned.

* * * * * * *

But to go back to the musical entertainments, I am sure many in Peterborough might be saying those lines of Wordsworth taken from The Solitary Reaper:

The music in my heart I bore,
Long after it was heard no more.

* * * * * * *

And music, too—dear music! that can touch
Beyond all else the soul that loves it much—
Now heard far off, so far as but to seem Like the faint, exquisite music of a dream.

—Moore.

Sky blue silk pique, printed cotton voile, white shantung with green dots, yellow and white checked gingham, tomato red crepe de chine with scarf and belt of matching red crepe with white polka-dots and natural rajah silk crepe printed in capucine tones are lovely for beach and country wear, as well as for town.

THE PATTERN is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. It is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew. OUR CHILDREN

LEARNING BEAUTY.

"Hoo, hoo. Bennie, come on out."

Bennie's tear-stained face appeared at the window. He shook his head.

"Aw come on out. It's grand out. Come ahead."

Cautiously Bennie opened the window and most cautiously he huskily communicated his troubles. "I can't. I gotta stay in and learn 'Flow Gently Sweet Afton' and I can't keep it in my head."

"Flow Gently Sweet Afton? What's that?" asked Pete in awed tones. "Who's making you?"

"My mother. She says I gotta learn something beautiful every week and I haven't learned it yet so I gotta stay in. Here she comes."

It is well to learn something beautiful every week. Even every day a certain amount of beauty might be granted the least of us. But I fear that making a little lad stay in from play to memorize a poem like Sweet Afton, or any other poem, will not have that effect. I have good grounds to fear that it will have quite another effect. Once a teacher I know kept a boy in every afternoon for a month to learn Kingsley's "I once had a sweet little doll, dears, the prettiest doll in the world," and the boy never learned it. The teacher lost all his afternoons and the friendship of the boy into the bargain. And the boy has refused to look at a poem from that day to this.

When a child learns a poem he is learning far more than the words, or even the thought, should he get that far. He is learning about you, your attitude to him and toward the beautiful things you want him to learn. He is learning how his back can ache, how his eyes tire, how his chest closes and closes until he feels he must choke. He is learning how hard life is on children when it permits grownups to imprison them and force them to hold their noses in a book for no reasonable good.

Whatever the task you set a child he takes along with it the broad margin of life that touches it. Forever afterward that task will live with that margin of thought, that peculiar bitterness of spirit or special brightness of beauty, that surrounded it the day he met it. And mingled with it all will be his memory of your attitude, his judgment of you and the event associated with you.

That is why I say that given the right teacher the subject of the lesson is not important. Teaching gets nowhere until there is open communication between the mind and spirit of the teacher and that of the pupil. Beauty is intangible. It is free or it does not dwell with you.

Our old teacher used to say, most wisely, "It isn't what you do so much as it is how it is done, that matters."

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

"ONE OF US TWO"
(Pest)

The day will dawn when one of us shall hearken
In vain to hear a voice that has grown numb.
And morns will fade, noons pale, and shadows darken,
While sad eyes watch for feet that never come.

One of us two must sometime face existence
Alone with memories that but sharpen pain.
And these sweet days shall shine back in the distance,
Like dreams of summer dawns, in nights of rain.

One of us two, with tortured heart half broken,
Shall read long-treasured letters through salt tears,
Shall kiss with anguished lips each cherished token
That speaks of these love-crowned, delicious years.

One of us two shall find all light, all beauty,
All joy on earth, a tale for ever done;
Shall know henceforth that life means only duty.
Oh, God; Oh, God! have pity on that one.

AWNING REPAIRS

Old awnings should be looked over thoroughly and repaired expertly about this time. Screens and summer doors should be in place by the middle of April.

ANNE WILCOX'S MAIL

Please allow me to be familiar enough to call you by your given name, it being one of my favorites. Anne Case the noted singer who won the hearts of the rough and ready lumber men and her missionary work which she did mostly by her singing, was wonderful. Perhaps you have read her history which is most interesting. What is in a name?

I was surprised to learn that Marion had given up her duties with The Examiner but I trust Anne that you will continue with the work for to me it is beneficial.

I am not very regular at writing but when I read 'Bab's' letter and her doubt about taking sun baths, I cannot resist. This is my own experience. Two years ago I had a long siege of sickness, first the flu which developed into bronchial pneumonia. When well enough to be up around, I decided to take sun baths, the first morning I lay in the sun for six minutes, three for my chest and three for my back, covering my face with a newspaper, each day (unless it rained) I added two or three minutes until I could lie comfortably for an hour and very often longer. I gained wonderfully and my body was as brown as any Indian you ever saw, yet I was not burned.

Too many people go out for a day and get what they call a tan; this is no good in fact it is harmful to the skin and the corpusles cannot work fast enough to purify the blood, but to take sun baths as one should is most valuable, I vouch for it every time. Two years ago before I started taking these baths I didn't weigh 100 pounds, and now I weigh 125 pounds and I feel just fine. Another thing I did was to go on an orange diet for three days. This may read crazy to you but believe me, it started me on the road to health after the two doctors had said I was bloodless and advised me to go to Muskoka for the summer, something I could not afford but I spent 25 cents for a dozen of oranges but how many dozens I bought I cannot tell you. Squeezed the juices of three or four into a glass as a drink, ate one or two between meals. Everybody else would be eating their regular meals but I continued with my oranges. Except for drinking plenty of water nothing else did I take but the oranges. Of course, it was somewhat aggravating when the meal time came and the smell was good, but I made up my mind to try out the orange diet and can say truthfully it and the sun baths made me into a new person. So 'Babs' if you are delicate I advise the baths anyway. I hope Anne that I have not given too much of a lecture on this subject or went beyond the limit.

Here is a hint to close with: To remove lime which collects on the inside of tea kettles, boil potatoes with their skins on for about one half hour.

Good luck Anne,
Sincerely,
JAY JAY."

Indeed I do want you to call me Anne, and everyone else too, one doesn't get very far in the role of friendship if 'Miss' is used continually. I am so glad someone with personal experience was able to give 'Bab's' more definite advice. I often felt sorry for the men who had to be in the blazing sun day in and day out, especially the farmers and who get burned almost black. This, of course, comes gradually and I'm sure some of them would never be able to stand it were it not for the benefit they receive daily.

"Dear Anne Wilcox:

Your name is probably a pen name as was Marion, and as such I treat it. The Whatnot appealed to me greatly, under Marion's management, and I hope you may be happy in the work. It is no fun stepping into another's shoes, indeed one cannot do it, one can better fill her own shoes in her own way, then success comes, and I warmly welcome our new head.

Last week I read the Whatnots with interest. Last week there was one expression used, which I have learned to use with a grain of salt, and that it "....do one's best." It drives me nearly frantic sometimes. It may be the best then, but if things had only been begun in the proper time, and looked after properly, or if the studying had been steady all through the term and no cramming at the end, the best would not have been accident or failure.

So often it is my lot to hear, "It is the best I can do." It is for the present, I know, but it is far from the best, that should have been.

The lines at the beginning of your notes embody my meaning.

I was much interested, too, in last evening's notes on love. How many homes would be happy were your advice followed.

With best wishes for you and your pags, I am,
Sincerely yours,
QUID EST."

A hint: In making pies of juicy fresh fruits, I mix about a tablespoon of sago with the fruit and sugar. Have even made pies, pronounced good by the men folk, by putting sago with grapes or other fruit juices.

Thank you "Quid Est," for your welcome—don't I know how hard it is to step into someone else's shoes! But the Neighbors have been wonderful so far and I know they are going to continue. That's a good idea about the sago among the fruit in making juicy pies—my mother always puts rolled soda wafers over the bottom crust before putting the rhubarb in pies.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE.

CAVAN

The Dairy and Cold Storage branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, have issued book covers, available to teachers and nurses for classroom use. These can be adjusted to fit school readers of the various provinces.

As the supply is not sufficient to allow indiscriminate distribution, it is suggested, that they be given to those children who make an earnest effort to attain or maintain health. If each month or each term, more children are entitled to this reward through improved health habits, additional copies are obtainable to supply each of these children. Teachers are asked to co-operate in preventing waste, and it is expected that a child will not receive more than one copy during the term at least.

It is hoped that in this way the book covers will help to impress Canadian boys and girls with the importance of proper food, and that they will prove a stimulus to the development of good health habits.

Almost every school has a Junior Red Cross society, which has among its rules "the cleaning of nails, teeth, proper bathing, attention to hair, sleeping with open windows, drinking milk and water, but avoiding the use of tea and coffee, etc.

In this society stars or some reward are given for keeping these health rules. In the same way these "Book Covers", might beneficially be introduced into the schools.

Where possible the secretaries of Women's Institutes might obtain these supplies for distribution in the schools in their district. The Institute is very often in closer touch with the Department of Agriculture, than the teachers.

Anything done to promote sanitation in the school is indeed a help to the community.

WARSAW

Very few of the many Institutes where members read The Examiner send any material for Saturday's column. The Examiner wants these notes and has been good enough to give the Institutes two full columns every Saturday.

Mrs. Sexsmith, the East Peterborough District President suggested that each branch have a publicity secretary. Those who are Institute workers know that there is no organization that does the work of the Institute. But why hide the light under a bushel?

In some cases the local corespondent is an Institute worker and sends in notes. Where such is not the case could not the Institute secretary send to The Examiner direct, or the local correspondent notes of the work, effects of lectures, papers or anything you do? Do this as well as send the reports of regular meetings. Your work is worth while. Let is be known and you may put others on the track of something worth-while, of which they have never thought. The Institute covers so much ground that there is much of interest to tell.

The column reaches women away beyond the East Peterborough district. Many from Northumberland, Durham and Victoria read it, besides the many in distant parts. If those from the near counties would tell of some of their work, or their ideas it would be a great help. At the conventions they help. And those far away, how glad we in Peterborough would be to read in our home paper of their doings.

MILLBROOK

The plan of offering a prize for the pupil from the local school who made highest marks in Canadian history at the High School Entrance examinations last June has been tried out by one Institute this year and found quite successful, winning approval from both parents and teachers. The patriotic side of the competition was a commendable feature, and the stimulus to study was a marked benefit.

At the last Board meeting of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario a recommendation was made that district presidents hold office for at least two years, the general opinion being that the work is strengthened by not changing officers too often. In some instances, however, if a district president proves at all capable she is returned to the position year after year, in spite of her request at each district annual meeting, that another be given the office. In the East Durham district it is a much longer period than two years since there has been any change in the presidency; the work has been so well done that, apparently, the members are fully satisfied, and Mrs. Skitch's repeated request that she be relieved of the responsibility is quietly ignored when the yearly election takes place.

The decision to include scientific temperance education and moral reform in the program of the committee on education is another item from the board meeting of general interest to Institute workers.

One branch is undertaking this season to finance a tourist camp for the community in which it is located, getting permission from the municipal council and asking that body to secure two men to do the necessary work, the Institute providing the funds. This is an ambitious project, but is certainly an admirable 'community activity', and is bringing the Institute prominently before the local citizens, and winning loyal support for the different ways of raising money to meet the expense account in connection with the stopping-place for tourists.

A 'Recipe for Better Citizens', furnished by an executive officer, is being read at a number of local Institute meetings, the ingredients being: 2 lbs. of love; 1-2 lb. of good looks; 1-2 lb. of sweet temper; 1-2 lb. of buttered youth; 2 lbs. of self-forgetfulness; 1-2 oz. of dry humor; 2 tablespoons sweet argument; 1 pint common sense.

Method — Put the flower of love, good looks, and sweet temper into a well-furnished home; mix the butter of youth together with blindness to faults and self-forgetfulness, throw in dry humor and sweet arguments then add to the above. Pour in rippling laughter and commonsense, work together until well mixed and bake gently forever.

"ABOOT THE HOOSE"

To be a good cook means the economy of great grandmothers and the science of the modern chemists. It means English thoroughness, French art, and Arabian hospitality. It means, in fine, that you are to see that everyone has something nice to eat. —Ruskin.

Just now, one may frequently hear such remarks as, "We cooked beans from our garden for the first time today", or "Come to dinner tomorrow; we are having our first peas". So, a few words apropos those legumes may not be amiss.

Peas and beans are more generously supplied with protein than most vegetables, hence are specially entitled to consideration when we plan our periodical "vegetable dinner." (The exorbitant price of meat makes the recurrence of those dinners more fixed and frequent with most of us, doesn't it?) Their protein, however, is not of the highest or Grade A quality, therefore should be supplemented with foods which provide this — such as milk and egg. Their high mineral and vitamine content place peas and beans among the protective foods. The following is their composition:

String Beans—Refuse, 7.0; Water, 83; Protein, 2.1; Fat .3; Carbohydrate, 6.9; Ash, .7; Calories per lb., 170.

Peas Shelled—Refuse, —; Water, 74.6;; Protein, 7.0; Fat, .5; Carbohydrate, 16.9; Ash, 1.0; Calories per lb., 440.

Vegetables are cooked to soften the cellulose, to cause the starch granules to swell and burst, to coagulate the protein and to improve the flavor. Generally speaking, the simpler the methods of cooking and serving vegetables the better. A properly grown and well-cooked vegetable will be palatable and readily digestible. Badly cooked, water-soaked vegetables very generally cause digestive disturbances which ar often serious. Green vegetables should boil rapidly and uninterruptedly during cooking. To prevent toughening of cellulose and extraction of nutritive material, salt is added near the end of cooking. It and good butter are the best seasoning for most vegetables. If beans or peas have become too old, a small piece of baking soda added to the water in which they are boiled expedites cooking and makes them more tender. The water in whch legumes are cooked should not be drained down the sink; it is rich in mineral matter and excellent for soups, sauces and gravies.

Probably many readers have partaken of dinners cooked without the addition of water by demonstrators of new aluminum ware. Were you ever served any vegetables other than spinach, carrots, onions and potatoes in their jackets? Do you know if vegetables other than those mentioned can be so cooked? Vegetables are a food in the preparation of which an accurate estimate of the amount needed is rather difficult to obtain, hence the problem of dealing with leftovers often arises. However, as it is a problem for which solutions are many and simple, and as the leftovers can often be made as palatable as was the original dish, this is not a fact to be greatly deplored. Some of the easiest and most apptizing ways of preparing leftovers are to make them into scallops, soups, salads, croquetes, potato cakes and molded vegetables of various kinds.

Here is a good housekeeping recipe which is seasonable, palatable and well-balanced.

Peas and Onions

News peas.
Tiny onions.
1-4 teaspoon sugar.
2 tablespoons butter or 3 or 4 tablespoons very thick cream.

1—Cook peas and onions separately until tender, drain and combine.

2—One or two c. of the vegetables combined in any proportion desired, melt the butter in a saucepan.

3—Add vegetables, shake lightly until well-buttered and very hot.

4—Add sugar.

Instead of butter very thick cream may be used. This gives a different and delicious flavour.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot put away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhoea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

Crescent Eliminated From East Peterborough

BETHANY PUTS OUT CRESCENTS AND WILL MEET COGNAWAGAS FOR LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

Home Team Is Shut Out in Fixture at Exhibition Park.

ERRORS PROVE DEFEAT.

Harold Ralph Pitches Great Game For Doc. Hamilton's Crew.

(By Ted Outram)

Bethany put Crescents out of the race for East Peterborough League honors by defeating them 5 to 0 at Exhibition Park last evening. The loss settled the fate of Crescents and leaves Bethany and Cognawagas, first and second teams respectively, to fight it out for the championship and the right to continue in the Intermediate O.B.A.A. play-offs.

Errors paved the way for the first Bethany counter, but all four of the others were won by the force of their hammering bats. Although "Bun" Frost, veteran of many stiff encounters and one of the most wily pitchers in the circuit, was serving them up, the boys from the mountain village had their batting eye glued to his curves and their steady and timely clouts proved irresistible.

Turned In Fine Game.

On the other hand Harold Ralph, left-handed ace of Doc Hamilton's crew, was turning in one of the sweetest performances of his whole successful season. The ball was breaking perfectly for him and he had the Crescent sluggers tied in knots on his deceptive hooks. His string of strikeouts mounted in deadly procession to reach the impressive total of eleven. He retired two on strikes in every innings but the second and last, and one fell to him in the second.

The Crescents were powerless in their blows when they did connect, making but two hits both slaps to the infield. Four flies were knocked to the outer garden all being gathered in faultlessly by H. Smith in the sunny left field.

In the first two frames Ralph dug himself into holes by walking two and hitting one batter, but eased himself out of them by masterly twirling. On both occasions Crescents had a runner prancing on the third sack—in the first with none out and in the second with one down—but Ralph cooly turned his attention to the batters with sure results.

Frost twirled nice ball for the losers, striking out seven and giving but one base on balls. His support wobbled discouragingly in the third innings when three errors were crowded in. The Bethany hitters outguessed him at several crucial stages and most of their ten hits were sound wallops coming in bunches.

Ryley, demon second baseman, came through in his usual style with the longest hit of the game—a rousing crack into deep centre for three bases. Johnston levelled out a grooved ball for a double into left field.

A dash of excitement seized the crowd when Reynolds played hounds and hare with the whole Crescent team between first base and second. Reynolds attempted to steal the middle sack and was caught off halfway when Frost tossed to Joe Jones. Reynolds raced up and down between the players while the ball whizzed back and forth. It was thrown twelve times, five handling it and Reynolds fooled them all by landing up at second.

Bethany had opportunities to score in the first and second but their first counter did not come until the third and it was a gift. McGill first up was safe when Joe Jones fumbled his roller. Phillips was thrown out at first by Williams. Ryley was safe on Heard's error of his grounder. McGill scored when Joe Jones misplayed Dawe's roller. Johnston and Smith were both thrown out at first when Frost fielded their easy hits.

Another was secured in the fourth. Reynolds hit through second. Ralph was retired on strikes, but Walton hit a fly over third and McGill hit into left field scoring Reynolds. Walton tried to take third when Philips fly was caught by Ted Lebarr in centre, but a smart throw caught him cold.

Two more added to the total in the next frame. Ryley hit through third and Dawe was safe when Joe Jones fumbled and then threw low to first on his grounder. Johnston scored both on a double into left field. H. Smith hit, Reynolds fouled out to Lew Lebarr. Ralph smacked a hot one to Joe Jones which was grabbed on the fly by the second sacker, who doubled H. Smith alone at second for the third out.

Ryley raised it to five runs in the last innings, when first up he crashed out a triple. Dawe flied out and Vinette struck out, but H. Smith scored Ryley on an infield hit. Reynolds was thrown out at first by Joe Jones.

Neither of the two hits distributed in the sixth and seventh for the Crescents proved fruitful and the game was over.

STILL THE WORLD'S CHAMPION SPRINTER

Not only has Percy Williams proven himself to be the world's champion sprinter, but he has also shown that he is the world's champion sport.

After the unfair riding and criticism given him in the new York press he showed them where to head in by competing with the best in America at the Vancouver meet. Not many know that Williams might have been in the world spotlight a year before he did, if it had not been for the toss of a coin that eliminated him from competing in the final trials at Varsity stadium, Toronto, after travellingin across the continent to run, a year before his victory at the Olympics. The toss of the coin was against him but he only smiled and took it like a sportsman should.

Apparently there is still some feeling in the sporting crowd of New York against Williams because of his wonderful success against their athletes during his invasion of the United States last winter, and their remarks about his attempts to protect his title seem somewhat childish. And to prove that the New York sport editors do not know what they are talking about, Williams is still able to trim the best 100 metre men.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, since my last billydoo the Petes has been splitting 50-50 with the lads from the Chevrolet belt. A even brake when you're breezing along out in front is nice going, but when you're down at the foot of the column it ain't so hot at that, and Mister Swanston's lads will hafta increase the percentage from now on if they hope to get into the muss for the league playoffs.

All ain't gravy for the Petes, Mac. Mister Hap Harrison is out for the season, and any bird what sez the big 1st sacker ain't missed is crazy enough to tackle the Atlantic crossing in a sea flea. Hap has a knack of hitting them with folks on the bases, and any lad what does that is handy to have around. And the pitching dept. is giving plenty of worry. Mister Hardill, whose last appearance on the mound wasn't exactly a thing of beauty, seems to have separated himself from baseball circles, and just now Mister Macdonald is enjoying a holiday across the border, which leaves it principally up to Mister Heckman, whose arm ain't as tireless, so to speak, as it used to be back in the days when Mister Jake Solomon introduced him to baseball in these here parts.

The home fixture give the local fans their best thrill of the season, owing to the fact the lads hadda come from behind to get the decision. When they actually pushed over 7 runs in 1 frame, the customers up in the stands went wild for the 1st time this year, and altogether it was a merry and bright affair.

But Wed. was something else, the boys tossing away a perfectly good ball game after it looked like they had cuffed in enough runs to win the verdict. Oshawa could hit our Mister Macdonald often enough, but when they tried to slip over a knockout the southpaw slipped out of the corner, and he would have beat them with their 14 hits and all if the supporting cast hadn't developed engine trouble in the finishing stretch. That 8th inning in which the Motorists tied the score was a nightmare, and the last frame in which a double play that woulda cut off the winning run was balled up would make women weep and strong men tear their hair.

A feature of recent ball games, Mac, is the touchiness of some of Prexy Elliott's finely trained umpires. Here last Sat. Mister Woodley, who wears glasses all the time except when he needs them the most, tossed Mister Reg. Fair out of the pastime. I don't know what Mister Fair said to arouse the ire of the gentleman from Belleville, but offhand I'm willing to bet that anything he said was right.

Down at Oshawa Wed. Mister Ken. Colling gave the gate to Mister Legon, our agile centre fielder, for telling him to get in and umpire. Mister Colling resented the aspersion and informed Mister Legon that he was through for the day.

It's a good job Mister Jake Solomon and Mister Joe Daley, of Kingston, is out o fthe league. They'd blush to be tossed outa of a game for saying as little as that about an official.

Well, next week we hook up with Belleville twice, and wouldn't a couple wins from the leaders help a lot! What I mean.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

"Chuck" Glein of the Phillies poled out his thirty-first home run of the season with the bases loaded in the second inning, and Stephenson got one for Chicago. The Cubs paraded five pitchers, with Hat Carlton receiving credit for the victory.

HECTIC GAME AT PITTSBURGH.

PITTSBURGH, July 27. — Pittsburgh defeated Boston 9 to 8 here yesterday in a hectic game marked by rally of both teams in the final inning, and a collision between Paul Waner and Grantham, who were after a fly in short right field in the eighth. Both performers were forced to retire.

Although doctors said neither was seriously hurt, it was said Waner might be laid up several days, and that Grantham might not be able to participate in to-day's double-header with the Braves. Waner suffered a bruised left leg and right arm, and Grantham hurt a shoulder that was injured in Philadelphia three weeks ago.

Clarke, a Pirate recruit, got in the game at third after the collision, and pounded out a home that tied the score. Grantham hit into the right field stands with the bases full in the seventh.

CARDINALS' FOURTH STRAIGHT.

ST. LOUIS, July 27.—The Cardinals scored their fourth straight victory and inflicted a fifth successive defeat on the Giants yesterday by taking the first game of the series from the New Yorkers by a 4 to 3 score. Clarence Mitchell got the best of the mound duel with Bill Walker because of stronger support. The Giants outhit the Cards, 11 to 8, getting five doubles.

REDS DEFEAT ROBINS.

CINCINNATI, July 27. — Jackie May's pitching gave the Reds a 4 to 1 victory over the Brooklyn Robins yesterday in the opener of a series. May allowed only six well-scattered hits and fanned six. Cincinnati bunched hits off Doug McWeeny in the third inning to score three of their four tallies.

LEAFS BEATEN BY RED WINGS

SCORE 5 TO 0.

Rochester Makes Their 136th Double Play of Season Which is a Record.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 27. — Double plays killed off three threatening Toronto rallies here yesterday in the first game of a four-game series between Rochester and Toronto and the champion Red Wings defeated the Leafs by a score of 5 to 0. Three times the Leafs started rallies against "Tex" Carleton, the Rochester ace, and three times that infield of Rochester's applied the double killing to hold the league's runners-up within bounds and away from the plate.

The second, fourth and the fifth innings saw the Toronto threats and the Rochester remedy. The final double play brought the total of the season for the Red Wings to 136. This number promises to increase to such proportions that it should stand as a record for a good many years. The odds here are that before the season is over Rochester will have made more than 200 double plays for the season. To a large extent these two-ply killings found Toronto accepting the poor "breaks" of the game, which may account in some measure for its defeat yesterday.

Hard Luck or Bad Baseball.

For instance, in the second inning Sweeney led off with a double to left and Burke singled over second. Sweeney, however, got only as far as third. He should have scored, but that was a "break." With runners on first and third, none out and Shinners coming up, it looked mightily sweet for the Leafs. But Shinners fouled out to Morrow. Cote was the next batter and he hit a terrific liner to short. Sands was right there, caught the ball, clung to it, and threw to Collins to double up Burke. That was a break which saved Carleton from serious trouble.

In the fourth inning Richardson, the first batter up, walked. Stone then hit a grounder over first and Collins made one of the greatest one-handed stops of the season to snare the ball, touch first and throw to Sands, who touched Richardson before the Leafs' third-baseman got to second. Sweeney followed this play by doubling back to second on a ball that should have been a single. Sand and Toporcer got their signals mixed and the ball dropped safely. There were no runners on base, however, to score on this hit, thanks to Collin's great play. Burke sent a long fly to deep right, but Worthington, not to be outdone by Collins, made a great catch and another Toronto rally was nipped in the bud by great fielding.

RULING

MACHINE-RULED FORMS OF ALL kinds, in all ruling colors, are neatly and promptly attended to at The Peterborough Examiner Ltd. Intricate forms our specialty.

TOURISTS MAY CAMP IN MAINE FORESTS

The Status of Campers and Hikers Remain Unchanged.

AUGUSTA, Me., July 27—Non-resident vacationists will not be barred by the state's new fish and game laws from camping and hiking in Maine's forest regions, contrary to the belief which recently gained circulation and caused protests by organizations in all sections of the country.

Under an opinion by Sanford L. Fogg, deputy attorney general, the status of campers and hikers will remain unchanged under the new law. The decision relieves non-residents from the obligation to employ guides when tramping and camping in the Big Woods, and clears up a misunderstanding arising from a clause in the new laws relating to buildings.

HIGHWAY PARTIALLY OPENED

Progress is being made in the construction work on the Peterborough-Lindsay highway. The work on the hill outside Omemee is practically finished now and from Fowler's Corners to Lindsay the road is open. The hill has been cut down making an improvement over the former road.

There remains the detour between Peterborough and Fowler's Corners as the regular road is under construction. It is passable however, but motorists who use it will be inconvienced by the work going on.

TECO TRIMMED BY HARRISONS

SCORE 6-3.

The Teco softball team ran into Old Man Hard Luck last night when they hooked up with the Harrison crew to lose the game by a 6-3 count. All the runs for the North-Enders were scored in the first frame after which they were held scoreless by Teco. The Storemen were playing without two of the regulars for the first innings, Crary and Hall, who arrived late for the fixture, and so the team was crippled with disastrous results.

In the first frame, when the Harrison willow wielders faced Carruthers they had little trouble connecting with his offerings which mixed with errors on the part of the Teco infield lost the game for the Eaton crew.

In all ten men faced Carruthers, netting a total of six runs. Dorington, the first man up, singled, stole second, and scored on Dundas' single, who went to second by fielder's choice, stole third and came in on a passed ball. Ward flied out to second, Dobson was caught at first, while Green reached first when Westbrooke threw wild to Prick. Calladine walked, forcing Smith to second, who came in when Carruthers messed Montgomery's bunt. Calladine also scored on the play. Montgomery stole second and went to third on Smith's single and scored on Teco errors. Smith scored on Vinette's single who was left on first when Dorington up for the second time was caught out. So ended the one glorious innings for the Grocery boys. In each frame after that they had men on bases, but failed to bring them in for the counting tally.

Score Two in Third.

The Teco lads didn't score until the third when Hall reached first by virtue of Ward's error, went to second on Crary's single and scored on West brook's double. Although two were on bases they failed to score being stopped by a beautiful double play on the part of Harrison's. Dundas caught Haskill out and tossed to second to catch Westbrook off the bag for the second killing.

The next tally came in the fifth frame when Maher's hit went for a double, going to second on Ward's error and scoring by fielder's choice when Ward caught Hall out but did not have time to throw home.

The final tally of the game came when Miller connected with one of Dundas' offerings for a double and scored on Maher's hit.

Teams About Even.

It was a snappy game after the first innings when from all appearances it seemed as if the North-Enders were about to take the Teco team for a long ride, but both teams played about the same brand of ball with very little to choose between them.

Beside the double play in the innings Harrison's also pulled off a nice one in the first when Westbrook was again the victim of the double killing. Board drove a hot one to short and it looked like a safety but Vinette trapped it and hurled to first to catch Westbrook on the path between the two sacks.

The honor of a double play also went to the Eaton Company when the same thing happened. Board made a circus catch of Smith's fly and trapped Montgomery on the way to second.

The line-ups:

Harrison's — Dorington, 3b; Dundas, p; Ward, 2b; Dobson, c; Green, lf; Calladine, rf; Clark, rf; Montgomery, cf; Smith, 1b; Vinette, ss.

Score by innings:
Teco ..... 001010100—3
Harrison's ..... 60000000x—6

GRAFTONS TRIM CANUCKS 12-4

Game Was Much Closer Than the Score Indicates.

17 STRIKEOUTS.

Graftons defeated Canucks 12-4 in a fast game at Riverside Park. The game was closer than the score indicates. The Canucks were handicapped by the absence of several of their regulars.

Graftons are continuing to play a spectacular brand of ball. They are sitting up on top of the league with five wins and no losses.

Clark pitched a steady game for Graftons and was especially good in the pinches. He had seventeen strikeouts.

The Canucks used three pitchers, O'Brien, Peel, and McCarroll and of the three Peel was the best, and he is the only port side heaver in the Bantam series. "Bunt" Irmgdon played a nice game at second base for the losers; this little fellow has several years yet in Bantam and will bear watching in a few years. Graftons made a triple play in the ninth to cut short a batting rampage of the Canucks. The bases were full, Fleming hit to Clarke, Clarke to Cadd to Craig to Jay and the side was out and a dangerous rally stopped. This was the only triple play made in the city this year. These Bantams play this brand of ball all the time and should do well in the play-offs.

Umpires—Kay and Hollingsworth.

Line up:—

Score by innings:—

COGS OR BETHANY WILL BE CHAMPS.

It was a different looking ball team from the one the Cogs trimmed on Monday that Doc Hamilton had at Exhibition Park last evening against the Crescents. Percy Phillips, married man of a week, was back at third base and he played a bang-up game and the whole outfit was filled with serene confidence. They swung their bats in lustier fashion and collected ten sound hits.

Crescents have played better games than in last night's important fixture. The loss places them outside of the championship and although they have another game billed for next week with the Cogs, it has no bearing on the team standings.

Cogs and Bethany have plenty of time to decide the championship now, and the league executive might see fit to have them play a double series of home-and-home games. The fans here would appreciate two games and the same conditions are true in Bethany, while four games would aid in preparing the teams to continue in the stiff play of the O.B.A.A. play-offs.

The winner of the E.P.L. will likely be called to play the Lakeshore champs, which should be Raybestos, but it will likely bet two weeks or more before a winner is declared in that loop.

MISSED SACK AND LOST HOMER.

Many a crashing hit that was easily good for a circuit of the bases had been delegated to the ash can because the sturdy batsman neglected to touch one of the bases as he raced around. Second is the most usually skipped and that is the bag Jack Crary missed on his long clout in a junior game between Kiwanis and Lockworks this week. It was wrongly stated in this column last night, through misinformation, that Crary had knocked a home run and won for himself the many awards that interested men had donated for the first home run hitter. Crary knocked out a hit that was easily good for the round of the bases but he failed to touch second and was called out when the ball was returned to that bag; and of course his effort does not count at all.

Since the junior series here has therefore been completed without any player having slammed a homer it might be possible to hold the awards open in the provincial play-offs.

COURTS OPEN FOR TENNIS.

The announcement that the new tennis courts on McDonald street are now ready for play will be greeted with cheers by tennis players. The Lawn Bowling Club is sparing no expense or care in the building of the courts and bowling greens on their fine piece of property, and these courts are the finest in the city.

The eager bowlers who make weekly excursions out to their lot to see how the work is coming on are enthusiastic about the manner in which their new greens are shaping up. "There'll be no alibis about bumpy greens next year, those greens will be as smooth as a billiard table," one bowler reported happily.

WRIGHT AND GUEST TO-DAY.

At 4 p.m. this afternoon the feature event of the Canadian Henley regatta, now on its third day at Port Dalhousie, will be run off. Jack Guest and Joe Wright will row senior championship singles of Canada. The competition between these two Canadian scullers has been keen and many persons are still not certain which of the two is the better. This afternoon should establish that fact. Ken Meyers, noted oarsman from Philadelphia, and Joe Duncan, of Dons, Toronto, are also rowing but the race is expected to be between Wright and Guest.

LEAFS STILL WELL BEHIND

While the Toronto Leafs played the best ball of any team in the league during the recent invasion of the north by the southern nine and won 15 games against eight defeats, they cut Rochester's lead only one-half game between July 4 and July 25. When the Orioles opened the series in Toronto on July 5, the Leafs were in third place, eight games behind the Red Wings. And when Jersey City closed the series on Wednesday last the Leafs were in second place 7½ games back of the leaders. The defeat at Rochester yesterday put them still another game to the rear.

AMERICANS WIN 3 STRAIGHT

United States Are Put Back in Running For Famous Tennis Trophy.

FRANCE IN BAD.

ROLAND GARROS STADIUM, Paris, July 27.—(Canadian Press).—The United States doubles team of John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison to-day won the doubles match of the Davis Cup challenge round from Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra of France in straight sets, 6-1, 8-6, 6-4.

The victory for the youthful American team over the French pair which had scored two singles triumphs yesterday put the United States back in the running in the battle for the famous tennis trophy. However, with a lead of 2 to 1, France needed to win only one of the two remaining singles contests to-morow to successfully defend the cup.

FINAL MATCHES TENNIS TO-DAY

Dr. Wright and Frank Shields Will Contend For Singles Crown.

MISS WADE AFTER 3RD TITLE

TORONTO, Ont., July 27.—(By the Canadian Press).—To-day the last stages in the annual Canadian Lawn Tennis Championship will be fought out on the courts of Toronto Tennis Club.

The titles have already been won—the ladies doubles by Mrs. O. E. Gray and Miss Olive Wade, two Toronto sisters who yesterday defeated Mrs. H. L. Beer and Miss P. Rykert of Ottawa in the finals and the ladies junior title which went to the younger sister, Miss O. Wade, by her victory over Miss Betty Oaks, also of Toronto.

In the mens open singles the title rests between Frank Shields of New York, ranked 10th placer in the United States and Dr. Jack Wright of Montreal, Canada's no. one placed. He and Willard Crocker, who for years have been the mainstays for Canada in Davis Cup contests, will oppose Frank Shields and Don Stachan, young Philadelphia product of the famous Tilden, for the doubles title.

Miss Wade will seek her third title in the ladies singles event, her opponent being Mrs. A. Friese of Saginaw Mich., ranked 2nd lady player in the western States.

In the mens junior singles A. S. Veysey of Montreal will play A. R. Roile of Boston, Ontario junior champion, for the Dominion title.

F. C. Baggs of New York will contest the veterans singles title with with Dr. Rosebaum, also of New York, while the two together play A. E. Purkis and W. L. C. Richardson of Toronto for the veterans doubles title.

The mixed doubles event is still quite open with seven pairs still in the running.

The final rounds will commence at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

MACHINE BOYS TAKE 3-1 WIN

Take First Place in Industrial Group By Victory Over Swithmakers.

ONLY ONE LOSS.

The Machine Shop took the league leading Industrial Control team for a ride last night to win 3-1 in one of the snappiest C.G.E. softball games this season. This win puts the Machinists in first place with but one loss.

The Switchmakers pushed their lone run across in the first frame when Wilf Heffernan made first on a fumble and went to second on a past ball. He scored on Bob Batley's clean hit to centre. The side was retired on pop flies after Batley had made third on a muff by the catcher.

Tried Hard.

The Machinists worked hard in an effort to tie up the game and usually managed to get at least one man on, but to no avail. The snappy and accurate fielding of the Control crew made infield hits almost sure outs, while J. Heffernan's ability to handle bunts soon discouraged this practise.

Error Gives Break.

The break came in the sixth when Ace Powell made first on an error and went to second when Ashmore walked. King flied to third but Granger came through with a one base bingle into left field that scored Powell. Dave McCullough flied out to Larnen at centre, who made a splendid catch. There was now two out and two on bases. Clair McGillen stepped into the first ball thrown and sent a hot one between second and short to score Ashmore and Granger. Sanderson fanned.

Pitching About Even.

J. Heffernan on the mound for the losers pitched first class ball, fanning three and walking one, while his team-mates gave him almost airtight support.

Ace Powell pitching for the winners also had three strikeouts and issued one free pass. His team mates played their best ball of the season, having only two errors.

The line-up:

Machine Shop— Max Wilson, 3b.; Powell, p.; King, 2b.; Ashmore, c.; McCullough, 1b.; Granger, r.f.; McGillen, c.f.; Sanderson, l.f.; Mitchell, s.s.

Umpires—Rainey and Hedger.

CRICKET TEAMS HAVE NEW IDEA

Scoring Board Will Enable Fans To Follow Game Play By Play.

SUGGESTED BY AUSTRALIAN.

By E. S. Jackson.

TORONTO, July 27. —(Special to the Examiner, Copyright). — The latest sporting device is a cricket player board, fashioned somewhat along the lines of the Standard Baseball Player Board in use in some cities in Canada and in many parts of the United States. Whether it will ever become in use in Canada and general use in Canada and the States is a matter which time alone will tell, but in England, Australia, New Zealand, and other coutries, where important cricket matches are played and where people in all parts of the countries named closely follow the results of county and test games, the Cricket Baseball Board is in many of the larger cities of the American Continent.

The Board is the result of Yankee ingenuity, and was suggested by an Australian visiting the U. S. during the last World's Series. It will enable the cricket-lover to follow the play just as closely as the baseball fan follows his favorite game.

The position of the eleven fielders and two sets of wickets are shown on the board; the ball, a slow break or a fast straight, is seen leaving the hand of the bowler, the work of the men in the field is revealed and the runs scored, and the position of the ground to which the ball has been hit is depicted as the batsmen make their strokes. The line-up of the two teams is shown on either side of the board and the running score is also shown so that the onlooker can see at a glance how the game stands at any time during its progress. As the match proceeds the bowling analysis is also exhibited.

Apart from those who watch the board in operation cricketers in far away places can, through the agency of the telephone or radio, follow the play, ball by ball. If Jack Hobbs, at the Kensington Oval, or Wallie Hammond, in a county match in Gloucestershire, are piling up big scores, people in Kent, Yorkshire, Lancashire and other places will have an oportunity of enjoying the game as it goes on, instead of having to wait for the newspapers to tell them what the result has been.

PICTORIAL GOLF

PROFICIENCY WITH SHORT MASHIE STROKE SAVER.

The main idea in making a short mashie shot is to obtain direction. This is always a stroke saver when one is able to hit a pitch shot or a run-up right at the pin.

We must neither slice or hook a mashie pitch of short length if we are looking for direction. One must learn to take the clubhead back in a straight line and to make sure that it goes through straight on the line. Too many of us make a sloppy stab at the ball, forgetting that the pin is the object and not the green. If one practises this constantly he will not only learn to get them straight but will soon learn to judge the right distance, lay many balls dead and even hole out some. One can never hole out if off the line.

AT THE CAPITOL

"SHOW BOAT" FAMED TALKING PICTURE COMING TO THE CAPITOL MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

Unique Combination of Screen Epic and Stage Musical Extravaganza Made by Universal with Laura La Plante and Joseph Schildkraut

Seldom is a theatre afforded the opportunity of presenting to the public a motion picture of such universal merit as "Show Boat"—and accordingly, the management of the Capitol Theatre is justly proud to announce the presentation of this Universal super talking production to its patrons beginning Monday matinee.

"Show Boat" is not merely a motion picture. Besides being an intensely dramatic picturization with dialogue of Edna Ferber's famous best-seller of the same name, the production includes, in sound, all of the famous musical hits of the Ziegfeld extravaganza, "Show Boat" presented as an integral part of the program by the world famous stars who appared at the Ziegfeld Theatre, New York.

Therefore, besides seeing as living characters the immortal romance which Miss Ferber gave the world in fiction, theatre-goers actually hear the equivalent of a high-priced New York show as a part of their entertainment.

In order to procure such a program for the picture, Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, Florenz Ziegfeld, producer of the New York show, Jerome Kern publisher of the musical hits, and Oscar Hammerstein II, son of the famous impresario, combined their vast theatrical interests to reproduce in movietone the highlights of Ziegfeld's New York production to be incorporated in the picture.

"Show Boat" itself is the $1,000,000 effort of Harry Pollard to picture in lavish detail the exotic and romantic epic of the river-bank show folk. Life along the giant Mississippi is one of the most fascinating of American history, and into this colorful period came floating the glamorous stern-wheeler carrying its cargo of minstrelsy and mirth.

Golden voiced darkies sat at the gangplank crooning the tuneful melodies over the slow-moving, moonlit waters. And no less romantic than they, were the pirouetting ladies, the langorous Southern gentlemen who appeared in the melodramas aboard. The townsfolk came to the riverbanks and sat enraptured at the wonders they saw and the music they heard—marvelled as they gazed upon the beauty of Magnolia, played by Laura La Puante on the screen, and listened to the impassioned words of Ravenal, played by Joseph Schildkraut.

Such was the setting chosen by Miss Ferber for her famous novel, a setting replete with colorful drama that lends itself magnificently to photoplay portrayal. And when to this pictorial feast sound is added, the effect becomes literally indescribable. The show boat, tall stacks belching smoke and calliope screaming, rounding the bend; the darky quartet, inimitable in its melody, softly singing.

Seven months were expended in making the film version, the dialogue version and synchronizing the sound efects not only at Universal but on the Mississippi and Sacramento rivers, and exact replicas of the show boats themselves were built especially for the production. The cast headed by Miss La Plante and Schildkraut includes among others such notables as Otis Harlan, Emily Fitzroy, Alma Rubens, Jack McDonald, Jane La Verne, Neely Edwards and Elise Bartlett. Helen Morgan, Jules Bledsoe, Aunt Jemima and the Plantation Singers are seen and heard from the Ziegfeld show.

Exclusive structural and operative superiorities have definitely established Champion as the better spark plug. That is why Champion outsells all others throughout the world.

When I Beheld That Stance I Knew What Made Divots.

By Ring W. Lardner

To the Editor:

Yesterday.

Rockefeller vs. Ford.

Brisbane vs. Lardner.

Test for Heydler Plan.

Jerry Vogel is Grateful.

This writer does not wish to enter into prolonged controversy with that writer or this writer, but when that writer takes the words of as lucid and plain-spoken a citizen as Henry Ford and by means of a very free translation uses them as an argument in favor of his doctrine of thrift, this writer feels it his duty and privilege to interpret them as a boost for his own creed, which is best expressed by Horace Greeley's famous exhortation, "Young man, go to it!"

By "that writer" we mean Mr. Brisbane, as you may have guessed. Mr. Brisbane quotes Mr. Ford's statement, 'No successful boy ever saved money!' and says Mr. Ford didn't intend it literally; that he meant "it was better to spend for information merely to save a few dollars." But you don't have to spend for information; even when you ask for it in a booth, they return your nickel.

"The other 'world's richest man,' John D. Rockefeller," continues Mr. B. "He is surely 'a successful boy' and did save money. He advises young and old to save now, as he hands each one a ten cent piece with a smile worth a good deal of money." Well, John never handed me a smile, let alone a laugh, and if he did I wouldn't know where to sell it.

"Ford has high respect for John D. Rockefeller," remarks Mr. B. "He said to this writer, 'I never saw John D. Rockefeller but once. But when I saw that face I knew what made Standard Oil.'"

Now I wonder whether that is proof of high respect or just a corsage of brick presented by one Venus to another. This writer also has seen John D. only once and that was on the golf course at Ormond, too far from his to get a look at his face, but the instant I beheld that stance I knew what made divots. And though I never saw Henry Ford in my life, his picture was in a magazine with his name under it and I said to a friend of mine, E. P. Walters, who was sitting in the next cage, "Ernie, here is what makes Fords."

Mr. Ford did not go into detail as to how your successful boy should do his squandering, but it is noticeable that he issued no special warning against the purchase of an automobile. Nor is it likely that John D. will advise the recipients of his dimes and costly grimaces to eschew motoring so long as you can't run a car with buttermilk.

There is no doubt about either Harry or Jack being successful boys whether they attained success by spending or saving. The question is, how many of you guys want to change places with them? Personally this writer would like to have them both with him New Year's Eve, with a cash prize of $.10 or $1,000,000 for whichever one of the three was least anxious to get to bed.

Individuals are running amuck these days with full page ads in "Variety." Jerry Vogel has one in which he thanks nearly everybody for helping him prove in court that he was a co-author of the song "Marcheta." The jury must have been in Guam during all those years when no other tune was played. Otherwise Jerry might have not the chair.

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

FAMOUS PIGEONS ARE NOW EXTINCT

VICTORIA, B. C. July 24.—(C.P.)—The passenger pigeon, whose flocks once darkened the skies of the continent within the memory of many inhabitants still living, is apparently extinct. Naturalists have not been able to discover one living specimen for many years. From time to time observation generally discloses a mourning dove, a domestic pigeon, or possibly one of the rather scarce band-tailed wild pigeons of the British Columbia coast. Not even one of the numerous passenger pigeons once in captivity seems to have left pure-bred offspring.

Even stuffed specimens of the passenger pigeon are rare and most valuable. There are, it seems, some 300, species of wild pigeons today, notable among which is the wood pigeon of Europe, a large bird frequently observed in London parks. Apparently the only wild pigeon now in Canada is the band-tailed pigeon occasionally seen west of the Rockies. It is a bluish, slate colored bird.

It is said by naturalists that at one time vast flocks of the wild pigeons consisted of more than a billion birds. They were slaughtered in the Middle West by the millions in the last century. One year in the late eighties, the pigeon flocks still swarmed the land. The following year they had almost vanished. Despite the slaughter the sudden disappearance of the birds mystified the people, who attributed it to disease or a storm which, it was claimed, swept millions of birds out to sea. In any case what had been the most numerous bird in all the world, which has nested all the way from Moose Factory on James Bay down to the Choctaw country in the south, vanished, almost at one blow.

This deal illustrates a situation in which strong partnership suit holdings do not fit at any suit trump and are necessarily played at No Trumps despite distinct suit distributions.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction Bidding: South makes an introductory four-card suit bid of one Diamond. Opponents passing, North takes out to one Spade and South shows his second suit, Hearts, denying Spades. North, lacking three cards in either Diamonds or Hearts and having the Clubs well stopped in addition to his Spades, bids two No Trumps which concludes the bidding.

Contract Bidding: North makes a forcing take-out at Contract by bidding one trick more than necessary over South's one Diamond, thereby demanding a further bid from South. To overcall two Spades, South must bid three Hearts showing his second suit as in Auction. North now bids three No Trumps, for the reasons given above, and all pass.

The Play

East leads initially his fourth best card of the suit not bid by either adversary, the 3 of Clubs. West plays the Queen and North's king of Clubs wins the first trick. Declarer now starts the establishment of the Heart suit rather than Spades as the Dummy hand, which is long in Hearts, contains the necessary sure re-entries. He, therefore, leads the Heart 9, East plays the 4, Dummy the 2, and West wins with the Ace.

West now returns his partner's lead of Clubs, North covers with the 10, and East permits the 10 to win the trick, thus putting himself in a tenace position with the Ace and 9 of Clubs over Declarer's Jack and 7.

North leads the Heart 3, West goes up with the Jack which Declarer wins with Dummy's King and returns the 10 of Hearts driving East's Queen.

There is nothing East can do but lead a Diamond and the Declarer now lays down three Diamond and two Heart tricks forcing East to discard on the last Heart. When this last Heart is led (tenth trick) East holds the King-8 of Spades and the Ace-9 of Clubs; North, the Ace-Queen of Spades and the Jack-7 of Clubs. North discards the Club 7 on the tenth trick and East likewise a Club, the 9, whereupon North throws East in by leading Dummy's remaining Club and thus forces a lead up to his Ace-Queen of Spades. Had East discarded the 8 of Spades on the tenth trick, Declarer could not have led the Club from Dummy but would instead have led the Spade 7, going up with the Ace and dropping the King with the same result—four odd.

VETS TO PLAY IN TOURNEY

Wolfville To Be Forest Hills of Nova Scotia.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 27.—(By W. J. Foley, Canadian Press Sports Writer.)— A filip of interest has been added to the annual Provincial tennis championships at Wolfville, the "Forest Hills" of Nova Scotia, by the decision of the officials in charge to make the tournament an open one this season. Play starts Monday, August 5. On the completion of this tourney the Maritime championships will be played.

American players are expected to participate in the tournament, as well as several well known Upper Canadians. This is expected to add much to the meet as it has been some years since American or Upper Canadian racquet wielders have appeared in this Province.

Lieut. Commander Jack Edwards, former Maritime singles champion, who took a set from Henri Cochet, world's champion, at France last year in a tournament, will not participate this season, owing to the fact that naval tennis engagements have been arranged for early in August at Bar Harbor. Edwards has not participated in a Nova Scotia tournament for some years, and officials, who had expected to see Edwards in action, are doomed to disappointment.

Many veterans of the game will play at Wolfville. Among them will be A. C. Wiswell, singles champion, Hugh McLennan, highly rated youngster, Professor Mercer, W. N. Rice, former champion, and others. Mrs. Harold Jones (nee Dorothy Hawboldt), Maritime champion in 1927 and '28, will again defend her title. She was defeated last week in the Halifax County tournament by Miss Monica Helsby, who will also compete in the Provincial meet.

Nova Scotians have been very successful in Maritime tournaments in the last few years, having held the edge on New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island for some time. The New Brunswick tournament will open at approximately the same time as the Nova Scotia meet, making ready for the Maritime championships that follow immediately on the completion of the New Brunswick and Nova Scotia tourneys.

WHEN FLIES COME

into the house it is easy to get rid of them by spraying Parke's Flybane around the room; it destroys flies and insects, yet is harmless to humans and domestic animals. It is pleasantly perfumed and does not stain—40c, 75c, and $1.25.—Bond's Drug Store, George and Hunter.

In Police Court

A hotel keeper in the district pleaded guilty to selling liquor to his guests, in county police court this morning, and was sentenced to two months in the common jail with hard labor. This was the minimum penalty for the offence, since the man had not appeared on a L.C.A. charge before. He said that he had a house full of summer guests and no one to look after them. Magistrate Langley replied, "You have yourself to blame and I can't help you."

A local man pleaded guilty to consuming illegally and was fined $10. Another charged with the same offence has had two previous convictions under the Act and if found guilty will have to serve a long jail sentence. He asked for a remand without pleading to secure services of a counsel and bail was fixed at $1,000.

For four hours, Ranger Hugh Cochrane and seven men stood in the waters of the river, their heads and faces covered with cloths which they had to wet constantly while holding on to their fire-maddened horses.

Tents, axes and shovels were lost by this unit of the fire fighting force, in their mad scramble for safety.

Lovett and adjacent mining centres are in grave danger owing to the close proximity of the fire and a number of workers have been dispatched to these centres to start back-fires and to remove families from the danger zone in case the wind takes a swing round to the north east again.

speaking of the good results expected to accrue from the trip. "We found that the countries of Europe welcomed us as friends and looked upon us as people who could do something for them" he said.

Presented With Roses

In Austria and Germany we were taken in charge by the Foreign Office and every detail was taken care of for us. When we left Vienna every lady in the party was presented with an enormous bouquet of roses by the Foreign Minister.

In Germany the whole party was taken to the Temple of Aerodrome, and, as guests of the Lufthausa Flying Service, taken for a flight over Berlin.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT FARMERS' MART

With Excessive Heat, Butter Was Scarce at Weekly Offering.

An "S.O.S." appeal for more air was registered by the ladies who were selling in the basket section of the farmers' market this morning.

"If they would put some of these windows on swivels, we would be more comfortable in the hot weather," one remarked.

There was a large market this morning and plenty of produce of every type. Butter was scarce, the supply selling at 45 cents a pound, as a general quotation. Hens were 25 and 28 cents a pound. One man had young chickens for 30 cents a pound, but the regular price for these was 35 cents. Ducks were 25 and 30 cents a pound. Eggs sold from 30 to 33 cents a dozen.

New potatoes were priced from 40 to 60 cents a peck, in little and large sizes. Table turnips were a nickel apiece, string beans and green peas sold at 3 quarts for a quarter, and tomatoes were 25 cents a pound. Cabbages were 5 and 10 cents a head and cauliflower 15 and 20 cents apiece.

Cherries were 25 cents for 2 quarts, black currants 20 cents a quart, huckleberries were $1 for a six-quart basket and $1.75 for the twelve-quart baskets. English gooseberries, large and round, were 15 cents a quart box.

Raspberries sold for 15 and 18 cents in quart boxes and wild berries were 10 cents for pint containers. A ten-quart pail of the wild berries was priced at $2.

Little pigs were $12 a pair.

WATCH THE POISONS.

When you swallow carbolic acid or tincture of iodine, by mistake, you at once become alarmed and say, "Send for a doctor, I have been poisoned". For one person poisoned from these preparations, there are thousand of persons poisoned daily from faulty elimination of poisons produced by the body itself. When the kidneys or the liver are not working well they fail to carry away these dangerous poisons and the result is that you wake up in the morning with a headache, a stiff back or stiff joints, caused by poisons that remain in the system. If you wish to correct this condition, procure a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will enable the kidneys to eliminate these poisons from your body and will make you feel fit and active for any kind of work.

Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills are for sale at Lynch's Drug Store. See Mr. B. and if they fail to do what we claim for them your money will be refunded.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

Take a vacation that will benefit all the family alike—a place where there are no annoying little chores or the everlasting housekeeping routine to attend to—a place surrounded by the wild beauty of the northern woods, yet having the convenient facilities and comfortable accommodation of the city home.

Nipigon Bungalow Camp, situated on the east shore of Lake Helen in the Nipigon River district, is easily reached by Canadian Pacific Railway or Great Lakes Steamers.

French River Bungalow Camp, located on the beautiful French river a mere 200 miles from Toronto, is also served by the Canadian Pacific.

In these camps one enjoys the privacy of a cosy bungalow, comfortably furnished and electrically illuminated, with maid service to take care of details. Charges which are very reasonable are "American Plan" and meals are served in the big dining room of the Club House, or, in hot weather, out on the wide, screened, cool verandas.

Both camps have every facility for outdoor recreation such as tennis, swimming, boating, and hiking. Fishing, for which these camps are famous, is perhaps the most popular pastime. French River also boasts an excellent nine hole g f course.

For further information enquire from any Canadian Pacific Agent. He will be glad to help you.

DANCE ORCHESTRA SUNDAY PROGRAM

Will Play Standard and Classical Music at Rye's Pavilion.

Roy Locksley and his Canadians, the orchestra at Rye's Pavilion, which is making such a hit with the dancing set of Peterborough with their incomparable rythmn in syncopated music, proved last Sunday night that they were equally clever in their renditions of standard and classical music.

These players from the Uptown Theatre in Toronto, are offering a second Sunday concert at the Pavilion this Sunday, and they have chosen a program which can be appreciated by all and which should prove very entertaining.

Program.

Irish—Medley (Sawers).
Dream Princess Waltz (Aucliffe).
Sax. solo—Minuet in G (Beethoven) (Played by S. Sylvester).
Indian Love Lyrics, Amy Woodforde (Finden).
Trumpet solo — Tosti's Good-bye. (Played by Roy Locksley).
Waltz of the Flowers (Tchaikowsky)
Sax. duet—Estralita. (Played by S. Sylvester and G. Robinson).
March of the Siamese (Lincke).
Songs from the South (Foster).

CHAUTAUQUA PAYS ITS WAY

G. A. Gillespie Enthusiastic Over Reception and Thanks Supporters.

THIRTY CENT SURPLUS.

G. A. Gillespie issues the following financial statement for the Canadian Chautauqua series of programs just concluded and remarks on the fact that this is the first time that Chautauqua has ever paid its way in Peterboorugh. He says:

"I wish to thank all those who helped in the selling of tickets in making the Chautauqua a success, as I have always hoped that it would be in our city. While I have, personally, sponsored the financial burden of Chautauqua for the past three years, behind me has always been a great many loyal supporters, just as enthusiastic as I was to carry on this high-class, educational entertainment, believing that this is one of the finest mediums for building up our young people to become the best citizens of our city and of our Dominion as well."

Receipts for the year were: 523 adult tickets at $2.20, $1,150.60; 169 student tickets at $1,169; gate receipts, $197.30. Total: $1,516.90.

Disbursements were: Payment to Canadian Chautauqua Company $1,350; tax on 523 adult tickets at 20 cents, $104.60; Examiner for advertising, $40; Hydro for light, $10; Heintzman Company for piano, $12. Total $1,516.60. Balance as surplus: 30 cents.

POSITION OPEN

The Civil Service of Canada at present has a place for a dietitian, grade 1 (female) in Christie Street Hospital, Toronto. Application must be made on forms obtainable at the post-office not later than August 31.

NO CALLS.

No fire calls were received at the fire department yesterday.

GRAIN GOING THROUGH

A number of large grain trains are passing through the city daily. The wonder of passers-by was excited yesterday by one of these trains of unusual length that passed down the C.N.R. line about 11 o'clock in the morning hauled by a large Mikado-type locomotive. The line of cars stretched over a distance of more than four city blocks.

MAILS SHOW INCREASE.

Christmas time is not the only season that the Peterborough Post Office experiences an increase in its mails. The months of June, July and August also show a marked increase in the post office service. There is an increase of about 10 to 15 per cent., which is comprised mostly of personal mail and post cards addressed to the numerous summer resorts in the vicinity and to tourists who pass through the city.

WEDDING BELLS

STOTHART—PANTER.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at half-past two o'clock at St. James' parsonage, by the Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, when Ruby Thelma, daughter of Mr. F. P. Panter of North Monaghan, became the Bride of Mr. James A. Stothart, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stothart, of Peterborough.

The bride wore a lovely gown of yellow georgette with hat, gloves and hose to match, and carried a shower bouquet of Columbia roses, sweet peas and gypsophila.

The bridesmaid, Miss Mabel F. Whatley, was dressed in a gown of rose beige silk with hat, gloves and hose to match, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and maidenhair fern.

Little May Hobson was a dainty flower girl in pale pink silk dress and hat and carrying a basket of sweet peas and gypsophila.

Mr. Noble Strain acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a dainty repast was served at the home of the bride's father and later, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Whatley, Lundy's Lane. The evening was spent in dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Stothart will live in North Monaghan.

A "Dog Day" Whine

This was a torrid, typical "dog day" with the thermometer at its midsummer peak and work a relentless penalty upon the sweltering sons of Adam.

Ross Dobbin sent out a special "Stand by the pumps" order at 1 p.m. as every bath tub in the city was filled to the outlet line, and taps were left running for an extra degree of coolness from the underground circuits.

George Gillespie's ice cream plant was working at capacity, and car owners were motivated by one common, sizzling thought of their favorite lake point where the winds blow across the water and clothes are hung on a hickory or willow limb.

Even Ethel Barrymore's reducing diet with its spinach motif offered no attraction as a light lunch, and the best of cooks fell back on the delicatessen cuisine.

No tears were shed up at Reg. Turner's igloo except by the taff of delivery hands who hated to leave that frigid haven of the freezing room. If the anthracite department was utterly neglected, the ice factory was humming under the pressure of a pile of orders.

The philosopher mopped his brow and silently soliloquized on the futility of the theory of suggestion while trying to persuade himself that the heat was but a febrile figment of his imagination.

In the field the farmer sweated as he stooked the fresh cut grain, and the hired man wasn't exactly loafing in the maple shade with a jar of Falernian; but the boss may have found some slightly cooling compensation in the ascending propensity of the grain market and possibly a little satisfaction that at least his crops had not burned up like those of his distant prairie pals.

And a certain warehouse down George street where they hand out a line of bitters that isn't as innocuous as buttermilk wasn't idle either.

Walter Peters, the weather man, evidently had inside dope on this heat wave for he was somewhere on a holiday, probably remote from his recording column of mercury.

Oh, well, if July comes, the icicle days, darn them, cannot be too far behind. Or something like that.

And as for poetry:—
All in a hot and copper sky
The blazing sun at noon.
Right up above the mast it stood
No bigger than the moon.

OBITUARY

SISTER M. BERNADETTE GALVIN

At St. Joseph' Hospital, on Friday, July 26, at 5 p.m., there passed away after a lingering illness, Sister M. Bernadette Galvin. Funeral from Mount St. Joseph, Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

BIRTH.

IN MEMORIAM.

HAWTHORNE. In sad and loving memory of our dear mother Mrs T. Hawthorne, who passed to eternal rest, July 28, 1927.

When all is quiet
And sleep forsakes my eyes,
My thoughts are in the silent grave
Where my dear mother lies.

Time may heal my broken heart.
Time may make the wound less sore.
But time will never heal the longing
For the loved one gone before.

Only a step removed,
We soon again shall meet
Our own dear dearly beloved,
Around the Saviour's feet.

Thy will be done is hard to say
When one we love has passed away;
But if I trust in Jesus' name,
I shall see my mother again.
Still living, still lovely, still ours;
We leave her in the Saviour's care
Until we meet again.

—Sadly missed by Daughter and Son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. P oley.

IN MEMORIAM.

HAWTHORNE.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Hawthorne, who departed this life two years ago July 28th, 1927. Lovingly remembered by her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Monk, and grandchildren. Lionel and Tommy:

God saw that she was suffering
And the hills were hard to climb,
So he closed her weary eyelids
And whispered 'Peace be thine.'

In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly, tender, fond and true
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.

IN MEMORIAM.

HAWTHORNE.—In loving memory of my dear mother, who passed away July 28, 1927:

I think of you, dear mother,
And my heart is sad with pain
Oh this earth would seem like heaven
If I could hear your voice again.

The happy hours we once enjoyed
How sweet the memory still
But death has left a vacant chair
That never can be filled.

—Sadly missed by her son, Alfred, daughter-in-law Peggy, and granddaughter Marguerite.

IN MEMORIAM.

HAWTHORNE.—In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, who passed away July 28th, 1927.

I heard the voice of Jesus say
Come unto Me and rest,
Lay down thou weary one lay down
Thy head upon My breast.

—Sadly missed by her daughter, son-in-law and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. W. Jones and family, Gordon avenue.

IN MEMORIAM.

THOMPSON.—In loving memory of our dear father and husband, who departed this life July 27, 1927:

Our lips cannot speak how we love him,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say,
God only knows how we miss him
In a home that is lonesome to-day.

Friends may think we have forgotten you
When at times they see us smile,
But they little know the sorrow
That a smile hides all the while.
—Inserted By Mrs. Harold Davis.

TORONTO, Ont., July 29 (Canadian Press). — Eighteen lives were claimed in accidents throughout the province over the week-end Twelve of these were drownings following the rush to the beaches to escape the heat wave which made this the hottest week-end of the summer to date. Six others were killed, five of them from motor accidents.

Lake and River St. Clair accounted for three drownings and two lives were lost at Britannia. Eugene T. Mailloux, Windsor was drowned, along with his family maid, Louise Goubok, Windsor, to whom he was giving swimming instructions at Reaume Beach, Lake St. Clair, when they stepped into a dredge cut out of shallow water.

Graf Zeppelin Starts Wednesday To America

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany July 29. — (Canadian Press). Feverish activity prevailed today in the Zeppelin Company works to make the big airship Graf Zeppelin ready for her second flight over the Atlantic to America on Wednesday morning.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible, advanced the date for its departure after yesterday's successful test flight over Southern Germany showed all the new motors were working satisfactorily. Failure of the motors spoiled the attempt of the Graf Zeppelin to fly to the United States in May.

Falls From Load Of Hay

CHEST IS CRUSHED.

Had Been Helping Joseph Redmond Harvest His Crop of Hay.

Falling from a load of hay on Joseph Redmond's farm in Otonabee Township late Saturday afternoon, Charles C. McDonnell, 84 years old, was so seriously injured that his physician holds out only slight hope for his recovery.

X-ray plates at St. Joseph's Hospital disclosed a complication of injuries. Mr. McDonnell's chest was crushed in. His breast bone was fractured and some ribs broken. The right shoulder was fractured and many ligaments torn. The danger of pneumonia developing, especially in a man of his years, is an additional menace which is giving his doctor grave concern.

Mr. McDonnell has been a resident of Peterborough for many years, has a host of personal friends, and has always been highly esteemed. He lived for quite a long time on the very south-east corner of the city, on the north side of the Keene Road, a short distance west of J. T. O'Connell's residence. The McDonnell homestead has itself been a landmark. It is just across the road from Joseph Redmond's farm.

Helping Harvest Hay.

Mr. McDonnell had been working the homestead property this season, and, as he had done last year, he was helping Mr. Redmond harvest his hay crop. Saturday afternoon this job was practically completed. Mr. Redmond, his hired man and Mr. McDonnell were leisurely raking up the stray remnants of the main crop. Mr. McDonnell was building the load as the others tossed up the hay. His fall was caused by a sudden weak spell or syncope, probably caused by the excessive heat, and without any sensory warning. Recovering full consciousness shortly afterward, Mr. McDonnell had no recollection of what happened, and Mr. Redmond did not see him fall. He was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital in Belleghem's ambulance.

Mr. McDonnell's many friends will deeply regret his serious condition, which his physician describes as "very precarious." Prayers for his recovery were offered at the Church of the Sacred Heart on Sunday. This morning it was learned that he is still consolous, but that his condition is not materially improved.

NEW PREMIER TO WORK WITH SAME CABINET

Attempt To Strengthen Support With Radical Members Downed in Council.

PRESENT MINISTERS TO-DAY

Briand Will Have Socialists' Aid in Main Foreign Problems.

PARIS, July 29 (Canadian Press).—Aristide Briand, France's new Premier, will retain intact the Cabinet of his predecessor, Raymond Poincare, save that M. Poincare will not be included in it. M. Briand will hold the post of and the portfolio of Foreign Affairs, the latter of which was his in the Poincare Cabinet.

The Premier called at the Elysee Palace at noon and told President Doumergue his decision. The President concurred and then M. Briand called his Cabinet meeting for 5 p.m.

He expected to present his Ministers to the President at 5 p.m. (11 a.m., E.S.T.).

Prior to announcing his decision to the President, Premier Briand had tried to broaden his political support with addition of some Ministers without portfolio and possibly some Under Secretaries of State, all of which posts would have gone to Radical Socialist members of the Chamber.

Council Rejects Idea.

The idea was rejected, however, today at a party council. It was understood, however, the new Premier would have Radical Socialist support in the main pending problems of foreign affairs, such as negotiations with Germany, and affairs of the League of Nations.

President Doumergue agreed that the old cabinet could obtain without difficulty a vote of confidence from Parliament that would send M. Briand to the Young Plan Conference and Geneva with adequate authority and prestige.

It has been suggested that the Cabinet appear in Parliament on Friday, but it is possible that the date will be advanced although it will take some time to reassemble the Chamber of Deputies and Senate which have adjourned.

Saved Juggling.

The retention of the old Cabinet obviated the need of political juggling. As the Reparation Plan Conference is still set for Aug. 6, little time was left for party negotations which would necessarily have been long in the present state of Parliament. Had M. Briand made any changes he would have been faced with the problem of forming a cabinet on the basis of what the political leaders thought equitable.

After leaving the Elysee Palace, M. Briand said frankly that he had hoped simply to enlarge the Government's majority by the addition of men from the Radical Socialist ranks and recalled that M. Poincare himself had had this in mind.

Will Enlarge Majority.

"I regret that I could not enlarge the cabinet, but hope that it will not prevent me from enlarging the majority," said the new Premier. "My cabinet therefore is a ready-made one and remains what it was with this difference, that it no longer has at its head my friend Raymond Poincare which deprives of it of great force.

Former Premier Poincare, free from Governmental responsibility, was bright and cheerful to-day and ready for a contemplated operation.

SNAPPED ON BOWLING GREEN

Left, John J. Howden; right, D. H. (Dave) Moore. They have been active in Peterborough sports for many years. Mr. Moore was a member of the Bowling Club when its green was at the northeast corner of Simcoe and Aylmer streets, the present Y.W.C.A. site. He was recently made a life member of the Club, and is the only member upon whom this honor has been conferred. Only one other of the present members of the Club used to bowl on the Simcoe street lawn. Mr. Howden in his youth was a fine lacrosse player, but in his latter days he is an ardent curler during the winter and carries on with the bowls during the summer months.

Blazing Green Elm Trees Lights Up Dark Night

Motorists travelling the Peterborough-Port Hope Highway last night after dark were treated to a weird and wonderful phenomenon of nature. The spectacle of a green elm tree blazing like a torch.

It was another of those queer capers that are caused by lightning. Early in the afternoon, during the severe electrical storm, the tree was struck by a bolt, immediately after which it began to smolder, breaking into flame sometime after dark, to produce a fascinating spectacle.

This supposedly hardy old elm, after inspection, was found to be hollow in the centre, and filled with a punky mass that once it started to burn, continued in a bright blaze.

TOURIST BOOTH OPENED IN CITY

TO PLAN TRIPS.

The tourist information bureau built by the Peterborough Auto Club was completed last Saturday and moved to the corner of Charlotte and Monaghan road. A large sign has been erected so that tourists coming into the city will easily recognize it. The bureau was opened this morning with H. Macdonald and A. Spencer in charge. An abundance of road maps, resort maps and trail guides have been placed in the small bureau and the attendants are prepared to assist any motorists either from afar of from Peterborough.

It is planed to keep a register of all those who inquire at the booth, in order that some estimate may be made of the traffic through Peterborough. Among the services the bureau will perform, it will plan for local tourists the itinerary of any trip that they wish to make. For this research, a small charge may be made.

The Auto Club intends to make the grounds about the attractive little bureau a spot of beauty by means of flowers and cultivated lawns. The building faces the highway in a diagonal position from the corner of the lot and is readily accessible from the road.

Twelve and Half Per Cent. Decrease in Wages Was To Come Into Effect.

ULTIMATUM REJECTED.

Minister of Labor Has Made Persistent Efforts To Settle Dispute.

MANCHESTER, England, July 29. —(Canadian Press).— The biggest stoppage in the British industrial world since the famous general strike of 1926 and the greatest tie-up in the cotton industry for a decade began in Lancashire to-day with approximately half a million hands idle.

Some 15,000 mills, scattered over a wide territory but centreing in this big industrial city, were affected by the dispute in which the workers remained away from the factories rather than acept a wage cut of 12½ per cent.

The heart of the British cotton industry is faced with probably the worst time in its long and freqnently troubled history since mediation by the Ministry of Labor has failed. Figures on the number of mills continuing to work at the old rates or in which the workers accepted the cut were slowly coming in but it was estimated at noon that not more than a score of plants were operating with any degree of effectiveness.

Majority of Mills Idle

At noon it was stated the majority of mills in both the Cotton Spinners Association and the Manufacturers Association were idle.

The were made up as follows: Master Cotton Spinners' Federation had 650 mills, 55,000,000 spindles, 80,000 looms, 200,000 employees. The cotton Spinners and Manufacturers Association had 685 mills, 5,000,000 spindles, looms and 500,000 looms and 180,000 employees.

In Preston six mills were working as well as eight others in surrounding villages. Some workers arrived at the mill gates this morning without intending to work. At one mill 100 weavers went to the looms only to be told that the machinery could not be started for so small a number.

No Move to Re-open

No definite move for re-opening negotiations has been made. H. Bcothman, Secretary of the Cotton Spinners Operatives stated a meeting would be held Wednesday to consider what steps can be taken.

G. Pognon, secretary of the federation of Master Cotton Spinners, said "We are willing to meet the operatives at any convenient time fore discussion."

Thomas Ashurst, secretary of the

THREE DROWNING FATALITIES NARROWLY AVERTED IN CITY

STEPS INTO HOLE.

Three drowning fatalities were narrowly averted at Inverlea Park while the beach was crowded with swimmers over the hot week end. Only quick action on the part of a spectator, P. A. Weatherstone, old Strathconna hockey and baseball star, saved the lives of two boys, Bert Todd and Vincent Marino, on Saturday afternoon.

The water was low on Saturday and Bert Todd, a small boy who could not swim, had ventured outside of the wall to wade. This was at the northern end of the beach and although there were many swimmers, all were down near the bridge. The lad steppd in a hole and was over his depth. A playmate, Vincent Marino noticed his plight and, although not able to swim, courageously went to his rescue. The little rescurer was dragged gasping beneath the surface, and he too was in difficulties.

Attracted No Attention

No outcry had been made by either of the boys, and they had attracted no attention. P. A. Weatherstone, who was sitting on a bench nearby, was the first to notice their danger. He took off his coat and jumped in after the boys.

The water was over his depth and he had to swim. He caught young Todd by the arm and was dragging him in, when the boy gripped him tightly around the neck. Marino seized him frantically from the otherside. The man with the two boys clinging to him was forced under by their weight. His feet touched bottom and he walked along the bottom for several steps until his head broke above the surface. Almost exhausted, he brought the two lads to the bank.

Girl Saved Sunday

Sunday afternoon the beach was thronged by a crowd of bathers estimated at 700. Lifeguard Ralph Adair was aided in his duties by three volunteers. In the afternoon while most of the bathers were near the bridge a call was received from the north part of the beach. A girl was struggling in the water about thirty feet out. Stan Peryer, volunteer life guard and a fast swimmer, was the first to reach her. He made a perfect rescue bringing her to the shore with powerful strokes. Her condition did not warrant first aid.

King Victor Of Italy May Pay Visit To Pope

VATICAN CITY, July 29 (Canadian Press).—Rumors that King Victor Emanuel III. of Italy is about to make a historic call on the Pope, although denied semi-officially at the Vatican, were revived when it was learned that the Papal Nuncio to Italy yesterday visited the Pope while the Pontiff to-day held an hour's conference with the Italian Minister to Rome. King Victor Emanuel is in Rome for a service in the Pantheon on the anniversary of the death of his father, King Humbert, on July 29, 1900.

SEVERE STORMS SWEEP DISTRICT

Trees Are Uprooted By Wind and Rain, Large Hail Stones.

HOTEL IS STRUCK.

Storms swept the district with great violance over the week-end. Branches were broken and trees uprooted in many places by the force of the wind and driving rain and hail. They broke on Saturday and Sunday with especial fury over the lake district. The Buckhorn Hotel, the former Eastwood House, was struck by lightning and slightly damaged.

Hailstones the size of robin eggs fell on Saturday afternoon in the lakes along with sheets of rain. The water fell in torrents, but the lake remained comparatively calm.

Sunday afternoon another storm broke. The wind blew with terrific violence straight from the north-west, whipping the lakes into a maelstrom of white, pitching waves. All craft was forced to run for the nearest haven, and there were many narrow escapes and water-soaked voyageurs. After a half-hour the storm passed and the sun shone forth brilliantly on the rain-soaked, wind-ravaged district.

The crops were slightly damaged by the wind and hail, but not to an extent to cause serious concern.

LAKE STEAMER IS RUN ASHORE

Sixty-eight Passengers Aboard Lintonia Saved By Capt. Grey.

NO PANIC ON BOARD.

LINDSAY, July 29. — (Canadian Press).—Once more a gallant ship's Captain has won renown in time of stress aboard his craft by "holding ser nozzle agin' the bank" until the safety of his passengers was assured.

Like a drama of the sea was the adventure which befell the sixty-eight aboard the trim little steamer Lintonia, owned by Captain Grey of Sturgeon Point, while the craft was making her regular trips from the resorts in the Lake to Lindsay.

Soon after the steamer left Pleasant Point wharf fire was discovered on the deck. There was no panic, but the Commander ran his steamer into a resort known as Snug Harbor, where the passengers had to be carried a short distance through the water to the shore. It was also discovered that one of the lifeboats had caught fire and could not be used.

There was considerable excitement, but no disorder. Fire was supposed to have started from a spark from the smokestack. The blaze was extinguished before it did any great harm.

MOHAMMEDIANS SLAY 20,000

PEIPING, China, July 29.—(Canadian Press).—A message received here by the International Relief from a Missionary says that 20,000 boys and men of the mountain town of Dangar were slaughtered in a Mohammedan uprising.

PRIVATE CHICAGO YACHT YIELDS LIQUOR CUSTOMS OFFICERS

$500,00 Pleasure Craft Contained 35 Cases Rare Brandies, Champagne.

CHARGED AS RUM RUNNER.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 29.—(Canadian Press).—Assistant Secretary Lowman announced to-day that customs authorities had found 30 or 35 cases of choice liquors concealed on the $500 000 yacht Margo, chartered by Lewis Mendelsohn, seized at Detroit Saturday. Mendelsohn had chartered the yacht from its Chicago owner, and after visiting Canada docked at Detroit. Customs Inspectors were reported to have discovered the liquor in the bathroom and in a hidden compartment, under a corridor carpet. Lowman said the evidence had been turned over to the United States Attorney who would proceed against the yacht and Mendelsohn as ordinary rum runners.

The yacht is the largest vessel of its kind to be seized since the Treasury began its drive to stop smuggling from Canadian ports between Lakes Erie and Huron. The liquor seized was said to be of the choicest vintage including French brandies and champagne.

NEUTRAL ZONE ESTABLISHED

Chinese and Russian Troops Both Withdraw From Border.

FORCES 12 MILES APART.

TOKYO, July 29 (Canadian Press). —Press despatches to-day from Manchuria said that Russian and Chinese troops both were withdrawn from the border and creating a neutral zone in order to avoid clashes. Chinese troops Sunday morning started to withdraw in the direction of Khailar, leaving a small cavalry force at the border.

There were reports that the withdrawal was motivated partially by fear of a Mongol invasion which would cut them off in the rear. The Rengo despatches did not mention Russian movements but Asahi Shimbun's Harbin despatch said military headquarters there announced the Russians had withdrawn both at Manchuli and Pogranichnay under orders from Moscow.

Asahi said the withdrawals created a zone of about 35 Chinese Li, or about 12 miles separating the two forces.

LONDON IS DESERTED AS COURTS OF LAW AND PARLIAMENT CLOSE

The Weather

We have had a number of uncomfortably hot days lately. Saturday was one of them. Although the thermometer did not rise above 88 degrees, the day was exceedingly oppressive owing to the humidity. Sunday was one degree warmer (according to the thermometer (although it did not feel so oppressive as the previous day.) Saturday night was the warmest night of the present season, the lowest temperature being 72 degrees. The rainfall yesterday afternoon was .69. This brings the total for the month up to 3.34. This is a good rainfall for July, and the effect is seen in the splendid appearance of the crops in this vicinity —in no part of Eastern Ontario do the farmers' fields look so thriving as they do around Peterborough.—W.P.

FOREST BLAZE CHECKED.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 29 (Canadian Press).—Fire fighters, after struggling with threatening forest fires in the district near Coal Spur, Alta., believed this morning they had prevented any chance of the flames jumping westward into large areas of valuable timber land. The steady advance of the conflagration was blocked Sunday night by a wide strip of muskeg and the menace was practically eliminated to-day.

TAXI KILLS CHILD

TORONTO, Ont., July 29.—(Canadian Press).—Darting out from the curb, Margaret Burke, 4, sustained fatal injuries this morning when she was struck by a taxi cab. John Mason, driver of the taxi, is held by police, pending investigation. A ten year old boy was the only witness of the accident.

Society Moves To Sussex For Race Meet Opening at "Glorious Goodwood."

VISITORS RETURN HOME.

(By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Correspondent.)

LONDON, July 29. — With Parliament adjourned for the summer and the law courts emptying on Wednesday, London is rapidly becoming deserted, so far as society is concerned. A phenomenal demand for return passages on liners crossing the Atlantic from visitors from Canada and the United States is being experienced.

Society moves to "Glorious Goodwood" for the famous race meet which opens there to-morrow. Though the great social event of this time of the year Goodwood never really attempts to vie with Royal Ascot, a month earlier, as a fashion display. A tailored costume rather than frills and furbelows is invariably appropriate for this pleasant Sussex meet and will be still more suitable under the present rather unfavorable circumstances.

King of Egypt Present.

Princess Mary and Lord Lascelles, with King Fuad I. of Egypt, are expected to be the guests of the Duke of Richmond during the race meet.

The Steward's Cup, over the six-furlong course, is the big feature at Goodwood. Run to-morrow, it will attract a field of the finest handicap horses on the English turf.

Few Shooters for Grouse.

Grouse shooting opens on August 12 and although prospects for the sport are promising, it is believed many moors, both in Scotland and the north of England, have failed to secure tenants. Renting a moor and the subsequent entertaining attached to it, is an expensive matter.

The supposition is that the uncertain industrial and political outlook are partly responsible for this season's slump.

TWO PRISONERS ARE KILLED WHEN CONVICTS ATTEMPT BREAK FROM AUBURN STATE PRISON

Inmates and Guards Stage Desperate Battle To Gain Freedom.

MACHINE GUNS USED.

Situation Reported Under Control After Five Hours of Rioting.

AUBURN, N.Y., July 29 (Canadian Press).—Following the example set by their fellow-convicts at Clinton Prison, Dannemora, last Monday, more than 1,700 inmates of the Auburn State Prison battled for more than five hours yesterday, using rifles, pistols and fire, in a desperate attempt to gain their freedom.

When guards and convicts alike drew back to reorganize their forces after the bitter fighting of the first five hours the results of the attempted prison-break were:

Two Convicts Killed

Two convicts killed.

Four guards shot, one seriously.

Eight convicts believed to have escaped.

Approximately 40 convicts entrenched in the prison clothing shop, armed with rifles and three machine guns.

A fire loss of approximately $250,000.

The dash for liberty, believed to have been carefully planned for weeks in advance, began shortly after the dinner hour, when a trusty shot down a warder in charge of the prison key room and obtained keys to the room in which were kept the institution's guns.

Four Prisoners Escape.

Gathering around him several desperate life-termers, the trusty led his small army toward the front gate. Four of the men went through the gate, stole two automobiles and made their escape. The others returned within the wall to direct the 1,772 other convicts in a battle to wrest control of the prison from Warden Edgar S. Jennings and his guards.

The furniture plant, auto-plate shop, prison kitchen and the Bertillon establishment, with all the records of prisoners at Auburn, were set on fire, and the power and electric lights were cut, as were the gas pipes.

Heavy Smoke Screen.

The heavy smoke screened from view the activities of the revolt leaders, and firemen were called from Syracuse and other near-by places to fight the flames. Confederates of the prisoners cut the hose lines outside.

After five hours of rioting, Warden Jennings reported to the State Department of Correction at Albany that the situation was under control, that most of the prisoners had been returned to their cells, and that a check-up was being made to determine the exact number of prisoners who had escaped.

It was believed, however, that some of the fiercest fighting of the day was yet in store for the guards, reinforced by State troopers, when they should attempt to dislodge the convicts who had taken sheiter in the clothing shop.

There still remained before the harassed guards the problem of routing the convicts entrenched in the clothing shop, the hunting down of isolated groups in various sections of the prison enclosure and the check-up to determine the exact number of those who had escaped during the turmoil.

Last Monday more than 1,500 convicts in Clinton Prison, Dannemora, led by a group of "lifers" and others serving long terms, made a fierce and concerted attack on the prison walls. When they were driven back by shotgun fire the baffled convicts rioted for more than five hours before they were forced back into their cells.

Grapevine Telegraph.

Official reports had no sooner carried the news of the attempted prison break to the officers of the other State prisons than the "grapevine telegraph," that mysterious means of communication known only to the unerworld, had conveyed the report of the affair at Dannemora to the convicts in other prisons.

The match was applied here today. This quiet up-State city was aroused by a muffled pistol shot from

WESTERN PARK IN FIRE'S PATH

Volunteers From Twin Cities Holding Own in Fighting Forest Blaze.

THREATENING COTTAGES.

FORT WILILAM, Ont., July 29 (Canadian Press). — All the fire rangers' pumps and equipment available as well as the city brigades of Fort William and Port Arthur were bending strenuous efforts last night to saving Chippewa Park from flames

More than 8,000 feet of hose were playing upon the flames, which, fanned by a strong wind from the west were threatening the cottages at the park, though the efforts of the fire fighters were meeting with marked success in keeping the fire back. Water is being pumped from Lake Superior.

On Saturday morning the fire broke out in the forest some miles in the rear of the park, and Arthur Widnall, the parks manager, with many volunteers, succeeded in keeping the fire from advancing.

KNOCKERS SAY CANAL SCHEME NOT FEASIBLE

Book of Brooking Institution Raps Whole St. Lawrence Idea.

PROJECT UNSOUND.

Not Enough Industries in Canada Or U. S. To Absorb Power Developed.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 29.—(By Kenneth S. Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—The Institute of Economics of the Brookings Institution has reached the conclusion that the St. Lawrence deep waterway and power scheme is not at the present time desirable or feasible. Its analysis and conclusions are set forth in a book entitled "The St. Lawrence Navigation and Power Project" by Harold G. Moulton, president of the Institution, and Charles S. Morgan and Adah H. Lee.

These pessimistic analysts find the development would cost roughly one billion dolairs, of which 614 millions are assignable to navigation and 385 millions to power development. Annual overhead charges to navigation are estimated at 36 million dollars. A depth of 33 feet is found necessary for navigation purposes compared with the 27 foot channel proposed by other investigators.

Used By Tramp Steamers.

Discussing probable traffic over the route the writers find that it would be used only by tramp and coastwise vessels and estimate that 10,500,000 short tons of traffic might use the waterway if it were completed by 1940. Of this total, it is assumed that 60 per cent. represents grain of which two-thirds would be of Canadian origin. The contention is that the value of traffic compared with overhead charges would make the project unsound from an economic standpoint.

Not Enough Industries.

With regard to power production, the Institute asserts that there are not at present either in Canada or the United States industries of magnitude able to absorb the amounts of power which would be available. Exploitation at the present time would be premature, the investigators find, although development in the course of time will undoubtedly be economically profitable.

CAMPBELLFORD LEGION HONORS HER GREAT WAR HEROES

Wreaths Are Placed On Memorial By Legionaires and and Friends.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 29.—Examiner Staff Correspondence—Memorial service are not new to Campbellford, but the service yesterday afternoon carried a touch of reality that will not soon be forgotten by the many hundreds who were present. Amid a driving deluge of rain, the veterans marched from the Cenotaph to Christ Church Cemetery and then to Mount Pleasant. With all the coolness they had displayed on the battlefields of the Great War and without the slightest sign of hurry because of the drenching cloud burst, they carried out their ceremonies at both cemeteries. Because the afternoon had been extremely warm at first, the regimental band appeared on parade without tunics. They might have been expected to take shelter from the storm, but they did not. Many of the bandsmen are veterans. They set the example to the younger members. With drum heads so wet they could scarcely be made to sound, and with instruments that refused to function properly because of the wet, they continued in the line of March, playing quite as though the day had been the brightest and finest possible.

Sponsored By Legion

The service was sponsored by the Campbellford Branch, 103, of the Canadian Legion, and by the Campbellford Lodge, 248, I.O.O.F. Before the parade formed at the corner of Front and Bridge streets, the Legionnaires visited the Roman Catholic cemetery to decorate the graves of their comrades there. The Rev. Father Phelan, Priest of St. Mary's Parish, was present to conduct a brief service to express his feelings of appreciation to the Legionnaires for the act of remembrance of their comrades, now deceased.

Nothing could have been more impressive than the service at the cenotaph at three o'clock, when citizens and hundreds of Old Boys and Girls as well as visitors to the town, paid their respects again to the memory of the men who gave their lives for their country. There are seventy names on the stone monument. They are all men from Campbellford and vicinity. When the parade arrived the band took up its position to the north of the enclosure. The Legionnaires occupied the west and part of the north sides. The members of the I.O.O.F were lined along the south side. At each corner of the concrete square inside the fence, was a sentry of the guard of honour. The firing party occupied the position on the east side of the memorial, inside the fence.

At the opening, wreaths were placed on the memorial. There were four of these: the Campbellford Branch No. 103, Canadian Legion. B.E.S.L.; In memory of William and Ernest Doxsee from Maud, Grace and Matt, G. E. Doxsee from wife and daughter. The service proper was opened with the singing of the hymn, O God Our Help in Ages Past, followed by a prayer by the Rev. Dr. Mark, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and the Lord's Prayer in unision. The scripture lesson was read by the Rev. L. M. Smith, minister of the Baptist Church. It was taken from

Guest Defeats Wright For Can. Senior Singles

ST. CATHARINES, July 29. (C. P.) — Bending to the oars with machine-like precision, on the roughest water that has ever "tagged" the Canadian Henley course, Jack Guest on Saturday sculled his way to victory and fame, when he swept in ahead of Joe Wright, Jr., by three full lengths, and thus won the Dominion senior singles championship.

For one day at least Guest ruled alone. The favoring breeze did not worry him to any extent; he sculled swiftly and true and it was apparent to all before the race had been half run that he would be the victor.

DROUGHT ENDS OVER ENGLAND

Rain At Last Breaks Terrible Dry Spell, Worst in London's History.

EXPECTED TO CONTINUE.

LONDON, July 29 (By Thos T. Champion — Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—The windows of heaven have at last been opened on these islands. A sudden and unheralded end of the drought has brought relief to thousands of agriculturists and to the worried water supply authorities of innumerable municipalities, great and small. The rain, which is expected to continue, breaks what, in London at least, has been the longest drought experienced.

Many great towns had been cutting off water supplies during the night, and anxiously arranging for emergency supplies from any possible source, in some cases hundreds of miles distant. Down in the southern counties farmers on the higher land had secured water for domestic and agricultural purposes by cart from the nearest supply.

TACOMA FAILS IN TAKE-OFF

Lieutenant Harold Bromley, of Victoria, B.C., Is Uninjured.

SPECIALLY BUILT RAMP.

TACOMA, Wash., July 29. — The monoplane City of Tacoma was wrecked yesteray morning at Tacoma Field when Lieutenant Harold Bromley started on his scheduled non-stop flight to Tokio. Pilot Bromley, who is a native of Victoria, B. C., was not injured.

Disaster ended the flight abruptly. The huge orange monoplane had cleared the specially built ramp and travelled about 150 feet down the runway. It swerved, and turned over on its right wing.

Leaps from Cockpit.

Bromley leaped from the cockpit confused but unhurt. He explained later that he had been blinded by spray from his capacity-filled gasoline tanks.

The plane hurtled off the ramp at the beginning of the runway at six o'clock at a good speed, but seemed to slacken its pace just as Bromley was starting to lift the tail of the ship off the ground. Less than a minute from the start of the run the plane turned its course and plowed into the soft soil at the left of the edge of the oiled runway.

The swerve caused the wreck. The right wheel of the landing gear crumpled and the ship nosed into the ground, demolishing the right half of the undersiung wing and shattering the fuselage, making a twisted mass of plywood and steel of what had been a $25,000 airplane.

"I'm Not Hurt."

Aviators who saw the accident marvelled that the plane did not catch fire. Those who first reached the wreck found Bromley standing on the ground clear of the wreck. "I'm not hurt," were his first words.

Lieutenant Bromley, who had been rushed immediately to a hospital for examination for possible hurts, heaped blame for the accident upon himself.

"I should have known enough to cut out the motor at the bottom of the ramp when the gas first sprayed back from the fuselage tanks," he declared.

The take-off started under perfect weather conditions. Some 20,000 persons who had spent the night at the field, to see the take-off, lined the fences along the mile-long runway almost before dawn.

CANADIANS WIN FIVE MAIN TITLES IN ANNUAL TENNIS TOURNAMENT

OLIVE WADE ADDS TO TITLES

TORONTO, July 29.— (Canadian Press)—All five main events in the Canadian Lawn Tennis Championship this year were won by Canadians in the annual tournament completed on Saturday on the courts of the Toronto Tennis Club. Last year old one title—the Ladies' Junior Singles—remained in the Dominion and that was won by Miss Olive Wade, who, playing as 16 years of age on Jan. 1 this year, successfully defended her junior title and added to it the Open Ladies' Singles title and, with her sister, Mrs. O. E. Gray, the Ladies' Doubles Title.

Wright Stars

Greatest triumph of all, though, was the victory of Jack A. Wright of Montreal in the Men's Singles event, in which he not only vindicated his right to be ranked as No. 1 Canadian, but defeated two of the first ten ranking players of the United States—Johnny Doeg of Santa Monica, No. 7 on the official U.S. list, and Frank X. Shields of New York, No. 10.

Wright's defeat of the last named in the finals on Saturday afternoon was the most brilliant performance in his tennis career and was undoubtedly one of the headiest performances seen for many years on Canadian Courts.

OUR CHILDREN

SUMMER DRINKS

Summer is a thirsty time. Children drink the well dry and cry for other wells to drink. Water is above all the very best drink in the world. That is, it ought to be. But sometimes it isn't. Sometimes water is not clean enough to drink. Do you know what kind of water your child is drinking by the pint today? He is flushing his body steadily with drinking water. W. t do you know about its purity?

City water is usually all right. But city children go out on trips and of course carry their thirst along with them. It is natural that they drink at the first opportunity. That may be a puddle in a ditch, a most inviting puddle, but dangerous. It may be they stop and drink from the well of a deserted house. That is also very natural and highly dangerous. Perhaps it is a wayside stand that invites him. Watch out. Is the water clean? How do you know? And the pop? Did you ask for a particular brand and did you read the label to see that you got what you asked for? It is worth while to do so.

A change of milk is a serious matter. Do you know where the milk your children drink comes from when they are away for the summer? It is one thing to have the milk certified as it is in town and quite another when it is brought directly from this farm or that. Look into the condition of the farm, its cows and barns and the like, when you use its milk for your children.

If you are out on a day's trip in the country and cannot make sure of the purity of the water supply, take it along with you in cool bottles. Boil any water that you have to take from uncertified sources. Scald all such milk, too. And then investigate these things before you settle down for a vacation in the country.

Orange juice, squeezing your own oranges, and lemon juice, grape juice, any kind of fresh fruit juice, gives flavor and nourishment to summer drinks. Eating is hard work for little children in hot weather and a good drink is a good portion of a meal, provided it is made right.

Teach the children to be careful this summer, of what they drink and where they drink it. Warn the hiker and the camper about typhoid. Warn them about drinking milk that does not come out of a bottle bearing a familiar label.

Then go a bit further. When children swim they swallow some of the water as a usual thing. Unless the water is clean they are very likely to have trouble. Not only are they in danger of having severe illness but they are like likely to have skin trouble as well. Teach them to question about the swimming place and make certain it is clean before they swim in it. Children think that all water has cleansing power and unless the danger is explained they will swim anywhere that offers water deep enough.

There is no need of making any mistake. Water is certified; bottled drinks are certified; so is milk. So are swimming pools and beaches. But one must use the certified ones and let the others go by. Better nurse a thirst than a fever.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG, That old and antique song we heard, last night.

"A HERO ALL FOR LOVE"

(Contributed by 'Beatrice')

With in dreary prison cell a young man sat alone,
And in repentance sadly bowed his head,
As once more he recalls the smiles of one who was his own,
Who now perhaps was mourning him as dead.
One month before he'd forged a note, and thereby did obtain
The needed wealth to make her his for life;
A criminal they hold him now, his heart near broke with pain,
Unknown to her who was his promised wife.

The scene is changed; the prisoner now, with other heroes true,
Is fighting to defend his native land;
Escaping from his prison cell, he's donned the soldier's blue
And desperate is the task they have on hand;
Upon the gory battle field all danger he defies,
And by his brav-ry wins undying fame;
The pardon that awaits him now he deems a worthless prize
Compared with her whose love he now can claim.

Chorus

For he did it all for love,
For one he loved dearer than life,
The one sweet girl he fondly wished
To make his loving wife;
With thoughts of her, his loved one,
As fair as the sunshine above,
Midst dangers and strife
He risked his young life,
A hero all for love.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

(This story is taken from life. Among the gallant marines who established and held Camp McCalla, at Guantanamo, Cuba, was a young recruit whose mysterious air caused his comrades to name him 'The Sphinx'. When the time for action came, however, the 'Sphinx' showed his true mettle by rescuing an officer who was left for dead on the field, to do this he fought and vanquished five of the enemy. It was afterwards discovered he was an escaped prisoner. In recognition of his heroism he was pardoned and was eventually reunited with hs fiancee, who had mourned him as dead for many months.)

NORMAL WAIST

Tuck-in blouses are emphasizing the normal waistline. A bright blue flat crepe frock with a two-ruffle peplum is shaped princess line to mark the normal waistline.

TRIANGULAR PURSE

The modernistic theme is pursued in a Parisian bag of black and white kid which is joined to form a triangular shaped purse. The clasp is of ivory.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

LOTS of people will probably disagree with what I am going to write to-night. That's a fine way to start an article, isn't it?

* * * * * * *

But my advice is workable, and every woman knows, down in he heart that she has to learn the fine art I'm suggesting if she is to get through life the best way, and get out of life all that it has to offer.

* * * * * * *

Flatter! That's my advice. There's nothing fine or high-minded about it; it's true but it is necessary.

* * * * * * *

Because we are all menable to flattery; we're built that way. The thin woman knows she's thin, but she appreciates a reference to her girlish figure. The sour woman smiles when she is praised for her courageous candor. The miserly woman purrs when someone refers to her penny-pinching as admirable thrift.

* * * * * * *

And how smooth these harmless remarks help to make the pathway of life!

* * * * * * *

Some people are on their guard, of course, and the flattering must be administered in small, careful doses. Maybe the indirect method will be most effective—a request for advice, for instance, may flatter more than an hour's discourse on the listener's excellencies.

* * * * * * *

Just as sure as cats will purr when stroked, women and men will expand and unbend when flattered in the right way.

* * * * * * *

And I see nothing wrong in it when the object is an honorable one.

* * * * * * *

There's one admonition to be heeded, though. On the three gates of Busyrane are inscriptions. On the first gate: "Be bold!" on the second gate "Be bold, be bold, and evermore be bold!" and on the third gate: "Be not too bold!"

* * * * * * *

The way to success and ease in life is to flatter; to flatter, and evermore to flatter; but flatter not TOO much!

* * * * * * *

Having taken cognizance of the susceptibilities of others, we should ourselves be on guard against flattery, because liking for flattery is a weakness.

* * * * * * *

No one is immune to flattery; no one every does become immune. But you may lessen your weakness.

* * * * * * *

Never seek flattery; and knowing the uses of falttery, beware of the the woman who flatters!

* * * * * * *

A neighbor has written to ask about helps, thinking that they have been discontinued. I am explaining that I will continue them.

* * * * * * *

Those helps prepared by Marion, listed in the coupon, may be had as long as they last, and within a couple of weeks I will have a new series planned.

Please be patient until I find my depth!

TRUE LOVE.

("Pest.")

I think true love is never blind,
But rather brings an added sight,
An inner vision quick to find
The beauties hid from common sight.

No soul can ever clearly see
Another's highest, noblest part;
Save through the sweet philosophy
And loving wisdom of the heart.

Your unanointed eyes shall fail
On him who fills my world with light;
You do not see my friend at all,
You see what hides him from your sight.

I see the feet that fain would climb;
You but the steps that turn astray;
I see the soul, the unharmed, sublime:
You, but the garment and the clay.

You see a mortal, weak, misled,
Dwarfed ever by the earthly clod;
I see how manhood, perfected,
May reach the stature of a god.

Blinded I stood, as now you stand,
Till on mine eyes, with touches sweet,
Love, the deliverer, laid his hand,
And lo! worship at his feet!

THAT BODY OF YOURS

DEVELOPING CHILDREN INTO NORMAL ADULTS.

One of the natural little mistakes mothers make in their endeavor to keep their little youngster in his or her own yard to play.

A sand pile is built in a corner of the yard, with perhaps a little swing or other apparatus also.

The mother feels that with a yard thus equipped the youngster is getting the necessary air and chance to play.

Now it is the period before the child goes to school that is really the most formative, the most important from the brain standpoint, of its whole life. And although it gets a chance to exercise its body, and brain also, in the use of the little play yard and its equipment, it is missing nevertheless the most important factor in its development and that factor is the presence of other children.

Now your youngster is normal mentally, physically, and morally, or he is not.

If he has any physical peculiarity such as lameness from meningitis, perhaps one eye turned in slightly, is very vert fat or very, very thin, has very red hair or long curls, anything in fact that will cause comment, he should get used to that comment instead of having the mother shield him at everyturn.

Of course anything that can be corrected should be done. There may be conditions glandular ot otherwise, that may be helped.

Perhaps he is overbright, or not as bright as a normal child his age. The presence of the youngsters cannot harm the bright boy and helps to sharpen the one who is less bright.

If the youngsters has little "behaviorisms" such as a violent temper, selfishness, cruelty towards animals, he learns that the other youngsters expect him to "play the game" or they will not play with him.

He learns that he must not tun to his mother with a complaint about this, that, or the other playmate, because his mother proves him to be in the wrong most of the time.

The thought behind this of course is that mental cases at any time are just individuals who have not been able, or will not try ,to take their place in the world with other people. Very few of them are dangerous. Most of them don't want to shoulder responsibilities.

And the greatest opportunity to develop the ability to take their natural place, is when they are youngsters at play.

SUPERB—SMART MATRON.

THE STYLE No. 2833 proves how utterly slim and smart one can appear by choosing the right dress. Its lines are simply superb for smart matron. The soft prettiness of the double jabot frill that assumes deep V-outline makes you forget all about the width through bodice. The circular cut of skirt is clever with grouped plaits at front stitched part way so as to retain slenderness through hips. For summery sports wear for beach, you'll like it of printed voile in beige and brown tiny checked pattern with plain voile in flattering beige shade for contrast. A tub silk in sailor blue with white scatter dots with plain white silk trim is effective. Flowered chiffon or georgette crepe in Royal purple is charming for dressy occasions.

THE PATTERN is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust. It is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew. The Picture Chart will save time in the making, and help you obtain a perfect fit. These Pictures show plainly how each part is joined.

NEW SUMMER FASHION BOOK is just filled with Paris and New York styles attractively presented and cleverly adapted for the use of home sewers. A book far superior to all previous issues. Price 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

CHURCH SERVICES.

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN.

The guest-preacher at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church yesterday (in the absence on vacation of Rev. William Allan) was Rev. Dr. John Gibson Inkster, of Knox Church, Toronto. A fine congregation heard the well-known divine deliver his morning sermon on "The Mystery of Suffering" (Rev. 7, 14). He gave examples of blessings, which were gifts from God, following up with instances of sorrow and suffering—also gifts of testing from on high—which we, who experienced them, thought were far from being pleasant. Dr. Inkster told of many cases of severe bodily illnesses which to him were lessons of grace and hope in his duties, from the fact that the sufferers were "smiling through."

Nathanael the Doubter.

To an interested though fairly large congregation, Rev. Mr. Inkster took the subject of Nathanael as recorded in John 1, 45-51—the story of Philip finding this fine Jewish character. Three phases of his make-up were brought out—first his doubt. When told by Philip of having seen Jesus, Nathanael doubted the information. In these days the people of Galilee had no dealings with the Samaritans. To reach the Temple for worship the Galileans could travel the route through Samaria but owing to the prevailing unfortunate circumstances, the longer road round the disliked land was traversed, with the result, like people at the present day with cars, they seldom entered the Temple to worship God. Nathanael was one of the non-churchgoers, probably, hence his doubt. He asked Philip, "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" Dr. Inkster said this was making Philip a liar, and also implied that Christ was an imposter. Philip used great tact by saying, "Come and see"—the use of the best argument to a doubter, the gument of experience. We should first have that experience before we try to vince one who doubts. And Christ held up that one virtue of Nathanael, forgetting the imputations against Himself, "Behold, an Israelite in whom is no guile." God detects that one virtue in each of us.

Nathanael's Confession.

It took a great mind and power to confess Christ, as Nathanael had his heart searched, and he received the Christ and acknowledged His sovereignty in these words, wonderful in their great compliment: "Rabbi, thou art the Son of God; thou art the King of Israel." This was truly a great confession.

Nathanael's Faith.

Concluding a beautiful and appealing discourse, Dr. Inkster said the third attribute of Nathanael was his strong and immediate faith. He was standing in the supernatural presence of God, and only then could he have this great factor. His great ancestral father, Jacob, saw in a dream the angels ascending and descending from heaven. God promised Nathanael the sight of the heavens in the real sense—not in a dream. Everything would be linked with heaven—sin alone keeps the earth and heaven from meeting even now; but this will be accomplished in God's good time, as we have faith like Nathanael's. Social service by legislation, said the preacher, seems to be the cause of an increase of sin. Legislation will never banish sin by means of social service. We need to adopt the method of Nathanael's conversion, to gain his faith, and then will follow the wilderness becoming a paradise, when God is there with His people.

PETERBOROUGH'S CADETS.

From the number of awards won by Peterborough Public and High School cadets at Barriefield Camp it is evident that cadet training is carried out in this city in a thoroughly effective manner.

The prizes won for general efficiency, marksmanship and for camp cleanliness and order are most creditable to the successful cadets, as well as indicative of the thoroughness of the instruction they have received from those responsible for their training.

There are varied opinions about the value of the cadet movement, but at least all parties can agree on the statement that a thing that is worth doing at all is worth doing well, and Peterborough's cadets have done well.

To capture so many prizes in competition with cadets representative of all Eastern Ontario is an achievement upon which both the boys themselves and their instructors are to be congratulated heartily.

THE SASKATCHEWAN SITUATION.

The attempt of the allied opposition groups in Saskatchewan to secure the dismissal from office of the Gardiner Government has failed, Lieutenant-Governor Newlands having decided that Premier Gardiner, as the leader of the largest party elected, should have the right to meet the Legislature and let the members decide the course of events.

That decision is constitutional beyond a doubt, but the wisdom of Mr. Gardiner in following such a policy when he is to be faced by a united opposition of 35 members against his own following of 26 is open to question.

The Conservatives, Progressives and Independents, having joined their forces and agreed upon Dr. Anderson as the leader of the United group, the Government faces sure defeat when the Legislature meets.

Why then should the expense and delay inseparable from calling a special session of the Legislature be forced when the sporting thing would be to follow the Baldwin example, acknowledge defeat and let the opposition try its hand in running the business of the Province?

Clinging to office under the circumstances is a short-sighted course that cannot possibly accomplish anything.

THE CONSERVATORY ORCHESTRA.

The concert given by the Male Voice Choir, under the direction of Martin Chenhall, and the Conservatory Orchestra, under the leadership of Rupert Gliddon, in Victoria Park on Friday evening was a thorough success, and local music-lovers would undoubtedly welcome another such opportunity to hear these splendid organizations.

The choir is heard each year in concerts, it is true, but the Conservatory Orchestra has not been before the public a great deal recently, and an intimation from Mr. Gliddon that several concerts will likely be given during the coming winter, will be received joyfully by local citizens.

The educational as well as the enjoyment value of programs such as the orchestra will offer in these concerts make them important musical events that will be awaited with a good deal of pleasurable anticipation.

Lovers of good music, fortunately, seems to be on the increase.

The radio, despite the amount of jazz it supplies to the undiscriminating listener-in, has developed a taste for the better things in music, and consequently such organizations as the Conservatory Orchestra have a new field of useful service before them.

It is to be hoped that the present plans will mature and that Mr. Gliddon's musicians will be heard during the winter season.

UNLICENSED DRIVERS.

A check-up in the Stratford district has already resulted in 40 motorists being summonsed for being unable to produce drivers' licenses when called upon by the police to do so.

The Examiner feels quite sure that similar results would follow in every other part of the Province were the officials to begin a drive upon unlicensed motorists.

In short, the regulation is of little use as a factor in the safety situation because the Government's chief concern seems to be over the revenue-producing value of the measure rather than making it an effective check upon motorists generally.

If there are 40 people in one small city driving without the permit the law says is necessary, the total throughout Ontario must be large indeed.

Mr. Henry's department should make the law mean something or drop it.

It is not fair that careful, law-abiding citizens should have the trouble and expense of securing a driving license when they are endangered on the highways by reckless motorists who ignore the law, keep their money in their pockets, and drive as though there was no such thing as traffic laws.

There are far too many unlicensed motorists, and Mr. Henry should snap out of his slumber and see that they are made to pass the test and pay their permit fees.

OPENING UP THE NORTH.

There is usually something of a romantic interest attached to the annual report of the Hudson's Bay Company which holds a unique place in Canadian commerce. In the remarks made at the annual meeting in London recently by the governor, Mr. Charles V. Sale, some interesting comment is made regarding the development of the north and the completion of the Hudson's Bay Railroad when he said:

"The steady invasion by travellers and prospectors of regions regarded hitherto as remote, is a noteworthy feature of the present time and a precursor of change. The last section of railway from the prairie lands to Hudson's Bay, projected so long ago, reached Churchill on the 29th March. The temporary roadbed laid on the frozen soil is now being replaced by the permanent way, and in a few months the line will be ready for general use, but a much longer interval must elapse before the port works are sufficiently advanced to take care of traffic. The opening of this channel of communication will have important consequences, since it shortens the distance from Great Britain to the centre of the North American Continent. Originally, the line was designed as an outlet for grain, but that was many years ago, before the Canadian Pacific Railway and the later on the Canadian National Railway, together with the elevator companies, had perfected the intricate system of collection, storage and transport, by routes open for a much longer period of the year than that via Hudson's Bay. Nevertheless, this new line has already justified the courage and faith of the Minister of Railways by the opening up of rich mineral areas, and in my opinion, it will have another result of wider consequence to British trade. For, as it shortens the overland haul from the ocean to the central parts of North America, it will draw an inflow of merchandise through Churchill, not to Canada only, but to the United States as well. And, if we narrow our outlook to our own immediate concerns, it is of importance to us, since it opens up the north."

This view from the head of a company so closely connected with the trade of the north is interesting and the opinion expressed by the governor that it will draw an inflow of merchandise through Churchill not only to Canada but to the United States indicates great possibilities for the new port and the new route. While Mr. Sale does not appear to attach great importance to the road as a grain route, he does feel that its value in opening up the mineral lands of the north and as a carrier of merchandise from Europe has made it well worth the expense of building.—Monetary Times.

NEW CANADIAN INDUSTRIES.

When Canadian industrialists and capitalists are to be found devoting more and more attention to the development of new industries and to the utilization of a greater number of the natural resources of the Dominion, it is a sign that there is no want of enterprise or faith on the part of the Canadian people and that the numerous opportunities for adding to the industrial structure of the country are not being neglected.

In its current issue, "Agricultural and Industrial Progress in Canada," a C.P.R. publication, tells of two new industries which have sprung into existence with every hope of profitable operation in the Maritime Provinces, where there has been a marked revival of manufacturing and commercial activity. One of these concerns certain peat bogs which are to be found in the neighborhood of St. Stephen, N. B., and aims at the exploitation of the mosses which are grown in profusion upon their surfaces. Those principally identified with this venture are the same individuals who have been co-operating with the Dominion Government in the development of the peat bogs at Alfred, Ont., from which a thoroughly satisfactory fuel supply is now available, and their object in undertaking the shipment of peat bog moss from New Brunswick is to displace the present voluminous importations of moss from Holland and Germany. A plant is under erection at St. Stephen and shipments are expected to amount to 5,000 tons a season, with both Canada and the United States as the markets.

One scarcely ever thinks of moss as an article of much commercial importance. Yet the importations into both Canada and the United States from the Continent prove that it is consumed in large quantities every year. It is marketed, it appears, in three grades. The first or granulated grade is in demand by nurserymen as a mulch for roses and other plants. The second size is used as a poultry litter, being cleaner and more absorbent than others, and being non-inflammable to the extent that it will not burst into flame. And the third use is as stable litter. Since the St. Stephen product is said to be superior to the varieties now being imported in large volume, there is every possibility of the promoters succeeding in their venture and of another thriving Canadian industry being developed.

Even more surprising is the progress of the eel grass industry in Nova Scotia. For many years this seaweed has been gathered by farmers from the coast-line of the Maritimes for the purpose of bedding cattle, furnishing barnyard manure and for direct application to the land. It has been known for generations, however, that it had other useful properties. The Pilgrim Fathers kept their houses warm with it centuries ago and Nova Scotia farmers from the earliest years have been using it to cover their root-houses. It was recognized that eel grass had peculiar properties of insulation, but not until recent years, when experiment were undertaken, was it realized that this grass had the power to exclude noise from buildings and to stop echoes when used as packing on walls and ceilings.

An exhibit of eel grass at the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley paved the way for the expansion of the eel grass industry in Nova Scotia. From this exhibit there developed a demand in the upholstery business and from that again a further demand for constructional purposes. The eel grass is shipped to Great Britain in the form of mats which are fixed to walls and ceilings to deaden sound, and already such buildings in London as the new headquarters of the Midland Bank, the new Bank of England, Lloyds Bank and the Commercial Union Building have been equipped, and in the Royal Ear Hospital a room has been rendered absolutely soundproof by means of the new insulation. Moreover, a hundred houses to be erected in Scotland under a housing scheme are to have eel grass mats under their floors.

But while there has been a growing use of eel grass gathered in Nova Scotia, the greater part of it has heretofore gone to Boston, Mass., for manufacture and the Dominion has lost the proceeds from its manufacture. That situation is now in process of correction, since a firm is undertaking the erection of a plant at Trenton, N. S., and will deal with the processing of the grass to render it fit for utilization in its new forms.

Thus is progress being made in two directions towards the development of new industries, and while the operations of the plants in question may be limited at the start, there have been laid the foundations of two potentially thriving and valuable industrial undertakings.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is to be hoped that the fellow who predicted a cool summer will prophesy a severe winter.

Chautauqua here finished with a balance on the right side, an achievement that should give every satisfaction in the assurance it offers that Peterborough will remain in the circuit.

The question is asked in the Privy Court, in considering the question of women sitting in the Senate, as to whether or not women can keep a secret. The lawyer who made the query is doubtless a bachelor.

Henry Ford should organize an expedition to get those St. Louis flyers out of the air before Christmas.

THE CHAUTAUQUA.

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Sir,—There is no just reason why we should all be dead ones in this fair town with a live paper like yours. This was the week of Chautauqua. What is it? It was founded 55 years ago by Lewis Miller, the father-in-law of Edison, in order to furnish recreation combined with instruction (which if not guarded may become propaganda). Henry Ford was Miller's sales agent in Michigan for the famous Buckeye harvester of which Miller was the inventor. Finding that machinery gave people so much more leisure (it may also be forced idleness or unemployment), he invented Chautauqua. It is evidently a success. Miller was no dead one.

If July 29th is your birthday, the successful hours for you on this day are from 7.30 a.m. to 9 a.m., from 1 p.m. to 2.15 p.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11 p. m. The danger period is from 11 a.m. to 12.30 p.m.

The stimulating influences in force on this date assure a time of activity. They are too complex, however, to safely augur success or failure in any specific phase of life. It would be well not to rush into things without unusual preparation and thought.

Children born this July 29th will be incapable of amusing themselves, and they will have a keen desire for attention and a longing to be the center of attraction. They will take no pleasures in their own decisions until they are ratified by grown-up approval. Self-reliance will have to be an acquired trait.

Those of your type are cold on the surface, but your nature is warmer, more sincere and capable of affection than most others—it needs understanding. If a woman, your character is strong, almost formidable, but at the same time soft and refined. You do not carry your heart on your sleeve, and you do not palaver, but you are very human and very understandingly. Your quiet reserve and dignity are merely protecting shields to an extremely sensitive nature. You feel things very keenly and secretly suffer a great deal because of imaginary slights. You do not ever force yourself in any way upon others. You do not try to impress, but you are always the same, always dependable and loyal, and above all, intensely honorable.

If a man, you are very intellectual and in a business way you should prove very successful. You are not a waster of time, and your judgments and decisions are founded on common-sense. You cannot be hurried in either a mental or physica way, but in your deliberate and calm manner, you are capable of planning and carrying through big things You are, however, easily discouraged, and your failures are due to your giving up the ship when fair sailing is within your reach. This is due to pessimism and not cowardice.

THE MAKE-BELIEVE WIFE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 3.

For many years both daughters had accepted things at their mother's valuation; Marcia accepted them still. But there were times now when Beatrice questioned the truth of her mother's assertion—times when she questioned many other aspects of her mother's point of view.

Poor as they were, their way of managing was never economical, Beatrice began to perceive. There was no beauty no fitness, in the household. Marcia, pale and dyspeptic, needed soups and salads, rather than the iternal scrambled eggs and veal chops over whose cooking Mrs. St. John spent only grudging minutes. There was too much delicatessen pastry in the household, too much fresh white bread.

Bee had taken all this for granted a few years ago, and had raced joyously through high school, anxious to be graduated, and to be able to take a position somewhere and help Mummy and Marsh.

But now she had been working three years; first in Miss Dayton's Private Kindergarten, as morning assistant, for thirty dollars a month, and then under Marcia, in the distinguished offices of Challoner, Fairfax & Flint, architects.

Three years. And yet matters were not any better at home, nor did they seem particularly purposeful abroad. Miss Dayton, a vegetarian, prohibitionist, dietitian and feminist, had duly drilled her theories into Beatrice, and Beatrice had adpted them, and expurgated them, for timid introduction at home. But Mummy and Marcia, even while listening interestedly, never seemed to take the thing at all to heart.

The poverty, the veal chops, the fresh bread continued. Mummy grew a little grayer, Marcia a little more dyspeptic, and the apartment a little shabbier. Beatrice went on washing dishes, washing transparent silk stockings that snapped threads even while she tried to put them on; went on working hard—for what?

She filed letters and inspected blue prints and identified specifications faithfully. She managed to get close enough to her busy important sister to ask, every morning about half past eleven, "What time are you lunching, Marcia?" And sometimes Marcia went with her to Ye Tulipe Potte, and cometimes Beatrice went with one of the other clerks to Canfield's Cafeteria.

But why? She was growing up, now, and wondering about life. The years had begun to move faster, and Beatrice had a feeling of responsibility that she had not known a few years ago—a beginning of fear.

Marcia probably wasn't going to marry; Marcia was twenty-nine. And Mummy wasn't going to grow any younger or more capable. Beatrice had believed firmly from her childhood that everything was going to turn out beautifully for the St. Johns as soon as she was able to put her shoulder to the wheel. But the shoulder was there now, and nothing appreciably the better for it.

Everything was worse, indeed, in at least one way. For Beatrice was sick at heart to discover in her thoughts about herself, that she was not happy as a business woman. She hated offices; she hated downtown life; she had no ambition connected with her work, nor with any other kind of work of which she could think.

Not that she wanted to stay at home. No, in her last school vacations, and in whatever other intervals of leisure her life had afforded, she had been cured of any dream of that. To be penniless; to finish the breakfast dishes and make the beds; to walk downtown that car fare might be saved; to stop at the library and send home from the grocery, six eggs and a box of cornstarch—this as terrible. Marcia was paid forty dollars a week—a very handsome salary in her own and her family's eyes. But when Bee was idle that was all the three women had.

It irritated the younger girl to feel that they were all.....working, scrimping, worrying, merely to live. Marcia's health was going, her own youth was slipping by, and what had they to show for it? Struggling through this year, just so that they might win the privilege of struggling through next! Mummy small and gray and nervously inefficient, and Marcia lean and pallid, enthusiastic about the company's business downtown, and tired and silent at home—and what was it all about?

Beatrice had plenty of admirers; she had not reached her twentieth year without more than one actual offer of marriage. Offers of marriage from Younger May; whose mother was keeping boarders so that she might send him to college, and from Harry Fontaine, who was in his second year of medical school. Offers from Roger, who was poorer than either. Also an offer from her dentist, kindly, simple, wooly-headed Fred Leach. Or; no: that hadn't been a real offer, but Beatrice knew that it easily might have been developed into one.

None of these men had stirred her in the least; Marriage with them would have solved none of her problems. Beatrice's pulses remained normal; she confided to an intimate friend or two that there was no such thing as falling in love or she herself was incapable of it.

She had begun in the past few months, while the long cold winter dragged itself away, to amuse faintly and disturb her mother and sister with wild suggestions of rebellion.

"Let's all get out! Let's—well, we could sell Mummy's black pearl for two or three hundred dollars, and go to—ch, Honolulu! Let's all go through the Canal, to San Francisco, and then to some place we never heard of before—Lima, for instance? I don't know one thing about Lima, do you, Marsh? Nothing'll ever happen to us here in North Underhill. I'm sick of this place! It's just the wrong size—nobody could be excited over a city of eigthy thousand people! Let's make a wild jump and go somewhere and have adventures. Whatever happens, it won't be any worse than crossing the ocean in the Mayflower or crossing the plains in a covered wagon."

Her mother and sister would regard her indulgently.....amusedly, when she broke forth into these tirades. Beatrice came to see that they neither shared nor understood her mood. Mrs. St. John's was not a constructive mind. She had drifted along for forty-six years without planning or thinking, and she was perfectly capable of drifting for another forty-six. First her father, then her husband, then a brother, and now her daughters had supported her; she felt that in mismanaging their respective household prettily and helplessly, and in occasionally making her famous orange cake, she requited them for their efforts.

Marcia's viewpoint was, of course, entirely biased by what she felt for Houston Challoner. She had toward him the office attitude; she felt that the firm was the most important firm and that its head was naturally the most important person in the world. She had begun as a humble clerk years ago, and had almost immediately been singled out for more responsible work and for the friendship of the president and his wife.

Marcia, breathless and awed and grateful, had dined at their home, at twenty-three or twenty-four, and had brought home accounts of the silver and linen, and the food too, to her mother and Beatrice. Marcia had praised the son of the house, a tall, gawky college boy then, and had spoken often of Bert and Bert's father's plans for him. She had hung upon the reports from Mrs. Challoner's sickroom with a passionate intensity that had vaguely shamed Beatrice, even five years ago. Why should Marcia ejaculate "Thank God!" so fervently just because Alice Challoner had had a good night? What was it to plain, hard-working, obscure Marcia St John?

DOWNEYVILLE

Downeyville, my Downeyville,
Of you I always think
Downeyville your my toast
Everytime I take a drink.

I was, Oh so young
When I left Downeyville to roam
But I'll never call any place
But Downeyville my home.

You should hear them shout
When they know I'm coming
All the cows, hens and horses,
To the buggy, come a running.

And in the evening papers,
Also the Downeyville Gazette
They all carry the glad news—
She's not married yet.

Now, why does she love
Her home town so,
Just listen 'till I ask her
And then her tongue will go.

I always love to be back
Where the mosquitoes never bite,
Where girls are never jealous
And there's lot's of boys at night.

My Downeyville is a pip.
People here are well off,
They always drink their coffee
From the village watering trough.

Where the streets are so short
Take two steps and your out
That is my Downeyville,
Just listen to me shout.

Where the apple trees bloom
In the middle of the road,
And they make their dairy butter
From the warts upon a toad.

Where all husbands are contented
And they never swear no more.
For if they do
Their wifeys always roar—
Shut up this is Downeyville.

ROCKLAND, Me., July 29.—Patrolman Charley Emery's pig is his prize pet. The swine has been taught to dig clams. The policeman lets him loose in the mud flats and the pig roots out the clams. He is able to differentiate between mud clams and the genuine ones.

Many Tourists Visit White Mountain Region

CONCORD, N. H., July 29.—(Canadian Press). — Reports from the United States Forest Service reveal that the New Hampshire White Mountain region was visited by the somewhat startling total of 2,474,000 persons last year. The White Mountains ranked third among the tourist attractions of the nation, following the national forests of California and Oregon. National forests of Colorado stood fourth in number of visitors.

Oregon was only a little ahead of New Hampshire, with a total of 2,649,626 visitors.

Even the total of nearly 2,500,000 does not tell the whole story of the "summer business" in the White Mountains, for the figures released by the forest service refer only to the national forests. A great but unestimated number of travelers in the White Mountains do not enter the Federal reservations.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

GARDENER: But, Agnes, this is my new shovel and wheelbarrow.

IN THE BEGINNING

First Liberty Belle: My dear, it's the perfectly quaintest Intercollegiate Hop I've positively ever been at!

Second L. B.: Of course it is dearie. It's the first.

Third L. B. (offhand: Say, has anybody got a pot of paste? My beauty spot is coming off.

"Help yourself, dearie. (Smiling.) Aren't the Harvard men sweet in their crimson gartera?"

"I love the little three-cornered hats the Yale boys are wearing. They are too collegiate!"

"And have you seen the little swagger-daggers they all are carrying?"

"You know Betty, I think I'll bob my wig. All the girls are doing it."

"Listen, girls. They're playing that divine Yankee Doodle Waltz again! Let's go in and dance."

"Care for a little drink first?"

"Pre-war stuff?"

"Of course it is. The war hasn't opened yet."

(They start to exit.)

Chaperon (one of the grand-damedest of the grand-dames, seated in a corner): I must confess I don't know what the girls of today are coming to. Positively Revolutionary, I call it.

First Liberty Belle (pausing in door): Oh, a girl's got to be up-to-date these days—in fact, ahead of time.

Chaperon (shaking her head): The Younger Generation isn't what it used to be.

Liberty Belle (exiting): It never was. C. F.

BALLADE OF A SEDAN CHAIR

In what forgotten garden-place,
Fallen to sad decay,
Do ghostly revelers retrace
The paths they used to stray?
Where are the shepherdesses, pray,
And shepherds Watteau drew
In all their bravery of array,
When this old chair was new?

Who is there now could go the pace
And game the night away,
Could stake his fortune on an ace,
His life upon a trey:
And take a pinch of snuff, and say
"A trifle," as they'd do,
The men of spirit, at piquet,
When this old chair was new?

Good manners, gallantry and grace
Have long since lost their sway,
Are obsolete as ruffled lace
And rapiers—and stay!—
The powdered ladies, where are they,
The lusty lackeys, too,
Who used to swing them to the play,
When this old chair was new?

L'Envoi

This latter age, so dull and gray,
How it must sadden you,
Shade of that blither yesterday,
When this old chair was new.

LOBLAW ISSUES MOST ACTIVE

Trading Is Light On Toronto Stock Exchange, Leaders Are Firm.

LAURA SECORD GAINS.

TORONTO, Ont., July 29 (Canadian Press). — Trading was quiet on the whole on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, but a few of the leaders showed firmness. The volume for the day's trading promises to be even lighter than on Friday.

Page Hersey was at 138, higher by 2 than Friday's bid, and Canadian Bell telephone led the utilities, rising 2⅝ to 172¾.

Brazilian rested at 60¾ after the slight gain in the early trading, and Power Corporation added ½ to 118½.

Activity in both Loblaw issues continued and the A and B gained fractionally to 22½ and 22¼. Another specialty to show activity was Laura Secord, which added ¾ to 45¼ under good demand.

There were slight recessions in International Nickel at 47½ and Ford of Canada at 46. Massey-Harris dropped another ½ to 49½, but Cockshutt Plow added the same amount to 32½. Steel of Canada added ¼ to 56¼, and Lake Superior another quarter to 24¼. Fifteen hundred shares of Consumers' Gas changed hands in one lot at 17., a half-dollar less than Friday's price.

Royalite climbed to 164, an advance of 12 on Friday's bid, but the oils generally were quiet. Walker's was less active at 183¾, but Canada Bud was 1½ up at 111½.

In the Banks Royal reached 375 and then reacted to 372. Nova Scotia added 2 to 398 and Toronto receded 5 to 258.

MANY ISSUES TAKE BIG DROP IN SELLING RUSH

Sweeping Reaction Is General Trend On Wall Street.

BIG MONEY DEMAND.

Credit Stringency Is Blamed For Big Selling Movement.

(By Stanley W. Prenosil, Associated Press Financial Editor)

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 29.—(Canadian Press).—A sweeping reaction in stock prices took place in to-day's market after several ineffectual attempts had been made to rally the general list by marking up special stocks. While intermittent selling had been going on throughout the morning the liquidating movement did not gather full force until around midday when a storm of selling orders suddenly appeared and carried scores of issues 2 to 12 points below last week's final quotations.

Wall Street was inclined to blame the credit strigency for the selling movement. Call money renewed today at 9 per cent with only a moderate supply of funds available, and a firmer undertone was reported in the time money market. With heavy month-end demands for funds at hand, coupled with the expiration of stock "rights", little hope of easier credit conditions were foreseen for some time.

"Bear" Traders Sold Stock Rather Heavily

On the theory that most of the "good news" which the market had been discounting was out, and that there was little left on which bullish enthusiasm could be generated. Most of the commission houses, and several of the so-called "investment services" had been advising their customers to reduce long committments on the theory that the market was "over bought." The apparent inability of pool operators to attract an outside following also encouraged short selling.

Business news continued favorable. Another long series of favorable semi-annual earnings statements made their appearance to-day. The American Locomotive Company showing earnings per share 11 times that of the first half of last year wheat prices rallied, with some of the Winnipeg options reaching new high levels for the season.

DIBBLE PARTY BACK IN CITY

LARGE ATTENDANCES.

The Sunday services at St. James' United Church were like an echo of the splendid Dibble revival held in April in this church.

The morning service was opened by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, who said that the Dibble party needed no introduction to a Peterborough audience, and extended to them a hearty welcome to the city.

Rev. Mr. Dibble expressed his pleasure at being in the city once more, and at renewing fellowship with former acquaintances. He took his Scripture lesson from Luke 1, beginning at the ninth verse, and dwelling particularly upon verse seventeen: "Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child shall in no wise enter therein."

Speaking chiefly to the children in his short sermonette, Mr. Dibble first emphasized the trust we should place on our Heavenly Father. Illustrating this point, the story was told of his young son who, in learning to swim, placed his trust in his earthly father and gave him implicit obedience. If we would trust and obey God in the same way, how great would be our reward!

Concluding with the familiar chorus "Fishers of Men," Mr. Dibble spoke of the joy of working for Christ and bringing others to Him.

In his inspiring tenor voice, Mr. Dibble sang "Jesus, Blessed Jesus," in which could be heard the tender sympathetic reply of the Saviour to the cry of a sinner.

After the withdrawal of the junior classes of the Sunday School, Mrs. Dibble brought her usual appealing message, based upon the first portion of the fifteenth chapter of John. Each of the four Gospels stresses a different aspect of the life of Christ. In John, His Diety was the chief characteristic, which was extolled.

Many times, in speaking to His followers, Christ used the words, "I am," in each case giving actual proof for His statement. He said: "I am the light of the world," and He opened the eyes of the blind and restored their sight. He died on the cross for our sins in proof of His words, "I am the way."

In the fifteenth chapter of John, Jesus says "I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman." This shows the closeness of the Christian life to Christ; we are a part of Him.

There are three great lessons to be derived from this parable of the vine, first, the cleansing; second, the abiding, and, lastly, the obedience to God. In passing a wonderful vineyard it seems unnecessary and almost cruel to see the ruthless pruning of the vines, but when the glorious harvest is reaped, the purpose of the cleansing or pruning is seen. So we, too, must submit to the cleansing and purifying of our lives, until no hindrance shall remain to the bringing forth of much fruit for the Master. Should the vine have power to refuse to allow the husbandman to prune its branches, what would be the result? It would no doubt produce beautiful foliage, but its fruit would be of little value. Just so with the Christian who will not permit his life to be purged—he may produce "foliage" which appears beautiful, but there will be little real fruit.

But we must not expect to bring forth "much" fruit unless we abide in Christ, for He says: "He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing." Human effort alone is not enough

Our wills must be given up wholly to Him, and we must give Him unquestioning obedience if we would bring forth an abundant harvest.

This third and last important step toward fruit-bearing for Christ, and its great reward, is brought out in His words, "If ye abide in me and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you."

Evening Service.

Sunday evening's services again drew an unprecedented large congregation despite the excessive heat.

A service of song led by Mr. Dibble was enjoyed, as only his leadership can be enjoyed.

His solos, "Blessed Calvary" and "God's To-morrow," and "Wonderful Love," were an inspiration and delight.

Evangelistic hymns, with which all were familiar, were chosen, and the church resounded to the beautiful songs of praise. "Tell Me the Old, Old Story," sung in part as a solo by Mrs. E. Kitney, and also in duet by Mrs. Kitney and Mr. Dibble, was joined by the full congregation.

"The Compassionate Christ" was the theme of Mrs. Dibble's message, in which she held the rapt attention of the large audience.

There are two sides to this message, which, to be understood, must be remembered—"God's Love," "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son," and "God's Wrath," "The wages of sin is death." It should be always remembered that it is the "sin" which God hates — and not the "sinner."

It was on Calvary's cross that Jesus is the compassion of God revealed to man.

Though in all His ministry Christ never failed to rebuke sin wherever found, still his outstanding characteristic was His love for the sinner.

He was moved with compassion when the sick and troubled came to Him. He yearned to lift the burden from the heart and the burden of sin from the soul. He never became hard or indifferent, with never too taken up with other affairs to neglect the least appeal for His help. The Gospel is one continuous record of the compassion of Christ.

It seems incredible that thousands of desolate and unsatisfied lives are all about us, who might for the asking receive comfort.

He yearns to heal the broken hearts and homes. There are so many lives filled with wonderful possibilities in God's program, that miss their way because they do not know the compassion of Jesus. Blinded by the glare of sin which poisons the life, and which Christ would protect and save if only allowed.

Mrs. Dibble likened sin to the beginning of a forest fire which at first is too small to be discerned, but can soon become a conflagration that will destroy the soul and all spiritual power.

What is Jesus' attitude toward those who forget God? Compassion. He lived and died to save them. After being sneered at and spat upon as He died on the cross, the first thing he did in heaven was to ask that the Father send the Holy Ghost as a Comforter to them.

This same Compassionate Jesus is here to-night, ready to forgive and help; no matter how great the sin. She pictured the leper who came to Jesus. He did not turn away, but came near, saying "Be thou whole." What must that have meant to the man who had not had a touch of love shown him in years!

There is only one name by which we can be saved—Jesus. He can bring happiness into the home which has been broken by Satan with the leprosy of sin.

Think of the power of sin, to bring down an angel from heaven. It takes the triune power of Father, Son and Holy Spirit to save from Sin.

Leprosy can only kill be body but sin can separate the soul from God and kill it.

Jesus never turned away one soul—never rejected a man or a woman—but how many have rejected Him.

Through the wonderful compassion of Christ He died on the cross that we might be saved.

The Rev. Mr. Harton of Park St. Baptist church brought this inspiring service to a conclusion.

On Monday evening a full musical program will be given in St. James by the Dibble party.

Wheat Values Soar On Chicago Market

CHICAGO, Ill., July 29. (C.P.) — Drought and heat sent grain values still higher early to-day, with corn overcoming the season's high price record. In the wheat market, a feature was the news that Nebraska threshing returns are running far below expectations. Opening 5-8c to 1 3-4c up wheat reacted somewhat but quickly advanced again. Corn started 3-8c to 1 1-4c rise; KD afterwards continued to mount. Oats also developed strength; provisions declined.

PACIFIC FLIGHT NOT ABANDONED

Bromley Will Make Another Try As Soon As Plane Is Repaired.

READY IN 60 DAYS.

TACOMA, Washn., July 29—(Canadian Press).—Lieut. Harold Bromley, was specially constructed monoplane was wrecked here yesterday when he attempted to take off on a non-stop flight to Tokyo, expects to try it again within 60 days.

Heavily loaded, the low-slung plane sped down a specially built ramp and whirled into a "ground loop" after Bromley had been blinded by gasoline spray from the craft's fully loaded tanks.

Half the right wing of the plane was crumpled into a mass of steel and plywood. Bromley sprang from the wreckage unhurt. The flyer blames himself for the crash, declaring he should have stopped the ship as soon as the gasoline spray blinded him.

After the crash a special meeting of backers of the flight resulted in a decision to rebuild the plane immediately.

The wrecked plane was to be crated to-day and sent to Burbank, Calif., to be rebuilt.

And examination showed that the 425 horsepower motor of the plane had not been seriously damaged.

MINING BRIEFS.

MINING MARKET.

The present indifferent market does not reflect the mining industry, says the Toronto Globe, and suggests that the market should start discounting the news of a lot of interesting and favorable developments.

BIDGOOD.

It is reported that Bidgood has the new hoist installed at No. 2 shaft and has commenced sinking from the 125 to 500-foot level.

LAKE SHORE.

Lake Shore's June output ran between $700,000 and $800,000, the average per ton being $20, due to so much high grade coming from development. The daily average was held at 1,250 tons.

AMITY COPPER.

As predicted, Amity Copper directors decided to defer building a concentrator until after shaft is down to 1,000 feet and new levels are opened up. Estimated that sufficient ore is now proven to keep 50-ton mill going 18 months.

NIPISSING.

Nipissing's quick assets, cash, bonds, ore in transit, are valued at $3,424,693, or $2.85 per share. The decline from total of a year ago is just under 18 cents per share.

CENTRAL PATRICIA.

To seek out extension of orebodies already cut by drilling, additional drilling is being done on Central Patricia. This undoubtedly accounts for the increased demand for the shares.

EMPLOYS 2,600 MEN.

Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting has 1,600 men employed at the mine and smelter, and 1,000 on the power plant. Work is being pushed rapidly and latest guess is that production will start about October, 1930.

MINING CORPORATION.

Hudson Bay up 15 points, Quemont up 20 points and Base Metals 17 points. This was Wednesday's record of three companies in which Mining Corporation is largely interested, and yet its shares were unchanged at $4 to $4.10. All three operations are looking attractive.

Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting has 1600 men employed at the mine and smelter and 1,000 on the power plant. Work is being pushed rapidly and the latest humor is that production will start about October 1930.

AMULET IS IN BIG DEMAND

Accounts For One-third of the Turnover On Mining Exchange.

AJAX OIL ACTIVE.

TORONTO, July 29. (C.P.) — Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning was irregular and there were no definite trends in evidence.

Amulet accounted for one-third of the turn over, rising 3 to 2.06 on sales of 102,710. Ajax Oil was also active to add 3 at 2.38. Noranda dropped 20c to 58.00. Sherritt Gordon and Waite-Ackerman.

Montgomery lost 5 apiece to 7.45 and 5.85 while Pend Oreille added 15 to 6.00 and Big Missouri 6 to 1.49. Ventures dropped 10 to 8.15.

The precious metals failed to show any aggressiveness; Teck-Hughes and Hollinger both declined, the former 15 to 8.10 and Hollinger 5 to 6.00. Dome added 5 to 10.15 and Lake Shore returned to 25.25 after a short advance. Peterson Cobalt lost 2 to 28.

Associated Gas and Oil yielded 25 to 3.95 and Dalhousie was up 20 to 4.00. Most of the others marked time.

Prices Are Reactionary On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, July 29. (C.P.) — Reactionary price tendencies again predominated at the opening of to-day's stock market. Westinghouse Electric dropped 3 points; Union Carbide 2, and Batimore and Ohio, Electric Auto Lite and several other popular industrials yielded fractionally. Chesapeake and Ohio and Radio each opened about a point higher.

The prevailing bearish sentiment was generally attributed to the widespread uneasiness over the high credit situation. Wall street had expected a marked relaxation in credit rates in connection with the financing of crop movements but to date there has been little evidence of any easing in the Federal Reserve credit policy.

Reports that heavy distribution was taking place in some of the recent speculative favorites also had a disturbing effect. American Telephone fell back 3 points and Union Pacific Bendix Aviation and Allied Chemical, quickly yielded two points or more. Early losses of a point or so were registered by New York Central, Northern Pacific, Bethlehem Steel, U. S. Steel common, American Can, General Electric, Consolidated Gas and By-products, Coke.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 29.—(Noon, Foreign exchange firm. Demand rates (Great Britain, in dollars; others in cents): Great Britain 4.85; Canadian Dollars 5-16 of one per cent. discount.

POLICE CHIEF NEWHALL RETURNS FROM THE DOMINION CONVENTION WHERE HE WAS MADE PRESIDENT

Finds Crops in Western Canada Poor But People Not Grumbling.

VISITED THE COAST.

Carrying of Firearms and Standardization of Traffic Important Questions Discussed.

"Although the grain crop in the west is admitted to be a failure and will not yield half of last year's harvest, I did not hear one word of grumbling. The philosophy of the farmers and the whole west seems to be 'well it might be worse.' The pool system, I was told, will help out in some districts since all of last year's wheat is not yet sold, and, since the prices have gone up, good value will be received fro what remains," Chief of Police Samuel Newhall, who has just returned from a three weeks' trip to the western provinces, told The Examiner in an interview to-day.

Chief Newhall attended the Dominion-wide convention of the Chief Constables' Association held in Calgary, July 2, 3 and 4. The greatest honor in the association was conferred on Peterborough's Chief, he being elected its president for the ensuing year.

Police Need Arms.

Two of the most important matters given the deep consideration of the convention were "Police Firearms" and "Standardization of Traffic."

"The chief constables from every part of the Dominion rose to their feet as one man in the unanimous stand that with the present trend of crime now was not the time to disarm police officers. This decision will be conveyed with due emphasis to the Federal Government.

"Great consideration and thought was given to the problem of traffic standardization. This matter has been debated before and although advances were made it has not come to a head yet. It is aimed at making a uniform system of traffic regulations throughout the Dominion, and if possible Internationally, so that a motorist can drive anywhere in the country and be assured that he is not unwittingly breaking hundreds of district traffic laws. It will do away with these silly by-laws that are passed by communities—of which the recent case in Port Hope is an example—and make the whole system uniform. It will prevent many accidents and much ill-feeling.

"Next year the convention will be held in Hamilton and it can be expected that that will be pushed stronger than ever there, since Hamilton is right in the midst of the difficulty with so many tourists daily passing through."

West Obeys Rules.

Speaking of traffic conditions in the west, the Chief said: "I was especially struck by the splendid manner in which the traffic is conducted. I paid special attention to this, since I am greatly interested in the problem here. In Winnipeg I spent several days with Inspector Street, head of the traffic squad of that city, studying conditions there. He admitted that Winnipeg was 15 years behind in traffic regulations, but I was amazed at the scarcity of accidents and general perfectness of the system.

"I did not see one accident the whole time I was in the west, all due to the fact that people there, pedestrians and motorists obey the traffic signs. People did not walk across the intersections until the sign said 'Go' and then they went. Jaywalkers are given short shift. The system is even better in Vancouver where every improvement has been established by Chief Bingham and his deputy, Chief Murdock.

"Coming back to Ontario cities the difference was striking. In this province pedestrians go across the street when and where they feel like it. This slows up motor traffic and causes innumerable casualties.

Liquor Laws Successful.

"I never saw a drunk in Manitoba or Saskatchewan, and the liquor control laws seem to be working well. In British Columbia the tourists do give a little trouble but there is very little talk of bootleggers. The Dry Squad in Vancouver told me that they had the bootleggers absolutely under control. Their job, he declared, was made much easier since the liquor stores stayed open later in the evenings than they do here and on Saturday afternoons.

"I brought forward the Ontario argument that such hours would make it easy for the working man to squander his pay on drink, but they stated that it was not working out that way. The law is apparently strictly enforced in all the provinces."

At the convention were chief constables from the far corners of the Dominion from Prince Edward Edland on the east to Vancouver on the west. The convention was forced to work evenings to cover all the business.

An invitation to visit Pat Burns', famous millionaire ranchman's farm was accepted by the delegates and they were entertained royally by Mr. Burns. The delegates' wives were entertained during the convention by the Eaton and Hudson Bay Companies. Mrs. Newhall accompanied her husband on the trip.

Royally Entertained.

Along with a party of ten, Chief Newhall and Mrs. Newhall visited the Turner Valley, which promises to be the richest oil fields in the country. All the gas for the city of Calgary is obtained there and the valley is filled with derricks all busily engaged in boring for oil.

At the invitation of the C.P.R. the delegates were conveyed by special train to the C.P.R. Banff Springs Hotel, about 150 miles from Calgary. A sumptuous banquet was served in dining room, where the Prince of Wales had been entertained, in the evening after a tour had been made of the mountains and the "burly chiefs had disported themselves like bullfrogs in the sulphur springs." The Newhalls made a special tour of the mountains with Jimmy Reid, brother of Ernie Reid of this city.

Chief Newhall and Mrs. Newhall then spent several days in Vancouver where they were guests of Chief Bingham of that city's police, an old associate of Chief Newhall's on the Metropolitan Police of London, England. They also spent part of their visit with ex-Chief Dickson of Toronto. Victoria was visited and a tour made of the famous Malahat Beach. On the island roses and flowers were found growing in great profusion. Chief Cameron entertained them at New Westminster.

At Police Games.

On the return east several days were spent with relatives at McGregor, Manitoba. A few hours were spent in Winnipeg in conference with Chief Newton, secretary-treasurer of the association in settling important matters of the convention.

The party returned to Toronto on Wednesday morning. Chief Draper met them at the Union station, and, refusing to take no for an answer, drove the Newhalls in his high-powered car to Hamilton where the National Police Games were in progress. Chief Coulter, the mayor and aldermen extended a welcome to the Peterborough visitors. In the evening they were present at the big banquet given in honor of Magistrate Jelfs, in which police officials from places throughout Ontario joined in pledging their respect to the retiring police magistrate.

Mat Carl, proprietor of the Carlsrite Hotel in Toronto, gave his own suite of rooms to Chief and Mrs. Newhall when it was learned that the hotel was filled wth American tourists.

Chief Newhall said that it was one of the most enjoyable and yet educational trips in his experience. He exchanged many ideas with police officers from far parts of the Dominion. He was rather ill when he left, but he has returned well and fit.

OIL GOSSIP.

HOME'S DIVIDEND.

Home's second dividend of 20c per share will be paid, to shareholders of record Saturday next, July 27th. Cheques will likely reach shareholders early in August. A. P. Consolidated, holding 150,000 shares of Home, will get $30,000.

CALMONT-DALLAS.

Dallas shareholders get one Calmont for three Dallas and rights to take one new Calmont at $1 for each three Dallas held. With Calmont at $4.50 and Dallas $2.50 per share, a holder of 300 Dallas to-day worth $750 would have to put up an additional $100 for 100 new Calmont and would then have the equivalent of 200 Calmont worth $900.

CALMONT

Calmont evidently hopes to duplicate the performance of Home Oil on its Dallas lease, judging from the heavy concentration of drilling activity with a battery of heavy duty rotary rigs on this 40 acres. Calmont has spotted its new wells as close to the Home producers as possible. Calmont, A.P. Consolidated, Okalta and Home stand out as the large leading independent operators of Turner Valley.

ASSOCIATED.

A 9 p.m. Wednesday our field man visited the Associated well and no change had taken place in the situation. Acid was placed in the hole during the day with pumps and periodical pressure exerted on bit without loosening it. Pumps and other apparatus now dismantled. Next move not yet announced by Imperial Oil.

Illinois Alberta

Illinois Alberta not yet received financial shipment of drill rods, but expected any day. Operations suspended in the meantime.

Freehold standing cemented at 2,800 feet. Showing of gas very noticeable at this well. Casing has been carried an extra 300 feet in Frehold No. 2 and will reach bottom of hole at 100 feet. Originally intended to run only 1600 feet of sixteen inch casing.

McCRACKEN'S LANDING SPLENDID REGATTA

Advertised To Take Place Saturday, August 10th.

One of the most popular regattas in the whole district is that held off McCracken's Landing, Stoney Lake. This year it will take place on Saturday, August 10 with the junior regatta and sailing taking place at ten o'clock in the morning, and at two o'clock shary in the afternoon the senior regatta. A very strong committee has charge of the program for which printed programs have been printed and are available.

LOBLAW ISSUES MOST ACTIVE

LAURA SECORD GAINS.

TORONTO, Ont., July 29 (Canadian Press). — Trading was quiet on the whole on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, but a few of the leaders showed firmness. The volume for the day's trading promises to be even lighter than on Friday.

Brazilian rested at 60¾ after the slight gain in the early trading, and Power Corporation added ½ to 118½.

Activity in both Loblaw issues continued and the A and B gained fractionally to 22½ and 22¼. Another specialty to show activity was Laura Secord, which added ¾ to 45¼ under good demand.

There were slight recessions in International Nickel at 47½ and Ford of Canada at 46. Massey-Harris dropped another ½ to 49½, but Cockshutt Plow added the same amount to 32½. Steel of Canada added ¼ to 56¼, and Lake Superior another quarter to 24¼. Fifteen hundred shares of Consumers' Gas changed hands in one lot at 17., a half-dollar less than Friday's price.

Royalite climbed to 164, an advance of 12 on Friday's bid, but the oils generally were quiet. Walker's was less active at 18¾, but Canada Bud was 1½ up at 11½.

In the Banks Royal reached 375 and then reacted to 372. Nova Scotia added 2 to 398 and Toronto receded 5 to 258.

MANY ISSUES TAKE BIG DROP IN SELLING RUSH

Sweeping Reaction Is General Trend On Wall Street.

BIG MONEY DEMAND.

Credit Stringency Is Blamed For Big Selling Movement.

(By Stanley W. Prenosil, Associated Press Financial Editor)

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 29.—(Canadian Press).—A sweeping reaction in stock prices took place in to-day's market after several ineffectual attempts had been made to rally the general list by marking up special stocks. While intermittent selling had been going on throughout the morning the liquidating movement did not gather full force until around midday when a storm of selling orders suddenly appeared and carried scores of issues 2 to 12 points below last week's final quotations.

Wall Street was inclined to blame the credit strigency for the selling movement. Call money renewed today at 9 per cent with only a moderate supply of funds available, and a firmer undertone was reported in the time money market. With heavy month-end demands for funds at hand, coupled with the expiration of stock "rights", little hope of easier credit conditions were foreseen for some time.

"Bear" Traders Sold Stock Rather Heavily

On the theory that most of the "good news" which the market had been discounting was out, and that there was little left on which bullish enthusiasm could be generated. Most of the commission houses, and several of the so-called "investment services" had been advising their customers to reduce long committments on the theory that the market was "over bought." The apparent inability of pool operators to attract an outside following also encouraged short selling.

Business news continued favorable. Another long series of favorable semi-annual earnings statements made their appearance to-day. The American Locomotive Company showing earnings per share 11 times that of the first half of last year wheat prices rallied, with some of the Winnipeg options reaching new high levels for the season.

DIBBLE PARTY BACK IN CITY

LARGE ATTENDANCES.

The Sunday services at St. James' United Church were like an echo of the splendid Dibble revival held in April in this church.

The morning service was opened by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, who said that the Dibble party needed no introduction to a Peterborough audience, and extended to them a hearty welcome to the city.

Rev. Mr. Dibble expressed his pleasure at being in the city once more, and at renewing fellowship with former acquaintances. He took his Scripture lesson from Luke 1, beginning at the ninth verse, and dwelling particularly upon verse seventeen: "Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child shall in no wise enter therein."

Speaking chiefly to the children in his short sermonette, Mr. Dibble first emphasized the trust we should place on our Heavenly Father. Illustrating this point, the story was told of his young son who, in learning to swim, placed his trust in his earthly father and gave him implicit obedience. If we would trust and obey God in the same way, how great would be our reward!

Concluding with the familiar chorus "Fishers of Men," Mr. Dibble spoke of the joy of working for Christ and bringing others to Him.

In his inspiring tenor voice, Mr. Dibble sang "Jesus, Blessed Jesus," in which could be heard the tender sympathetic reply of the Saviour to the cry of a sinner.

After the withdrawal of the junior classes of the Sunday School, Mrs. Dibble brought her usual appealing message, based upon the first portion of the fifteenth chapter of John. Each of the four Gospels stresses a different aspect of the life of Christ. In John, His Diety was the chief characteristic, which was extolled.

Many times, in speaking to His followers, Christ used the words, "I am," in each case giving actual proof for His statement. He said: "I am the light of the world," and He opened the eyes of the blind and restored their sight. He died on the cross for our sins in proof of His words, "I am the way."

In the fifteenth chapter of John, Jesus says "I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman." This shows the closeness of the Christian life to Christ; we are a part of Him.

There are three great lessons to be derived from this parable of the vine, first, the cleansing; second, the abiding, and, lastly, the obedience to God. In passing a wonderful vineyard it seems unnecessary and almost cruel to see the ruthless pruning of the vines, but when the glorious harvest is reaped, the purpose of the cleansing or pruning is seen. So we, too, must submit to the cleansing and purifying of our lives, until no hindrance shall remain to the bringing forth of much fruit for the Master. Should the vine have power to refuse to allow the husbandman to prune its branches, what would be the result? It would no doubt produce beautiful foliage, but its fruit would be of little value. Just so with the Christian who will not permit his life to be purged—he may produce "foliage" which appears beautiful, but there will be little real fruit.

But we must not expect to bring forth "much" fruit unless we abide in Christ, for He says: "He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing." Human effort alone is not enough

Our wills must be given up wholly to Him, and we must give Him unquestioning obedience if we would bring forth an abundant harvest.

This third and last important step toward fruit-bearing for Christ, and its great reward, is brought out in His words, "If ye abide in me and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you."

Evening Service.

Sunday evening's services again drew an unprecedented large congregation despite the excessive heat.

A service of song led by Mr. Dibble was enjoyed, as only his leadership can be enjoyed.

His solos, "Blessed Calvary" and "God's To-morrow," and "Wonderful Love," were an inspiration and delight.

Evangelistic hymns, with which all were familiar, were chosen, and the church resounded to the beautiful songs of praise. "Tell Me the Old, Old Story," sung in part as a solo by Mrs. E. Kitney, and also in duet by Mrs. Kitney and Mr. Dibble, was joined by the full congregation.

"The Compassionate Christ" was the theme of Mrs. Dibble's message, in which she held the rapt attention of the large audience.

There are two sides to this message, which, to be understood, must be remembered—"God's Love," "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son," and "God's Wrath," "The wages of sin is death." It should be always remembered that it is the "sin" which God hates — and not the "sinner."

It was on Calvary's cross that Jesus is the compassion of God revealed to man.

Though in all His ministry Christ never failed to rebuke sin wherever found, still his outstanding characteristic was His love for the sinner.

He was moved with compassion when the sick and troubled came to Him. He yearned to lift the burden from the heart and the burden of sin from the soul. He never became hard or indifferent, with never too taken up with other affairs to neglect the least appeal for His help. The Gospel is one continuous record of the compassion of Christ.

It seems incredible that thousands of desolate and unsatisfied lives are all about us, who might for the asking receive comfort.

He yearns to heal the broken hearts and homes. There are so many lives filled with wonderful possibilities in God's program, that miss their way because they do not know the compassion of Jesus. Blinded by the glare of sin which poisons the life, and which Christ would protect and save if only allowed.

Mrs. Dibble likened sin to the beginning of a forest fire which at first is too small to be discerned, but can soon become a conflagration that will destroy the soul and all spiritual power.

What is Jesus' attitude toward those who forget God? Compassion. He lived and died to save them. After being sneered at and spat upon as He died on the cross, the first thing he did in heaven was to ask that the Father send the Holy Ghost as a Comforter to them.

This same Compassionate Jesus is here to-night, ready to forgive and help; no matter how great the sin. She pictured the leper who came to Jesus. He did not turn away, but came near, saying "Be thou whole." What must that have meant to the man who had not had a touch of love shown him in years!

There is only one name by which we can be saved—Jesus. He can bring happiness into the home which has been broken by Satan with the leprosy of sin.

Think of the power of sin, to bring down an angel from heaven. It takes the triune power of Father, Son and Holy Spirit to save from Sin.

Leprosy can only kill be body but sin can separate the soul from God and kill it.

Jesus never turned away one soul—never rejected a man or a woman—but how many have rejected Him.

Through the wonderful compassion of Christ He died on the cross that we might be saved.

The Rev. Mr. Harton of Park St. Baptist church brought this inspiring service to a conclusion.

On Monday evening a full musical program will be given in St. James by the Dibble party.

Wheat Values Soar On Chicago Market

CHICAGO, Ill., July 29. (C.P.) — Drought and heat sent grain values still higher early to-day, with corn overcoming the season's high price record. In the wheat market, a feature was the news that Nebraska threshing returns are running far below expectations. Opening 5-8c to 1 3-4c up wheat reacted somewhat but quickly advanced again. Corn started 3-8c to 1 1-4c rise; KD afterwards continued to mount. Oats also developed strength; provisions declined.

PACIFIC FLIGHT NOT ABANDONED

Bromley Will Make Another Try As Soon As Plane Is Repaired.

READY IN 60 DAYS.

TACOMA, Washn., July 29—(Canadian Press).—Lieut. Harold Bromley, was specially constructed monoplane was wrecked here yesterday when he attempted to take off on a non-stop flight to Tokyo, expects to try it again within 60 days.

Heavily loaded, the low-slung plane sped down a specially built ramp and whirled into a "ground loop" after Bromley had been blinded by gasoline spray from the craft's fully loaded tanks.

Half the right wing of the plane was crumpled into a mass of steel and plywood. Bromley sprang from the wreckage unhurt. The flyer blames himself for the crash, declaring he should have stopped the ship as soon as the gasoline spray blinded him.

After the crash a special meeting of backers of the flight resulted in a decision to rebuild the plane immediately.

The wrecked plane was to be crated to-day and sent to Burbank, Calif., to be rebuilt.

And examination showed that the 425 horsepower motor of the plane had not been seriously damaged.

MINING BRIEFS.

MINING MARKET.

The present indifferent market does not reflect the mining industry, says the Toronto Globe, and suggests that the market should start discounting the news of a lot of interesting and favorable developments.

BIDGOOD.

It is reported that Bidgood has the new hoist installed at No. 2 shaft and has commenced sinking from the 125 to 500-foot level.

LAKE SHORE.

Lake Shore's June output ran between $700,000 and $800,000, the average per ton being $20, due to so much high grade coming from development. The daily average was held at 1,250 tons.

AMITY COPPER.

As predicted, Amity Copper directors decided to defer building a concentrator until after shaft is down to 1,000 feet and new levels are opened up. Estimated that sufficient ore is now proven to keep 50-ton mill going 18 months.

NIPISSING.

Nipissing's quick assets, cash, bonds, ore in transit, are valued at $3,424,693, or $2.85 per share. The decline from total of a year ago is just under 18 cents per share.

CENTRAL PATRICIA.

To seek out extension of orebodies already cut by drilling, additional drilling is being done on Central Patricia. This undoubtedly accounts for the increased demand for the shares.

EMPLOYS 2,600 MEN.

Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting has 1,600 men employed at the mine and smelter, and 1,000 on the power plant. Work is being pushed rapidly and latest guess is that production will start about October, 1930.

MINING CORPORATION.

Hudson Bay up 15 points, Quemont up 20 points and Base Metals 17 points. This was Wednesday's record of three companies in which Mining Corporation is largely interested, and yet its shares were unchanged at $4 to $4.10. All three operations are looking attractive.

Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting has 1600 men employed at the mine and smelter and 1,000 on the power plant. Work is being pushed rapidly and the latest humor is that production will start about October 1930.

AMULET IS IN BIG DEMAND

Accounts For One-third of the Turnover On Mining Exchange.

AJAX OIL ACTIVE.

TORONTO, July 29. (C.P.) — Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning was irregular and there were no definite trends in evidence.

Amulet accounted for one-third of the turn over, rising 3 to 2.06 on sales of 102,710. Ajax Oil was also active to add 3 at 2.38. Noranda dropped 20c to 58.00. Sherritt Gordon and Waite-Ackerman.

Montgomery lost 5 apiece to 7.45 and 5.85 while Pend Oreille added 15 to 6.00 and Big Missouri 6 to 1.49. Ventures dropped 10 to 8.15.

The precious metals failed to show any aggressiveness; Teck-Hughes and Hollinger both declined, the former 15 to 8.10 and Hollinger 5 to 6.00. Dome added 5 to 10.15 and Lake Shore returned to 25.25 after a short advance. Peterson Cobalt lost 2 to 28.

Associated Gas and Oil yielded 25 to 3.95 and Dalhousie was up 20 to 4.00. Most of the others marked time.

Prices Are Reactionary On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, July 29. (C.P.) — Reactionary price tendencies again predominated at the opening of to-day's stock market. Westinghouse Electric dropped 3 points; Union Carbide 2, and Batimore and Ohio, Electric Auto Lite and several other popular industrials yielded fractionally. Chesapeake and Ohio and Radio each opened about a point higher.

The prevailing bearish sentiment was generally attributed to the widespread uneasiness over the high credit situation. Wall street had expected a marked relaxation in credit rates in connection with the financing of crop movements but to date there has been little evidence of any easing in the Federal Reserve credit policy.

Reports that heavy distribution was taking place in some of the recent speculative favorites also had a disturbing effect. American Telephone fell back 3 points and Union Pacific Bendix Aviation and Alued Chemical, quickly yielded two points or more. Early losses of a point or so were registered by New York Central, Northern Pacific, Bethlehem Steel, U. S. Steel common, American Can, General Electric, Consolidated Gas and Byproducts, Coke.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 29.—(Noon. Foreign exchange firm. Demand rates (Great Britain, in dollars; others cents): Great Britain 4.85; Canadian Dollars 5-16 of one per cent. discount.

POLICE CHIEF NEWHALL RETURNS FROM THE DOMINION CONVENTION WHERE HE WAS MADE PRESIDENT

Finds Crops in Western Canada Poor But People Not Grumbling.

VISITED THE COAST.

Carrying of Firearms and Standardization of Traffic Important Questions Discussed.

"Although the grain crop in the west is admitted to be a failure and will not yield half of last year's harvest, I did not hear one word of grumbling. The philosophy of the farmers and the whole west seems to be 'well it might be worse.' The pool system, I was told, will help out in some districts since all of last year's wheat is not yet sold, and, since the prices have gone up, good value will be received fro what remains," Chief of Police Samuel Newhall, who has just returned from a three weeks' trip to the western provinces, told The Examiner in an interview to-day.

Chief Newhall attended the Dominion-wide convention of the Chief Constables' Association held in Calgary, July 2, 3 and 4. The greatest honor in the association was conferred on Peterborough's Chief, he being elected its president for the ensuing year.

Police Need Arms.

Two of the most important matters given the deep consideration of the convention were "Police Firearms" and "Standardization of Traffic."

"The chief constables from every part of the Dominion rose to their feet as one man in the unanimous stand that with the present trend of crime now was not the time to disarm police officers. This decision will be conveyed with due emphasis to the Federal Government.

"Great consideration and thought was given to the problem of traffic standardization. This matter has been debated before and although advances were made it has not come to a head yet. It is aimed at making a uniform system of traffic regulations throughout the Dominion, and if possible Internationally, so that a motorist can drive anywhere in the country and be assured that he is not unwittingly breaking hundreds of district traffic laws. It will do away with these silly by-laws that are passed by communities—of which the recent case in Port Hope is an example—and make the whole system uniform. It will prevent many accidents and much ill-feeling.

"Next year the convention will be held in Hamilton and it can be expected that that will be pushed stronger than ever there, since Hamilton is right in the midst of the difficulty with so many tourists daily passing through."

West Obeys Rules.

Speaking of traffic conditions in the west, the Chief said: "I was especially struck by the splendid manner in which the traffic is conducted. I paid special attention to this, since I am greatly interested in the problem here. In Winnipeg I spent several days with Inspector Street, head of the traffic squad of that city, studying conditions there. He admitted that Winnipeg was 15 years behind in traffic regulations, but I was amazed at the scarcity of accidents and general perfectness of the system.

"I did not see one accident the whole time I was in the west, all due to the fact that people there, pedestrians and motorists obey the traffic signs. People did not walk across the intersections until the sign said 'Go' and then they went. Jaywalkers are given short shift. The system is even better in Vancouver where every improvement has been establishd by Chief Bingham and his deputy, Chief Murdock.

"Coming back to Ontario cities the difference was striking. In this province pedestrians go across the street when and where they feel like it. This slows up motor traffic and causes innumerable casualties.

Liquor Laws Successful.

"I never saw a drunk in Manitoba or Saskatchewan, and the liquor control laws seem to be working well. In British Columbia the tourists do give a little trouble but there is very little talk of bootleggers. The Dry Squad in Vancouver told me that they had the bootleggers absolutely under control. Their job, he declared, was made much easier since the liquor stores stayed open later in the evenings than they do here and on Saturday afternoons.

"I brought forward the Ontario argument that such hours would make it easy for the working man to squander his pay on drink, but they stated that it was not working out that way. The law is apparently strictly enforced in all the provinces."

At the convention were chief constables from the far corners of the Dominion from Prince Edward Edland on the east to Vancouver on the west. The convention was forced to work evenings to cover all the business.

An invitation to visit Pat Burns', famous millionaire ranchman's farm was accepted by the delegates and they were entertained royally by Mr. Burns. The delegates' wives were entertained during the conventio n by the Eaton and Hudson Bay Companies. Mrs. Newhall accompanied her husband on the trip.

Royally Entertained.

Along with a party of ten, Chief Newhall and Mrs. Newhall visited the Turner Valley, which promises to be the richest oil fields in the country. All the gas for the city of Calgary is obtained there and the valley is filled with derricks all busily engaged in boring for oil.

At the invitation of the C.P.R. the delegates were conveyed by special train to the C.P.R. Banff Springs Hotel, about 150 miles from Calgary. A sumptuous banquet was served in dining room, where the Prince of Wales had been entertained, in the evening after a tour had been made of the mountains and the "burly chiefs had disported themselves like bullfrogs in the sulphur springs." The Newhalls made a special tour of the mountains with Jimmy Reid, brother of Ernie Reid of this city.

Chief Newhall and Mrs. Newhall then spent several days in Vancouver where they were guests of Chief Bingham of that city's police, an old associate of Chief Newhall's on the Metropolitan Police of London, England. They also spent part of their visit with ex-Chief Dickson of Toronto. Victoria was visi ted and a tour made of the famous Malahat Beach. On the island roses and flowers were found growing in great profusion. Chief Cameron entertained them at New Westminster.

At Police Games.

On the return east several days were spent with relatives at McGregor, Manitoba. A few hours were spent in Winnipeg in conference with Chief Newton, secretary-treasurer of the association in settling important matters of the convention.

The party returned to Toronto on Wednesday morning. Chief Draper met them at the Union station, and, refusing to take no for an answer, drove the Newhalls in his high-powered car to Hamilton where the National Police Games were in progress. Chief Coulter, the mayor and aldermen extended a welcome to the Peterborough visitors. In the e.ening they were present at the big banquet given in honor of Magistrate Jelfs, in which police officials from places throughout Ontario joined in pledging their respect to the retiring police magistrate.

Mat Carl, proprietor of the Carlsrite Hotel in Toronto, gave his own suite of rooms to Chief and Mrs. Newhall when it was learned that the hotel was filled wth American tourists.

Chief Newhall said that it was one of the most enjoyable and yet educational trips in his experience. He exchanged many ideas with police officers from far parts of the Dominion. He was rather ill when he left, but he has returned well and fit.

OIL GOSSIP.

HOME'S DIVIDEND.

Home's second dividend of 20c per share will be paid, to shareholders of record Saturday next, July 27th. Cheques will likely reach shareholders early in August. A. P. Consolidated, holding 150,000 shares of Home, will get $30,000.

CALMONT-DALLAS.

Dallas shareholders get one Calmont for three Dallas and rights to take one new Calmont at $1 for each three Dallas held. With Calmont at $4.50 and Dallas $2.50 per share, a holder of 300 Dallas to-day worth $750 would have to put up an additional $100 for 100 new Calmont and would then have the equivalent of 200 Calmont worth $900.

CALMONT

Calmont evidently hopes to duplicate the performance of Home Oil on its Dallas lease, judging from the heavy concentration of drilling activity with a battery of heavy duty rotary rigs on this 40 acres. Calmont has spotted its new wells as close to the Home producers as possible. Calmont, A.P. Consolidated, Okalta and Home stand out as the large leading independent operators of Turner Valley.

ASSOCIATED.

A 9 p.m. Wednesday our field man visited the Associated well and no change had taken place in the situation. Acid was placed in the hole during the day with pumps and periodical pressure exerted on bit without loosening it. Pumps and other apparatus now dismantled. Next move not yet announced by Imperial Oil.

Illinois Alberta

Illinois Alberta not yet received financial shipment of drill rods, but expected any day. Operations suspended in the meantime.

Freehold standing cemented at 2,800 feet. Showing of gas very noticeable at this well. Casing has been carried an extra 300 feet in Frehold No. 2 and will reach bottom of hole at 100 feet. Originally intended to run only 1600 feet of sixteen inch casing.

McCRACKEN'S LANDING SPLENDID REGATTA

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

WINNIPEG, July 29.— Wheat was on the upgrade again Saturday as the result of continued hot weather. Closing prices were 2 1-2c. to 1 1-4c. up.

At the opening wheat was under pressure when commission houses resumed profit-taking, but the decline was short-lived, and at one point October rose 4c.

Operations for the most part were local in character and there was no evidence of export interest. Offerings were light, however.

Weather conditions in Western Canada for the past 24 hours were hot and showers were light and scattered.

Liverpool wheat closed 1¼d to 1¾d lower, but cables reported urgent need of rain in Argentina.

Demand for cash wheat from Canadian and U. S. millers was good, and grades 4 and 5 wheat were particularly sought after. Offerings continued light and were firmly held.

Wheat deleivered through clearing house on July contract to-day totalled 49,000 bushels. Deliveries to country levators Friday were 111,169 bushels, compared with 165,050 bushels for the same day last year.

There was good demand for feed oats. Cash trade in barley, flax and rye was dull.

SERVICE GROWS SINCE FOUNDED

22 YEARS AGO.

Twenty-two years ago the germ of an idea was implanted in the minds of six graduates of the Ontario Agriculture College to form an Agriculture extension service that would cover the province. This organization, according to the local agriculture representative has grown to a wonderful degree.

Under a joint policy sponsored by the Department of Agriculture, these six graduates who were called specialists in agriculture in the collegiate institutes of high schools to which they were attached and the representatives of the department were expected to carry the gospel of better agriculture to the farmers in the country, through an office located in the town and to teach agriculture in the senior schools.

No definite program was outlined for their guidance, they were merely to follow their own initative. There was some opposition at first on the part of the farmers who felt that no white collared man was qualified to teach them the proper farming methods.

The men selected however had both practical and scientific training and soon sold themselves to the farmers of the respective counties. However the teaching of agriculture soon petered out and the demands for assistance from these representatives by the farmers and organizations in the counties became so numerous and urgent that it became necessary for them to devote their whole time to office and field work.

About six years after the plan was inaugurated, the Department of Agriculture became responsible for the administration of the work and an act of legislature recognized the name of Agriculture Representative, to be attached to the men in the field.

Ontario was the first province or state on this continent to adopt this plan for agriculture instruction. In response to requests the work has been increased in Ontario until there are now fifty one offices in the province, one in every county in Old Ontario and one in every district in New Ontario.

The service now has attained the proportions of a large business concern with the Agriculture Representatives comprising the board of directors and has an appropriation of approximately $400,000.00.

GROUNDHOGS ARE NUMEROUS

Scarcity of Fox is Blamed For Large Number of Rodents This Season.

HARD TO SHOOT.

MARMORA, July 29.— (Examiner Correspondence.)— Farmers generally are complaining of the increased number of ground hogs in this district. The most inconvenience seems to be caused by these rodents in the hay-making season. Horses stumble into the holes made by these creatures and some of them are so sensitive afterwards that much additional yelling is required on the part of the farmer to properly finish the hay cutting job. The appearance of the ground hog itself is sufficient to scare some horses. The extermination of this pest in any great numbers presents a difficulty since they are wily enough to hide for a considerable time after the firing of one shot. Some think that the scarcity of fox is accountable for the increased number of ground hogs, since the latter prove to be an appetizing dish for the former.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

Mrs. George Roberts and her niece, Miss Dorothy Ryder, Guelph, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Ryder, Sebastopol Street.

Morganston Cheese Factory began operations on Saturday. The factory is known as the Avon Bank Factory, and was destroyed by fire when struck by lightning a few weeks ago.

HOME TOWNERS

CAMPBELLFORD
Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

CAMPBELLFORD, July 29—Campbellford may be just a small Ontario town, but its Old Home Week has brought recognition all over the continent. Saturday afternoon, Mayor Davidson received a leter from Jamestown, New York. It was from a Campbellford Old Boy there who wanted "Jimmie" Kerr to reserve rooms for him at the St. Lawrence Hotel. Jimmie is the proprietor. There was nothing singular about that, but the envelope and letter head was very much appreciated. The envelope has a red, white and blue border and is approved by the U.S. post office department for use for Air Mail Only. It is not permitted for other purposes. On the front side, up in the left hand corner where the return address is usually printed, there is this slogan: Campbellford's Old Home Week, July 28 to Aug. 3, 1929, Campbellford, Ontario. "A reunion of Oldtimers."

J. R. Wilkinson, veteran of two campaigns was with the Legionaires who deposited the Legion Wreath on the cenotaph yesterday.

Jack Long from Rhode Island, U.S.A., is another Old Boy who is helping to make the week a success. Jack is known as a bandsman and yesterday afternoon, he took an E flat bass horn and played during the memorial service. Just to help out.

Have you registered yet? Thank you.

The trumpeters who sounded the Last Post yesterday afternoon at the memorial service were Walter Lowe and Tom Johnston. Tim lived in Campbellford till nine years ago, but he lives in Montreal now. He said it was an honor to be asked to sound the Last Post on such a memorable occasion.

Mr. Shunk, a former bandmaster here, expressed the opinion that the bandsmen yesterday were a bunch of real men. They had good and sufficient reason as bandsmen, to leave off the parade, but they kept right on and saw it through.

Miss Vivian Welsh, another of the swimmers for Friday, and the first lady marathon swimmer to arrive in town, arrived here yesterday.

The midnight frolic was more than a success. Campbellford's Old Home Week has begun with a bang.

The tournament team of the local tennis club in the Tummon Cup series, lost a tournament here Saturday when the Belleville players won four points of the five listed for the standard meets of the league.

Mayor Davidson opened the front door of the High School at 12.15 this morning and the dancing started.

WEDDING BELLS

FAULKNER-SMITH.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

EAST EMILY, July 29.— Stirling United Church parsonage was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, July 17 when Muriel Grace, the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smith of Omemee, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Hugh Henry, son of Mrs. Faulkner and the late Andrew Faulkner, also of Omemee.

The marriage was solemnized at 5 o'clock by the Rev. E. W. Rowland, pastor of Stirling United Church.

The bride looked most charming in a gown of white silk georgette. The sleeves were long and trimmed with French lace and a scalloped cape collar hung low in the back. The skirt was full and had set-in panels of the same lace trimming. Her hat was of white silk mohair and white shoes, hose and gloves were worn to match. The only piece of jewelry worn by the bride was a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom.

Gladys Smith, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid and was attired in a gown of peach silk crepe-de-chine, with hat and hose to match, and black patent shoes.

Norman Faulkner, brother of the groom, acted as groomsman.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a white gold compact and to the groomsman a set of green gold cufflinks.

The return trip to the bride's home was made by motor, and upon the arrival of the bridal party dinner was served. The evening was spent in music and games.

The happy couple will reside on the groom's farm, "Hillcrest," in Emily.

FLEA PLAGUE BREAKS OUT

KOBE, Japa, July 24.— (C.P.) — The discovery of a case of plague in Osaka, following a similar discovery in Kobe, is causing great concern. Marmots are being used to catch fleas on board ships and their market price is said to have risen threefold.

Every illness reported in the district and on board ship arouses fresh anxiety. The plague occurred on a cotton ship which arrived from Bombay. The official theory of the manner of infection is that all the crew went ashore except the victim, on whom the fleas concentrated their attack.

A vigorous campaign of disinfection has been carried out, followed by flea-catching operations. Marmots are let loose on the ships, recaught and examined for fleas and the fleas in turn, are examined for plague.

MANY ATTEND CHURCH PICNIC

Anglican Congregation Holds Very Successful Yearly Outing.

W.M.S. MEET.

WARSAW, July 29. — Wednesday afternoon was a delightful time for the Anglican picnic which was fairly well attended.

The guild had made elaborate preparations and all who attended seemed to enjoy themsives. There was a booth where all sorts of summer drinks, fruit, candies and ice cream could be obtained.

The program of races included all ordinary childrens races, a fat men's race, won by Rufus Payne; a fat women's race, won by Mrs. Allan Payne, a three-legged race. The mother with the youngest baby was Mrs. Tom Davis, nee Evelyn Hawthorne; Mr. and Mrs. William Hawthorne were the married couple with the largest family; Mr. and Mrs. William Davis were the oldest married couple.

In the spike-driving contest Mrs. John Payne came ahead, and Mrs. MacIntosh won by seven seconds in the board-sawing contest. In the baseball game between the girls and the men, the girls won and received the new ball. About five o'clock picnickers got their baskets and groups of friends had supper together.

Evangelists Address Meet

Group C. of the Warsaw United Church, W.M.S. held a special meeting at Mrs. Rufus Payne's home on Thursday afternoon with a good attendance. Mrs. John Sargent, group convener, was leader. After the usual opening exercises, Mrs. George Taylor made a few remarks about her week at Whitby and will give a full account later. The program was given by the young evangelists now in the village and pastor Walling. Their scripture lesson was from Luke XIX. Messrs. Gregory and Brown sang "My Lord Hath Garments White"; Mr. Walling led in prayer, and Mr. Gregory sang "Shall I Empty Handed Be?"

Missionary Talk

Mr. Young then gave a very stirring address and began by saying that at home mother spoke and the son listened, but here the order was reversed. He said, he was pleased to speak at a Missionary gathering as he had spent most of his life in South Africa, and knew much that the missionaries had to contend with. He laid great stress that a truly missionary organization must follow Jesus Christ, and that Christ commanded both home and foreign missionary work.

He spoke of determination to do missionary work, and showed that no one could be a good foreign missionary without first being a home missionary. He gave several notes on the life of Mary Slasser. Too much attention is paid to Christians. Jesus Christ came to seek and save that which was lost.

He gave and explained six obstacles to Christian work and ended with a story plea to overcome all and truly work for Christ. After the service was closed the group served supper and a pleasant social half hour was spent on the verandah.

The Thursday evening evangelistic service was the best attended yet. Mr. Young spoke from the text "Whosoever Will May Come."

New Fire Engine Ready

The new chemical fire engines were set up on Friday forenoon, and Fire Chief Clark of Lakefield was down to demonstrate the work. Many were pleased, while some thought it not powerful enough. Warsaw Mill was the main testing building. It easily reached the eaves but it was all it could do to reach the top. The mill is about the highest building in the village.

The committee decided to keep them.

INITIAL PAYMENT DOLLAR PER BUSHEL

Canadian Western Farmers Will Receive $1.00 For Wheat Crop.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 29.—(Canadian Press).—The initial payment for the 1929 crop has been set at one dollar per bushel, E. B. Ramsay, General Manager of the Canadian Wheat Pool, announced to-day.

One dollar per bushel has been the initial price paid by the pools since the inception of the Canadian Wheat Pool in 1924, with the exception of last year, when it was lowered to 85 cents per bushel. "We are satisfied that the step was taken by our central board has been amply justified by market developments in recent months," Mr. Ramsay said.

Lux keeps stockings like new more than twice as long

Washing your stockings with unknown soaps (whether flakes, chips, or cakes) may do more than weeks of hard, everyday use to weaken delicate silk or chiffon fibres, to pull threads, start runs—to fade colors.

For many soaps contain harmful alkali which injures delicate fabrics and colors.

Lux is safe! Lux has no harmful alkali, nothing to harm even the sheerest, wispiest thread, the palest flesh or champagne color.

Because Lux is so safe, stockings washed in Lux stay new-looking more than twice as long!*

Save your stockings with Lux! Buy it in the regular size or large-size blue box. Lux is never sold loose, by the pound. And with genuine Lux you are sure of extra wear!

OLD HOME WEEK OFFICIALLY OPEN

Former Ministers Occupy Pulpits On Sunday.

DANCE AFTER MIDNIGHT.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 29. — The first day of the Old Home Week is a thing of the past now, but it will be remembered by every citizen and visitor as one of the greatest of the seven days. The most outstanding feature of the day was the memorial service at the cenotaph under the auspices of the local Oddfellows Lodge and the Canadian Legion. The service was followed by decoration of the graves in Christ Church and Mount Pleasant Cemeteries.

For the churches it was a red letter day. In three of the pulpits former ministers stood, and preached to congregations containing many friends of former years. There was special music in all the churches.

In St. John's United Church, the Rev. Arch. Graham was the special "Old Boy" preacher. Mr. Graham spent many years of his boyhood in the district and attended high school in Campbellford when there was but one teacher on the staff, Mr. A. G. Knight. At the morning service Mrs. M. G. McCarty and Miss Kathleen Connor, were the soloists. Mrs. McCarty sang "So Near to God," (Singer.) Mrs. McCarty's solo was "Voice in the Wilderness," (Scott.) There was also an anthem by the choir, "Rejoice To-day," (Turner.) The organ numbers were "Minster Chimes," (Calver,) and "Cavatina," (Bohm.) At the evening service Miss Emma Meiklejohn was the soloist. She sang "Crossing the Bar," (Wegenast.) Mr. George Lucy and Mr. Walter Henson sang a duet, "Shadows of the Evening Hour," (Rathbun.) There was also an anthem by the choir "Blessed are They," (Sharpley.) The organ numbers were "Chorale," (Kirnberger," "Pastorella," (Becker), and Finale in F, (Capocci.)

The Rev. C. E. Clarke, Belleville, was the preacher at the Anglican Church yesterday. Mr. Clarke is a former rector of Christ Church here, and his return for the services yesterday brought large congregations to hear his sermons. Mrs. Fred Free was the soleist at both morning and evening services. She sang, "The Lord is my Shepherd" (Liddle) and "Beyond the Dawn" (Sanderson).

In St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. Mark occupied his own pulpit in the morning. In the evening, the Rev. A. C. Reeves of Oshawa was the minister. Mr. Reeves was minister of the Presbyterian Church here before the Rev. G. A. Brown's time. There was special music at both morning and evening services. Mr. W. Collison was the soloist at the morning service.

The Rev. L. M. Smith, minister of the Baptist Church, occupied his own pulpit, both morning and evening, preaching special sermons adapted to the homecoming time of the former citizens of the town.

Evening Activities.

In the evening, the entertainment took the form of a band concert by the Northumberland Regimental Band, played in front of the Armouries, Tice Street. This was concluded soon after ten o'clock and the Sunday program thus came to an end. Inside of an hour, the town was beginning to take on a more lively atmosphere. Fire-crackers, large ones, were set off practically everywhere in the main down-town section as midnight drew near. Just on the stroke of the witching hour, the fire bell rang. Almost on the instant, the fire truck leapt from its place in the fire hall and dashed madly up Front Street to the section where the alarm had come from. There was no blaze in sight except the lights from the High School. The Mayor, who is also the chief of the brigade, was given a key and asked to open the front door. He did so and the frolic was on with a vengeance.

Eddie Harold and his Play Boys supplied the music that did the trick and kept everyone dancing till after three o'clock in the morning. This band of musicians is better known as the Presqu'ile or the "Point" orchestra. Their music was all that was necessary to ensure the success of the evening. The favors and noise-makers were not required to "pep up the party." In the domestic science room the committee had arranged a cafeteria, with Pat Morgan, the veteran amateur caterer, in charge. It was the first midnight frolic that had ever been staged in Campbellford, and it was a decided success. Dancers from all over the district were present and reported a real good time.

The dancing committee has arranged to run dances in the High School every night of Old Home Week and have secured a number of leading orchestras to supply the music for the different nights. To-night Mowry's Peterborough orchestra will be the music-makers.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

the seventh chapter of Revelations, verses nine to seventeen. Nearer My God to Thee, was the next hymn.

Major, the Reverend J. F. B. Belford, himself a veteran, was the speaker of the afternoon. His remarks were brief, but of special interest on the ocasion. Major Belford recalled the days fifteen years ago when the men of Canada had gone overseas to fight the battles of their country and the Empire. He recalled many of the hardships they had endured. Turning then to the post war days, he pointed out the duty of the people to the returned men, reminding them of the debt Canada and the Empire as a whole owed to the men who sacrificed everything in the time of danger and the hour of need.

The Reverend C. E. Clark of Belleville, former rector of Christ Church, Campbellford, offered up a brief prayer and pronounced the benediction. From then the service took on a distinctly military character. Two trumpets sounded a single note and civilian heads were bared while military men stood rigid at attention for two minutes. The firing detail dscharged three volleys, with all the skill of veterans, which they were. The details had been selected of nothing but ex-service men. While the troops, both in uniform and in mufti and medals, stood in silent respect, the regimental band, under the leadership of Bandmaster Pearson, played the Scottish Dirge, "The Flowers of the Forest." Its haunting strains brought tears to many eyes. Then too, there was the Union Jack, lowered by the standard bearer while the dirge was being played. The national anthem was sung, then the final military tribute was paid. From a balcony across the street, two trumpeters sounded the last post. The guard of honor and firing party stood at the present arms with bayonets fixed. The standard bearer lowered the Union Jack till it floated on the breeze just above the ground. There were many eyes that were not clear then. It was the last item of the entire service and the most impressive one.

"They don't mind a little rain." These were the words of a woman who sat inside a closed car when the veterans marched past between the cenotaph and the cemetery. It was true, the men who had fought through the greatest war ever known, had not shied at rain during those hectic years. They did not flinch yesterday when it was time to honour their comades of the line. With heads up and arms swinging, they marched at attention from the cenotaph to the Anglican burying ground. There they deposited their flowers on the graves of the soldiers who were buried there. The Last Post was sounded and the party retired to resume their journey to Mount pleasant. There the ceremony was repeated. The Oddfellows also decorated the graves of their deceased brethren there.

As though the heavens wee but weeping in sympathy with the ceremonies, the rain ceased almost immediately the decoration was complete. Just as the procession passed out through the gate, the rain began to clea. Once mee the band played. The troops maintained their spirited stride. The Oddfellows followed. All were drenched to the skin, but determined to do the thing properly in spite of the adverse conditions.

TWO PRISONERS ARE KILLED

the prison yard, followed, after a brief interval, by more pistol shots and the heavier reports of rifles. In the first mad rush the convicts captured the prison arsenal and whereas the Clinton prison rioters had been armed only with crude weapons, fashioned from carpenters' tools, the convicts here were sufficiently equipped to stage a real battle in the prison yard.

Snatches Prison Keys.

Shortly after 2 p.m. a trusty strolled toward Merle Osborne, the guard who carried the keys to various prison departments. A few feet from the guard, the trusty whipped out a pistol and shot Osborne, snatching the prison keys as he fell.

Convicts who lolled about the prison yard in the attitude of relaxation characteristic of Sunday afternoon in State prisons, leaped to their feet and joined in the dash, first for the prison arsenal, and then the great gates. Every rifle, pistol and shotgun in the arsenal was snatched by frenzied hands. Four machine guns also were seized, but one of these was found later in the yard, smashed beyond use by inexperienced hands.

At least forty convicts reached the man gates and swarmed through.

LAKEFIELD RD. IN BAD SHAPE

GOOD IN FALL.

There are many loud complaints heard about the condition of the Lakefield road among motorists who generally stress the rough condition and the loose gravel on this highway.

There has been a greal deal of work expended on the road. It has been resurfaced, according to Duncan MacFarlane, the county road superintendent, but the dry weather that has been experienced has not been favorable in as much as it does not allow the gravel to pack it.

In the fall there will be a good road and there will be little gravel, after it settles. This work is better done in the fall or spring but there is so much other road work to do at that time that the improving had to wait.

Fast Drivers Spoil Road

There is one condition that will tend to wreck any road that is of the Lakefield type which is the fast drivers. Cars have been noticed travelling sixty miles and hour over this highway and some others have been seen going at a faster rate of speed. This is disastrous to the work that has been carried out whereas if motorists would remain within the lawful thirty-five mile speed limit, they would in time be blessed with a better road. It all takes co-operation.

This road is one of the heaviest travelled roads in Central Ontario by actual count and the best work that can be done on it, is being carried out. When the gravel works in and makes a solid stone bed, then there will be an excellent road way, it was explained.

TWO INJURED IN CAR ACCIDENT

Automobile Turns Turtle On Round Lake Road Near Havelock.

NEW YORK LICENSE.

HAVELOCK, July 29.— (Examiner Correspondence.)— Two persons were badly injured Sunday about one o'clock when a Chevrolet sedan, bearing a New York license, turned turtle on the Roun Lake road just north of the home of Wesley Petherick. Rae Peters, who was motoring that way, was first on the scene of the accident and after he and his companions succeeded in righting the car it proceeded to Havelock,, where the injured yere attended by Dr. Holdcroft..

The car which was a new model, had the covering torn off the top and the windshield and glass in both front doors broken. The driver of the car and one of the other occupants received only minor bruises, but one young lady had her leg badly hurt and another girl of about twelve was also more seriously injured.

AND ALL WERE EMPTY

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—Prohibition has brought wealth to more than bootleggers. After they have sold their stuff Jake Timberg, bottle dealer, goes around and collects the empties. After a recent convention, Jake collected $3,800 worth of empty gin, scotch, ginger ale, champagne, beer and other bottles from 18 hotels with which he had exclusive concessions.

OBITUARY

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place from Mr. L. H. Wnslow's home on Friday, at 2 p.m., the short service at the house preceding the service at St.John's church, Ida, conducted by Rev. Petes Stage Rally In Eighth To Beat Deloro

MAX SWANSTON'S TIMELY DOUBLE DRIVES IN WINNING COUNTER AND PETES BEAT DELORO 3 TO 2

Both Teams Play Errorlesss Ball in One of Best Games of Season.

WIN FOR HECKMAN.

Petes Held To Four Hits By Wood But Make Them Count.

(By F. D. C.)

Max Swanston's timely double with Tommy Holyman on first base, and two out, in the eighth inning of Saturday's Central Ontario League battle with Deloro gave the Petes the run that enabled them to beat the Smelters crew 3 runs to 2 in the best played game of the season.

The score had been knotted since the first half of the third frame when Deloro struck back, after the Petes had set up a two run lead in the second, and registered a pair of markers to sew up the game.

It was a light-hitting and almost flawlessly fielded tussle, the first fixture of the present campaign that saw the error column of both teams without a mark.

Al. Heckman, lame arm and all, kept Deloro's seven hits well scattered, did not give a base on balls and was given great support by his team-mates in registering his second win of the season over the Reganled visitors. Outside of Carl Wood, who nicked three clean hits in as many trips platewards and Brown who got a break on two pop singles to the outfield, the Deloro hitters could do nothing on the attack, hitting harmless rollers to the infield or floating soft flies to the second defence. The Petes' gardeners had a field day, disposing of eleven batters by the aerial route with Jimmy Hall accumulating the season's outfield record with seven smart catches.

Opposed to Heckman was Carl Wood, and the former Peterborough boy contributed a real pitching effort, holding the Petes to four hits during the engagement. The one flaw in Wood's artillery work was that his control failed at times and he issued four passes, two of which were cashed in for runs because the Petes were able to stick in a couple of most opportune hits behind these charities. Wood added three hits to his splendid pitching, his double in the third being the principal factor in Deloro's two runs.

The fielding of both outfits was clean cut and accurate. Bob Elliott at second for the visitors handled 9 chances cleverly and Hollingsworth the Petes shortstop took care of seven. The fine work of the Petes' outfield has already received notice but the real fielding gem of the day was a diving grab of a fly from Beavis' bat by Stuart, the Queen's football star, who was in right field for the visitors. Stuart rolled over but held the ball.

A Snappy Battle.

In the first frame Buck fanned. Elliott shot a single into right but Quinn gave Jimmy Hall the first of a long list of putouts and Swanston cut Elliott down with a perfect peg to Rose when the Deloro second-sacker tried to steal.

The Petes did nothing. Rose was tossed out by Elliott, Johnston flied to Brown and Swanston bounded to Elliott.

The home talent earned two runs and might have had more with greater sprightliness on the bases by Al. Heckman. Heck led off with a clean single between short and third but when Legon pushed a bunt past Wood the Petes' pitcher loafed down to second and was headed off by Jimmy Hughes' accurate peg. Legon was forced on a roller to Scott. Then Wood wavered a little and his pass to Hollingsworth followed by a wild pitch moved the runners to second and third, and set the stage for Jimmy Hall, who ripped a hot single past Elliott to score Ash and Hollingsworth. Beavis fanned to end the inning.

The Smelters crew sewed it up promptly. Suart started the third with a single through the box and dashed home when Carl Wood laced a long double to left centre. Wood ran to third when Buck grounded to Ash and scored when Elliot also hit to the first baseman who elected to retire the batter rather than make the play to the plate. Hollingsworth threw out Art Quinn.

Rose drew a pass in the Petes' half and went to second on Johnston's sacrifice. The play put Johnson out of the game for he cut his hand badly when he fell near first base. Swanston rolled to Hughes, Rose going to third. Heckman was tossed out by Elliott.

In the fourth Scott flied to Beavis and Hughes to Legon. Brown singled to right, a lucky pop, but was forced by Regan, Hollingsworth to Rose.

For the Petes Legon rolled to Wood, Ash popped to Scott and Hollingsworth fouled to Quinn.

Stuart, first up in the fifth, drove a long fly to Jimmy Hall. Wood singled to right and stole second but Buck struck out and Elliott flied to Legon.

In the local end of the frame Hall lined to Elliott, Beavis was robbed of a hit by a spectacular catch by Stuart who dived for a short fly, and Rose grounded to Hughes.

In the sixth Quinn flied to Hall and Scott and Hughes weer smartly tossed out by Hollingsworth.

Holyman, who had replaced Johnston in the fourth, lined to Quinn, Swanston walked, Heckman hit into a double play, Scott to Elliott to Hughes.

Brown opened the seventh with a roller to Holyman, who threw him out. Regan popped to Hollingsworth and Stuart gave Hall another putout.

Legon gave the Petes a good start with a single to right, but was forced by Ash. Hollingsworth flied deep to Brown in left. Ash stole second, but was left there when Hall fanned.

Wood opened the eighth with his third hit, a single through the box. Buck flied to Legon and Elliott to Hall, the left fielder's seventh put out. Quinn struck out.

The Petes won out in their half. The innings started badly for Beavis popped to Wood and Rose was thrown out by Scott, but Holyman drew a pass and Swanston's double between Stuart and Buck sent the winning run over. Swanston went to third on a wild pitch but Heckman fanned.

The ninth did not take long. Scott rolled to Hollingsworth and the Petes' short stop absorbed Hughes' liner. Brown rolled to Rose for the final play of the game.

LEAFS EVEN UP FOR RED WINGS

SWEENEY LET WINGS START

ROCHESTER, July 29.—(Canadian Press)—Toronto's Maple Leafs shook the dust of this city from their feet here yesterday, leaving with an even break in the four-game series and an even break in yesterday's doubleheader.

The Red Wings won the first 6 to 5 in ten innings, and the visitors walked off with the night-cap affair 2 to 1.

The Saturday contest fell to the lot of the visitors, 7 to 4, to even up for Friday's Rochester 5-0 shut-out victory.

More than 12,000 fans packed into the grand stand, leaving the sunny bleacher seats almost empty on one of the hottest days of the summer, and the crowd was rewarded with some fine playing, and some of the other kind.

In fact, it was a couple of slips by Bill Sweeney in the eighth inning of the first game that helped the Red Wings get into the tying position and make possible a grand pop-off after two were out in the fifth for victory.

MOOSE JUNIORS OF BELLEVILLE BEATEN TWICE

Local Moose Juveniles Are Winners in First Game On Saturday.

PLENTY OF HITTING.

Kiwanis Juniors in Second Game Defeats Visitors 17 to 2.

Dame Fortune failed to smile on the efforts of the Belleville Moose Juniors here on Saturday when they clashed with the local Moorse Juveniles and lose 9-2 in a hard fought seven innings exhibition game.

The game was a closely contested battle from the start with both teams playing sterling ball. The juveniles, however, seemed to have no trouble in finding Jenkinson's curves and in the third inning salted the game away by chalking up five counters to make it 7-2.

The visitors secured their tallies in the second frame when the juvenile pitcher Jones, issued two free passes. An error by Sproats at second loaded the bases, and with two men out Petes, the Belleville catcher, came through with a clean single to score two runs. After this the local Moose put on the clamps and held the visitors scoreless.

Jenkinson who pitched the whole game for Belleville had plenty of control but was no mystery to Bo Hunt's players, who nicked him for eight safe hits, two of which were doubles. The Belleville hurler struck out five, walked one and hit one. Six of the hits made by the Peterborough team were well placed, hard hit clouts into the outfield.

Jones Started for Petes

Jones started for the Peterborough team but failed to exhibit his former control which resulted in four free trips to first. He was touched for three hits and struck out three. He was replaced by Lefty Gatfield at the end of the fifth who finished the game, fanning three and walking one. He allowed one hit.

Petes who caught for the Belleville crew was the best man on the team and played a splendid game behind the bat, besides batting in the two runs.

The accuracy and precision exhibited by the local team in handling the ball was responsible in a large measure for the lopsided score and their hitting ability against an older and more experienced team speaks well for theire careful training.

The feature that makes this win so remarkable is the fact that the local team is a juvenile aggregation while the visitors are a junior crew, and supposed to be a good one in their class.

WON, 17 TO 2.

Jack Deannard's crew of hard-hitting Kiwanis juniors almost whitewashed the Belleville Moose juniors at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon, when they handed the visitors a 17-2 defeat in an exhibition game.

The game was a one-sided affair from the start, with the masterly pitching of Crary and the heavy hitting of his team mates giving the local team a decided edge.

Barriage, the first man to bat for Belleville, secured the only good hit of that team when he poled out a two-bagger into left field, but he stalled on second, when the next two batters fanned and the third flied to Stabler. The Quinte city crowd seemed to be having trouble in doping out Crary's curves and when he retired at the end of the fifth after fanning eight, walking one and allowing three hits, the score was 10-0.

Pitched Good Ball.

He was replaced by Madill, who also pitched effective ball but was hampered by a heavy shower of rain which soaked the ball, making good control difficult. He allowed two hits and passed two which saved the visitors from a whitewash as they were able to push two runs across when two hits and a walk followed in succession.

The Kiwanis hammered Darrah, the Belleville hurler, for eleven safe hits, four of which were doubles and two three-baggers. This batting spree piled up a total of 12 runs, the other five being secured from Barriage, who replaced Darrah in the sixth with two out. Two walks and two doubles brought the total number of runs up to seventeen, and Madill enlied the slaughter by striking out.

The winners trotted out a classy brand of fielding, playing errorless ball, which nipped every rally in the bud.

Mott, who played right field for Belleville accounted for two of his team's five hits, while Dickey at first and Pete's catching both played good ball. Norm Gordon planted a three-base hit into left field which hit the fence and should have been good for a homer. He also had a double to his credit. Cotton collected two doubles and a walk in four times at bat, while Jack Huggins supplied the fielding feature of the game when he made a running catch of Barriage's hard hit fly.

McManus Scores Three To Help Detroit Win

BOSTON, July 29 (Canadian Press).—Detroit defeated the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 3, here yesterday. Marty McManus batted in three runs for the Tigers and helped Kyle Graham, Detroit's kid pitcher, to his first victory.

McManus' single in the second accounted for the first, and his home-run into the centre field bleachers, with Alexander on base, in the sixth, brought in the other two.

NATIONALS BEAT OSHAWA 13-1

Alex Weir Hits Two Home Runs To Big Slugging Fixture.

WORST DEFEAT OF SEASON.

OSHAWA, July 29.—The Oshawa General Motors baseball team, local entry in the Central Ontario Baseball League, suffered their worst defeat of the season at the hands of the Belleville Canadian Nationals at Alexandra Park here Saturday afternoon, the score being 13-1.

Four home runs featured the game, which was a real sluggers' day for the Belleville nine. Alex Weir of the visitors hit two of the circuit clouts, and Pitched Shea one, each of them coming with men on bases. Theo Elliott secured one for Oshawa in the second, for Oshawa's only run. Other extra-base hits were secured by Blakeley of Belleville, who got a triple and a double, and Pitcher Matthews of Oshawa a double.

Dutch Osborn, who started for the locals, pitched good ball until the seventh, when the Nationals found him for six hits for as many runs, and Matthews went in to stem the tide, but another run came in before he could retire the side. Osborn struck out five and hit one batter. Matthews struck out one, and Shea, who went the route for Belleville, struck out four and allowed the only walk of the game. The game was called in the eighth on account of rain.

CRICKET INTEREST GROWING IN CANADA

New Clubs Forming, American Teams Visit Dominion Matches Attract Audiences

Will cricket ever become really popular with the Canadian people?

This is a question not infrequently asked by those interested in the game and generally replied to in the negative. Every one who understands the rules of England's National game will admit that from a scientific standpoint, there is no summer field sport to equal it, and in which a greater degree of genuine sportsmanship is displayed alike by players and spectators.

But the Canadian public generally regard the game as too slow. They are accustomed to sport of a more snappy nature, and even thousands of Old Country men, although to the manner bor, prefer to "Do as Rome does," now that they are residents of the Dominion. They compare the time taken to complete a cricket game, with that of other sports, and it is safe to say that in all parts of Canada men who formerly played cricket before they crossed the Atlantic, now prefer to read the doings of the cricketers in the public press and patronize the baseball diamond or the lacross field, rather than spend so much time on a cricket ground.

The suggestion has frequently been made that, in the interest of spectators, cricket should be brightened up and less time consumed in playing a game, and with this object in view, Mr. Edmund E. Jones, police magistrate of Toronto, has introduced a series of rules under which members of the Toronto Aura Lee Club practice.

But the cricketers as a body, object to any alterations in the rules governing the game. They play the game under M.C.C. laws for the love of it; they never quarrel on the field; the umpire need not "put on" more life insurance before going on the ground, for the simple reason that no matter how badly mistaken he may be in rendering a decision, that decision is never disputed, and there is an absolute absence of rowdyism of any kind at a cricket match.

But though the game may never become as popular as baseball and soft ball, that it is increasing in popularity is beyond all question.

While more people are looking at cricket these days, due perhaps to the increased publicity which the game is receiving in comparison with a year or so ago, new clubs are being formed all over the country.

The visits of United States touring teams, notably from Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland and New York, several of which have been made this season to say nothing of the interprovincial games played annually, have done much to put cricket on the Canadian sport map.

Those who "play the game" are sanguine that cricket will continue to attract an ever widening audience.

Cricket is sometimes referred to as "an old man's game." This is because there are so many veterans playing it; and it is marvellous how some of the "old uns" keep up their cricket. Now and again Dyce W. Saunders, the well-known Toronto lawyer, and generally known among his cricketing friends as "the G. O. M. of Canadian cricket, is still playing the game notwithstanding that he has seen sixty-two summers. For many years he captained the Toronto C.C., which is this year celebrating the 103rd year of its history, and he has been included in each of the teams (one of which composed entirely of Canadian-born cricketers— which have gone to England and aquitted themselves favorably in competition with English elevens.

Winnipeg, too, has its veteran cricketers, and so also Montreal, Hamilton and other cities. True, many men who formerly played cricket have laid aside their bat as a souvenir of work well done with. But youngsters (mostly Canadian by birth) have taken places. The preparatory colleges are the cricket nurseries of the country. The cricket played by their several teams ranks with the best in Canada. It has often been suggested that a selection from the senior cricketers of Ridley, Upper Canada College, St. Andrews, and Trinity College School could give the Public Schoold teams of England a good argument if they were taken across the Atlantic.

ONTARIOS LOSE TO LOCAL CLUB IN TOURNAMENT

Three Events Out of Four Won By Local Tennis Club.

PLAY ON NEW COURTS.

Eleven Players Were Entered By Each Club in Contest.

Indications were for a complete victory for the Peterborough Tennis Club over the Port ope Tennis Club in a C.O.L.T.A. tournament on Saturday afternoon when rain prevented the staging of the last four of the seven events scheduled for the afternoon. The local players carried off the first three events, taking all sets but one.

The tournament was staged on the new courts of the club on McDonnel street and began at 3.30 o'clock. Bright sunshine favored the opening but the rain soon forced a stop.

The events scheduled for the tournament were: Men's singles (two events), men's doubles (two events), Ladies' sngles, Lales' doubles and Mixed doubles. Eleven players were entered by each club.

Dr. C. D. Hewitt gained the first victory for Peterborough by defeating E. M. Wynn of Port Hope, in the first event of the Men's singles. Playing a superior game on the serving end, Dr. Hewitt won the game by taking two sets, 6-12 and 6-4. The other event of the men's singles was not staged.

The consistent work of Robert Sturgeon and Jim Wilson in the Men's doubles had this event practically bagged for the local club when the contest was called off. The one set played in the other Men's doubles event was in favor of Peterborough, 6-3.

Losing the first set in the Ladies' doubles by 1-6, Mrs. William Cruthers and Mrs. C. D. Hewitt of the local club showed a surprising reversal of form and took the following two sets each by a score of 6-2. Both earned the win with remarkably steady games.

The first set of the Mixed doubles was a close struggle, finally being taken by the locals, Mrs. H. A. Cranfield and W. A. Jackson, by a score of 10-8. The game went to Peterborough, when they also took the second set, 6-4.

An effective game was played by Margery Bennett of the Port Hope Tennis Club in the event.

The events and entrants with the scores of events played, for Peterborough and Port Hope, respectively, were:

First Men's singles: Dr. C. D. Hewitt vs. E. M. Wynn, 6-2, 6-4.

Second Men's singles: G. C. Scott vs. Foster Hamilton.

First Men's doubles: Robert Sturgeon and Jim Wilson vs. Dr. Diamond and E. Cohu.

Second Men's doubles: G. R. Langley and V. S. Foster vs. F. W. McMahon and Philip Ryan.

Ladies' singles: Mrs. E. Jackson vs. Mrs. N. G. Johnston.

Ladies' doubles: Mrs. William Cruthers and Mrs. C. D. Hewitt vs. D. Grant and Lesley Ward. 1-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Mixed doubles: Mrs. H. A. Cranfield and Mr. W. A. Jackson vs. Miss M. Bennett and Mr. H. M. Ryan. 10-8, 6-4.

THREE SCORE SWIMMERS IN CAMPBELLFORD MARATHON

Entries are pouring in for the Campbellford three-mile marathon swim to be held Friday afternoon, August 2. Eleven came in the mails on Saturday to bring the total up to an even sixty. All these swimmers must pass a physical examination just previous to the race and the services of several doctors working from early morning will be necessary to give them all a thorough test. The number will likely be swelled to nearly a hundred before the final day comes around.

Vern Janeway, of this city, formerly of Campbellford, sent in his entry on Saturday to make the nearest contestant to Campbellford. Tommy Dobinson, of Picton, is the next nearest. Both these youth are splendid swimmers and they will carry the hopes, if not the faith, of the spectators.

Entries have come in from all parts of the continent and two from across the Atlantic. The very pick of the wrigglers in the world will splash off the dock and churn the waters of the Trent for the $1,100 prize money of the Campbellford race.

JACK GUEST COMES INTO HIS OWN

Jack Guest, Toronto sculler, came into his own on Saturday afternoon when he won the Canadian single sculling championship after three long years of patient practice and the over-coming of discouraging reversals. The Toronto papers favoured Joe Wright and the victory of young Guest came as a surprise to most here.

Guest rowed a masterly race to leave no doubt as to his masterly sculling ability. He kept a straight course, while Joe Wright steering in a manner that has often caused him to be the object of criticism, allowed his boat to drift to the far side of the course.

Guest, from the reports, sculled a perfect race, making mighty fast time considering the conditions. He shot like an arrow down the course, never wavering for a second. The officials announced that Guest's time of 7.54 2-5 for the mile—550 yards was a record. Wright finished two full length behind closely pursued by Joe Durnan, while Bole, the other contestant, was but slightly behind.

DONS REGAIN FAME

The Henley was featured by the surprising ability of the contingent of 10 members of the Don Rowing Club, Toronto. This little handful of oarsmen regained the honor of the Dons, which a decade ago shone bright in the rowing sky, by winning second in point standing against the strong entry from Argonauts, which collected 24 points to win the club championship by four.

The Dons' victory was the result of years of striving and bulldog courage. Their stroke, Lionel Standfield, went through the gruelling campaign with three broken ribs, taped in adhesive plaster.

LOCAL TEAMS VANQUISH BELLEVILLE

The two local teams, Moose, Juvenile champs, and Kiwanis, Junior winners, displayed their class in no unmistakable fashion on Saturday by defeating the Moose team, Junior champions of Belleville A twin-bill was played, the Moose meeting the visitors first at Exhibition Park and then Kiwanis played them at James Stevenson Park. Both victoris were won by large scores and indicates that both these teams deserve the support of the fans. They are both headed, with continued practice and work, for big things in the O.B.A.A. playoffs.

DIEGEL A WORTHY CHAMPION

Leo Diegel in winning the Canadian open golf championship at Kanawaki on Saturday set up two records. His score of 274 is the lowest ever made in the 72-hole Dominion championship, and his win gave him his fourth Canadian title in six years.

Walter Hagen is the only golfer who has won a major open championship four times, he having won the British open four times in a space of eight years. Bobby Jones is close, having won the American open three times and been defeated in the play-offs for the crown the same number of times.

According to Tommy Armour the Canadian open, which previously had been ranked next in line behind the American and British championships, is now second only to the United States championship for the quality of its play.

SPRINT CHAMP DOES NOT LOOK THE PART

Eddie Tolan Built On The Lines Of A Small Size Dray

(Special to the Examiner)

TORONTO, July 29—Eddie Tolan, the stocky little negro from the University of Michigan who won the United States sprint crown at Denver and also was recently beaten by the champion of them all, Percy Williams at Vancouver, is a living contradition of the theory that a sprinter has to be built along the lines of speed. One glance at the present United States National champion in action would convince you that speed comes in all kinds of packages. He looks more like the bottom man of an acrobatic team, so short and heavy muscled is he.

But he runs with as much, or more, speed than the fastest of men, and without the frills of flawless form and grace of stride. He simply toes the mark and runs to the tape without thinking much about it. Speed is all he cares about, and he certainly has that aplenty.

His triumph at Denver was a worthy one. Some time ago he had the distinction of leading both Simpson and Bracey to the finish, but the position of track prestige and esteem enjoyed by those sprinsters at that time tended to lessen the significance of Tolan's triumph. It was regarded as "one of those things that happen" or "a bad start for Simpson and Bracey." Tolan was looked upon as a fast sprinster but never was classed with the Ohio state junior or the Rice institute flier.

His victory at Denver was the greatest of his career. The start was perfect, no man beating the gun or preceding the other in the first ten yards. Bracey led him most of the way, but he plugged along with all the power he could muster and finished in ten flat. The sprinsters in this even had to face a stiff wind, and there is little doubt that the Michigan sprinter's time would have 9 3-5 seconds on a calm day.

Considering the strength of the wind, it is doubtful if Simpson would have fared any better than Bracey had he been in the race. Both are built comparatively light and consequently have a more difficult time, running against a strong breeze than a heavier man. Tolan, on the other hand is extremely short and heavy. He himself said that he thought that he was so low that the wind went right over him.

CANOE REGATTA AT HANLON'S PT.

Four Toronto Club Representatives For Rights To Enter Championships.

MEET AT CARLETON AUG. 3.

TORONTO, Ont., July 29.—With weather conditions nearly perfect, the western division, Canadian Canoe Association Regatta, to be held at Hanlons Point, this afternoon, promises to attract one of the largest crowds that has ever witnessed canoe races in this city.

Paddlers from four local aquatic clubs will battle it out for an opportunity to compete at the Canadian Championship meet at Carleton Place on August 3 and some strong competition is expected.

Among the features which will be closely followed, will be the offering of Danny McDonald, of Toronto Canoe Club, who is entered in seven events, a new record. Jack Porter, formerly of Balmy Beach, but now of Calgary holds the present record by having taken part in six events at one C. C. A. meet.

McDonald will take part in the junior, intermadiate and senior singles, junior fourth; junior tandem; half mile and mile war canoe races. His rise in the paddling world has been a local sensation in as much as he competed for the first time on July 1. He represented Canada in wrestling tt the 1928 Olympics.

Another feature will be the international four, the trophy for which was wrested from Washington D. C., by Balmy Beach some years ago, and which is now held by Parkdale Canoe Club.

SPRINT ARTIST REFUSED TO RUN AGAINST TOLAN

Thought He Was Getting "Raw Deal" In Spring Meet At Detroit

DISLIKES SHORT DISTANCES

Discovered At Last Minute That He Was Opposed To Colored Sprinter

By Allister Grosart.
(Special to the Examiner.)

TORONTO, July 29—Percy Williams has definitely established himself as the greatest sprinter in the world, by his double victory at the Olympic games, his successful tour of the eastern states and eastern provinces after his return, and by his recent victory over the colored flash from Michigan "U", Eddie Tolan. Dispatches from Vancouver carried the news that Percy did his old stunt of a flying finish to defeat Eddie who had led him all the way to the 90 yard mark. Percy is credited with winning by a foot.

That foot was a whole lot more than the margin he had over the colored boy the last time he met him. It was in Detroit when Percy was concluding his post-Olympic tour. There was a big meet on at the border city and Percy had been asked to come over from New York, "and show the boys his speed," Percy thought that that meant that he was to run an exhibition race over the full hundred yards, and he accepted willingly.

I happened to be in Detroit at the time, and so the afternoon before the how he was holding up under the grind of six or seven meets in about as many days. Percy was feeling pretty tired, but he thought that a little exhibition run would do him no harm. I did not catch on at first to what he meant, but when it dawned on me that Percy was looking for no opposition, I put him wise, exhibition, nothing," I told him. "They have you on the program to run against Eddie Tolan, the colored boy they were talking so much about around here."

Percy was as mad as a hatter. "I won't run, that's all there is to it," he said. "But you'll have to Percy," I said. "The gang around here will think you are afraid of the boy." I remembered that Percy had just suffered his first defeat since the Olympic games and as that was at the hands of an American, I knew that it would be bad if Percy did not meet Tolan. Finally he consented to go through with it, remarking, "Well, I should be able to beat him at the hundred." There was another surprise for Percy. "It's forty yards you are to run" I told him. That finished it. "I wired Tom that I would not run under 75 yards under any consideration, said Percy. Edvin Wide and Paavo Nurmi were in the hotel with us and I tried to get them to persuade him to run, but he still refused.

A few hours later I met him down at the Olympic stadium and he was still determined not to run. He said nothing to the officials and they did not dream that the big attration of the evening was still very much up in the air.

Percy had been exempted from the preliminary heats. Tolan was down in the program to run a heat with some of the crack Detroit sprinters. Eddie came home away ahead of the field, and the time-keepers concede him world record time. I figured that that would finish Percy, and gave up all hope of seeing him race Tolan.

Just as Tolan was romping home, however, I noticed a familiar face amongst the boys struggling for second place. It was "Buck Hester, a member of the Canadian Olympic team, who lives in Detroit. I corailed "Buck" just as he came off the track and told him about Percy. "That's O.K.," said Buck, "you just leave him to me and I'll fix it all up."

He did. How, I don't know, and Hester absolutely refused to tell me, so did Percy."

The fans down in Detroit are pretty rabid when there is a home boy on the card, and they sure were all down there that night to see Eddie Tolan beat the world's champion And they still hardly believe that they were disappointed.

Percy took off his sweat shirt for the first time during the evening when they were all set on the mark. His arm was all scratched up from a bump he had received the night before, and his leg and knee didn't look any too good.

Eddie Tolan did not fall down on his start. He was off like a flash, and he must be about the fastest starter there is. Percy was well behind in the first ten yards. At twenty he was about three yards behind, at thirty probably four, at thirty-five he was still behind but coming up. The fans yelled figuring that Tolan had won, but they had forgotten the fame of the Canadian's finish. It is like a hop, skip and jump. Percy is clear off the ground when he breasts the tape in one of those finishes, and that night at Detroit must be the fastest finish he has ever pulled off. The officials at the tape gave him two inches on Tolan, but at that, they were generous.

After the race was all over, and Percy the hero of the crowd, I thought he would forget all about the "raw deal." But no sir, he was still mad, and swore that he would never run in Detroit again. The photographers had a big time getting him to pose with Nurmi and Wide.

Percy had a swell invitation to go on a party that night, but he wouldn't hear of it. Not in Detroit. If it had not been that he was leaving for the west early next morning, I believe he would have changed his hotel and gone over to Windsor for the night.

CANADIAN GOLFERS PLAN TO PLAY IN UNITED STATES AND ENGLAND

Efforts Are Being Made To Bring Lady Competitors To Canada.

CANADIAN TOURNAMENT.

(Special to The Examiner. Copyright.)

TORONTO, July 27.—The teams of sixteen players of the Canadian seniors and U. S. seniors, who are at present touring Great Britain, presented a handsome silver cup for competition amongst the members of the British Seniors' Golf Association whose guests they were at the British seniors championship at far famed Sunningdale, near London. This trophy was won by Sir Milson Rees with a net score of 75. He won by a single stroke from H. E. Taylor, the English international player. Sir Milson is one of the King's physicians. He was a very prominent member indeed of the British seniors' golfing team which visited the United States and Canada last year, so his win was exceptionally popular with the Canadian and U. S. seniors.

One of the most interesting matches, by the way, played by the Canadian seniors during the trip was at historical Muirfield in Scotland where they encountered a team from the Honorable Company of Edinburgh Golfers. It was a very close match, the Canadians losing by five points to six. On the Edinburgh team there were four "Lords," three of whom won their matches in truly a "lordly manner." The Honorable Company was instituted in 1744, which makes it the third oldest golfing club in the world. Royal Blackheath, London, dates from 1608 and the Edinburgh Burgess Golfing Society from 1735. The Royal and Ancient of St. Andrews, the governing body of golf in Great Britain and whose rulings are accepted the wide-world over, is not as generally thought the oldest golfing club. It is in fourth place, having been established in 1754.

Sails for England.

Mrs. P. M. Lyle, Toronto, president of the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union, sailed recently on a visit to the Old Country, where she will make every endeavor to secure the attendance of several of the leading women golfers of Great Britain for the Canadian ladies' open championship, which is scheduled for the week of September 23rd at the Ancaster course of the Hamilton Golf and Country Club.

It is some seven years now since English women have competed in the Canadian event. In 1921 the famous Miss Cecil Leitch was an entrant and quite easily won the championship at Rivermead, Ottawa. In 1922 at the Toronto Club, Mrs. W. A. Gavin, another well-known British player, defeated Miss Alexa Stirling (now Mrs. W. G. Fraser, of Ottawa) in the final.

It would be especially a splendid thing for women's golf in Canada if Mrs. Lyon could induce Miss Joyce Wethered, the world's greatest lady golfer, to make the trip. The Hamilton Golf Club has the course, and now a handsome new club house makes it possible to entertain any number of entrants in a manner unexcelled in Canada. The U. S. ladies' championship, the week following the Canadian, will be played in Detroit, which is a nice motor ride from Hamilton, so a record number of all the leading players from the States is assured for the Hamilton fixture, as they will play there and then go on to Detroit. This year it has been very sensibly decided to limit players at the Canadian open championship to those having a handicap of sixteen or better. This will make for the classiest field ever seen in a ladies' championship in Canada. The present holder of the title is Miss Virginia Wilson, of Chicago, who will be on hand to defend her title. Miss Glenna Collet, famous U. S. player, will also be amongst the entries.

They tell of a negro servitor in the Atlanta Athletic Club, Georgia, the home-town of Bobby Jones, who insisted concerning the affair of the recent U. S. open championship at Winged Foot:

"That ain't no open championship. It's an invitation tournament."

"How do you figure that?" he was asked.

"Well, suh," explained the two-bottles-of-ginger-ale-and-four-set - ups boy, "I figure they just invites all the professionals to come and see if any of them can beat Bobby Jones."

The invitation tournament at the Buffalo Country Club, Buffalo, N. Y., last week was a great success indeed. A contingent of twenty Canadians was headed by such well-known players as Ross Somerville, Canadian amateur champion; Frank Thompson, former Canadian amateur champion; Stanley Thompson, and F. G. Hobbitzell. Unfortunately they only arrived shortly before the qualifying round, and were therefore unable to get the temper of the Buffalo course, which was laid out by Donald Ross and which as a result of the drought in the Buffalo district was both fiery and tricky. The best Canadian showing was made by Hobbitzell the Lambton expert, against the local champion, Paul Hyde, who made such a splendid showing in the Canadian amateur at Toronto two years ago, where he reached the semi-finals. Hobbitzell was beaten at the 22nd hole in the semi-final at Buffalo, where Hyde, who is a marvellous putter, sank a 50-yarder to win the gruelling match. In the final, Chick Evans, former U. S. open and amateur champion, defeated Hyde 4 and 2, although he narrowly missed qualifying, having to play off for the last place. One of the sensations of the tournament was a tremendous drive of Hobitzell's at the first hole, 380 yards, which nearly reached the green. Buffalonians are still talking about that "sweltering swat."

Given Big Award.

Cyril J. H. Tolley, the colorful British amateur champion, well-known and popular on the principal courses of Canada and the United States, according to a recent cable, has been awarded £1,000 damages from a manufacturer of chocolates, who, without his consent, used his portrait for advertising purposes. Tolley, who in his evidence stated he was a stock broker, claimed "loss of reputation" as a result of this promiscuous advertising, and the jury unanimously agreed that his reputation had been damaged to the extent of $5,000. The majority of golfers would take that sum any old day for a "chocolate" advertisement, or even less.

The argument is now put forward that if Tolley, who is entering for the U. S. amateur next month, at California, accepts this money reward his amateur standing is forfeited. But this unquestionably is not the case. The definition of an amateur is one who (a) after attaining the age of 16 years has not carried clubs for hire, (b) received any consideration, either directly or indirectly, for playing or for teaching the game, or for playing in a match or tournament, (c) because of his skill as a golfer, received after 31st December, 1923, a salary or remuneration, either directly or indirectly, from any firm dealing in goods relating to the playing of the game, (d) played for a money prize in any competition. Nothing here about "pictures or chocolates."

The acceptance, therefore, by Tolley of the $5,000 award cannot possibly come under any of the above restrictions, and he can pocket the money if he cares to do so, although if he does, he is very liable on his forthcoming visit to the States to be dubbed a "Chocolate Soldier," and that would hurt the former graduate of Oxford—the oldest and most exclusive university in the world.

Joe Kirkwood Is First In Third Day Golf Play

KANAWAKI, Que., July 27. — (C.P.). Joe Kirkwood mixed brilliant golf with some spotty performances to return a good 69 in the third round of the Canadian Golf Championship, his 54 total of 212 giving him the lead among the early finishers to-day.

THEATRES

"Show Boat" opens at the Capitol Today. Super picture combined with stage musical extravaganza.

One of the most moving romances ever told on the screen, as well as one of the most spectacular productions ever made, will be offered patrons of the Capitol Theater when Universal's $1,000,000 sound and dialogue superfilm, "Show Boat" begins its 3 day run today.

This colorful epic of the Mississippi Valley and of Chicago in the last generation, embodying the glamorous love story of Magnolia, the young show boat girl played by Laura La Plante, and Ravenal, the romantic young gambler played by Joseph Schildkraut, is based upon the internationally famous novel of the same name by Edna Ferber.

Included in the presentation are the movietoned highlights of the celebrated New York musical production, "Show Boat" staged by Florenz Ziegfeld with noted Broadway stars. This interpolation, which enable theatergoes actually to see and hear the New York production in their own theater, was made possible only by special arrangement between Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, and Mr. Ziegfeld, Helen Morgan and Jules Bledsoe are the outstanding Ziegfeld stars heard.

"Show Boat" itself, which also is superbly presented in sound and dialogue, was made by Harry Pollard, the famous director who was responsible for the Universal masterpiece, "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The company supporting Miss La Plant and Schildkraut includes such favorites as Otis Harlan, Emily Fitzroy, Alma Rubens, Jack McDonald, Jane La Verne, Neely Edwards, Elsie Bartlett, and many others.

In its music, "Show Boat" is a veritable anthology of America's popular music of the last half century. From the old fashioned favorites of the '80's, rendered by a strident steam calliope and by melodious darky voices down through the "coon-song" and rag-time" age to the present Negro spiritual era, the music is well played or sung and gloriously reproduced,

Salient Points of Bidding.

Auction: South bidding No Trump and West and North passing. East makes a minimum defensive lead-directing bid of two Spades. South with Spades doubly stopped and a strong all around hand bids two No Trumps.

Contract: South's forcing bid of two No Trumps is responded to by North with a bid of three No Trumps. Since the two No Trump bid by South shows all four suits stopped and three of them doubly stopped, North can have no occasion to call his Diamond suit. Had South bid one No Trump, North should then have bid two Diamonds to keep the bidding open. East is shut out from bidding his Spades.

The Play.

At Auction: West leads the 7 of Spades, the top card of his partner's suit. Declarer reads West as holding not more than two Spades, since East, having bid Spades without the Ace or King, must have at least five Spades. South (Declarer) can therefore have no reason for holding up, especially as he holds the two top Spades. South winning with the Spade King, leads the Queen of Diamonds, the finesse losing to East's King. East leads the Queen of Spades, South coming up with the Ace. Declarer can now count eight positive tricks, four Diamonds, two spades, the Ace of Hearts and the Ace of Clubs. The game trick may be possible by a Club finesse or perhaps with the Queen of Hearts. Before deciding upon his later play, South takes his four Diamond tricks and notes the adverse discards. East's first discard is the 3 of Hearts and his next two are the 4 and 5 of Clubs. East, after these discards, holds three cards in addition to his three Spades. His discards would indicate that he holds the King of Hearts guarded. If so, then he can have but one Club. After taking his Diamond tricks, Declarer leads a Club from Dummy to remove East's Club if he has one. South wins with the Ace, since game is now in sight without running the risk of a Club finesse. South then plays a Spade to put East in and force a Heart lead from him after East has finished with his Spades. East makes his three Spade tricks and then must lead away from his King, Jack of Hearts, thus giving North-South two tricks in the suit.

At Contract: West opens the 2 of Clubs in the absence of any lead-directing bid by East. This opening lead gives Declarer an extra trick.

Wealthy Men Own Life Insurance

THE richer a man is, the less likely is he to have a large amount of ready money available.

Within the last few years, several large estates have had to be broken up in order to raise money to pay succession duties.

Insurance to meet succession duties has become a very active part of our business—and we have trained men to advise those to whom succession duties are a serious consideration. Policies may be made payable to the Provincial Treasurer, for the purpose of paying succession duties.

Upon request a competent representative will be sent to discuss this form of insurance with you.

IS DISCUSSING POWER CHOICES IN ST. LAWRENCE

Mayor of Morrisburg Suggests Board of Two Study St. Lawrence Power Question.

THREE SITES IN VIEW.

Bridge Proposed From Cornwall To New York State, By Province.

MORRISBURG, Ont., July 29. — Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor of New York, making a survey of two proposed sites of Joint Canadian-United States power projects on the St. Lawrence river, was here Sat. for informal discussions with Canadian authorities.

Three plans for development are being debated in Ontario, according to Charles G. H. Challis, Mayor of Morrisburg. They are outlined as follows:

First, the Barnhart Island site with a 133 foot dam across the river four miles north of Massena, N.Y., developing 2,500,000 horse power and forming a single pool back to the level of Lake Ontario. This project, he says, would flood 26,000 acres of land and is generally opposed in Ontario.

Double Dam.

Second, a double dam system with one immediately above Morrisburg developing 300,000 horse power from a 27-foot head of water and creating a Lake Ontario level pool and a second dam on the Barnhart Island site at the foot of Long Saute Rapids but with only a 57-foot head and generating 2,000,000 horse power. This plan, the Mayor said, is sponsored by the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission but opposed by United States' engineers.

1812 Battlefield.

Third, the Crysler Island site five miles below Morrisburg, which is opposed by many Canadians for historical reasons and by citizens of Morrisburg because it would necessitate the construction of high dykes to prevent inundation of the business section of the village. Construction of the dam would mean the flooding of Crysler Battlefield where Canadian troops checked an American column during the war of 1812. The battlefield is the burial site of Sir James P. Whitney, former Premier of Canada and a joint sponsor of the Hydro Electric Commission and also bears a recently erected Battle Monument.

Board Of Two.

Mayor Challis suggests that a Board of two, one an American the other a Canadian, be appointed to make a comprehensive study of what forms of development would best suit the peoples of Ontario and New York and the world and best serve their interests and report a plan to the two governments.

Bridge Neded.

"Another matter requiring International action was brought to the attention of the Governor to-day upon his arrival at Cornwall as officials of the city and province presented a plan to provide for vehicular traffic between Nyando or the New York shore and Cornwall over the railroad bridge connecting Canada and the United States east of Buffalo.

The plan, according to officials, entails the construction of two traffic lines on the railroad bridge and awaits only the approval of the State Government before being put into effect. The vehicular lanes would cost approximately $200,000.

BREAKS NECK IN CRASH

Edward R. Simpson, Cayuga, was killed to-day at the Canadian National Railway level crossing near here when a freight engine struck the motor truck he was driving. Simpson saw a crash was inevitable and attempted to jump, but was thrown by the impact and suffered a broken neck.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

IN DEFENSE OF THE ROMANS.

The Romans were a fighting breed;
From England to Stamboul
The crumbling ruins prove their greed
To spread their iron rule.
In these somewhat more gentle days
Since men are more polite,
A number of the Roman ways
Are not considered right.

But though the Romans crushed their foes
With a relentless hand
And brought unnumbered griefs and woes
On many a vanquished land,
Though heavy was all Europe's load
Beneath their haughty sway,
When they put down a country road
They put it down to stay.

It did not last a year or two
As do the roads which we
So busily are building through
This country of the free.
It was not laid on sand or silt
Or mud or ooze or slime;
A first class Roman road was built
To last throughout all time.

Tyrannical the Romans were
And filed with guile and craft,
But though I possibly may err,
They did not practice graft.
When they built roads to carry men
With chariot and spear
They did not dig them up again
To build anew each year.

RED FORCES SEEKING ACTION IN GOV'T TO PROTECT BORDERS

Reported Atrocities On Russian Citizens By Chinese Inflame Soviet Army.

OUTLOOK MENACING.

MOSCOW, July 29. — (Canadian Press).—Relations between Russia and China, after having apparently begun to clear in Manchurian unofficial conversations this week, today reassumed a menacing aspect in the Russian capital.

Military and naval units and labor organizations throughout the country demanded that the Government take immediate and specific action to protect life and liberty of Russian citizens stranded along the zone of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Citizens Suffer.

Reacting to reports of atrocities in which Russian citizens in Manchuria were victims, thousands of soldiers, sailors and workmen adopted mass resolutions for speedy reprisals.

Thousands of workers in Leningrad resolved in mass meetings last night that "the Leningrad workers insist that the Soviet Government take decisive steps against haughty Chinese and white guard bands. The workers declare that the Russian peace policy does not mean Russia is resigned to submitting to outrages.

Must Speak Out.

"The moment has come when we must speak out in a different language and take special measures."

Red army and Red fleet units from the Leningrad Garrison and the Baltic Fleet passed a resolution that the Red soldiers and Red sailors and the Commanding Staff demand most emphatically that the Russian Government take decisive steps to ensure the safety of Soviet frontiers and to tame the White Guard bandits."

Similar resolutions for decisive action continued to-day to reach Moscow from most of the workers' centres of the union, such as Kharkov, Odessa, Kiev, Tiflis and Kazan.

WINE SHIPPERS ASK FOR TRADE

Will Put on Wide Marketing Campaign in Near Future.

DOUBLE OUTPUT IN 8 YEARS

SYDNEY, Australia, July 29. — (C. P.)—While Australian wine shippers are anxious to develop the Canadian market and are pressing for a fuller appreciation of their product in Canada on account of the tariff preference accorded several of Canada's exports, they feel gratified by the result of their sales in Great Britain.

The consumption of Australian wines in Great Britain during the quarter ended March 31, last, was 33,000 gallons more than for the corresponding period twelve months previous. More than half a million gallons of Australian wines found a market in the Old Country. There was special encouragement for Australians in the fact that their sales increased while those of France and Spain declined. Portugal, however, maintained its trade and is still selling twice as much wine in Great Britain as Australia.

Surplus Detrimental

A condition that adversely affects the trade is the annual surplus or carry-over of unsold wines from year to year, which has a tendency to keep prices low. A large quantity of wine is allowed to go out on consignment and until there is some restriction, the situation is not likely to improve very much.

As soon as funds are available for the purpose the Australian wine makers intend to carry on an extensive marketing campaign similar to that undertaken by the Spanish sherry shippers some years ago. Experts believe that with an active campaign Australia wine shipments to Great Britain should double within eight years.

USED UNDERGROUND ROUTE

WINDSOR, July 29. —(Canadian Press).—A general shake-up of the United States immigration officers at Detroit loomed yesterday afternoon with the arrest of Fred Fisher and John E. Taurinen, stationed at the Woodward Avenue ferry docks. Three others already were under arrest and more arrests are expected to be followed by a general reorganization. All are charged with conspiracy to violate the United States immigration laws.

Fisher and Taurinen are held in $5,000 bond. The three others are Peter Leonad, George Ciogas and Michael Vaffidas.

A Windsor angle is given the investigation by the arrest in Detroit of Tom Mancalas, proprietor of a barber shop here, who is being held as Government witness. Police claimed his shop was the rendezvous for aliens en route to Detroit by the underground route.

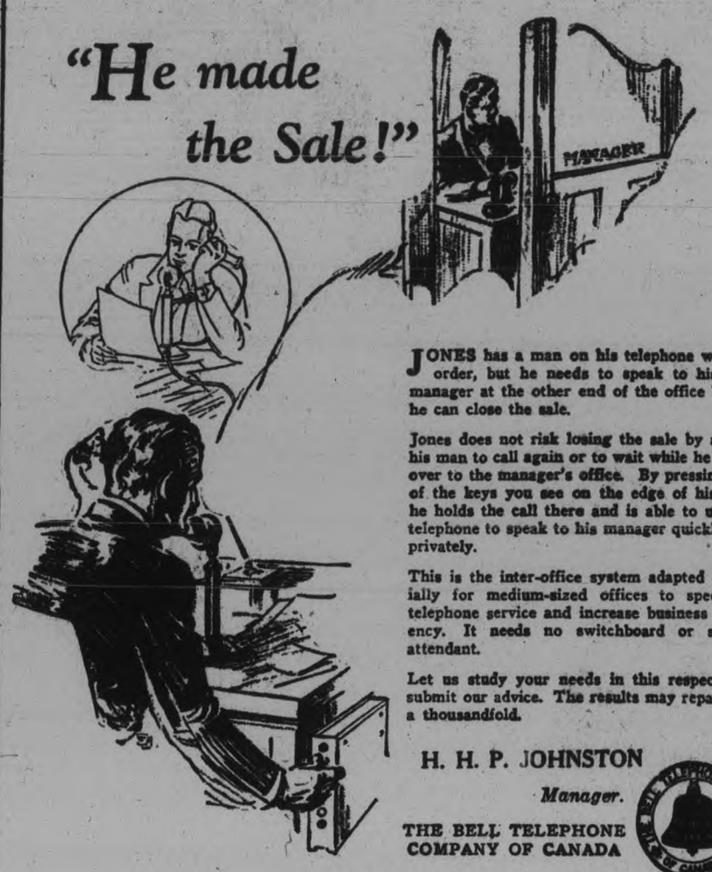
"He made the Sale!"



JONES has a man on his telephone with an order, but he needs to speak to his own manager at the other end of the office before he can close the sale.

Jones does not risk losing the sale by asking his man to call again or to wait while he walks over to the manager's office. By pressing one of the keys you see on the edge of his desk he holds the call there and is able to use his telephone to speak to his manager quickly and privately.

This is the inter-office system adapted especially for medium-sized offices to speed up telephone service and increase business efficiency. It needs no switchboard or special attendant.

Let us study your needs in this respect and submit our advice. The results may repay you a thousandfold.

N.R.A. VETERAN R. CRAIGIN DIES AS LAST SHOTS WERE BEING FIRED

Was at First Bisley When Queen Victoria Opened Shoot.

NEVER MISSED A MEET.

LONDON, July 29.—(By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—R. T. Caiger, outstanding veteran of the National Rifle Association's meetings at Bisley Camp, died last night at the age of 89 years. He was known and beloved by all marksmen from Great Britain and all parts of the Empire who ever trod on Bisley common.

Caiger saw Queen Victoria fire the opening shot in the first N.R.A. meeting, held at Wimbledon in 1860. He competed himself for the Queen's Prize that year and many years since, and until the last meeting, which concluded last Saturday, had never missed a single meeting.

In recent years Caiger became a sort of Liaison officer between the statistics department and the press room at Bisley. It was wonderful how on the hottest days and the busiest afternoon he would work industriously and accurately, compiling scores and systematically distributing them. Temperate in habits and disposition, he was the first up and the last to bed.

Right up to the last Caiger could sing a song with the best of the visiting marksmen. Canadian and other overseas competitors well acquainted with Bisley will remember how he lieved up to the refrain of his favorite contribution to camp concerts:

"For I laugh and I sing
And I drive away care.
I've enough for my wants
And a little to spare.
If a poor old friend should come my way
I'll make him as welcome as the flowers in May."

It was a touching coincidence that Caiger should have died as the concluding figures of the great N.R.A. meeting were being made up.

CAR FLIPS OVER INJURING LADY

Driver Failed To Make Curve On Port Hope Road, Hurling Auto Into Ditch.

DECEIVED BY SIDE ROAD.

Charles Warren, of Moose Jaw, driving a large Sedan owned by Fred Cowan, of Newcastle, failed to notice the turn about four miles down the Port Hope highway last night about 11 o'clock, with the result that the car was hurled into the ditch with such force that it somersaulted, injuring one of the occupants to such an extent that she had to be taken to the hospital.

The driver being strange in this district, thought that the road continued straight on, his belief was substantiated to some degree by the fact that there is a dirt road that meets the highway at this point and a car was seen coming up this, the lights of which made the driver think that the road was straight. The result was that when he reached the turn he did not get around it safely at the rate of speed which the car was travelling.

BIG DEMAND FOR PRIZE LISTS.

The advance signs of the Peterborough Exhibition are all very favorable and if they are any indication of the success that the Fair will attain this year, it is going to be one of the biggest and most successful that has been held in the history of Central Ontario's biggest Industrial Exhibition.

The secretary has been busy ever since the prize lists have been out sending copies to potential exhibitors and he states that there have been more requests for these than any other year and that the number of new people who are anxious to receive information as to the Fair has greatly increased.

With favorable weather and a good break the directors of this Fair expect to put something across that will outdistance any former attempt.

In Police Court

A third offender under the L.C.A., Gordon Dundas, was sentenced this morning in Police Court to three months in the common jail. He admitted two previous convictions in the summer of 1927, and pleaded guilty to being drunk last week. The penalty was "three to six months without the option of a fine." He got the minimum.

A local man paid a $10 fine and $4.50 costs when he pleaded guilty to being drunk in a public place.

The police reported that the week-end had passed very calmly with the exception of a few "drunks." There were no accidents in the city.

NEW ZEALAND SEEKS PARLEY

Premier Communicates His Views On Disarmament To London.

OF VITAL IMPORTANCE.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, July 29. — The hope that no alteration in the policy of Imperial defence would be made by the British Government without consultation with the Dominions was expressed yesterday by Sir Joseph Ward, Prime Minister of New Zealand.

In response to inquiries Sir Joseph said he had communicated a tentative expression of the New Zealand Government's views on naval defence to London, and he said it had been suggested to the MacDonald Government that if possible the matter should be reserved for discussion at the next Imperial Conference. He said the proposals of the British Government with reference to naval defence have received the attention of the New Zealand Government.

Sir Joseph said the message to London made it clear that New Zealand attaches the greatest importance to the question of naval defence, particularly with regard to the naval base at Singapore. He said the views of New Zealand on the latter question, which have been expressed on previous occasions, remain unaltered.

Declaring New Zealand's interest in the Singapore base was indicated by the provision of a contribution of $5,000,000, Sir Joseph said two instalments of this amount, totalling $1,250,000, have already been paid.

FIRE DESTROYS CAR

A large touring car was destroyed by fire on the Chemong road, last night about ten o'clock. The car was owned by F. Merrett, of 363 Leslie avenue, and at the time was driven by his son Wilmot.

He was coming in from Chemong and when about three and a half miles from the city, he noticed that the car was not running right and soon it was realized that it was on fire.

A mass of flames greeted him as he lifted up the hood of the engine. Dirt was thrown on the fire and it was thought that the blaze was out but the flames had caught in the top of the car and began again in the motor after which it was one glorious bonfire.

The car this morning was on the side of the road, a sad symbol of the evening's tragedy. The top is burned off, the paint is destroyed and everything that fire could consume was destroyed.

"QUILLY VISITOR" IN CITY

An unusual Sunday visitor was a porcupine which passed the day on a tree in front of C. Moyette's residence on Hazlett street. It seemingly did not mind the rain and wind and was seen in the evening apparently quite happily enjoying its evening meal from the leaves of the tree. This morning it had disappeared.

VISITORS AT SKOOKUM

There were many visitors at the Rotary Camp on Sunday and in spite of the heavy rain in the afternoon both guests and boys were able to have an enjoyable time. The weather has been ideal for the campers and the three score boys in camp have been having an ideal holiday under the direction of Doug Loomis who sees to it that there are no dull moments.

DONATIONS TO CAMP.

The Ladies' Committee of the Peterborough Health Association wish to thank the following people for their kind donations to the Children's Camp at Jackson Park: Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E., $50; Thursday Club, $10; Miss A. Lancaster, $1; Mrs. Boucher, $5; Mrs. G. A. Macdonald, $10; Mr. H Roberts, $1; Miss L. Hamilton, $3; Mrs. H. Rush, candy; Mrs. Anderson, oranges; Mrs. S. Martin, toys; Mrs. Ernest Knight, water melons.

NO DAMAGE FROM STORM.

The storm that broke over the city yesterday afternoon with the vengeance of a young cloud burst, accompanied by wicked flashes of lightning and grumbling thunder, did not do a great deal of damage.

The deluge of rain that poured from the clouds flooded some of the Bell Telephone cables to such an extent that up to this noon they were rendered useless, but they expected to be cleared up by night. The cables are in the downtown district, and some inconvenience was caused, but the linemen were working on the repairs as fast as was humanly possible to get the lines all clear.

The Peterborough Utilities report that they weathered the sudden outburst, that came from the dark and lowering skies, very well, and got off luckily without any trouble.

The Fire Department also reported no trouble. No fires originated from lightning and the alarm system was OK.

FIREMEN REST.

No calls were received at the Fire Hall over the week-end despite the severe thunder-storms undergoing repairs to-day.

REPAIRING BANK.

The wood-work about the front of the Bank of Nova Scotia is undergoing repairs to-daq.

WHOOPEE MEETING TO-NIGHT

A big program of songs, dances instrumental numbers and other features have been arranged for "the whoopee" meeting at Inverlea Park this evening The instant popularity of this kind of entertainment has caused the entertainers to make special efforts to make to-night's program one of the best. It is expected that a big crowd will be on hand to participate and enjoy the fun.

A PACKARD—AND BEER.

Envious eyes of pedestrians were attracted to a large Packard touring car which passed up George Street on Saturday afternoon. The rear of the car was piled high with cartons of ale and beer. It seemed to some of the eager observers that the fine car, which incidentally bore a foreign marker, was a new type of brewery transport, but the smiles of the two proud occupants of the front seat tended to indicate that the supply was for other than public use. Appearances suggested that they were bound for the vacation lands north of here. They evidently have no faith in the supply of drinking water in the district for which they are bound.

WOMAN IS INJURED.

A woman lies in St. Joseph's Hospital seriously injured as a result of a motor accident on the Keene Road early on Saturday morning. The car was owned and driven by Thomas Oineen, of this city, and the woman was a passenger. The party was returning from the dance at Hiawatha when the car struck the ditch and hit a tree at a sharp turn about five miles from the city. The car was badly smashed. No further details could be gathered from the police.

SAGES HOLD DISCOURSE.

The Market Square councillors are holding session morning and afternoon under the shade of the canopy of the weighing office A dozen or more of the old guard—all greybeards past or approaching their three-score years and ten—are to be seen there any of these warm days discussing what Premier King should do, the Chinese-Russian squabble, civic affairs, and this and that. This is a charmed circle where argumentative friendship endures and no one approaches to break the serenity of these sages whose years of toil have earned for them the right to take their ease and talk profoundly.

BANQUET GIVEN DIBBLE PARTY

Bible Class of St. James' United Church Honor Rev. George Dibble.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

The "George Dibble Bible Class" of St. James United Church tendered an informal banquet on Saturday night in honour of the George Dibble party, who are guests of St. James' this week.

Austins' Tea Rooms on George St. were gaily decorated and presented an airy comfortable interior, notwithstanding the excessive heat of the day.

Fred Cocke was in charge of ceremonies and welcomed the guests in behalf of the George Dibble Class, after which they were seated at cosily arranged tables.

Mr. Cooke, in a few words, gave an address of welcome and paid tribute to the wonderful effect of the Dibble meetings last spring, which had brought into existence this class of young men.

The Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, pastor of St. James, in cordial words seconded the greetings of the class to their distinguished guests, the party including Rev. George Dibble, Mrs. Dibble and their son, Melville Dibble and Harold Mustaine the pianist.

Frank Robinson, the president and leader of the class, spoke in warm words of their great pleasure in having with them the party in whose honor the class is named, and of the inspiration that was given the young men to organize and carry on Christian work, the vision they had of a continually growing class with a larger outlook and increased influence.

Rev. George Dibble, in responding, said it was indeed a pleasure to return to Peterborough. His party is, at present, under contract with the Evangelical Tabernacle in Chicago, for all Sundays in July and August, but had been granted this one week-end which he was giving to St. James United Church.

He said he had a two-fold purpose in this trip. First, to renew his fellowship with this church and its people, the second to fish. Fishing he said was his side-line and he looked forward to a most enjoyable week among the lakes of Peterborough district.

His real business in life is also fishing—for men, and in this he has been graciously blessed.

When the invitation came to him from this class for this banquet, his feeling was one of absolute humility, and still he was proud that his ministry had been so real and so truly appreciated that a class should be named for him. His prayer was that the George Dibble Class should be honored and blessed and that it should grow and not be satisfied until it had reached the zenith, both in vision and numbers. In conclusion he again thanked the class for the great honor and homage shown him.

Mrs. Dibble also expressed her delight at being present. She said she was glad her name was Dibble and she could share in the compliment. They looked upon the class as their spiritual child and in much the same way an earthly parent is proud of a healthy normal child. But, she continued, if the child doesn't grow it is not normal, and she wished that this class might grow and develop both spiritually and in numbers.

Mr. Mustaine and Melville Dibble both thanked the class for the honor shown them, and the entertainment they had received.

Mr. Dibble sang a chorus composed by Mr. Mustaine, "Pray Your Way Through" and also delighted all with the duet "In the Garden" sung with his son.

Mr. A. Wells, a new member to the class also bore testimony to the great benefits derived from the Dibble meetings and warmly welcomed the party back to the city, as did Mr Wilford, a former teacher of St. James Sunday school, who said that Mr. and Mrs. Dibble possessed the greatest gift in the giving of the Master that of winning hearts for Him.

A word of welcome and appreciation was also added by Sergeant Norman of the Salvation Army.

The "George Dibble Bible Class" was organized immediately following and as an outcome of the revival held in St. James United Church in April, with a membership of twelve. With their present vision ,this may become one of the largest classes of young men in Peterborough.

1,500 MILLS CLOSED DOWN

Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers' Association, declared his association would meet shortly to consider its attitude toward mills in its membership which were continuing on the old wage basis. He expressed readiness to meet the workers when they wished to negotiate.

Remedies Ineffective.

The strike was automatic, having been decided upon Saturday. Last minute efforts to avert it Saturday and Sunday failed. It affected almost the entire Lancashire cotton industry with the exception of a few plants outside the Employers Federation which were still operating.

It was the outgrowth of continued depression in the Textile Trade which three weeks ago led to an announcement by employers that a 12½ per cent. reduction in wages would be made effective Saturday. The workers' Unions refused to accept the reduction and ordered the strike when efforts at negotiating their differences were rebuffed by the employers.

Many Cities Affected.

Nearly ever city and town in Lancashire was affected by the strike, which was expected to cause a loss in wages of about £1,000,000 (about $5,000,000) weekly. All mills were open as usual to-day for the workers but the Unions weer staunch in their defiance of the order.

Mill remaining still open were those whose owners are not members of the Masters' Federation. They announced yesterday they could continue paying the old wage rate temporarily. They employed only a few thousands, however, out of Lancashire's half million workers.

Task Hopeless.

The Ministry of Labor, guided by Miss Maggie Bondifield, its Minister, continued to-day its efforts to reconcile the disputants but it was considered a hopeless task at least for the present. There was a possibility Premier MacDonald would attempt to harmonize the situation.

Some, in reckoning the probable effect of the strike on other industries, estimated 80,000 to 100,000 bleachers, dyers and finishers would be thrown out of work shortly or reduced as a result of the strike. The greater part of the 66,000 tons of coal used in the mills each week will cease depriving miners of their occupation while miners and railroad and shipping men also will be affected.

Reduction Too Much.

The Lancashire wage scales, are based on piece work with complicated lists. The employers demanded the workers accept a reduction of two shillings and six pence on the pound, or about 2-½ cents on the dollar.

There was some feeling some sort of Government action still could save the day and prevent the misery and financial depression which inevitably follows British trade disputes In this event the operating spinning section probably would ask for resumption of negotiations on their own acount. It was expected the mil owners would meet them half way.

Conditions in the lockout at some of the principal centres of the industry this afternoon were as follows:

At Stockport six mills were working on the old terms and 30,000 operatives were idle. At Darwen 54 mills were closed, five working and 10,000 employees were cut. At Failsworth 12 mills were closed and three open. At Rochdale only six mills weer working. At Chorley 24 mills were closed and pitckets were posted four mills were running. At Bury all mills were stopped. At Clitheroe two mills were workng. At Legh four mills were working. 17 were stopped and 5,000 operatives were out. At Burnley nearly all the mills were shut down. At Rawtenstall all mills were closed for a holiday until next Monday, when about one-third of the mills will reopen at the old rate. At Shaw four mills were working. At Wigan seven mills were closed and 3,000 operatives out. At Heywood most of the mills were closed and 2,500 workers out.

SOFTBALL.

To-night at Central School the K. of C. and Teco clash in a softball fixture. Both teams are playing good ball and fans are assured of a fast game. There have been no one-sided games in the past two weeks in the softball league as every team is fighting to stay in the running and the fans are witnessing some close struggles. The game will start at 6.30 sharp.

Tuesday night will see the Bridgenorth Wildcats and Westclox hook up. These two teams are evenly matched and have supplied good ball every time out. Both need the win to stay in the running, Western Clock particularly if they are to get in the play-offs. The game will start at 6.30 and will be played at Central School grounds.

CLAIMS RECORD

LE BOURGET, France, July 29.—(Canadian Press).—Mlle. Maryse Bastie, French woman aviator, landing her plane early to-day claimed to have made a new endurance record, remaining aloft 26 hours and 46 minutes. This she claimed was 22 minutes more than the mark held by Elinor Smith.

Mlle Basle landed this morning after a night in the fog and five hours of rain.

LOCAL CADETS RETURN TO CITY

Peterborough Boys Made Excellent Showing At Barriefield Camp.

SPECIAL TRAINING.

After a week marked with success, the local representatives at the cadet camp at Barriefield reurned by C.N.R. at 6 o'clock Saturday evening. The lads, numbering about fifty, were all enthusiastic over the camp, and bore heavy coats of tan. They were well set up after the week of invigorating military life.

The boys were in charge of Major C. E. Jamieson, Lieut. R. Crawford, Lieut. F. E. Kerr and Lieut. W. G. Wagar. They report a very satisfactory camp, with no sickness or accidents. The schedule of the week provided plenty of work for the cadets but the monotony of the camp was relieved by organized sports. At 6.30 daily the camp was aroused by the reveille, and commenced the work of the day. After a service, most of each morning was taken up with drill and rifle practice. The afternoons were devoted to games and athletics. Special gymnastic training was provided, the apparatus being secured from the Royal Military College. The boys took great interest in this work under Instructor Mendizabal.

Brig. W. B. Anderson was greatly pleased with the showing the cadets made on the inspection before the close of the camp. He complimented the Peterborough contingent on their worthy showing. On the invitation of Major Jamieson, Captain T. J. Lee, of the American Army from Houston, Texas, attended the inspection in uniform, and was impressed with the advance made in cadet work in this country.

Several of the local boys won distinction in the contests conducted during the camp. Cadet Joe Dunkerly took third place among all the cadets in the sport contests of the camp.

Barriefield is now deserted. The cadets were the last scheduled for the camp this season, and before leaving, aided in removing the tents and checking up on supplies.

The local group presented Major Jamieson with a bridge set before leaving camp. This expression of good-will was greatly appreciated.

FLORISTS HOLD BIG CONVENTION IN LEGION HALL

Thirty-Second Annual Meeting of Canadian Florists and Gardeners Opens in City.

WELCOMED BY MAYOR.

Past Year Has Been the Most Prosperous For Flower and Garden Industry.

Many of the outstanding figures in the flower and garden world of this continent are in the city attending the thirty-second annual convention of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association now in session at the Canadian Legion Hall.

The convention opened this morning and will continue until August 1 (Thursday). Its purpose is to study improvements in the gardening industry and flowers and to study the advances in horticulture.

Men from every part of the province, Quebec ,the Maritimes, and the United States gathered in the Legion Hall this morning to hear the opening session of this notable convention.

The delegates were welcomed to the city by Mayor Denne, Alderman Walter Stocker, City Clerk S. R. Armstrong, James Dutton, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and S. Jordan, Peterborough Committee.

Opened By Rev. Wren.

Rev. David H. Wren of Trinity United Church led in the invocation in a most fitting manner, after H. B. Cowan, chairman, had declared the convention officially open.

The city's welcome was replied to by W. E. Groves of Hamilton and Leo McKenna of Montreal.

The past year has been one of great prosperity for Canadian industries, and this has also been true of the flower and garden industry. There have been more imports and greater exports showing a great activity in all branches, said President S. A. McFadden, of Toronto, in his address.

"The indications are that we are to enjoy prosperity for some years to come, and to derive a greater share of this prosperity we must plan to better our knowledge and conditions; to place ourselves in a position to reap the benefits of greatly increased business," he continued. "We must specialize to a greater degree and stop trying to grow everything and sell everybody."

He went on to outline the usefulness of the organization and how it was bringing about co-operation for the mutual benefit of all. "Our membership is increasing; our activities and influence are greater, but we are not anywhere near the limit of our greatness and usefulness."

Increased Membership.

"Last year saw the largest membership in the history of the association; 255 annual members were recorded with the 15 life members, the total membership was 270," said the secretary-treasurer, C. S. Thompson, of this city, in making his report. The growth of the association has shown advances, but it indicates that there is still room for improvement, he pointed out.

The Resolution Committee was appointed as follows: W. E. Groves, Hamilton; Jack Armour, Montreal; Gordon Keith, Toronto.

Other reports read were: Legislation and Tariff, Major John Connon of Hamilton; Publicity Committee, W. E. Groves, Hamilton; Plant Registration, H. J. Moore of Islington; Canadian Horticultural Council, Chas. Craig of Ottawa; Report of Committee on Horticultural Standards for Exhibition.

Two Bodies Found in Lake

Party of Four Disappear While Boating Near Oshawa Park.

MOTHER AND BABE FOUND.

Boatmen and Girl Missing — Plane and Launches Search.

OSHAWA, July 30. (C.P.) — Lake Ontario claimed two, and probably four, lives last night, in the most serious tragedy in the history of Lakeview Park Beach. Two persons are missing, these being Walter Stapley, boathouse employee, and Mrs. Andrew Beswick, of Oshawa; while the bodies of Mrs. Beswick's mother, Mrs. Edward Gomme, and her five months' old daughter, were found in shallow water two miles east of the park, shortly after ten o'clock this morning. Members of the police and fire departments, in boats, assisted by an airplane from Toronto, are searching the lakefront area in the hope of finding the two missing persons.

How the drowning occurred remains a mystery as there was little swell on the water last night.

Stapley was handling the boat and was known to be an experienced boatman. The party left the wharf in a rowboat about 6 o'clock last evening, and was not missed until about three hours later, when a boathouse attendant noticed that the women's coats were still in the boathouse and that the boat had not returned.

W. H. Barnhart, proprietor of the boathouse, went out in the launch to search for the missing party, but returned in the early morning without having found any trace of the boat or its occupants. He then notified the police and the search was continued at daybreak this morning, resulting in the finding of two of the bodies.

An airplane arrived from Toronto shortly after 11 o'clock this forenoon and the pilot thoroughly scanned the water for traces of the two missing bodies but up to this afternoon the efforts of the searchers were without success.

Scores in the fourth match which ended to-day were:

England 427 for seven wickets, declared.

Intense Heat Wave Sweeps Over West, Further Lessening Grain Crop Hopes

WINNIPEG, Man., July 30 (Canadian Press). — The weather man threw a fresh blanket of intense heat over the Prairies to-day. In place of a hoped-for lowering of the temperatures, the West awoke to-day to find only further mercurial upswings that planted a new high record at Empress, Alta., of 104 degrees, and made nearly every district swelter in weather well above the 90 mark.

Another 24 hours without rain is anticipated by the Weather Bureau officials here. The extreme drought ,almost unrelieved by the widely scattered and light showers that have fallen at intervals in the West, becomes a more serious threat to crops with each rainless day. Even feed crops are threatened with complete disaster under the scorching waves of dry heat.

A trace of rain was reported this morning from Battleford and Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, but was not of sufficient duration to benefit the crops to any degree.

AUTOIST ESCAPES SERIOUS HURT AS HE DERAILS ENGINE AND CARS NEAR C.P.R. STATION IN TWEED

Brakeman Dies Under Locomotive As It Topples in Ditch.

ENGINE CREW JUMP.

Automobile Is Thrown Against Swith, Which Opened By Impact.

BELLEVILLE, July 30—(Canadian Press).—When a freight train struck a motor car at a level crossing in Tweed last night the engine and six cars were derailed. The motorist escaped with injuries but a brakeman was crushed to death under the locomotive. The auto was thrown against a switch, which was opened by the impact.

The Canadian Pacific train was proceeding at a slow rate of speed near the Tweed station, with brakeman Alex. R. Brown of Smiths Falls standing on the platform in front of the engine, when Jack Burns of Buffalo drove his car on the tracks in the path of the train. When the engine plowed into the ditch it buried Brown underneath.

The fireman and engineer on the locomotive saved their lives by jumping just a few seconds before the engine went into the ditch.

TRAINS DELAYED.

The wreck that occurred at Tweed on the Canadian Pacific Railway lines last night did not affect the schedule to any marked extent through the city. All the trains going east passed through here on time but were delayed farther east on the line. The 5.55 going west went through here on time, while the 7.55 going west arrived two hours late, but it was expected that the afternoon trains would be on time.

Forest Fires Present Worst Loss in History

OTTAWA, July 30 (Canadian Press).—With flames raging in every Province from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, Canada is faced this year with the possibility of the heaviest forest fire loss in the history of the Dominion. In almost every timber district armies of men have been pressed into action, but in many cases they can do no more than keep the flames from spreading too rapidly throughout the timberlands. Heavy rains can save the situation.

DUCHESS SEEKS LARGE ESTATE

Daughter of Late Czar of Russia Claims Huge Fortune in New York.

LEGAL NOTICE GIVEN.

NEW YORK, July 30. — Anticipating an early effort by the woman who calls herself "Grand Duchess Anastasia," youngest daughter of the Czar of Russia, to establish claim to a possible American estate of as much as $106,000,000, counsel for the Public Administrator has taken steps to protect the interests of recognized members of the Romanoff family.

For the first time it was revealed to the New York American yesterday a direct clue to at least $5,976,722.78 has been found. Efforts to trace another $100,000,000 have been redoubled since an announcement was made in Berlin a few weeks ago that "Anastasia," 'or Mme. Tchaikovsky, as she is a'so known, intends soon to start legal action in New York to establish herself as the sole heir.

The "Grand Duchess" was said yesterday to be sojourning with Miss Annie Burr Jennings, of 48 Park Avenue, and Fairfield, Conn.

While she is apparently no longer welcome at the home of Mrs. William B. Leeds ,of Oyster Bay, who was Princess Xenia of Russia ,attorneys for her denied that there had been a disagreement with Mrs. Leeds. Efforts to get in touch with the "Grand Duchess" were unavailing. Mrs. Leeds has announced that the "Grand Duchess" will not return to her Oyster Bay home.

Legal Notice Given.

F. Dudley Kohler, No. 25 Broadway, counsel for the Public Administrator in the case to-day is calling upon all banks ,trust companies, corporations, and individuals to report the existence of an yfunds belonging to the Czar's estate they may hold. A legal notice in the Law Journal yesterday announces:

"Notice is hereby given to all persons, corporations ,banks, and trust companies having assets, deposits, and securities of the late Nicholas II., Czar of Russia, that a statement and account of same is forthwith demanded, and in the event that no such statement and account is rendered, all such persons will be held responsible for the amounts plus interest and cost of discovery proceedings."

Kohler admitted yesterday that no conclusive evidence concerning the Czar's supposed American interests had been found. He said, however, that efforts would be made to prove the $4,976,722.78 reported by the Guaranty Trust Company as on deposit there was part of the Czar's personal fortune.

ROTARY IS ACTIVELY ENGAGED IN PRESERVING PEACE OF WORLD DECLARES DISTRICT GOVERNOR

Europe Treats Rotary With Greater Seriousness Than America, Says Chas. Buchanan.

STRESSING SERVICE.

Local Rotarians Are Urged To Maintain Ideal of Rotary Throughout the World.

"Europe treats Rotary with much greater seriousness than we do on this continent because they appreciate its great service as an instrument to preserve the peace af the world" said Charles Buchannan, of Toronto, district governor of Rotary Club in the Empress Hotel last evening.

Governor Buchannan brought the local club an inspiring message of the growth of Rotary throughout the world and the ever-increasing scope of its high endeavors. He urged his listeners to maintain the ideals of Rotary and do service to the community. The note of "goodwill to all men" was strongly sounded.

"It is not the largest clubs that supply the ideas and furnish the international directors and other leaders" said the speaker, and he illustrated by naming the clubs of some of the foremost men in the great international service clubs.

Stressing International Service

"This year Rotary is stressing 'International Service' and we are pressing it with all emphasis. Rotary is established in fifty-five countries and it is recognized in Europe as being one of the strongest forces in the preservation of World Peace.

"We are all too prone to laugh at the other races and make fun of the way they do things—for example some of the manners of the Porto Ricans fill us with amusement. But through a great organization like Rotary we get in sympathy with them and we get understanding. When you get to know man, generally, you can't help but like him. And so it is through the International bond of Rotary that racial peculiarities are laid aside in service to our fellow man."

Here Mr. Buchannan pointed out ways that the local club could increase interest among its members and maintain enthusiasm. "Every great organization began around one man who had ideals and filled his employees with those same ideals The organization was a reflection of but one man. But every man judges Rotary by its members and we must maintain the standard or Rotary will suffer."

2,350 Rotary Clubs in U.S.

The speaker pointed out the great

Judge Relents Passing Sentence On Woman

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 30.—(Canadian Press).—A stay of execution will prevent Mrs. Thelma Holland, 22, an expectant mother, from going to prison before her child is born.

Mrs. Holland yesterday was given a sentence of one to five years on a liquor charge. She pleaded for leniency but Superior Judge Emmett H. Wilson declared he never had granted probation in similar liquor cases and would make no exception of her. Last night, however, the judge relented and announced he would issue a stay of execution for six months.

COTTON TIE-UP YET UNCHANGED IN WAGE WAR

Three Meetings of Various Cotton Organizations Get Nowhere.

WEAVERS STAND FAST.

No Ill Feeling, With Hopes of Settlment Before Lack of Wages Felt.

MANCHESTER, Eng., July 30.—(Canadian Press).—Three meetings of different cotton organizations today failed to bring about resumption of negotiations in the great cotton industry stoppage which has laid off half a million workers in a struggle over wage reduction.

A committee of the Master Cotton Spinners Federation confirmed the action of the employers' wages committee in reducing wages 12½ per cent but stated readiness to reopen negotiations.

Back Repreesntatives.

The Spinners Amalgamation Federation discussed only domestic affairs, while the General Council of the Amalgamated Weavers Association at Bury simply endorsed the steps taken by their representatives.

The Weavers' Association also passed a resolution expressing the fullest appreciation of the determined stand taken by their members in the dispute and of their loyalty to stand firm for maintenance of the present wage rates.

37 Districts In Dispute.

Delegates from 37 districts engaged in the Weavers' discussion, to which special significance was attached because they had refused to discuss the reduction of wages until Saturday.

A new branch of the trade was drawn into the dispute to-day on posting of notices by the Cotton Waste Spinners and Manufacturers Association that the present wage scale would end on Monday. The employers of this association seek similar reduction of wages and will meet representatives of the workers to-morrow.

SECOND DAY OF STRIKE.

MANCHESTER, Eng., July 30.—(Canadian Press).—A half million Lancashire textile strikers entered the second day of their self-imposed idleness to-day as firm as ever in their determination not to accept the 12½ per cent reduction in their wages which the cotton mill owners imposed last Saturday.

The mills were opened if the workers wanted to come to work, and in some few of the mills, where the wage reduction was not made immediately effective a few thousand spinners and weavers followed their usual routine, unaffected by the strife which has developed elsewhere.

No Bitter Feeling.

Contrary to the usual case in British trade disputes of such magnitude bitterness of feeling has not yet deevloped, and there was in many quarters a firm belief the dispute would be settled amicably before it reached a more serious aspect, or the stoppage in wages among the

CONSIDER LABOR CASES

THE HAGUE, July 30.— Charles Evans Hughes, eminent Unite States Jurist and statesman, was to-day elected at an administrative meeting of the Permanent Court of International Justice to fill a vacancy in the chamber for the consideration of Labor cases.

Mr. Hughes became a member of the court last spring. The vacancy was caused by the death of Viscount Finlay, British member of the court.

Worst Fire Hazard In Province Since 1923

Seventy Blazes Are Reported in Northwest Section of Province, Making Situation Very Grave—1,200 Men Are Engaged in Aerial and Ground Forces.

THUNDER BAY SECTION IS CHECKER-BOARDED WITH FIRES HIGH WINDS AND ABSENCE OF RAINS CREATES HAZARD

Big Conflagration Is Sweeping Northward in Minnesota, Endangering Settlements and Timber Limits Along Lake Superior—Fires Near Chippawa Park Are Checked.

TORONTO, Ont., July 30. (C. P.) — Handicapped by the hot dry weather, workers were continuing the fight to-day against the conflagrations in Northern Ontario, particularly the northwestern section of the Province. Over 1200 men are engaged in aerial and ground forces in an effort to subdue the fires which reached a total of 70 over the week-end, constituting the worst fire hazard the province has seen since 1923.

Showers in the Cochrane district yesterday relieved fears of serious fires there but the situation around the Thunder Bay, Kenora, Rainy River and Patricia Districts continues to wax acute.

The Thunder Bay District is reported to be checker-boarded with fire. High winds and continued absence of rain, coupled with the extreme heat in the bush, has greaty increased the hazard. Forest fires which were reported as being held in check some days ago have broken out again and new ones are constantly being discovered.

With their backs against the wall, officials directing the fire-fighting are hoping for rain, but there is no immediate prospect of a cessation of the dry spell.

The reports of two more fires in the Red Lake district were reported to-day to the Forestry Department of the Provincial Government. The officials explain that nothing definite is known regarding the extent of these fires, nor can it be until the district superintendents have had time to communicate with the Department. The matter of equipment and emergent conditions are dealt with by the district head officials who must make provision to cope with conditions by the addition of air planes and whatever men are available. Men have been sent from the Sault district into the Kenora and the Patricia districts.

536 Fires Last Year

The number of fires reported to the department last year was 536. Lightning caused 34, settlers caused 83, railways 98, logging operations 29, smokers 66, unknown origin 67 and road construction 7, careless campers caused fires in 116 places while 36 were from miscellaneous causes.

Owing to the efficient service for the prevention of forest fires 447 of the first started burned over less than five acres. Three only burned over an area of 10,000 acres and six between 1,000 and 10,000 acres.

Districts Closed

KENORA, Ont., July 30.—(Canadian Press).—With serious forest fire conditions existing in this area, the District Forester, W. D. Cram, has been compelled to close certain areas in the Lake of the Woods District and part of the Lake of the Woods pulp concessions. Dryden pulp concessions were ordered closed to-day to all travel in the effort to prevent further fires.

Six New Fires Started

Six more fires were reported on Monday and this has brought the total to thirty fires in the past ten days.

Fourteen fires have been burning in the Kenora district but due to the efforts of the fire fighters all but one of the fires are under control. This fire is a bad one at Crow Lake and the area destroyed here is approximately two thousand acres No reports have been received today from Patricia.

Notices are to appear in local papers closing the areas in the pulp concessions.

Hazard Remains Acute.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 30 (Canadian Press).—Forest fire hazards in Kencra, Rainy River and Patricia districts of Ontario to-day remain acute. Two new bush fires were reported this morning, but the wind

BRITISH SLOOP IN U. S. HANDS

Carrying 2,500 Cases of Liquor Crew Is Arrested 80 Miles From Shore.

ALL IN JAIL.

FERNANDIN., Fla., July 30 (Canadian Press). — Coastguardsmen today set about unloading 2,500 cases of liquor, valued at $150,000, from the 75-foot British sloop Betty and Billie seized on Friday 80 miles south of Fernandina Bar.

The cargo will be placed under the seal, and the boat turned over to the customs officials here.

The three members of the crew of the Betty and Billie were arrested yesterday on order of special agents of the United States Treasury Department who investigated the case prior to taking formal action. Under arrest were W. B. Tucker, master R. J. Wallace, and a negro, Tom Williams. Coastguard officials said the trio was in custody in Jacksonville.

Home port of the Betty and Billie is Nassau, Bahamas.

DR. W. S. MURPHY ONLY SURPRISE IN FEDERAL BY-ELECTION POLLS

Prescott and Soulanges Both Returned Liberal Candidates.

LIBERALS LEAD BY 30.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 30.—(By the Canadian Press.) — The results of yesterday's Federal by-elections caused only one surprise here. That was the defeat of the official Conservative candidate in the riding of Lanark, where Dr. W. S. Murphy, an Independent Conservative, led T. A. Thompson, choice of the convention, by a substantial majority. The county of Prescott on the other hand returned the official Liberal, Elie C. Bertrand, Mayor of L'Original over Gustave Eventural, who ran as an Independent Liberal. In Vaudreuil-Soulanges, Que., the return of Lawrence A. Wilson, official Liberal candidate, was expected.

Party Nominee Downed.

Lanark in the past had stuck by the choice of the Conservative convention, and when Mr. Thompson resigned his seat in the Ontario Legislature and became the party's official nominee for the Dominion House, it was thought here his election was assured. The Liberal Association in the riding decided not to enter the contest. Dr. Murphy, a medical practitioner and former Mayor of Smith's Falls, however, had walked out of the Conservative convention, claiming it did not give fair representation to his town. He entered the lists as an Independent Conservative. The election was made necessary by the death of Dr. R. F. Preston.

Prescott Uncertain.

49,000 Boy Scouts Open Big Jamboree

ARROWE PARK, England, July 30.— (Canadian Press).— Four hundred and fifty acres of boys, their enthusiasm undampened by rainy skies, are waiting the opening here to-morrow of the Boy Scouts world jamboree. Fifty thousand scouts from forty-two nations are camped at Arrowe Park just across the Mersey River from Liverpool.

The appetites of 49,000 scouts appeared to be excellent, judged by the cosmopolitan crowd always hanging round the windows of the baker's shop in the quaint camp market place where the boys can buy anything in any language.

SHIFT OF WIND SAVES CITY PARK AS FIRE SWEEPS MILES OF FOREST

Liner Makes Fastest Crossing For Season

PLYMOUTH, Eng., July 30.—(Canadian Press).—The Cunard liner Mauretania arrived here this morning after a crossing from New York in five days, one hour and one minute. Her fastest crossing this year. The average speed was 25.56 miles per hour.

Her officers said she made no attempt to beat the recently established record of the Bremen.

Unestimated Losses in Timber Land Suffered Near Pt. Arthur and Fort William.

COTTAGERS FLEE.

PORT ARTHUR, July 30. (C.P.) — With forest fires dotting the horizon in all directions and a heavy pall of smoke hanging everywhere, the fate of large sections of this district is hanging upon the elements, while an army of fighters are battling against the flames in an effort to save Ontario's timber lands from destruction.

Chippewa Park, the playground of Fort William, was saved last night by a shift in the wind from a blaze which is consuming the surrounding bush. At present the flames fought by Port Arthur and Fort William fire departments, enhanced by a large number of volunteers, are blowing toward the lake. Should the wind change it will be difficult to keep them from invading the park with its menageries of wild life and its summer cottage colony. The cottagers themselves have long since abandoned their homes and are living in the safety of the city.

Hundreds Fight Blaze.

One hundred miles to the west in the vicinity of Head Lake, fire is sweeping a large area and threatening valuable timber limits. The bush, dried up by weeks, with practicaliy no rain, is an easy mark for the invading holdcaust, and only continuous battling on the part of hundreds of men is keeping the conflagrations in check.

At Nipigon Straits fire is burning in slashing though not at the time in heavy and valuable timber. A gang of men is at work there and it is hoped to keep the flames under control.

Man And Woman End Lives At Same Hour In Big New York Hotel—Both Are Friendless

NEW YORK, July 30.—Discovered within a few minutes of each other, the bodies of two suicides, a man and a woman, were found yesterday in the Hotel Hermitage, Seventh avenue and Forty-second street.

Police could establish no connection between the two. They were found in different parts of the building.

The woman, who registered Saturday, under the name of B. Cohan, No. 1224 Michigan avenue, Detroit, Mich., died from strangulation and drowning. She placed a pillow slip over her head, tied it with a stocking and got into a bathtub full of water.

She left the following note addressed to David Weber, of the Detroit address:

"I have no friends, no money, nothing to live for. By the time you get this I will be blooey blooey."

The man left a note addressed to police which read:

"Name, Archibald O'Gilvie.

"Age, twenty-four.

"Address, it makes no difference.

"When I am identified I want my body left to medical science."

O'Gilvie registered at the hotel Saturday, shortly before the woman made her appearance. On the hotel register he gave his address as Montreal, Can.

He was found less than thirty minutes ater the woman's body was discovered, shot through the heart with a .22 calibre rifle strapped to his left leg and with a string tied to the trigger.

Endurance Flyers Are Ordered To Land; Pay No Attention As Pass 411-Hour Mark

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 3.—(C.P.) —The monoplane "St. Louis Robin" passed its 411th hour in the air at 10:17 a.m., (C.S.T.) to-day. At that hour the pilots, Dale (Red) Jackson and Forest O'Brine, had made no response to an order to land some time to-day, sent to them this morning by Major William B. Robertson, sponsor of the endurance flight.

Major William B. Robertson, president of the Curtiss-Robertson Aeroplane Manufacturing Company, which is sponsoring the record breaking endurance flight, this morning sent the fliers a message ordering them to land some time to-day.

The message was sent up shortly after the refueling plane had taken aloft another note, written by Major Robertson last night, in which he told them they could land any time but to use their own judgment and to bear in mind that their safety now was the most important factor of the problem.

EX-MAYOR GEORGE A. KINGSTON WELCOMES OLD BOYS AND GIRLS BACK TO TOWN OF CAMPBELLFORD

Yesterday Was Reception Day When Formal Addresses of Welcome Were Given.

OLD BOYS REPLY.

Everyone Is Glad To Be Home Again Is General Sirit of Addresses.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 30 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Yesterday was reception day when the officials and citizens of the town tendered their formal addresses of welcome to the old boys and girls who have returned, many of them from great distances, to be present at the re-union now in full swing. Ex-Mayor G. A. Kingston, chairman of the Old Home Week Association, made the address of welcome. He extended to the visitors an invitation to enjoy their holiday to the utmost. There had been many changes in the town since some of them had last seen it, and he hoped they would find it improved and bigger and better than ever. The town was theirs for their entertainment and pleasure. He invited them to use it, not only for the week, but for as long as they cared to remain.

T. J. Hannigan, Guelph, was the first speaker to respond. He spoke with great eloquence, recalling the town of former days as he had known it He was also very enthusiastic about the Old Home Week. His trip to the scenes familiar years ago and the privilege of mixing with old friends again, was well worth any price that might be the cost. He hoped the week would be an outstanding success and that all the returning citizens would enjoy their visit as well as himself . Mr. Hannigan has not been in Campbellford for more than twenty years. He became associated with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, and is now secretary of the Domestic Power Department. Asked about his success and business associations since leaving Campbellford, Mr. Hannigan said he was with the Hydro in the capacity previously mentioned, but other than that he was just John Hannigan of Guelph, and glad to be back in the old town again.

Judge Huycke Speaks.

Judge E. C. S. Huycke, Peterborough, also spoke. He did not claim to be a Campbellford Old Boy, but said he had been born in the vicinity and had spent a number of years in the town. He had gone to school here and had also been a teacher in the local school long ago. His reminiscences of those days were both interesting and entertaining, and were greeted with applause from many of the older people who remembered them.

Rev. A. Govan, of Williamstown, Ontario, was inclined to be humorous. He "let the cat out of the bag" frequently, and drew much applause for so doing. In his address, he recalled the days of long ago when there was good sleigh riding on the school hill. Nor did he forget some of the youthful love affairs of the men who are known as Old Boys today. In conclusion, he recalled the fact that while A. G. Knight was lauded as a school teacher in the early days, he was not the first. Mr. Bell, of Inveraray, Scotland, had been here before Knight. Tales of the school days under Bell were interesting, even though personally including some of those who were present at the reception. Mr. Govan said that it was many years since he had left Campbellford, but that during that time he had visited it at more or less frequent intervals. He believed that the opening of the Old Home Week had been successful, and bespoke the greatest week Campbellford has ever known.

J. Pascoe Beel, who left Campbellford in 1895, but has returned on at least one occasion since then, was introduced as an Englishman. He corrected that by saying he was from Wales. Mr. Beel was at one time the bookkeeper at the paper mill. He also conducted a business college in the Wallace Block some twenty-four years ago. But Mr. Beel did not reminisce along these lines. He recalled the days when Tom Bell was the police chief and "full private of the force," sidewalk mender, truant officer, sanitary inspector, and general man about town. There was much difference between those days and now.

Rev. Archibald Graham was the last speaker to respond. He was delighted to be in town again, especially when he was able to meet so many of his old friends. He recalled the days when he had walked five miles from his home on the English line to school in Campbellford and then walked back for supper. It did not stunt his growth, he said. He had managed to get up as high as most of the others. When he started out in the world, he worked for T. J. Horkins. Tommy, as he called him, had been a good employer and a good friend. His days as a clerk were not without their humorous side now, but they were not so funny then. He recalled having shown a woman every pair of shoes in the store and then sorted out a pair from a box of odds and ends, only to be told that she would come in again.

The reception concluded with the National Anthem.

Although the reception was the only official event scheduled to take place yesterday afternoon, there was plenty of other amusement. A jazz band, consisting of members of the regimental band, would never be known as such if it were not for their instruments. They were dressed in every conceivable sort of what might be called costume. There were Arab chieftains, darky minstrels, old maids with moustaches and glasses, and so on. But the music was just what was required to keep things moving. Part of the time the roving band of motley minstrels rode on a truck—part of the time they travelled on the shoe leather express — most of the time they played whatever tunes came into their heads, and all the time they afforded fun for everyone.

Unemployment Situation Grows Serious In Toronto

TORONTO, July 30.—(C.P.)—"Conditions for unskilled workers in Toronto are worse now than they have been at this season for several years", stated W. S. Dobbs, superintendent of the Toronto office of the Ontario Employment Service today.

"There is a large influx of workers from Britain," who have paid their own passages and in addition to this, many Canadians are returning every day from the United States because of the unfavorable conditions. "These men are of course, registering at our office and already there is a heavy list of unemployed."

OMEMEE HONORS HER LOVED ONES

Cemetery Is Beautifully Decorated On Sunday Afternoon.

LODGES PARADE.

OMEMEE, July 30. — (Examiner Correspondence).—A service of unusual interest to the whole community as well as to visitors from other points, was the Decoration Day service which was held in Emily cemetery on Sunday. Much credit should be given to the members of the Women's Institute of Omemee with whom the plan originated and who in co-operation with the Orange Lodges of the district, took complete charge of the service.

Never had the cemetery looked so beautiful as on this occasion, when interested friends carried masses of flowers to decorate the graves of loved ones and it was with a feeling of pride in its orderliness and beauty that over one thousand people gathered for the first ceremony of its kind to be held here.

The Women's Institute members met in a body and preceeded the parade to the graveyard. The Salvation Army band of Lindsay, headed the procession and were followed by five Orange Lodges of the district, composed of Reaboro No. 830, East Emily No's. 294 and 41, and Omemee No's. 113 and 114. Each member of the order carried flowers which were placed on the grave of some departed member of the order shortly after their arrival in the cemetery. The band played several sacred selections near the chapel while this duty was being performed.

Rain Stops Program

The following is the printed program which was prepared but only a small part of which was given owing to the sudden downpour of rain which prevented and scattered the crowd hither and thither. Some took refuge in the chapel which many more sought shelter in their cars.

VILLAGE IS DESTROYED

SUVA, Fiji Island, July 30.—(Canadian Press)—Reports from the British Consul at Tonga here to-day said that a volcanic eruption on the island of Niuafu of the Tongan group, east of the Fiji Islands, had destroyed the village of Futu. No lives were lost, he reported, but the inhabitants of the village were "absolutely destitute."

NORTHERN FIRES GROW WORSE TOURISTS' PERMITS CANCELLED IN DISTRICTS OF NEW ONTARIO

Greatest Number of Fire-fighters On Ground and Air Ever Used.

RAIN NEEDED BADLY.

Experts Claim Loss Will Exceed 1928 When 30,000 Sq. Miles Were Burned.

TORONTO, Ont., July 30 (Canadian Press).—Faced by the worst forest fire hazard since that prevailing at the time of the 1923 holocaust, the Provincial Government has withdrawn tourists' and prospectors' permits in two or three districts of New Ontario, and is contemplating a general ban against prospecting during the danger period.

Such was the statement made yesterday by Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, whose first attention upon his return here from Great Britain was the situation up north.

Mr. Finlayson was unable to give exactly the district in which permits have been withdrawn. Withdrawal was made, he said, on the recommendations of the local Provincial foresters.

More than 1,200 men—the greatest force ever employed—are being used in the air and on the ground in the stern fight being waged against the scores of fires that dot north-western Ontario. But rain, and then more rain, over the whole section is the crying need of the day.

Loss Held Down.

While he admitted that the present situation was fraught with danger, Mr. Finlayson emphasized that the loss so far had been held down due to the vigilance of the Government forces and their skill with the equipment at their disposal. Sufficient returns had not been made yet to give the basis of an estimate of the loss in square miles of timber. "But if the present situation continues," he said, "the loss undoubtedly will exceed that of 1928, when 30,000 square miles were burned over."

Insufficient Planes.

Though new records for flying time have been set by the Provincial Flying Service, it has been found that the Government planes are still insufficient in numbers for the work. Planes being used for photographic and forest-spraying work have been diverted to fire-fighting, and on top of that, the Government has been obliged to hire further machines from three different private air concerns. It also has been necessary, Mr. Finlayson disclosed, to buy a number of new fire pumps and other equipment.

PRINCE GREETS LT.-COL. BLAIR

Winner of King's Prize At N. R. A. Receives Congratulation of Army.

TEETOTALLER HOPES.

LONDON, July 30. (C.P.) — The Prince of Wales to-day received Lt.-Col. R. M. Blair, commanding officer of the Seaforth Highlanders, Vancouver, B.C., at St. James' Palace, and congratulated him on his success in winning the King's prize at the recent meet of the National Rifle Association at Bisley.

In addition to a host of messages from Canada, Lt.-Colonel Blair is especilly gratified by the receipt of congratulations from every battalion of the Seaforth Highlanders in the British Army, he said to-day.

An old lady, a perfect stranger to Lt.-Col. Blair, has written to the King's prizeman from Guernsey, one of the Channel Islands, expressing the hope that he is a teetotaller.

FARMER'S BODY EXHUMED AFTER WIDOW'S REQUEST

Dead Man Believed To Be Victim Of Foul Play.

CORNWALL, July 30.—(Canadian Press Despatch).— Intimations of foul play made to the Attorney-General's department by the widow and relatives in the exhumation of the body of Duncan McIntyre, middle-aged Roxborough farmer, at St. Elmo Cemetery Saturday. Inspector W. Stringer of the Criminal Investigation Department, Toronto, and Provincial Constable William Pringle were present at the exhumation.

McIntyre was found ill in a vacant lot near the railway station at Maxville, June 15, and complained at the time that he must have been poisoned by something he had eaten. Doctors certified death to be due to cerebral hemorrhages.

Decrease In Offerings Blamed On Government

OTTAWA, July 30.—(Canadian Press).—Governments have been blamed for troubles aplenty, but Canada's lawmakers are cited as the cause of a new ill. Decrease in church collections is the latest trouble laid at the door of the Dominion Government, and an Ottawa churchman has made the charge.

With the advent of the "big nickel," church collections have fallen off, a preacher stated at Sunday service. "These large five-cent pieces," he said, "are dropped into the collection plate with a flourish that belongs to nothing less than a quarter. I don't blame the smaller collections on the people. I blame the government."

Official Bulletin On King's Progress

LONDON, July 30.—(Canadian Press)—An official bulletin issued at Buckingham Palace to-day said there had been a further improvement in the condition of the King.

The bulletin said: "The condition of His Majesty, the King, has further improved during the past week. The abscess cavity remains free from purulent discharge, the process of healing has now begun, but must of necessity be gradual.

PUBLIC SCHOOL IS RANSACKED OVER WEEK-END

Janitors Find Doors Off, Books Strewn Over Floors of Building.

NOTHING STOLEN.

Costly Damage Done To Interior and Loss of Papers Incenses Officials.

PRESTON, July 30 (Canadian Press).—Publis School officials were in a highly incensed frame of mind yesterday when a call from the janitors of the Central School informed them that the building had over the week-end been visited by a person or persons who had ransacked the school from room to room wantonly destroying doors and the contents of the school, and causing damage that will amount of hundreds of dollars. Not even a pencil, school authorities believe, was taken from the building, but every room in the school was visited, ransacked, and damaged to a considerable extent, while all were left in a state of wild disorder.

Doors Broken.

Practically every class room door was split alongside the lock where a bar had been inserted to pry the door open while in a number of instances the doors were pried entirely off their hinges and left lying in the corridor. In the principal's room, where school books and papers for the pupils of the coming term were stored, to say nothing of reference papers ,files and other important books, everything had been turned upside down, while the drawers and cupboards were thoroughly ransacked and left in a state of confusion.

WEST SUFFERS LONG DROUGHT

Few Showers, But Not Enough to Relieve Parched Crops.

NO RAIN IN SIGHT

WINNIPEG, Man., July 30.—(C.P.)—Not the slightest relief from the widespread drought that is rapidly deteriorating all grain crops in western Canada is in sight. There may be scattered showers on the prairies during the next 48 hours, but of a general rain that is so much needed there is no prospect.

The west experienced another dry and hot week-end with temperatures ranging between 85 and 100 degrees. Edmonton, Alta., was the hottest point west of the Great Lakes with a mark of 102 degrees.

A few points reported light showers, but they were widely scattered.

Attempt Foiled To Burn Doukhobor Leader's Home

REGINA, July 30.—(Canadian Press)—An unsuccessful attempt was made yesterday to burn down the home of Peter Veregin Jr., at Veregin, Sask. Veregin is leader of the Radical Sons of Freedom sect of the Doukhobors. Traces of gasoline were found. During the night a Community Hall at Kylesmore, a Doukhobor district, was burned to the ground.

At the same time a document is being circulated in Regina setting forth claims that Doukhobors have been ill-treated and "tortured to death" by government officials.

ONE MAN INJURED AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Car Jumped Sidewalk and Strikes Telephone Pole in Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 30.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)—Regardless of abnormal conditions in town at the present time, there have been no accidents of a serious nature, although a car crash yesterday evening was a close shave for about six people. As a result of a fairly sharp turn, a child suddenly appearing on the pavement and a car that was going a little more than a legal speed, one man has three stitches in his scalp and two other are well shaken up.

A party of three men were entering town about seven-thirty yesterday evening coming east on Sebasapol street. Just at the corner, eye-witnesses saw the car suddenly swerve to the right, off the pavement and on to the sidewalk. It crossed that and went along a private lawn till it sideswiped a telephone pole and rolled over. The front and right side of the car are badly damaged. It was necessary to have it brought to a garage with a wrecking truck No one was seriously injured.

GIRL WITNESS OF DROWNINGS THOUGHT WANDERING IN BUSH

Feared Drowned, But Now Believed To Be Lost After Going For Help.

PROBABLY STARVING.

OTTAWA ,Ont., July 30 (Canadian Press). — Somewhere in the dense bush which surrounds Houders Lake, 22 miles north of Buckingham, Que., Miss Irene Lamont, 27, thought to have been drowned with three companions last Thursday is now believed to be starving to death, struggling to find her way back to some settlement.

The conclusion that she was not drowned in what ,at the time, appeared to have been a quadruple tragedy ,was expressed yesterday by relatives in Ottawa ,who declare that none of her clothing has been found, and that dragging operations covering almost every foot of the lake bottom have failed to produce any sign of her body.

Miss Lamont's father believes that stunned by the tragedy which she had witnessed, the girl, who could not swim and who had always been afraid of the water, rushed into the bush in search of help and became lost.

DELIGHTFULLY VERSATILE

THE STYLE No. 2837 is Middy blue silk crepe, a favorite with the smart woman for general daytime wear, for theater and dinner at fashionable restaurants. It's delightfully versatile with its all-around plaited skirt that, just to ge different, dips its sides. The bodice is long-waisted, shirred at centerfront with bow trim. It is cut through dotted lines at each side at underarm seams and upper edge gathered and joined to lower edge which gives the tight hip effect. In chiffon or lace, it becomes more formal and can be made without sleeves by piping armholes.

THE PATTERN is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew. It is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. The Picture Chart shows exactly how to put this charming dress together. It shows in Pictures how to do it. It's just like playing. You make use of your spare moments, and enhance your loveliness by wearing attractive frocks, whose cost is but a few yards of material.

NEW SUMMER FASHION BOOK is just filled with Paris and New York styles attractively presented and cleverly adapted for the use of home sewers. A book for superior to all previous issues. Price 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

VIMY RIDGE HERO WEDS

The photograph here shows Major T. W. MacDowell, V.C., D.S.O., with his bride, the former Miss Nora Jean Hodgson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Hodgson, Montreal, immediately after their marriage in Montreal on July 25. Major MacDowell is a son of the late Rev. J. V. MacDowell, and won his V. C. at Vimy Ridge during the last war. The official citation of the act which brought him this honor reads as follows: "For most conspicuous bravery and indomitable resolution in the face of heavy machine gun and shell-fire (April 9-13, 1917, Vimy Ridge.) By his initiative and courage this officer, with the assistance of two runners, was enabled in the face of great difficulties, to capture two machine guns, besides two officers and 75 men. Although wounded in the hand he continued for five days to hold the position gained, in spite of heavy shell-fire, until eventually relieved by his battalion. By his bravery and prompt action he undoubtedly succeeded in rounding up a very strong machine-gun post."

THAT BODY OF YOURS

DEVELOPING ARCHES OF TNE FEET.

I often wonder if folks with flat painful feet ever think what is happening to their whole body—physically and mentally)—as they pound along.

Nature provided a wonderful springy arch in the foot which was meant to take the "jar" off the whole body.

When this arch loses its spring, and the foot goes flat on the ground, then the whole weight of the body is allowed to reach or strike the ground. The jar from this goes right up the legs and spinal column to the brain.

Nature has put cushions between the bones of the spinal column which lessens the jar somewhat, but nothing can take the place of a good springy well arched foot.

One of the disappointing things you see every day is the individual, quite young, who has adopted arch supports and seems quite satisfied to use them the rest of his life.

Now there are times when it may be necessary to wear arch supports for a while. You have been sick, or perhaps of a good weight, and need support for your feet if you are to get about at all.

But flat feet can be avoided or corrected in the majority of cases if you are willing to devote ten to twenty minutes of your time daily for that purpose.

The simplest method is to walk across the room on the outside edges of the feet with the toes turned inward

This forms the foot almost into the shape of a claw, and the more arched and claw like you can get your foot, the more you are developing the muscles that hold up the arch.

Walking across the room this way, say six times night and morning, is necessary.

Trying to pick up a ball or other object with the foot also develops the arch.

Major Von Gruber, a German medical officer has invented a device where the patient is required to walk up and down a sort of staircase which makes it necessary to walk on outside edges of his feet, and to grip or claw the little wooden steps in order to hold on.

If your arches are right down and rigid, then a properly fitted arch support is necessary

Don't wear arch supports until you have tried to develop an arch.

If you fail to develop it, then you are justified in wearing arch supports.

OUR CHILDREN

THE HOME SCHOOL.

Home is the children's first school and mother is the first and the last teacher.s A child learns more in the first five year, of life and learns it faster than he eve learns again in the same space of time. All his habits are set. All his experiences of sense, the basis of all after-growth are tested. The foundation of his education is laid at home by his mother.

We train teachers at great expense and we establish schools at tremendous costs throughout the nation, but we give little heed to the real school, the first and last school and its teacher, home and mother. It would be well to take heed here for it is most wasteful of human growth and energy to start a child the wrong way and try to adjust him later.

If the modern girl does nothing else than eliminate the old notion that a girl must be in ignorance of all that pertains to motherhood and home-keeping until the day of her marriage, the world owes her an everlasting monument. If she sets frankness inthe stead of secrecy here posterity owes her an undying gratitude. Trained mothers mean the rebirth of the world, the dawning of glorious civilization. Healthy children, healthy in body and in mind throughout the world. What a tremendous idea that is. And it is coming true. The girls are going to see to it. And the boys too.

Classes are being established in our leading schools for the education of parents—prospective parents. One professor, in fear and trembling opened a class for the boys in the college where the main topic was fatherhood. He expected about ten students and he got more than a hundred earnest boys who wanted to know what a good father could do and how to be one.

"I'm going to this college instead of that one because this college has a class for girls who intend to be married. I'm going to have a family by and by and I want to know how to rear and how to train it. That's to be my career and I'm going to make it as fine a job as I know how," said one of the most intelligent graduate of a high school class. "And I'm going along with you. I've promised Dick I'd learn how to mother at least four children and run the house," said another young woman whose teachers had groaned over her lipstick and rouge and rolled stockings.

There'll be one good thing about these home schools the next generation. The mother and teacher who heads them will not be teachery. She will be motherly with the added power of knowledge. That will save the day. And those children feeding into the schools will bring with them a certain quality that will eliminate the teachery attitude from the schools. Oh, it's a great idea. Every school in the land should push it along.

Mother's Clubs could help tremendously in this field by holding classes for themselves—and their daughters. No more secrets. Children belong to the world. Let the air and the light of truth be about them.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

By JEANETTE.

"Here comes the bride now,—
Look at the litte cutie,—
Look at the little beauty,—
Look at the little doll.—
It's her wedding day."
—"The Wedding of the Painted Doll"

The scene called "The Wedding of the Painted Doll" was one of the most effective of the many bright episodes in "The Broadway Melody", the conversational picture which formed the opening program of the talkies at the Capitol Theater here. The gorgeous setting, the beautifully stiff bride with her dainty attendants, the dark bridegroom, and, above all, the frisky clergyman who was a hilariously dignified figure in the proceedings, were the cause of much merriment among the watchers.

At "Inglestane", the Y.W.C.A Camp at Stoney Lake, a recent bit of fun among the girls was "The Wedding of the Painted Doll." It was decribed by one of the campers as follows:

"The bride (Miss Marjorie Wright), looked charming in an ivory satin gown of period design. Her veil, caught with sweet william and pine needles, consisted of a rose window curtain. She carried a bouquet of woodland fern and sumac.

"The bride's attendant (Miss Rose McKibbon), was sweetly gowned in a vivid coolie coat, below which hung dainty knicker pantalettes of grey tweed. She wore a lemon straw picture hat draped with a plaid scarf. Dangling from her ear was an ivory button-hook ear-ring, the gift of the bridegroom.

"The bridegroom (Miss Helen Macdonald), looked handsome in a long swallow-tail coat, grey knickers and a monstrous bow tie. His hat, of Mexican design, was adorned with a plume of woodland fern.

"The attendant of the bridegroom was Miss Dorothy Yelland, who wore a black velvet jacket, khaki knickers, scarlet bow tie and a black fedora caught up with a clothes pin. He carried a red velvet cushion on which reposed all the worldly goods of the bridegroom—scales, monkey wrench, corkscrew, bottle opener, jack-knife and string.

"Bishop Sniffle Snuffle (Miss Helen Anderson), officiated. His ceremonial robes consisted of a white shirtwaist pulled over a flowing white nightgown. His Bishop's cap of black net and his scarlet neckpiece lent a sober aspect to his benign countenance.

"Accompanied by many heart-rending sniffles and snuffles, His Worship tied together, with a piece of binder twine, the dazed couple. During the signing of the register, the costly orchestra of Victrola origin played "You Were Meant for Me", led by Elsie Fowler.

"The second stunt of the evening was a very serious and sober pantomime entitled "Clementine." The theme song was rendered very sweetly by Miss Mary Morton, during which time the characters enacted their various roles with much enthusiasm. Laughter which shook rafters was caused by the Miner (Miss Helen Charlton), with his toothless grin; Clementine (Miss Alma Dobbins), flitting about in her fairy shoes of cherry baskets; the Little Sister (Miss Bettie Mills), with her green hair ribbon; the Lover (Miss Lulu Smith), with dainty moustache, and the Duck (Miss Lois Stewart) waddling about in yellow pyjamas.

"The Hooligan Gang" then presented a tragic pantomime entitled "The Supreme Sacrifice." The story, read by Miss C. Littlefield, concerned a western romance in which Darling Nell (Miss Grace Comstock), rescued Lady Claire (Miss Sadie Bouskill), from the clutches of two Indians, Chief-Hole-in-the-Breeches, (Miss Viola Harvey), and Chief Mudin-the-Face (Miss Jeannette Allin). Knowing that a cowboy of the plains, Alkali Ike (Miss Jean Harvey), had already won the heart of Lady Claire, and that her love for him was hopeless, Darling Nell stabs first her horse (a broom) and then herself, thus making "Her Supreme Sacrifice."

"A mysterious stranger, who introduced himself as Uncle Si (Mr. Arnott, caretaker at the Camp), entertained the audience with many old-time melodies on a mouth organ and the evening performance was brought to a close by a reception in honor of the bride and bridegroom, after which chocolate and cookies were served."

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

OH, I had a delightful time," is a common phrase on the streets of Peterborough just now. Many have returned from a vacation which was altogether too short, while others are still looking forward to spending a much-needed holiday miles from home and its surroundings!

* * * * * *

The two rgeat reasons for taking vacations are rest and change, so the sort of vacation trip that is planned should depend upon which is needed most. It is true that the very going to another place signifies change, but after one gets to a place if the same style of living follows, change is not really attained except that of locality.

* * * * * *

Little benefit can be expected if no contrast in living results. It takes change of atmosphere, both physical and mental, to prove restorative.

* * * * * *

If rest is needed, the sort of vacation to choose depends upon the kind of rest that is essential. If bodily recuperation is the thing sought, choose a place having the air best suited to the physique, and in which life moves slowly and requires little effort to keep up with.

* * * * * *

And then, if mental rest is needed, this same sort of a place would be all right, or one in which there are outdoor activities and sports. The reaction of physical fatigue from pleasant activities is often the very best thing to gain mental rest for a weary brain. Some brain workers cannot be physically inactive without their brains keeping up activity, and it is mental activity that must be lulled to cure brain fag.

* * * * * *

If a person leads a sort of humdrum life, one which the monotony of work is also physically wearisome, and therefore after a day's task there is not enough energy left to make one care for a good time, in evenings, or after work hours, then a lively place will supply a distinct change. It may be wise, though, to get into the swing of activities slowly just at first, and let the body get rested while one is merely an onlooker.

* * * * * *

After that, a plunge into social activities, sports, golf, rides, dances, etc., will prove very refreshing.

* * * * * *

Care has to be exercised not to get physically tired with pleasure so that rest is needed afterwards—one often hears the expression that it takes two or three weeks to get rested after having a vacation!

* * * * * *

But if one has a thoroughly good time while holidaying, the memory of it, and the prospect of a repetition of equally good times next season, will do much to keep a worker well and happy during months of humdrum work the rest of the year.

* * * * * *

The persons who lead lives full of social duties all winter and continue this same sort of life during the summer, have to pay the price of illness or of recuperative periods at home or in a sanatorium.

* * * * * *

Vacations are essential!

* * * * * *

Rest and change must be had during some periods of a year or persons grow dull, in mind, and miserable in body. So choose the type of vacation that most nearly suits your own needs and gain the benefits that will surely come from it.

* * * * * *

Just one word to families—it isn't much of a vacation to mothers when a cottage is rented for the familes' vacation—mother has to do the same work she has done for the last three hundred and sixty-five days, and she deserves a change!

* * * * * *

If a cottage has to be taken, let father and the boys do the cooking for a while—they'll get used to it and it won't taste too bad after the first week or so!

Camps may be all right if they are not run systematically—any business or school girl who has to work systematically three hundred and sixty-five days of the year, isn't going to go to a camp where she has to go in swimming at seven, breakfast at seven-thirty, and tidy up her room immediately after.

* * * * * *

I know there have to be certain rules connected with any camp in order that they may be run successfully, but if a person wants to sleep in until noon, possibly, let him sleep; if he doesn't want to enter into any of the sports, let him rest—it's his vacation!

* * * * * *

As for the housewife, just let her come in and sit down to her meals, served daintily for a couple of weeks. Maybe—if she's like some mothers I know—she'll find many new dishes which she can plan to serve her family on her return!

FRENCH BERTHA COLLAR.

THE STYLE sketched ,straight from Paris, is altogether charming with its flattering bertha collar. It's so different from other necklines. It's really a diversion. It can be made with or without sleeves. It offers the woman with a mature figure a sleeveless dress that she can wear and disguise plump arms without a telltale. The deep hip yoke, too, makes it quite possible for the stout woman to wear a full flaring skirt, which flutters so gracefully in silks and filmy sheer crepes and cotton fabrics with the summery breezes. It's definitely smart in black chiffon, lipstick red crepe de chine, flowered voile or chiffon.

LADY CLIMBERS CAPTURE BADGE

Four Out of Six Awards for Climbing in Canadian Rockies Went to Women.

ARE KEEN MOUNTAINEERS

GLACIER, B.C., July 30.—Women are as keen and often as expert mountain climbers as men, it is disclosed by the fact that almost half of the hundred and twenty odd who have attended the camp of the Alpine Club of Canada here, have been women, and four received badges for outstanding climbing in the Canadian Rockies out of the six awarded this year. Four peaks of more than ordinary difficulty must be scaled during four successive years in order to earn a special badge and those announced at the Club's annual meeting here as having attained this distinction were: Miss Esther Thompson, Winnipeg; Miss E. Porter, Calgary; Miss E. Morrill, Brooklyn; Mrs. L. B. Moffatt, Calgary and Mr. N. B. Hanson, Banff and Mr. S. J. Groves, Vancouver.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG, That old and antique song we heard, last night.

"TOMMY."
(Contributed by "Beatrice").

Now Tommy was a soldier boy, who marched behind the band;
For he, you see, was proud to be in company so grand;
A member of the volunteers, the best in any land,
And ev'ry one would cheer as he went by.
In colors gay he marched away, in time to martial air,
And well he knew, among the throng, his sweetheart would be there;
With his gun at shoulder arms, and his military charms,
He winked at her, and then she softly sighed:

Chorus.

O Tommy, you are my soldier boy,
O Tommy, it fills my heart with joy,
As down the avenue you come
To the rub-a-dub-dub upon the drum,
Right face, forward Company C;
O Tommy, you are the only one,
O Tommy, we know you'll never run;
You're always staunch and true,
And we love you, yes we do,
O Tommy, you're the boy for me.

One summer day, from far away, there came a call for men
To go and fight for what was right, and liberty, again;
And Tom was first to shoulder arms, and fight our battles then,
He gave his girl a kiss and said 'Goodbye';
The fighting done, the victory won, and up the avenue,
With pallid face, and tired pace, came back our boy so true;
But above the wild huzzas, and the hip, hip, hurrahs,
He could hear the girl he left behind him cry:

CURIOUS

We haven't heard that Marion Tally was in the Congressional lobby asking for farm relief.

BATHING FATALITIES.

Eleven bathers were drowned in Ontario over the week-end, and the total deaths from bathing accidents are mounting at a rapid rate.

The heavy toll should result in greater carefulness in and around the water; people should stop taking chances and parents should see that children are not allowed to take them.

In the case of the latter they should be made to swim in supervised bathing places where they stand a chance of being rescued should they get into difficulties.

Two young boys were nearly drowned at Inverlea Park on Saturday when one waded into a hole and the other tried to save him, only prompt action on the part of an eye witness preventing a double tragedy.

Had these youngsters been bathing at some other point not so popular as Inverlea Park they would have added two more names to the long list of drownings.

The point is clear that bathing in the case of non-swimmers should be confined to the supervised beach at Inverlea where help in case of accidents is likely to be available; the risk elsewhere is appreciably greater.

THE INFORMATION BUREAU.

Although the tourist season has nearly reached its zenith for this year, the information bureau opened by the Peterborough Automobile Club yesterday will be able to contribute very useful service before the movement of visitors into this district ceases for the summer.

The bureau will likely be operated for the full season next year and thereafter, and should justify its existence in the help it will be able to give visitors and in the good-will and helpful advertising that will be engendered by such a service.

Tourists judge a district as much from the courtesy and hospitality they receive as they do from its scenic beauty and other advantages, and they appreciate efforts made to save them time and inconvenience, as the information bureau undoubtedly will do.

The Automobile Association in providing this helpful institution is giving another proof of its desire to offer community service.

The bureau will do much to make visitors enjoy their sojourn in this part of Ontario, and they will remember and tell their friends about it when they get home, which, of course, is the most useful form of advertising.

THE AUSTRALIAN VIEWPOINT.

The report of the Tariff Committee appointed by Premier Bruce of Australia to study the question of free trade within the British Empire is of first-class importance at the present time, in view of the agitation in various sections of the Empire for greater trade among the component parts of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

The committee has declared that the suggested free trade policy would be disastrous to Australia, inasmuch as it would develop British imports at the expense of Australian products, and this condition would not be offset by the fact that foreign imports would be reduced.

Furthermore the report states that no party in Australia would consent to abandon the present principle of protection.

The Australian view, as voiced in this finding, illustrates the difficulty in the way of a greater measure of free trade between the various parts of the Empire, for while the principle appeals from a patriotic viewpoint, the old obstacle of self-interest still remains in the path, and as one commentator somewhat cynically said not long ago, "When it comes to a question of an industry being put out of business it makes little difference whether it was ruined by a German or Japanese, or by a British competitor."

FOREST FIRES.

While the aerial service and other branches of Ontario's forest protection forces are making heroic efforts to handle dangerous outbreaks of fire, comes word from the Dominion Forest Service that Canada is faced with the most serious forest fire situation since 1923.

That is a disturbing outlook, and it is somewhat disconcerning in view of the campaign that has been carried on for some years to protect Canada's forests to learn that the majority of the forest fires this year have been due to carelessness.

Trappers, prospectors, campers and tourists, according to the Dominion service, must all bear a share of responsibility for the outbreak of these disastrous fires, and it is even declared that prospectors have deliberately fired the timber in order to get at the ground without the trouble of having to use their axes.

If there is any way of getting at the offenders in this last case the authorities should make an example of them, for the chances are that they have destroyed more wealth through their recklessness than they will discover in all their prospecting.

The long dry spell has made it imperative that the utmost care should be exercised in regard to camp-fires, cigarettes, lighted matches and anything else likely to start a blaze in the timber belt.

MOTORBOATING "DON'TS."

An authority upon motorboating has listed the following as "Don'ts" which might well gain general observance in the interest of reducing the number of fires, following explosions, which take place upon such craft and which annually lead to the loss of a considerable number of lives:

1. Don't fill tanks in the engine room. Have the pipe extended to the deck so the spillage will go in the scuppers and overboard.
2. Don't allow a big spark in the engine room; keep the commutation down.
3. Don't allow gasoline in the bilge.
4. Don't use gasoline on waste to clean the engine.
5. Don't be careless with matches and cigarettes.
6. Don't draw gasoline to clean clothes.

According to marine architects and engineers, the cause of boat explosion is usually "spillage." Most explosions occur directly after filling. There is often spillage in the engine rooms, and according to engineers, only from two to six per cent. of gas is needed in the air to produce an explosion which is caused by the gasoline vapor and ignition. An extension of the pipe for filling to the deck is currently advocated because in this way any overflow will not get into a confined space and start a fire.

Spillage in the engine room is dangerous because there is always a generating set there with a spark which will start an explosion as soon as enough gasoline vapor gets in the air. The bilge is another source of explosion, for if gas gets down there, as the Watertown Times points out, it mixes with air to produce the dangerous gas vapor utilized in motor carburetors.

The frequent explosions which occur on the river and lakes during the summer months can in many cases be attributed to some of these factors which have been mentioned. They should be reckoned with if accidents are to be averted.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

MR. HOOVER REPLIES.

President Hoover has replied to the announcement of a reduction in the British naval building program with a decision to suspend laying keels of three new cruisers "until there has been an opportunity for full consideration of their effect upon the final agreement for parity" which he expects to reach with Great Britain. This is progress, definite progress towards an end of incalculable importance.

No doubt Mr. Hoover welcomed the opportunity of doing something about his country's mounting military expenditures. The United States to-day spends far more money on its army and navy than any other nation. Furthermore these costs are ascending steadily, while each year Great Britain votes less for services far more essential to the safety of an island Kingdom and a scattered Empire.

In a statement issued by Mr. Hoover he reviews estimated federal expenditures for the next four years, as imposed by legislation already passed by Congress, and declares they provide for an increase by 1933 of between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 above the expenditures of the fiscal year just ended. Then he elaborates on the share of the army and navy in these huge sums:

"Of this the purely military and naval expenditures, excluding non-military activities of these departments, represent about one-half. The combined expenditure is estimated at $803,000,000 in 1933, an increase of $120,000,000 over the last fiscal year and $224,000,000 over four years ago. All of which compares with a total of $266,000,00 average pre-war total for the combined military services of the army and navy, or an estimated increase by 1933 of $530,000,000 over pre-war. These amounts do not include any amount which we justly spend on veterans who suffered in past wars, which in itself amounts to about $820,000,000 per annum. Moreover, many bills are pending before Congress that will still further increase this sum.

"The American people should understand that current expenditure on strictly military activities of the army and navy constitutes the largest military budget of any nation in the world to-day, and at a time when there is less real danger of extensive disturbance to peace than at any time in more than half a century."

The President expressed the hope that naval expenditures would be reduced by international agreement, and he announced a commission of army officers to review present establishments with a view to cutting expenses. He issued the following table of total expenditures by Britain, France, Japan and the United States for all military purposes, including armies, navies and air fleets:

United Kingdom:
1927-1928 (actual expenses)	$570,758,400
1928-1929 (actual expenses)	551,464,200
1929-1930 (estimates)	547,274,600
France:
1928-1929 (estimates)	407,915,000
1929-1930 (estimates)	523,241,000
Japan:
1927-1928 (actual expenditures)	212,383,000
1928-1929 (actual expenditures)	224,352,000
1929-1930 (estimates)	235,351,000
United States:
1927-1928 (actual expenditures)	624,600,000
1928-1929 (actual expenditures)	664,700,000
1929-1930 (estimates)	741,000,000

In two years Great Britain has reduced military bills by $23,000,000; the United States has increased hers by $117,000,000. This year the United States is spending $194,000,000 more than Britain on her army and navy—"at a time," to quote Mr. Hoover, "when there is less real danger of extensive disturbance to peace than at any time in more than half a century." The most sceptical congressman will find it difficult to prove from these figures that Britain needs to be watched closely for fear that she might grab the Panama Canal and seize New York and San Francisco some dark night.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Bathing suits are to be smaller next summer, according to a manufacturer. The vanishing point cannot be far away.

Bathing fatalities are outnumbering automobile deaths in Ontario. It pays to be careful, in the water and on the highway.

Premier Gardiner is on sound ground constitutionally in meeting the Legislature, but that won't save him when the Opposition brings in a lack of confidence motion.

"The City of Tacoma" was wrecked in the start of a non-stop flight to Japan. The accident may have saved the life of the pilot.

Nearly 30,000 people have been killed in the larger cities of the United States by automobiles in the last four years—a grim record that should cause a demand for safer conditions.

ST. GEORGE'S S.S. STAGES PICNIC

Merrymakers Journey To Harwood and Wallace's Pt. By S. S. Stoney Lake.

KIDDIES HOLD RACES.

The good weather which usually accompanies St. George's Sunday school picnic kept up its good reputation once more when on Friday last the Stoney Lake left George street wharf with a large number on board for the annual event. The trip was made down the river to Harwood where a stop for about an hour enabled all to partake of lunch. The party then embarked for the return trip as far as Wallace's Point. Here the afternoon was spent in amusements and sports followed by tea. The races were in charge of Rev. J. L. Hughes, Mr. E. Tucker and Mr. Arthur Bacon. A booth which had been catered for by Mrs. Andrews and ably supervised by Mr. Tucker, did a thriving business in charge of the Misses Phyllis Simmons and Dorothy Churchill and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dorrell. The young people especially derived much pleasure on board coming home, from the music supplied by an orchestra composed of piano played by Percy Ackison, saxaphone by Harold Sowden and drums by Arthur Sowden.

Peterborough was reached about 7:30 p. m., everyone agreeing that it had been one of the most enjoyable and happy picnics ever held.

LIGHTNING HITS VILLAGE STORE

Three Fire Brigades Prevent Fire Razing Oakwood Business Section.

$4,000 LOSS

LINDSAY, July 30.—The business section of the village of Oakwood narrowly escaped destruction by fire on Sunday afternoon when the store of Thos. Jenkins, grocer and confectioner, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed together with contents. The lightning struck the warehouse attached to the store, and in a short time the structure was a mass of flames. A barrel of oil caused a terrific explosion, sending a sheet of flame many feet in the air. It required the combined efforts of the Oakwood, Little Britain and Lindsay fire brigades to prevent the fire spreading throughout the business section. Mr. Jenkins places his loss on stock at $4,000, with $3,000 insurance.

THE MAKE-BELIEVE WIFE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 4.

Now, to-day, into the midst of the girl's vague fretting and uneasiness over the whole situation, had fallen this bombshell of a serious offer of marriage from Houston Challoner. Beatrice could hardly believe it, even now. But her memory of the few words he had said was perfectly clear, and there were the violets to prove it.

He was a rather tense, serious man, at best, and to-day he had shown, a certain nervousness—almost a shyness—with this girl who might so easily have been his daughter.

"Will you ask that very lovely mother of yours something for me, Miss Beatrice?" he had sai..

"Anything!" the girl had answered simply, smiling. But the color had rushed up into her face none the less, at his tone.

"Will you ask her if you may dine with me, any night next week, at the Underhill, and go to see 'Robinson Crusoe'?" he had said.

"Robinson Crusoe" was the great musical spectacle, coming from New York for one week at North Underhill. There was not a girl in the office who was not scheming to see "Robinson Crusoe." But Beatrice's heart had sunk strangely at the invitation, and under her shabby old fur-trimmed blue coat she had felt the muscles drawing back from the neighborhood of Houston Challoner's shoulder.

He—why, he was forty-eight; he was old. And if he took her to the theatre—if he showed everyone what he thought of her—

Loyalty had sprung up within her too—loyalty to dear Marcia, so unable to protect herself from the anguish this news would cause her!

Thoughts surged confusedly back and forth in her mind as the quiet snowy afternoon went by and Marcia dozed and waked and dozed again and Mrs. St. John rocked fitfully in her favorite chair, played solitaire fitfully, knitted fitfully for the old soldiers in the home, and fitfully went to and fro between the bedroom and the kitchen, putting out milk bottles, refusing agents, talking to the laundryman.

"Well, look here—where were you with the wash yesterday? Friday, yes, Well, of course. Oh, I see. Oh, that's too bad. No, it didn't make the slightest difference, as it happens."

Beatrice washed her hair and doubled herself over at the lighted gas logs in the false fireplace, drying it.

"Of course it doesn't make the slightest difference," she echoed her mother's words scornfully, deep in her soul. "Nothing makes the slightest difference to us. I wonder if anything will ever happen to this family?"

"I always used to think," she reflected further. "that the girls in books were fools not to marry a rich man, if one came along. Why not? All men are pretty much alike, especially if you're not in love, and certainly Mr. Challoner is as nice as he can be. He's always been lovely to us; he came to see us when mummy was sick. But—"

She tossed her red mane back, and drew a great grasping breath.

"But good, gracious, what an awful thing it is when you come right down to it!" she said.

"Don't catch your hair on fire," Mrs. St. John, who rarely said a necessary thing, warned her absent-mindedly.

Marcia, in the bed beyond the archway, awakened with a little moan.

"Bee—darling!"

Beatrice was arranging her thick, copper-colored crop. It was just long enough to be ruffled back in two curly heavy bands over her ears, and tucked under, with infinite spraying and rippling and rebellion, at the white nape of her neck.

"Bee, I feel rotten, dear," Marcia looked flushed and dark, and there was an unhealthy glisten on her face.

"The tea wasn't the right thing!" Bee exclaimed, at her bedside.

"No, it wasn't that. But—I feel so horribly weak," Marcia said thickly; "and my heart's beating so—"

So that was an end to personal dreams for that afternoon, although, as it turned out, there was nothing much the matter with Marcia. The doctor was entirely unalarmed and talked comfortably enough of blood pressure and localized anaemia and underweight. Marcia was eleven pounds underweight, it appeared, and the first thing to do was to put on those pounds.

Marcia laughing and relieved, and a little inclined to flirt with the doctor, took her diet list and studied it interestedly and promised to eat like a wolf. She was always hungry, anyway; there would be no trouble about that.

She went back to work on Monday—only drinking a pint of milk at eleven and at four. And Beatrice went back to work Monday and found an opportunity to say quickly and without punctuation, but quite distinctly, to Houston Challoner, "I didn't ask Mother what you told me Mr. Challoner because I never go out to dinner or theatre except with the boys I've known all my life but I do appreciate your asking me and I know I would have had a lovely time if I had gon?e."

Houston Challoner looked at her very attentively while she said it, and answered kindly that he appreciated exactly how she felt, and he thanked her for being so honest with him, and that he hoped she would think of him as one of her realest, truest friends.

"If anything ever comes up in which I could be of service to you," he said, "I want you to feel that you would turn to me."

Beatrice thanked him again, and went away feeling more uncomfortable than ever. Even while he spoke she was thinking that he had never said that to Marcia, for all the loyal service Marcia had rendered him, and that it was not fair. How prickly it made her feel! How ecstatically it would have thrilled Marcia!

Beatrice had spoken to him at midday, when they both happened to be coming out of the Challoner Building, where the offices of the company were situated. She watched him go down the street to the snowy curb, where his car was waiting; a well-made, slender, handsome manin a fur-collared coat, with just the right gloves and hat, just the right nod to his chauffeur as he got in beside him.

"I declare I think there's something chemical in the way people make you feel." Beatrice mused turning into Canfield's Cafeteria, and eyeing creamed carrots and fruit cup and macaroni salad with an absent eye. "Some persons are alive to you, and some are dead, and you can't help it; it's just that way. It's no use for me to tell myself that he's terribly nice and that I'm an awful fool in a town of this size, with the boys here what they are, to let him get away. He simply isn't alive to me and there you are!"

She turned her attention resolutely to Younger May and Harry Fontaine. Roger Newberry had gone away. Beatrice studied them as possible husbands. Of course neither had a penny, but, then, that didn't matter, or, at least, that shouldn't matter, for, after all, thousands of rich, successful men had started as poor boys.

Younger was a handsome creature, with a deep natural ripple in golden hair that went far toward atoning for his shallowness and stupidity.

Harry would be a safe enough person marry, if one loved him. But, unfortunately, she herself could not seem to feel even the faintest stir of emotion where he, or anyone else, was concerned. It scared her a little, this remoteness.

"I never get anywhere with your red-headed, proud, tall type," one boy had told her once, quite frankly, "I like 'em loving."

Beatrice had looked at Marcia, entirely respectable and fine and capable—and unwanted. And she had determined to unbend. But she never could do it. And meanwhile she was twenty. Beatrice could remember Marcia's twentieth birthday, and of her own pride, at eleven, in the big sister who had got such a wonderful job with the finest architectural firm in the city. It seemed yesterday.

"Marsh, when you were down at the drug store to-day, did you weight?" she began to ask every evening.

"I didn't have a penny, and neither did Miss Phelan."

And then, days later:

"Did you get weighed, Marsh?"

"Yes, I did. But those scales are crazy. The man said they were."

"You mean you haven't gained?"

"Oh, it isn't that. But he said they were crazy."

"But you haven't gained?"

"Not by them, I haven't. But it doesn't worry me, because I know they aren't adjusted."

"It seems just ridiculous the fuss people make about weight nowadays." Mrs. St. John ,playing a black ace, said dreamily. "I don't know as I ever weighed once, when I was young."

Beatrice looked at her levelly, patiently. She did not speak.

"You certainly eat enough," said the mother comfortably. "You eat more than Bee does!"

"I don't eat any more than I used to," Marcia presently observed, as if the point were unimportant. Beatrice looked at her in turn thoughtfully. She knew this was untrue. Marcia was forcing herself to eat puddings and cream soups and cereals: she drank m,, twice a day. And still the strange pallor continued and the oily, damp, dark look to her skin. She tired easily too; she often came home at about four o'clock and lay down.

What To-day Means To You.

JULY 30th "LEO".

If July 30th is your birthday, the best hours for you on shis date are from 10 a.m. to 11.30 p.m., from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m., and from 7 p.m. to 8.40 p.m. The danger periods are from 6 a.m. to 8 a.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m.

From an astrological standpoint, this date is unlucky for you. Only misfortune and disappointment will come through the renewal of old associations. Do not attempt at this time to revive old friendships, or to patch up family feuds.!

The child born this July 30th will have strong emotions, and will be inclined to display considerable temper when things do not go its way. It will be thirsty for knowledge, and will be fond of scientific pursuits.

Self-consciousness is the bugbear of your existence, and through this trait you suffer a great deal of mental agony, and forego many pleasures. It prevents you getting on with people, and from receiving due credit for your intelligence or ability. You struggle to impress others, and by so doing are both unnatural and affected. If you can learn to interest others without a thought as to the impression you are making, you will soon lose this trait, and will become more attractive. Try to make your listeners feel their importance, and your own popularity will be assured!

You have a very generous nature, and you are too tenderhearted to ever do anything unto others to hurt. You allow yourself to be imposed on because you have not the courage to protest. If a woman, you find your home invaded, your leisure frittered away, and your money spent on people who batten like parasite son your time and sympathy. There is an art in organising one's abilities. The man or woman who does things cannot afford to have their lives cluttered up by obligations to trifiers and time-wasters.

Neither great riches nor extreme poverty is indicated in your horoscope, either for men or women. You are very thrifty and able to make a good showing out of whatever comes your way. Speculation for you spells disaster. Your luck lies through ordinary channels of endeavor.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

THE CROSSWORD PUZZLE ADDICTS.

If Roget and Soule were living to-day,
What popular fellows they'd be;
They'd have invitations for breakfast and lunch,
For both dinner and afternoon tea.

At first they'd be pleased when early each morn
Their 'phone bells would ring long and loud,
And a voice would inquire of Roger (or Soule),
"What's a good synonym for 'be-cloud'?"

But one day they'd meet, and Roget would say
To Soule, "I don't know about you.
But I can assure you I'm off words for life.' '
"So am I, but then, what can we do?"

"Let's go far away to a tropical isle,
Where there aren't any synonym hounds,
Where we can't understand what the natives may mean
By their barbarous guttural sounds.

"Your Synonyms book we'll throw in the sea,
We'll hurl my Thesaurus through space,
And we can be happy the rest of our lives
In a wordless and puzzleless place."

THWARTED!

The new play was terrible, and, although the critics pointed out that it had a "happy ending" in the sense that everybody was killed in the last act, the audience went away dissatisfied. They weren'a allowed to do any of the killing.

A Thought

IMAGINATION

Imagination has given us all progress, built our cities, written the worth-while books, composed our splendid music, carved living statues, given birth to modern industry and made the desert places of life to blossom as the rose. This is the essence of genius, the basis of success, the creator of character, the soul of sympathy, and the chief witness to the nature of infinite being.—H. K. Miller.

"TWA" SCOTS WED.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 30 (Canadian Press).—All the colorful background of a Scottish wedding with its skirling pipes, kilts and bountiful hospitality formed the setting of the marriage of Margaret Mary, only daughter of Major-General Stewart, C.B., C.M.G., and Mrs. Stewart, to Lieutenant-Colonel A. T. ('Jock') MacLean, M.C., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John C. MacLean, Springville, Pictou County, N.S., which took place at the home of the bride's parents.

Although the marriage was performed quietly by Rev. Father C. J. McNeil in the presence of immediate relatives, the large reception at three o'clock which followed the intimate gathering of close friends, was unprecedented in its colorful character.

The bridal party received in the drawing-room, under an arch of roses and gardenias, before which the marriage had been solemnized, the guests passing on into the garden to await the bridal procession.

MASSEY-HARRIS RECOVER THREE POINTS ON MART

Trading is Quiet On Toronto Stock Exchaige.

C.P.R. DROPS ONE.

Agricultural Implement Stocks Show Revival—Other Slight Gains.

TORONTO ,Ont., July 30 (Canadian Press). — Trading was quiet on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning with activity confined to a few leaders. The feature was a revival in the leading agricultural implement stocks.

Massey-Harris recovered from its recent weakening with a spurt of 3 to 52¼ and Cockshutt Plow accompanied it with another gain of 3 to 34. But Canadian Pacific, which has been considered as sharing the effect of adverse crop reports with these two, dropped another point to 227 on sales of 10 shares. Abitibi Pulp and Paper at 49½ was up 3½ over yesterday's bid, but other gains were mostly fractional. Among these were the Loblaw issues which strengthened to 22½ and 22¼, and Canada Gypsum, which firmed to 110.

In the utilities, Brailian lost over a point to 59 and Bell Telephone dropped 1 to 171½, as did Power Corporation to 117½. Of the steels Lake Superior lost a point to 23 and Steel of Canada gained slightly to 56½. International Nickel was firm at 47½ and Page Hersey at 138, but Ford declined 1 to 46 and Canada Paving Preferred 2½ to 105. This latter drop may be explained by the report that the merger of paving companies is off for the present. Royalite Oil dropped 9 to 155. Bank of Commerce strengthened 2 to 300 and Nova Scotia yielded 1½ to 396½.

NEW YORK MART IS MOST ACTIVE

Market Rallies When "Bear" Traders Stand Aside.

PUBLIC UTILITIES LEAD.

(By Stanley W. Prenosil)

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 30.—(Canadian Press).— "Bear" traders, apparently having failed in their efforts to force heavy liquidation of stocks, stood aside to-day and the market rallied in brisk fashion under the leadership of the public utility shares. A few weak spots cropped out here and there but they were disregarded. Pools resumed buying operations on a broad scale, lifting scores of issues 2 to 7 points, and sending a few specialties soaring 10 to 26 points.

Revival of speculative activity and strength in the public utilities was attributed to the announcement that a huge new investment trust was being formed by the Bancamerica Blair Corporation, and to rumors of stock split-ups involving electric investors and other companies. Peoples Gas soared 26 points to a new high at 351. Pacific Telephone rallied 7 points and Standard Gas and Electric, American Foreign Power and Western Union 5 each. Abitibi Power, Pacific Coast, Public Service of New Jersey and American Power and Light advanced 4 points or more and a flock of others 2 to 3 points.

Auburn Auto jumped 2⅜ 3-4 points to 405, duplicating the year's high; the other motor shares were rather backward, with some of the selling probably inspired by the announcement of a new stock offering, proceeds of which will be used to finance the manufacture and sale of the Sutin car in the country.

Allied Chemical extended its early gain to 9 points by early afternoon, and American Can, General Electric, Safeway Stores, Commercial Solvents, Atchison and Newport Co., sold 5 to 12 points higher.

Union Pacific dropped 5 points and Eastman Kodak 3 1-2, presumably on realizing. Interboro Rapid Transit and Gimbel Bros. sank to new low levels for the year.

PRELIMINARY HEARING.

The preliminary hearing in the case of Ivan C. Sutton, charged with manslaughter in the death of Thomas Skuce, of Reaboro, was held in the Lindsay Police Court on Saturday before Magistrate Jordan of that town.

J. E. Anderson appeared for the Crown, and C. M. Frost acted for Sutton. The case, after evidence was given, which was very similar to that heard at the inquest held recently in Omemee, was adjourned until to-morrow at eleven.

The witnesses heard were: Neil Harrington of Peterborough, Dr. G. M. Earle, of Omemee, Ray Morden of Lindsay, Wilbur Bryan of Ida, and Provincial Policeman Frank Wetherall.

O'Connor, Singer's Counsel, Says Waldron Had No Authority For Jail Sentence.

JUSTICE JEFFREY DIFFERS.

TORONTO, July 30. (C.P.) — Argument on the writ for habeas corpus arising out of the contempt of court charge against Louis Singer, K.C., counsel for the Amalgamated Builders' Council, began to-day before Mr. Justice Jeffrey, at Osgoode Hall.

Singer, who has been at Liberty on $100,000 bail, refused to provide certain information and documents sought by Gordon Waldron, K. C., the Royal Commissioner investigating the affairs of the Amalgamated Builders Council. He was committed to jail for contempt of court as a result.

W. F. O'Connor, K.C., counsel for Singer, said Commissioner Waldron had no authority at all to punish for contempt, whereupon Justice Jeffrey read a paragraph from the Act give the commissioner "all the powers that are exercised in a Superior Court of Canada for the enforcement of subpoenas or the punishment related thereto."

Orillia Paving Plans Held Up By Injunction

TORONTO, Ont., July 30.—Canadian Press)—Justice Jeffrey at Osgoode Hall this morning, on the application of John T. Mulcahy and others, granted an interim injunction restraining the town of Orillia, until August 8, from paving Coldwater Road, between Tucker's Hill and 4th concession of the Township of Orillia; Coldwater street, Front street to West street and on the Barrie Road, awarding contracts or issuing debentures for the work

NEWS FROM THE MINES

Solloway, Mills & Company Through

Amulet

Flurry at close of Thursday's market in Amulet was undoubtedly in anticipation of the diamond drills cutting ore today, but our field man said last night results may not come for a few days.

Noranda

Noranda has encountered high grade in development work to south and east. Drilling is being carried on to north where new ore carrying low values was cut at 1300 feet. It is expected, our field man says, that at deeper levels this body will develop commercial ore.

Base Metals

Mill on Base Metals in British Columbia, scheduled to start production November 1st, is half completed. Shares have been quite strong of late.

Newbec

Newbec will soon issue a progress report. It is hoped that some definite results will be secured on 250-ft. level in time to be incorporated in the report.

Thompson-Cadillac

Shareholders of Thompson Cadillac have received progress report from Montreal house and covering change in control which recently took place. This may be a factor in recent strength in shares.

Consolidated Smelters

Consolidated Smelters' new fertilizer plant at Trail, B. C., will cost over $7,000,000.

Towagmac—Lake Geneva Mine

An examination of the Lake Geneva Mine has been made by Alderson and MacKay, consulting engineers for Towagmac, and it is understood the survey has been the source of considerable satisfaction. Underground work has developed in a manner beyond expectations. Several small shipments of ore have been made for testing purposes.

Lake Shore

That Lake Shore officals are looking forward to deep mining is evidenced by the fact that an order has been placed for a new 1,100 horsepower electric hoist, which will enable operations to be carried down to a depth of 5,000 feet. The hoist, when installed, will mark another step toward the proposed tonnage increase to 2,000 tons daily. At present the lowest working level is the 1,800 although the shaft has been completed to 2,000 feet.

Brownlee

Brownlee Mines adjoining Noranda on the north has crew of 14 at work and has a drill on west central part of property.

Amulet.

No news as yet on Amulet diamond drilling. We have two field men watching the situation and they expected south hole to cut ore over the week-end. Expecting word momentarily.

Storm in North.

Kirkland Lake had one of the worst storms in history this week-end, and may have extended into Rouyn. This may explain lack of news on Amulet. Wires are down.

Stadacona.

Our Rouyn man says there is no foundation for the report that Stadacona is stopping work. Shaft sinking program is to be undertaken soon.

Hollinger.

Shares of Hollinger Consolidated have been bid up to $6. Buying is doubtless due to expected announcement that T. and N. O. will run its line into Kamiskotia which will result in rapid exploitation of Hollinger's property in that section.

Ajax.

Ajax No. 5 well, 1,300 feet from No. 4, is giving indications of even more favorable geology than the big gasser. Structure is higher at this point and it may work out that No. 5 is on the apex of the dome while No. 4 is off on the side. This makes the outlook for No. 5 decidedly attractive and if a big well comes in there is lots of room in between for an additional hole.

Baltac.

Baltac Oil is making fast progress with its well adjoining Home on east and Associated on north. Imperial Oil is in charge and well may be at 2,000 feet before August 1st.

Sherritt-Gordon.

Expectation is that railway line will reach Sherritt-Gordon at Cold Lake somewhere around August 15th. This will enable speeding up of concentrator construction and give such a start that it can be completed during the winter months.

B. C. Silver.

Reported that commercial ore shoot averaging $22 per ton, opened on sixth level which corresponds with fourth level of Premier. Premier holds large block of B.C. Silver stock.

Planet Shipping.

Planet Mines, controlled in Vancouver, shipping concentrates to California. First shipment yielded $145 per ton. Vancouver says engineer in charge expresses belief company will soon be on dividend basis. It has less than one million shares issued.

Ontario Woman Lake.

Important discovery made on Medicine Rock group of Ontario Woman Lake, showing 15-foot width of free gold.

Big Movement Of Wheat Forces Values Down

OHICAGO, Ills., July 30—.(Canadian Press)—Wheat and corn values took an irregular downward slide today, influenced largely by the big rains in Nebraska tended specially to ease corn, and there were heavy selling profits for wheat holders, opening at ⅞c off to ⅞c up, wheat later showed a decided general setback, corn started unchanged to ⅝c up and afterward underwent an all-around sag. Oats followed corn. Provisions declined.

OIL GOSSIP.

Southwest Pete

Southwest Pete being cleaned out forty feet from bottom of hole. Condition found very much more satisfactory than expected following delay while new drill rods were being installed, indicating hole is in first class condition.

Lowery Pete

Lowery Pete spudded in south of Associated and down 150 feet.

Home

Home No. 5 spudded in Wednesday and down 75 feet.

Mayland

Mayland 1 will probably be ready to resume drilling operations about Aug. 1.

Hargal

Hargal No. 1 expected to spud in about five days after Mayland starts work. It will be located east of Home No. 1

Associated

Associated drillers have been jarring and pulling on stuck bit but there were no signs of success observed up to last night.

McLeod

McLeod No. 4 hole cleaned out and eight feet of new hole made. Now about 1,316 feet in the lime. McLeod 5 derrick being erected.

Richfield

Richfield, Waite Valley's premier well, now drilling around 1300 feet.

Home

Home 3 diamonds set in bit and ready to start diamond drilling.

Sioux City

Sioux City now down nearly 2,000 feet, drilling steadily. This well is a short distance south of McLeod Oils.

Dome

Dome Oils, in north end of Turner Valley, reported about 3500 feet.

Spooner

Spooner No. 2 now passed 600 feet in the lime. Spooner No. 3 derrick being erected. Expect to spud in about Aug. 1.

Lake Shore

As an indication of the size of the expansion taking place at the Lake Shore, it is understood that the new blacksmith shop which is in the course of construction is to be 65 by 100 feet and is to house 10 drill sharpeners.

Trout Creek

Using a temporary small portable sinking plant, Trout Creek are at a depth of 80 feet with their two-compartment shaft. A short crosscut to the vein which dipped out of the shaft to the north at 20 feet is to be driven here, starting today. In spite of numerous reverses due to bad ground, diamond drilling is proceeding and a good looking vein is reported to have been cut recently.

Exchanges Closed

Standard Toronto, Vancouver and Calgary Exchanges closed Saturday.

Oil Search Active

Twice as much drilling is now under way than at any previous juncture since oil was discovered in west, said Vice President A. M. McQueen, Imperial Oil, on return to Toronto from visit to Alberta oil fields.

Amulet

Amulet closed up strong at 1.86 last night, a gain of 18 points on the day. If the two additional holes now going down cut ore as did No. 1 hole, it will add in a very substantial way to possibilities of the operation. Fifteen feet of 22 ft. of ore cut in first hole was smelter grade.

Seven New Wells

At least seven new wells started this year in far north end of Turner Valley where unusual activity is taking place. These include Calmont No. 5, Foothills 4, Dome, Vimy, Dalphin, Invaders and Vanalta, with the first four named and Invaders under way. Five of seven are new companies, denoting increasing confidence in the field. Equipment and skilled drillers are becoming scarce, despite crews from as far south as Oklahoma.

Wells Near Home

Eleven wells are now drilling on section 20 on which Home Oil is located. Those now drilling are Home 3 and 4, Calmont 2, 4 and 6, Associated 1, A. P. Con. 1 and 2, Freehold, Wellington and Baltac. Beside Home wells in southern end of field, thirty wells are now operating or about ready to start. At least 25 or these wells have started this year, indicating the tremendous increase in development. Southern end wells, in addition to those on the Home section, include Advance No. 5, Maryland 1, 2 and 3, Homestead, Eastcrest, Commonwealth, Southwest Pete, Mercury 1, Sunlight, Miracle, Hylo, Spray, Sterling Pacific and Lowery Pete, with Mercury No. 2 ready to start.

YOUNG MEN ARE SENT TO REFORMATORY

Arthur King and William Tracey Appear Before Judge Huycke.

BOTH HAVE RECORDS.

Men Are Convicted of Stealing Automobile From Market.

Arthur King, aged 26, of Peterborough and William Tracey, aged 20, whose permanent address is unknown were found guilty of stealing a car from W. A. Roberts on July 8, before His Honor Judge Huycke this morning at a special sitting of the county court. The sentence passed in each case was for two years less one day in the Guelph Reformatory.

Judge Huycke, in passing judgement on King stated that in view of the boy's long prison record he was at loss as how to punish him as the former terms in the reformatory did not seem to have done him much good. He also remarked that the boy was bright and could be a big help to his family but he seemed to go wrong in spite of it all. However instead of sending him to penitentiary for a long term he exercised leniency with the advice that a more severe punishment would be given if he appeared agam. Tracey pleaded guilty but King was tried.

V. J. McElderry, K.C., acted for the crown and Arthur King appeared on his own defense. He stated that he had no funds to procure a regular lawyer so conducted his own trial.

Left Car On Market.

Eric Frizzuel, step son of W. H. sedan, valued at $700 in the market squae after which he went to the show and on returning to get the car which belonged to his step father he found it gone. He notified the police and through the authorities it was returned on July 14.

W. H. Roberts, owner of the car, corroborated these statements. William Meagher, detective on the Peterborough Police force said that he saw King on July 6 at 9 p.m. on George street and the next time that he was seen was July 13 at Sturgeon Falls in the custody of the police who had recovered the car.

"There were several articles missing on the car", he stated, "a bumperette which was supposed to have been broken off by a circus wagon in North Bay, and the accident was not reported to the police because the culprits did not wish to take action. There was no spare tire on the car and the drivers said that there was none on the car as long as they had it.

Detective John W. Thompson, of the Peterborough Police force testified as to the action taken by the Peterborough headquarters when it was found that the car was missing and as a result of the search the car was located at Sturgeon Falls. He also stated that King told him that they had left the city by the way of Sherbrooke street when asked if they were the party seen speeding furiously out Wolfe street.

Joseph Astels, a fireman in the city, who was well acquainted with King testified that he saw him at 8.30 on the Monday night. Sergeant A. Thomas of the Peterborough Police force also stated that he saw the accused on the same night about 8.25 on the corner of Hunter and George streets. This was the case for the crown.

William Tracey was the first witness called by King in his own defence. He stated that he saw King in a Toronto pool room and did not see him in Peterborough before they were arrested. Tracey confessed to stealing the car and was caught in Sturgeon Falls when they were trying to sell a bumperette at a small garage there.

The witness stated that the first time he met King was in Lockport but further evidence went to prove that they knew each other by sight when they were together in Guelph Reformatory It was also shown that he had a long reformatory record to his credit.

Arthur King then told his story. "I came down the street on July 8th about 3.00 p.m." he said, "and went to the vendors and then to Fontaines where I left for Toronto by car about 4 o'clock. I met Tracey in Toronto at Carey's pool room on July 9 and stayed there with him all day when he said that he had his room mate's car. We drove to Sturgeon Falls I think we left about six or seven o'clock, I do not remember exactly as I was half drunk. We had several drinks on the way and stopped at the vendors in North Bay to get some more. Tracey drove the whole 240 miles and we did it in about 11 hours driving time. We slept a little and did not travel all the time.

The cross examination revealed that Tracey was a stranger in Peterborough and could not have made a statement as to certain streets which seemd to incriminat King.

When the sentence was pronounced King asked that it be changed to Burwash as he had been in Guelph so long that he knew all the fellows there and he did not believe that it would do him much good, taking past experiences as an example.

Police Chief Newhall was not in favor granting permission to have the place changed as he stated that the prisoner had certain plans which he did not reveal.

BENNETT SPEAKS TO MINERS AFTER TRIP UP MOUNTAINSIDE

Points Out Importance of Capitol and Labor Working Together.

HALL PACKED.

BRITANNIA, B.C., July 30.—(Staff Correspondent of The Canadian Press).—Journeying by cable car for a distance of four miles along an incline railway up the mountainside where slopes reach the water's of the Pacific, Hon. R. B. Bennett, spoke here last night. From five outlying copper mining camps, miners and their families, travelling by a thirty mile narrow gauge railway tunnel running under the mountains augmented the crowd which gathered.

It was a community within itself the Conservative chieftain addressed. It was also his second speech of the day, as in the afternoon he spoke at Britannia Beach. Last night, as earlier in the day, the audience packed the hall where the meeting was held.

Must Work Together.

Mr. Bennett emphasized the interrelations of Capital and Labor and the importance of their working harmoniously. All these resources he explained, even as rich as Croesus, would lay untouched were it not for labor. All the labor of Asia would be of no avail were it not for capital.

Friendly cooperation between the two was essential for the successful production of this new wealth, and the Opposition Leader was glad to witness such a happy condition at this point.

CROWDED AUDITORIUM GREETS DIBBLE PARTY AT BIG MUSICAL

$2,100 SUBSCRIBED.

Monday, July 29th, marked another important milestone in the history of St. James' United Church, when almost its total indebtedness was wiped out in a few minutes.

It was also the occasion of another musical night, when a program of more than usual excellence was presented by the members of the Dibble party.

Free admission had been announced to this wonderful musical treat, and a crowded auditorium and gallery greeted the performers. It had also been announced that the raison d'etre of the concert was to clear St. James' of its debt and mortgage by offering and subscription. Though the entertainers are United States citizens, they patriotically opened their program with "God Save the King," which was followed with another congregational number, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Mr. Dibble sang softly and sweetly, the beautiful old hymn, "My Faith looks up to Thee," in which the audience afterwards joined.

Mr. Mustaine then took his hearers on a missionary trip by means of his brilliant and sympathetic piano execution. Using the same melody, "My Faith looks up to Thee," he played it as it would be interpreted by the dreamy Spaniard. Passing quickly into the realm of our late enemy, Germany, the stacatto notes brought back a clear vision of its militarism. Going on to troubled Russia, one could hear the bells of Moscow as they pealed forth the familiar strain. Then, as from a Swiss music box, there tinkled out the sweet melody, "My Faith looks up to Thee." Everyone quickly recognized the choppy music of old China, and coming back to the homeland, the "tom tom" of our native Indian music was even more familiar."

"I Know a Name" and "O Sole Mio" were two of Mr. Dibble's much appreciated numbers.

A cornet solo was played with great beauty and clarity of tone by Frank Robinson.

Following again, Mr. Dibble sang "Come ye blessed of my Father," which was easily his best solo of the evening.

Changing the tenor of the program, Mr. and Mrs. Dibble then delighted everyone with their negro spirituals.

Two readings in dialect were thoroughly enjoyed as Mr. Dibble cleverly depicted the life of an old negress in "When Melinda Sings" and "An Old Negro's idea of how the animals were named."

Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, pastor of the church, in announcing the offering, explained the need of clearing St. James' of its comparatively small debt, $2,400, that it might be better able to continue its real work of sending out the gospel to others who have not heard.

$2,100 Subscribed.

Mr. Dibble heartily seconded Mr. Dudgeon's appeal, and quickly passed out cards through the congregation for subscriptions. In less than twenty minutes the cards were in the hands of the collectors, and the sum of $2,100 received, leaving only a deficit of $300.00 on the total church debt. Such a result was most gratifying, considering the fact that it is holiday time and a number of the church members are away from home.

The cards are still in circulation, so that any friends of St. James' who were not privileged in being present may still make their contributions.

While the returns were being made, the program continued. Mr. Mustaine, with his usual brilliant technique, played "Caprice." He later explained in a few words a short course in practical evangelistic piano playing, for which he would remain in the city a few days to instruct if any pianists are interested.

Mr. Dibble again sang by request some beautiful old songs, including "Shadows," "Wonderful Peace," and an old hymn to the air of "Mother Machree," "Roamin' in the Gloamin'," "It's nice to get up in the mornin'," "Dear old girl," and "Deep in the heart of a rose."

When the results of the offering were announced Mr. Dibble closed this very successful evening with prayer, and all joined in singing the chorus of Mr. Mustaine's own song, "Pray your way through."

LT.-COL. ACKERMAN BACK FROM MINES

Inspected North Country By Airplane—Operation Progressing.

Lieut.-Col. C. H. Ackerman has just returned from a trip by airplane from Ottawa, following the Ottawa River up to the Amos Mining Camp in Northern Ontario. He stated the trip was one of the finest for scenic beauty he ever had. He found mining operations progressing with those connected with the development most optimistic.

Away up north he came in contact with four graduates of Ayers' School of Aviation doing their bit in making mining history for the province. They have become very proficient aviators.

What Col. Ackerman accomplished in a few days would have taken weeks before the introduction of the airplane.

FIRE HAZARD IS WORST SINCE '23

had died down to some degree and fire-fighters were holding the flames under control. Rain is badly needed in all districts.

Two fires are reported on the Manitoba-Ontario boundary, near Ingolf, Ont., but, with the aid of railway gangs working in the vicinity, the district forester and his aides have managed to keep the fire under control.

Fires near Chippawa Park, Fort William, were still burning to-day at scattered points, but were not regarded as serious. Fire rangers anticipate little additional trouble at this point. About one square mile of standing timber in all was destroyed.

Numerous bush fires are blazing in the Thunder Bay district. All available fire-fighting equipment has been rushed to the scene. A new fire has been reported at the foot of the Shebandown Lake, and there are two large fires in the Nipigon Straits country, burning through slashings.

Across the international border in ward along Lake Superior, endanger- Minnesota, fires were sweeping northing a number of settlements along the timber limits of the Superior National Forest.

DISTRICT NOTES from Villages and Towns in District

(BY CORRESPONDENTS OF THE EXAMINER)

ROSENEATH, July 22.—On Wednesday evening, July 10, a large crowd gathered at the home of Mrs. Eliza Sandercock to tender to her son, Charles and his bride, their hearty good wishes and congratulations by giving them a miscellaneous shower. The social evening was spent in dancing and an enjoyable time was spent by all present. The newly-weds were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcena Davey left on a motor trip to the Maritime Provinces and will be away for several weeks.

A clipping taken from a western paper will be interesting to many who know Mr. Sinclair Whittaker, dated at Briercrest, June 13th and reads as follows:—"Briercrest was the scene of lively activity last Thursday evening when the results from the polls of this constituency began to come in, with Sinclair Whittaker, Conservative candidate, in the lead. About 10 p.m. the rBiercrest band paraded the streets followed by a large crowd celebrating the Conservative victory. They marched to Mr. Whittaker's home and when the new member came to the door he was lifted shoulder high and carried around town, surrounded by brooms dipped in oil and used as torches and the band playing and everybody singing 'He's a Jolly God Fellow'."

During the proceedings Mr. Whittaker was called on for a speech, in the course of which he declared that he had carried on a good clean fight, and he hoped there would be no hard feelings, for he desired to be fair with everybody. He hoped that they who voted against him would be friends as before the election.

Mr. Whittaker said it is his duty to serve the citizens to the very best of his ability, no matter what their religion, their politics, their nationality or other associations might be. He promised he would do the best he could to the service of the people.

TRADE UNIONISTS HELP UNEMPLOYED

Canadian Labor Congress To See Legislature Protecting Living Standards.

SAINT JOHN, N.B., July 30 (Canadian Press).—The parliament of Canada's international labor organization—the Trades and Labor Congress—will meet here for its 45th annual convention, commencing August 26 next. The Congress has met in the Maritime Provinces twice since its formation—in Halifax, N.S., in 1908, and in Saint John in 1914.

The officials of the Congress have put forth every effort to make the forthcoming convention truly representative of the workers throughout the entire Dominion in order that the policies of the trade union movement, as represented by the Congress, may become better known and understood in the Maritime Provinces of the Dominion.

"The splendid progress made on the industrial field in all parts of Canada during the past year should reflect itself in a determined endeavor on the part of the organized workers to secure progressive legislation which will protect established standards of living and provide relief when unemployed or incapacitated by sickness, accident or old age," says the convention call issued from the Congress headquarters in Ottawa by President Tom Moore.

The holding of the Congress in Saint John this year coincides with the 80th anniversary of the establishment of the Longshoremen's Union in this city, believed to be the first labor union established in Canada.

The trade union movement of Saint John is putting forth every effort to ensure the convenience and comfort of the delegates and visitors to the convention. As an interlude to the convention the local committee is arranging that the delegates and visitors shall be given a sail on the Saint John River to Crystal Beach, where a clam bake and dance will be staged on the shore.

A special committee of the Saint John Trades and Labor Council also is at work arranging entertainment for the ladies accompanying the delegates and all seem determined to make their stay in this ancient city a memorable one.

EX-SERVICE MEN PLANNING PICNIC

All Veterans and Wives Will Be At Huge Reunion and Outing Aug. 5th.

All ex-service men and women are invited to a big get-together at Nicholls Oval, Peterborough, afternoon of Civic holiday, August 5. They will come from North Hastings, north part of Northumberland and Durham, Peterborough, Haliburton, Victoria and North Ontario counties. The comrades in the various centers will not forget to bring the veterans of the Fenian Raid, North-West Rebellion, South African war or any of the Empire's wars, as well as those who survived the last disturbance in 1914-18. Especally, don't forget the nursing sisters. Come single—if you are still that way—or double or quadruple, or whatever it is if you are married. Your wives will want to meet other veterans' wives and find if all ex-service men are as hard to manage in double harness, as you are. You will meet old sidekicks you haven't seen for years. The Fenian Raid and S. A. war men won't meet so many. Has it ever struck you that even the 1914-18 men are getting fewer each year and that if you don't start meeting them now, you may, just possibly, not see them again? So come along for a real picnic and bring your own rations, as we don't know how many you will be.

We will have a speaker from headquarters of the Legion, about 2 p. m. Standard time, to tell you what has been done by the organized ex-service men and what has still to be done. Then we will have the facilities on hand for soft ball, barnyard golf, tug-of-war and you can organize to suit yourselves. If one center wants to challenge another to a game—go to it.

MOSLEMS SLAY 20,000 CHINESE

Every Man and Boy in Dangar City Killed in Sudden Massacre.

SPARED WOMEN

PEIPING, China, July 30.—(Canadian Press).—The International Relief has received a message from a missionary giving details of a Moslem massacre of 20,000 Chinese men and boys in the mountain town of Dangar, which its informant believes must have taken place some months ago.

The massacre reported by Missionary Andrews was declared the most gruesome in the long history of Mohammedan outbreaks in China. So well organized was the raid that the mountain town was stripped of all its manhood in less than two hours. As far as Mr. Andrews was able to ascertain, every able bodied man was killed, only the aged escaping, with a few hours who hid in cellars.

From what the missionary gathered from various officials, only a few women were killed in attempts to protect the men. The raiders came on foot and horseback and rushed the city's gates shouting, "Kill the men, every male from 17 to 70."

SUNDAY'S RAIN AIDS THE CROPS

Pasture Lands Were Becoming Brown and Dried Up.

WHEAT YIELD HEAVY.

BAILIEBORO, July 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—The heavy rains on Sunday did untold good. Pasture lands which were becoming burned, are again refreshed. The spring crop was suffering, and many farmers believe the pea crop will be very poor.

The majority of farmers have completed the wheat crop. On the whole the wheat promises to be a heavy yield.

Much of the alsike is cut in the community. The prospects, for the most part, are very good. The first alsike to be threshed, that of H. W. Barnard, is yielding about five bush. to the acre, and is a good sample.

The berry crop, due to the showers during the past week, is excellent.

CHINESE DISHES TAKE COURAGE

Chop Suey and Fooyong Chop Tau Prove To Be Highly Delicious.

EATEN WITH CHOP STICKS.

(By Jeanette).

To eat chop suey at any time is to do it with a sense of uncertainty as to the nature of the ingredients. One eats it with a feeling of courage. But to embark on a large dish of its high-born relative, fooyong choy tan, with a side dish in a large bowl of Chinese rice, to wash it down with many cups of fragrant Chinese tea that tasted at first like the catnip drink we used to imbibe as children, but later changed to a charming and smoothly-flowing beverage, and, furthermore, to eat the food with chopsticks—that was an adventure.

In company with Miss Olga Johnston and Miss Musa Cox and three of the members of the Chautauqua personnel, the writer enjoyed the honor of being th eguest of Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, when that distinguished gentleman come to Peterborough to lecture on "Awakening China."

It was after the evening performance in the big brown tent and the clock was striking the half hour after twelve when the group assembled in the Canton Cafe. Its proprietor, Tom Long ("Tom Long who is short," as Dr. Tehyi bantered the cheerful small man) and his assistants bustled about, eager to do homage to their distinguished confrere.

The food came in, heaped up on large white serving dishes, with little individual bowls of rice for each person and a huge pot of the jasmine tea that Dr. Hsieh carries with him at all times. It looked like a very large teapot to Occidental eyes, but before the meal was over, it had been replenished three times.

No Bread Needed.

"Chinese food is balanced in the kitchen," explained the host. "One does not need bread, butter, pepper or salt with it and one can never have indigestion if enough of this tea is taken with the meal. The Chinese never have indigestion." So the writer drank five cups of the tea and the lady beside her had eight and the gentleman across the way just a many. It is taken without cream or sugar and seems to serve, as the doctor explained, as a balancer for the food.

What Choy Tan Is.

Fooyong choy tan is an omelette composed of bamboo shoots, water chestnuts, pineapple, piping duck, elephants' paws, porcupine eggs, mustard vegetable and quinine vegetable. Of course, elephants' paws are really mushrooms and porcupine's eggs are nuts. The accompanying dish with it contains fried rice and sharks' fins (edible fish), chicken almonds, celery and velvet fish.

With this is used a soy bean sauce, dark brown like maple syrup, with a couple of spoonfuls poured over the omelette and the rice. The whole is eaten with chopsticks but an accessory to the use of these is provided is a left-hand spoon which pushes the ingredients over to the right hand, in which both sticks are held carefully. The operation is not as difficult as one would suppose.

These chopsticks, explained the host, are symbols of peace in China and froks and knives are tabooed because they are implements of warfare.

Courtly Host.

The attraction of the meal, of course, lay with the host. Small and thin, possessed of a magnetic and charming personality, with courity manners and a flattering mode of addres, ("No we do not kiss the blarney stone in China," he said, with a twinkle, "but we lick the jade,") his was an exradordinary type.

Dr. Hsieh's wife, an English lady, died twenty-three years ago. "Now my work is my wife," he said, earnestly. He has had a varied and interesting career that progressed from study at Cambridge University to varied diplomatic missions for his own country under the old regime, through a career as a newspaper owner in Shanghai and a present occupation as managing director for the Chinese Trade Bureau of this continent and a member of the Chamber of Commerce at Boston, Massachusetts, while lecturing throughout the year both on Chautauqua platforms and in the Normal Schools and Universities of the United States and Canada.

Desires Experience.

Dr. Hsieh has an avowed desire to cram experiences that would ordinarily need twice as many years into the next two decades of his existence. He has a strong wish to interpret to English eyes and ears the manner of man that China is producing under the republican regime, and he is more friendly than most Europeans.

"How is it that you can depart so easily from the traditional reserve and withdrawal of your countrymen?" he was asked. "It is necessary in my work. I am among people who demand it and so I conform," he answered.

He is educating twenty-three boys in different parts of the world, and four of these are of American blood. Asked just how he financed it, he replied with a smile that many of his good friends helped him.

"You see, I go about lecturing," he said, " and I tell people about these boys who need assistance. And then I get plenty of offers." And anyone who heard him in the Chautauqua tent and saw the way in which hundreds of the members of the audience, adults and juniors alike, hung about for nearly an hour afterwards, loth to go away from the fascinating gentleman, as he talked to the children, would not wonder at his ability to enlist people to his cause.

Had Only One Wife.

He is a firm believer in women's right's and spoke with pride of the advancement in the status of women made in late years in his own land. Coming from a family that had a Confucian father and Buddhist mother, he is a Methodist in religious persuasion. His brother had four concubines, but he had one wife and remembers her faithfully after twenty-three years.

As a boy of twelve, going down to Java, he saw a "big, blonde Dutchman" tie together the queues of a number of Chinese servants and then kick them severely. He protested to the captain and the man was prevented from interfering further with the laborers. As a mark of approbation of the action, Dr. Hsieh's own father spoke to him about the matter on his return home.

"Think of it," he said, explaining to curious Occidental ears a little happening of Old China, "my own father who never in his life came to his own front gate without his frock coat and silk hat on and always with servants. He came out to meet me, a boy of twelve, and patted my cheek and told me I had done well. It was a wonderful honor."

He explained carefully to the children who clustered about him in the tent, after his lecture: "Do not call the Chinese as Chinks. Go to them and say: "Ah puk, ho sang wye." That means: "Big brother, is your business good and flourishing."

Drives Own Car.

But his ideas as to women's enfranchisement did not extend as far as Western ones, after all. "It is a terrible thing to see a man at his ease in a motor car as a woman drives," he said, as he climbed into the driver's seat of the car for the homeward journey.

OBITUARY

MRS. HENRY LANE

YOUNG'S POINT, July 30.— An old resident of the district in the person of Mrs. Henry Lane passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Darling, Lakefield on Thursday at the age of 82 years.

The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon. Rev. Wesley officiating from the residence of Frank Darling, to Fife's cemetery, Keene.

She leaves to mourn her death, three daughters and two sons, Mrs. A. Northey and Mrs. John Harrison of Smith, Mrs. Frank K. Darling of Lakefield, Thomas of Toronto and William F. of Smith.

WILLIAM HAMPTON

LAKEFIELD, July 30.—The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon in St. John's church of William Hampton, who passed away on Thursday at his residence on Smith street.

The service was in charge of Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A., rector of the parish and was attended by a number of friends and neighbors who came to pay a last tribute of respect to an old resident and one who was held in the highest respect.

Two favorite hymns were sung "Lead Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me", both appropriate for the occasion.

Mr. Creighton, in his brief address spoke of the harvest season which is now beginning when the pupils of the earth are being gathered in, and the similarity to the present case where an old man had been called home after a long life of faithful service. In his life he had been faithful and true, mentally, physically and spiritually to his responsibilities and it might truly be said of him that the fields were white unto the harvest."

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Thompson Braden, Robert Duff, George Harrison, Nathan Payne, Charles Thomson and Thomas Watson. The cortege left the church for Hillside Cemetery, where the burial took place.

Mr. Hampton was born in England seventy-nine years ago, he married Elizabeth Bargent and they left immediately for Canada, settling in Peterborough County, where they resided ever since, living in Lakefield for some time and later near Warsaw for some years and removing from there to Smith. For about fifteen years the family have resided in Lakefield. Mr. Hampton was a devout and very faithful member of St. John's church and until his health became to frail, he was a regular attendant at the services of the church. He was a man of great integrity and always held in great respect.

For years he had been a great sufferer from rheumatism and for the last few years he was blind and death came in the guise of a deliverer from the ills of the flesh which so greatly beset him.

His family gave him devoted and unremitting care and they have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement which is a double one as Mrs. Hampton pre-deceased her husband only last March.

There are surviving four daughters, Louise and Mary of Lakefield, Mrs. George Arnott and Mrs. William Hampton of Govan, Sask., and five sons, John and Milford of Lakefield, Herbert of Govan, Sask., William of Bellas, Alta., Henry of Vancouver. Three sons and one daughter predeceased their parents.

MRS. HENRY LANE

LAKEFIELD, July 30.—(Examiner Correspondence)—The funeral took place on Saturday of Mary Moncrief, relict of the late Henry Lane of Smith from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Darling.

Rev. T. M. Wesley, minister of Knox United Church, was in charge and spoke words of comfort and hope to the bereaved family in the loss of their mother, who had been called after a long useful life, spent in service to God and her family, giving a good account of her stewardship in her life as a daughter, wife and mother.

The pall bearers were Messrs. William and Thomas Lane (sons), A. B. Northey, John Harrison and Frank Darling (sons-in-law), and John Waldie.

Interment took place in Fife's cemetery, Otonabee. Mary Moncrief was born in Ireland, eighty-one years ago last May and came to this country with her parents, while she was still an infant. The Moncrief family settled in Monaghan, removing later to Otonabee. The deceased was married to Henry Lane and about forty-eight years ago they moved to Smith township. There Mr. Lane died fifteen years ago.

There are surviving three daughters, Mrs. A. B. Northey of Smith, Mrs. Frank Darling of Lakefield and Mrs. John Harrison of Smith, and two sons, William of Smith and Thomas of Toronto; one brother also survives, Mr. David Moncrief of California; another brother, William of Balsover died just two weeks ago and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. William Lan, also died two weeks ago, so the family have been triply bereaved. Mrs. Lane had been a great sufferer from rheumatism for years and had patiently borne great pain which had prevented her leading an active life she lived but she was cared for devotedly by her family who spared no effort in her behalf. She was a member of the United church at Young's Point and was always interested in its progress and activities. She was taken ill about two weeks ago and died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Darling, Regent street on Thursday night last.

KAWARTHA'S DESCRIBED.

An alluring description of local waters is included in an article by Campbell Marriott entitled "Bright Waters and Happy Lands" in the quarterly issue of the Civil Service Review published by the Civil Service Federation of Canada. The writer conducts a word tour through the waters of Ontario which he collectively terms the "Kawartha's".

Among some facts he gives in the article, he notes that parts of the Trent Canal are now nearly 100 years old, engineers having been engaged in improving the natural water courses for navigation since the year 1833. He says that, although the system may be called "Trent Canal," it is worthy of note that the 240 1-2 miles includes only 32 1-2 miles of canal prism, the other 208 miles being natural water courses.

In his writing, the author dwells on the beauty of the Otonabee River and the Stoney Lake region. The wonder of the Lift Lock and the other locks of the system are also a source of inspiration to the pen of Mr. Marriott.

It is estimated that the total world divisions of forest areas amount to more than 7,487,696,000 acres. The total forest area of North America is 1,443,957,000.

INVASION BY MONGULS RUMORED; COUNTER FOR RAILWAY SEIZURE

Moscow's Silence Menacing as Armies Observe 12-Mile Peace Strip.

PEACE SEEKERS UNEASY

LONDON, July 30.— (C.P.) —Rumors in Tokyo of a Mongol invasion of China as a counter movement to Chinese seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railway in Manchuria today disquieted London International circles hoping for peaceful settlement of the controversy between Russia and China.

Mongolia's connection with the Nationalist Chinese Government at Nanking has been strained from the Nanking Government's inception and various Soviet actions apparently have presumed upon alliance of Mongolia in any movement against China. The Communist spirit is strong in the vast Province, which is a buffer between China proper and Siberia.

The rumors were accepted in some circles as the reason for other advices from Manchuli, at the western end of the Chinese Eastern Railway, that the armies had withdrawn to within 12 miles of each other, the ground between being a "no man's land" each promised to respect.

The entire situation however remained obscure. Moscow maintained a deep silence, with papers there reiterating stories of "atrocities," against Soviet citizens in Manchuria and denying negotiations between the two countries for settlement of their differences were under way.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Immense receipts of domestic winter wheat and a huge increase of the United States' wheat visible supply tumbled wheat prices back yesterday at the last. Reactions, however, came only after corn and oats as well as wheat had all kited above topmost quotations heretofore reached this season. Reports of spring wheat crop damage, especially in Canada, continued sensational, and uneasiness over the corn crop outlook was again acute.

Wheat closed nervous at the same as Saturday's finish to 2 7-8c. lower. Corn closed with ½c. to 2¼c. gain, oats ⅝c to 1¼c. up, and provisions unchanged to 12c. down. Canadian wheat crop reports from railroad sources said that owing to unabated drought and excessive high temperatures the most sanguine observer would not now estimate the wheat yield of the Prairie Provinces at more than 50 per cent. of normal. Meanwhile, too, Nebraska threshing returns were running far below expectation. On the other hand, primary arrivals of domestic wheat yesterday amounted to nearly 10,000,000 bushels, including 1,57 cars at Chicago against 479 cars a week ago and 108 cars on the corresponding day last year.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, July 30.—Wheat was erratic within a range of 5 cents yesterday, and at the close prices were 1-8c lower to 17-8c higher on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Buying orders at the opening shot the market upward to touch new highs for the season, recording gains of 3⅜c to 4c. Purchases were made by many interests and it was difficult to determine the nature of the trade. The bulge brought out heavy profit-taking.

The cash grain market was dull. Some interest in No. 4 and 5 wheat was displayed early and spreads on the active grades broke ½c to 2c from the previous closing difference. Only a few odd lots were sold for export.

Trade in coarse grains was confined to feed oats. Oats were about unchanged, barley ¼c higher, and flax 1c lower.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

TORONTO, July 30.—Firmer price tendencies which marked the course of active trading in the Toronto wholesale butter market last week were again in evidence during yesterday's session. The market reflected the usual quiet of a Monday opening, but dealers were asking slightly higher prices from the retail trade, and bids to country shippers were also advanced in most instances. A range of 38¾c to 39c was quoted by leading wholesalers to country shippers for finest No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter delivered in Toronto, with No. 2 grade supplies at correspondingly firmer levels. The quoted range compares with prices of 38c to 38½c for No. 1 at the close of last week.

The upward movement in butter is not surprising in view of the conditions surrounding production in Ontario and elsewhere. Excessively high temperatures, coupled with continued dry weather, have materially curtailed production, while consumption demand has been well up to normal. Receipts yesterday were reported to be unusually light, and, while Western butter is relieving the situation to some extent, demand appears to be slightly in excess of supply for the moment at least.

Higher prices were quoted to the retail trade yesterday, finest No. 1 creamery prints being offered at 41 to 42 cents each, compared with a range of 40c to 41c on Friday. No. 2 prints were nominally unchanged at 38c to 39c.

Cheese Prices Are Lower.

The cheese market reflected the easier movement of prices at country cheese boards on Saturday. Local trading was not particularly brisk and there appeared to be little demand for supplies even at concessions from last week's closing figures. Finest No. 1 Government graded new large waxed cheese was quoted at 18¼c a pound for supplies delivered in Toronto.

Hot weather is also a factor in the egg situation. Receipts dwindled to negligible proportions yesterday, and it was reported that outside dealers were offering supplies in job lots at Ontario shipping points. In view of the moderately active demand for eggs last week Toronto brokers sensed a firmer undertone to the market as a whole, and prices as high as 33 cents a dozen were reported for extras, delivered in Toronto, with firsts at 30 cents. Nevertheless, there was little indication of a general advance and quotations by leading wholesale dealers showed nothing more than a one-cent rise, ranging from 29 to 30 cents a dozen for fresh extras delivered in Toronto, compared with 28 to 29 cents at the week-end. Firsts were quoted at correspondingly firmer levels of 26 to 27 cents.

Offerings of best grade eggs to the retail trade were made at a somewhat broader range of prices, with a top of 37 cents for fresh extras in cartons, against 36 cents on Friday.

If Guilty May Suffer Death For Offence Against Nine-Year-Old Girl.

TORONTO, July 30.—Frederick Roy Cain, 40, charged with a serious offence against nine year old Betty Perry, East York Township, was remanded without bail until August 6 when he appeared in County Police Court today.

He is charged with abducting the little girl under pretence of obtaining a companion at a summer camp for a fictitious daughter of his own. Sergt. Cain faces a possible sentence of death if found guilty.

THREE MORE SICK GET WELL WHEN THEY USE HUSKY

Indigestion, Constipation, Rheumatism and Other Ills Disappear as These People Use Wonderful Treatment.

"Husky" just naturally gives relief if the suffering is caused by a disordered condition of the stomach, liver or kidneys.

More and more men and women are telling how indigestion, gas and sour stomach, constipation, dizzy spells, headaches, nervousness, unsound sleep, weak and aching backs, rheumatism, weakness, tired feelings and other ills resulting from stomach, liver or kidney disorder are quickly and completely yielding to the "Husky" treatment. Letters of praise for "Husky" continue to pour in and here is what three more people have to say:

Mr. Hayward

Oliver Hayward, Hartely Ave., Peterborough, Ont., well-known carpenter, says: "I suffered from indigestion and catarrh of the stomach until my whole system was shot to pieces and I couldn't work. I cannot praise Husky too highly, for it has completely relieved me and made me feel like a new man. It is the only preparation to help me in 3 years."

Mrs. Thurgood

Mrs. Percy Thurgood, 114 Breithhaupt St., Kitchener, Ont., says: "I know what Husky will do for rheumatism as I suffered with this trouble so much in my legs and feet. I ached so and felt so stiff I was weak and could hardly attend to my housework. I got wonderful relief by the time I had used only half a bottle."

Mr. Williams

Naylor Williams, of Vancouver, B. C., says: "I had indigestion very bad. A painful gas formed from my food and made my stomach feel like it was going to burst. I had heartburn, too. Husky has completely relieved me and given me an appetite. It's the best medicine I ever used."

Try "Husky" yourself. It's wonderful the way it makes your food taste better and how you sleep more sound and restful and feel stronger after using it only a few days. "Husky" can always be obtained at Bond's Drug Store here and at other good drug stores everywhere.

HOME TOWNERS

CAMPBELLFORD
Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

There was a terific bang just at noon yesterday, and right in the heart of the business section. But there was nothing to be worried about. It was merely that the pressure of business at Bennett's furniture store became so great that the glass door blew out into the street, not as one piece but in millions of fragments. The scientific explanation of the "explosion" is that the draft from the open doors in the rear of the building became too strong for the glass of the front door, and it simply gave way, crashing into a million pieces on the cement walk.

The jazz band was a "Little bit of alright" so they say. Walter Lowe made an excellent darky. Someone said that they had always supposed bandmaster Pearson was kind of an old woman, Charlie Davidson was right in his element. Corby Rowe got out a cornet and played a few bars just for old times sake. Bill Abernethy led the band in several ways. He walked n front when they were on foot, and drove the truck when they rode behind. But the question is, what did Slim Wallace represent. "Wink" Callahan was very much there, as usual.

Sunday was a good day. Monday was better. To-day the Old Home Week is going still stronger. Be sure you register, so the committee will know where to find you to send an invitation next time.

There were two hundred and fifty-nine registrations yesterday. The committee believe that this is only a small portion of those who have already arrived.

The dancing was the last place of amusement to close last night, but everyone did not go home to bed then. Motor parties and pedestrians kept up the celebration till breakfast time this morning. Booths open all night supplied the usual hot dogs and coffee when occasion demanded. At five o'clock and impromptu male voice choir signed off on Front Street with the "Old Soak's Home Sweet Home", "Sweet Adeline."

Another contingent of swimmers arrived to make their camps here yesterday. It looks like the Big Swim was to be the Big Time of the Big Week.

LONDON POLICE GUARD CORONER

Doctor Investigating England's Most Mysterious Crime is Threatened.

FAMILY POISONED.

LONDON, July 30.— (Canadian Press)—London police threw a guard to-day about the home of Coroner Doctor Jackson of Croydon after the coroner and his wife received letters threatening them for his investigation of the death of Vera Sidney, one of three of a prominent Croydon family to die by poison.

While some of the police conceded the letters might be the work of some insane individual they were determined to take no chances that they had a more serious import. It was regarded as possible they actually represented the perpetrators of what is regarded now as the most mysterious major crime in England in recent years.

While it was the verdict of the Coroners' jury yesterday that Vera Sidney had been murdered wilfully by administration of poison, probably in her soup, inquests over the 40-year-old spinsters' mother, Mrs. Amelia Sidney, who died two months later, April 5, and Edmond Creighton Duff, son-in-law of Mrs. Sidney must be carried to their finish.

LATEST METHOD TO TAKE HONEY

USE BEE ESCAPE

The method of taking off the crop, now developed by the beekeepers, disorganizes a hive as little as possible, this obviates robbing and will not interrupt the bees in their work; furthermore, it makes the work of removing the crop a great deal more pleasant because if carefully done, the bees need not be greatly disturbed.

This method is by using bee escape boards. These boards consist of wooden frames that just fit on top of a super or hive body. At two opposite corners on this framework are inserted bee escapes. These bee escapes allow the bees to pass through but, owing to the construction of the escape, they cannot return. The remainder of the escape board should be wire screening. Some beekeepers use a honey board with a single bee escape in the centre, in fact there are various types of escape boards, though they all work on the principle of the one described.

Placed on Bottom Super

The escape boards are placed on the hives below the lowest super that it is desired to remove. Care must be taken that there be no brood in the supers placed above an escape. The bees will not leave brood. Care must also be taken that there are no chinks or holes in the supers above an escape for, as the bees leave through the escapes, the supers become unprotected and robbing may start. An empty super or half super is generally given when the escape is put on as the hive will become too crowded.

Take Only Ripe Honey

Only ripe honey should be put above an escape. Unfinished combs should be left below to be finished off by the bees.

If the weather is bright and the bees are active it should be possible to take off the supers within twenty-four or forty-eight hours after putting on the escapes, and find no bees in them.

CANOE COMPANY ENJOYS OUTING

Delightful Trip Is Made Down River On Stoney Lake.

ALL HAVE BIG TIME.

(By Frank Russell)

Saturday morning last, between the hours of eight and eight-thirty, (D. S. Time) was a busy period on the George street wharf, for on the good ship Stoney Lake was being loaded up provisions of many kinds, sorts and descriptions under the watchful eye of Thomas Hooper the renowned caterer of this fair city, whilst old and young, male and female, the boy and girl, the man and youth the matron and the maid were exhibiting their passes without which documents no on could hope to set his or her footsteps on the vessel in question. For this was the annual excursion of the Peterborough Canoe Company's employes to which the general public had no entree even by the purchase of tickets. It will have been observed that in no way had this event been advertised or made public; hence to receive an invitation might well be considered a high honour in itself.

This is a picnic carried out in the most generous scale, no trouble or expense being spared to render the day thoroughly enjoyable to all those having the good fortune to participate therein.

Weather Was Fine

The weather was all that could be desired for an enjoyable water trip. An almost cloudless sky, a glorious sunshine and a gentle, pleasant breeze all tending to make perfect weather, as the passengers, young, old or middle aged walked on board it might be observed that there was, so to speak, an expression of happiness on each face, which indicated that they were out expressly to enjoy themselves. And right verily did each and every one carry out that apparent determination.

A few minutes after eight-thirty the final whistle on the steamer was blown and in a few minutes some one hundred and seventy five souls were afloat on Little Lake. A cross over to the Ashburnham Wharf resulted in the addition of a few passengers while further calls at the Peterborough Lock and the old Street Railway Wharf brought the number up to about two hundred—a comfortable complement for the boat.

An then began the pleasant sail down the river. I always think the trip, either up or down the sinuous Otonabee, a very pleasant journey, the river twists and winds so that there is always something pretty to be seen. So much does river twist—hence its name which is the Indian equivalent of twisting—that if you are in the whichouse watching the compass there are times whence you might well fancy you were going back to point you had recently left, whereas all the time you are getting nearer the mouth of the river.

Many a big city would give anything to have such a charming river, so to speak, at its doors.

Shortly after all our passengers were aboard the fun and hospitality of the day began. Dancing and card parties were soon started, the dance music being supplied by willing volunteers engaged in the Canoe factory. Very quickly candy bags were handed out to the children, ice cream or candies for the ladies, cigars to the smoking men, and so the hospitalities of the day began. Meanwhile we were gently streaming down towards Rice Lake, and about 11.30 we had entered this body of water. Then we got alongside the wharf at Gore's Landing when we were told we could have a half hour to go inspect the locality when the boat's whistle would be blown and all and everyone would return on boat for dinner. Thus it will be seen that this was a picnic in which one's own picnic hamper did not appear.

On re-embarking we found that temporary tables placed on trestles on the lower deck. A goodly number of white clothed waiters quickly and ably supplied us all with a generous supply of food in the form of a well-prepared cold collation consisting inter alia, of cold meat, vegetables, bread, butter, pickles and etc. followed by apple pie, ice cream, and tea, coffee (realy good) and iced lemonade. While this most acceptable repast was being enjoyed the steamer had cast off from the wharf and was on its way towards Wallace's Point. Then came on more dancing, cards, music and singing and eventually the vessel brought up alongside the landing stage at Wallace's Point. Here for a time the younger portion of our community availed themselves of the swings, see-saws, giant strides and other amusements andt hen we were called to another portion of the grounds for the sporting events. Long before this time everybody knew everybody else, formal introductions being largely dispensed with, so all formed a big circle of friends. In fact what with the pretty, varied costumes of the ladies and the faces radiant with enjoyment and happiness one might have looked up on the gathering as a charming flower garden. I know I had a jolly good time of it for not only did I meet a number of old friends and acquaintances, but I received a most hearty reception.

While the sports were being carried out preparations for supper had been gone ahead with and a jolly good meal we had. Then we began the last lap of our homeward journey. By this time a slight shower had come on but which did not last for very long and it did not apparently interfere with anybody's comfort or enjoyment. For dancing, cards, music and singing were resumed. Some songs were prettily sung by a Miss Gwendolyn Jarvis of eleven years of age which were well received.

The last item on the sports program was a novelty said to have been introduced lately in the Old Country. I allude to the "elopment race." An equal number of males and females lined up at a distance facing each other. At the word "go" they went, the man seizing the woman he wanted to elope with—no doubt this had been previously arranged—the most successful men from the prize point of view took the ladies by the waist, hoisted them on their shoulders and were thus free to run away with them. I felt at any time of life too old to elope with a charmer, otherwise I am free to confess there was one I should have liked to have "eloped" with for good and all. "Who was she?" asks some one. Gracious me! I'm not going to be such a fool as I may look or to tell you. I look upon jealously as being one of the worst sins, so I am not going to encourage it.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the directors of the Peterborough Canoe Company who generously chartered the steamer and provided the meals and refreshments. The employes providing the prizes which were very numerous and apparently gave much satisfaction.

In du course we arrived, after a very pleasant sail, at the east city wharf where we bid farewell to a few of our companions, and while we were berthing at the George street wharf like loyal subjects we all heartily joined in the National Anthem. Then took place the final good byes and kisses and at about 7.30 p.m. the highly successful picnic was practically ended; a most enjoyable day having been spent by everyone.

Personally I enjoyed this picnic immensely and I hereby tender my heartfelt thanks to the committee for the invitation they so graciously sent me.

The committee in charge were Tom Taylor, Harry Morgan, Harry Bond and Tom Hendry, who were most indefatigable in their exertions to ensure the pleasure and happiness of all concerned. I do not wish to make any invidious selections but Mr. Hendry certainly put out all his kind exertions.

Montreal Royals Badly Beaten By Maple Leafs

18 SAFETIES ARE SECURED BY SLUGGERS

11 EXTRA BASE HITS.

Royals' Pitching Staff Is Caught In One Of Its Weaker Moments.

MONTREAL, Que., July 30 (Canadian Press).—The Leafs, fresh from battling the Rochester Red Wings to an even break in a four-game series, arrived here yesterday to engage the Royals in a set.

They caught the wobbly Royals' pitching staff in one of its weaker moments and mowed it down with a machine-gun attack that for a time turned the first tilt of the series into an endurance test that rivalled all records ever made on land, sea and in the air.

The Leafs shelled three Montreal twirlers for 18 safe blows, 11 were for extra bases, and a total base count of 32. The contest really developed into a merry foot race between the Leafs' base runners and the Royals' outfielders.

But the Royals' hinterland performers showed a remarkable persistency in running after all the balls the Leafs fired around the enclosure. The Leafs finally gave up through sheer exhaustion, but the game ended in their favor 13 to 7.

KNIGHTS LOSE TO TECO TEAM

Casey's Lose Fixture by 12 Runs to 2—Support is Poor.

WESTBROOK GETS 2 HOMERS

The Teco finally pulled themselves out of the slump into which they dropped during the last few games and won by a 12-2 count from the Knights of Columbus in a twilight softball fixture at the Central School grounds last night.

The Casey's left all the work to a few of the players and an infield cannot win a ball game. The Knights lost heart and did not seem to pull together in any of the frames.

They scored in the first two frames when McGrath singled in the first and Lebarr in the second to score the two lone counters that were chalked up in the Knights' favor.

The Teco aggregation did not find any trouble in connecting with Bill Simmon's offerings and they chalked up five runs in the sixth innings. The final two counters were scored on two consecutive home runs. Westbrooke drove a long one deep into center field to travel the route while Jones, the next man up pulled the same trick.

Gets Two Homers

Westbrooke was easily the star of the evening's fixture when he was credited with two homers, a triple, and a single in five trips to the plate. In the second innings he made a neat catch of Jone's hot fly and had one put out and five assists to his credit. Frick at first was not far behind with eleven put outs to his credit, and reached high into the air for R. Bennett's fly that looked as if it was due for a safety.

Sylvester at second was the outstanding player for the Knights with a number of put outs to his credit and many assists. Brown at third and McGrath behind the plate were the hard workers for the Knights.

The Knights showed brilliant ball playing in a couple of innings. In the fifth and in the ninth, only three men in each frame faced Simmons. The pitcher ran into hard luck and he did not receive the support that the Teco team gave their hurler.

Lineup:

K. of C.—F. Simmons, rf; W. Bennet ss; McGrath c; Brown 3m; Griffin, lf; Lebarr, R. Bennett, lf; Sylvester 2b; Jones rf; Simmons p.

Teco — White c; Westbrook ss; Jones lf; Frick 1b; Crary 2b; Board 3b; Stanley rf; Miller cf; Carruthers p.

Ray Moss Defeats Cincinnati Reds

CINCINNATI, July 30 (Canadian Press).—For the first time in his four years with the Brooklyn Dodgers, Ray Moss pitched a complete game and won from the Cincinnati Reds, 10 to 2.

Moss set the Reds down with eight hits as the Dodgers pounded Lucas and Ehrhardt for 17 hits.

Babe Herman kept up his heavy hitting by clouting two doubles and two singles in five times at bat.

Red Wings' Lead Is Cut By Buffalo

ROCHESTER, July 30 (Canadian Press)—The Rochester pennant-chase lead was cut to six and one-half games yesterday as Buffalo trimmed the Red Wings 8 to 5, and Toronto defeated Montreal.

Leo Mangum pitched well for six innings, but was swatted hard in the seventh and eighth to make room for "Lefty" Williams in a victory role.

Bfily Southworth made his debut as a player and tripled to bring home two runners as a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

Fisher hit his 28th homer in the third.

TENNIS COURTS NEARLY READY

Last Coat of Clay is Being Put on, While Grass Sprouts on Bowling Greens.

CREDIT TO CITY

Peterborough's Club Beautiful, the new combined bowling and tennis courts that are in the process of construction in the west end of the city are taking on an aspect that will dispel even the gloomiest critic that the proposition was not worth while.

In the first place, a board of directors whose whole hearted interest is behind the project, has had no small part in the successful progress that has been met with. The site selected, in the west end of the city, among park like surroundings, is one of the best that could be picked out.

Two regulation bowling greens have been levelled out, rolled, drained and seeded. The seed in the north green was sown about three weeks ago, and already a soft carpet of green has been laid over this court while in the east court the seed was sown only on the fifteenth of the month and the tender blades of grass are even at this early date giving a fresh green appearance to the greens.

Great Care Needed

One of the directors explained that now was the time when the greens had to be watched, "Like a mother watches her babe," tender care and watchfulness must be exercised at this critical time in order to insure that the proper kind of grass will be found when the bowlers step on to the green next year to play their games.

The tennis courts are just being finished. The final coat of clay is being spread. While there have been games played on these new courts they have by no means been completed. The Examiner asked one of the men if it did not hurt the courts to play on them when they were not finished and his reply was: "Just like some one walking on a newly painted floor." But there was no serious harm and it is expected that the final clay coat will be in place by the end of the week.

Highest Tennis Fence

All around the courts is one of the highest tennis fences in the Dominion. It is 12 feet in height, while most of the fences are only ten feet. Around the south and west side of the bowling greens is a four-foot angle fence, which is of a very neat appearance. The fence has not been placed around the north side as yet, this is being held up to await the final pleasure of the directors as to the type of club house that will be built and the drive way into it.

The heavy rain did no damage to the courts yesterday. In fact shortly after the down pour there was no water at all on the greens and only a little on the tennis courts, as the heavy clay holds water longer than the dirt.

Well Drained

The 3,000 feet of tiling that is under these did its work well. There is 1,500 feet under each of the greens and they are drained from the four points of the compass while the 3,000 feet of tiling under the tennis court drain them from north to south.

The Peterborough Bowling and Tennis clubs are going to have something worth while when completed and invading tennis and bowling teams will be proud to boast that they have played on the new courts at Peterborough, when they are completed.

FOURTEEN TO THE GOOD

When Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis declared Guy Cantrell a free agent while he was with Washington he did a mighty fine turn for the Toronto baseball club of the International league.

Cantrell lost no time in accepting the handsome offer of the Toronto Leafs and he is worth every cent of the bonus which he received for signing on the dotted line.

To date he has won fourteen games for the second-placers in the International and should finish up the season with a score or more victories. He is a righthander and with the Baltimore Orioles last year.

JACKIE PHILLIPS, TORONTO, WINS WELTERWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

Is Given Decision in Ten Round Bout With Red Bragan.

TORONTO, July 30. (C.P.) — Jackie Phillips of Toronto, won the welterweight boxing championship of Canada at the Coliseum last night when he scored a clean cut victory over Red Bragan, of Toronto, and easily earned the decision over the ten round route. Phillips' cleverness, and hard, solid hitting and speed, gave him the over hand through eight of the rounds, Bragan earning one, while one was even.

The title had been declared vacant by the Canadian Boxing Federation with the provision that Bragan and Phillips meet for the welter championship. The crown was formerly worn by George Sidders of Montreal, who won over two years ago from George Fifield, of Toronto, on a foul.

Sidders has been fighting over the international boundary.

Phillips' slashing attack drove Bragan almost continually about the ring, Jackie's two-fisted drive sending Red down in the sceond round for no count, while in the eighth Bragan was floored and took a seven toll resting on one knee. Bragan bore marks of the bombardment he underwent, a cut forehead and cut eye sending a steady trickle of blood throughout the last few rounds.

Bragan's ability to take punishment saved him from a knockout. He was in distress on several occasions but fought back gamely and fell into clinches when in trouble.

Phillips weighed 141 and Bragan 143.

Sam Hackett, Toronto, 128 1-4 lbs., took a six round decision from Tony Johnston, 126 lbs., Syracuse, N. Y., in the semi-final.

C.G.E. VS. BRINTON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

On King Edward Park, At Sixthirty—No Game On Saturday.

At a very poorly attended meeting of the Peterborough and District Football last evening, with Charlie Lloyd, vice-president, in the chair, the association accepted the resignation of Robert Brown as a member of the executive who had to retire owing to business reason. George Nimmons was appointed into the vacancy.

A Letter of Request.

The secretary was instructed to write Vincent Stewart, president, requesting him to reconsider his decision on behalf of soccer in the city. A letter will be sent to the Deloro Football Club requesting them to communicate with local association in regards to future encounters.

C. G. E. Awarded Points.

A communication was received from the Canadian General claiming the two points through the failure of the Deloro team not making appearance in Peterborough in the two games scheduled by the association. A lengthy discussion brought out the facts that the local eleven had incurred expenses through various items that had been arranged for the games.

The executive agreed to give their ruling according to the constitution which awards the C.G.E. full points. If the Deloro aggregation participate no more in the league, it will result in their complete record being thrown out.

Game Wednesday.

Canadian General meets the Brinton A.A. in a league game on Wednesday evening on King Edward Park. Kick-off at 6.30. Referee, J C. Russell.

No Game Saturday.

Players Signed.

ENGLAND SCORES 427 IN TEST MATCH

Play Is Resumed To-day Between England and South Africa.

MANCHESTER, England, July 30. — (C.P.) —When the fourth cricket test match between England and South Africa was resumed at Old Trafford to-day, A. W. Carr, captain of the home team, declared. Facing England's first innings total of 427 for seven wickets, South Africa had lost one wicket for four runs at lunch time. The start was delayed on account of the wet pitch.

Rain fell heavily during the week-end and the game was only started after the captains had inspected the wicket four times. Carr was satisfied with England's score on Saturday and declared first thing this morning. The south Frican's had about fifteen minutes batting before lunch and in that time lost Catterall, one of their best batsmen. He was caught by Sutcliffe off Barratt's bowling.

KIDNAPPER IS SHOT IN TRAP

Go-Between Ambushed — Sees Him Accept $4,000.

TRIES TO ESCAPE

DETROIT, July 30.—A fusilade of shots fired by four members of the crime and bomb squad to halt a go-between in one of the most mysterious kidnapping plots uncovered in years last night critically injured the fleeing man and created great excitement in the vicinity of Chicago boulevard and Lawton avenue.

Had $4,000 Cash

The wounded man, police said, had $4000 cash in his pocket when he collapsed, and admitted that he had just received it from Gerson C. Cass, 3046 Fullerton avenue, whose son, David, disappeared from home four days ago. The kidnapper was taken to Receiving hospital in a critical condition.

Police identified the prisoner as Joseph Laman, alias Lamond, alias Kable, and revealed that he had been arrested 12 times since 1923. Charges ranged from disorderly conduct to robbery armed, they said, but he was discharged in each case.

Cass, a real estate operator with offices at 904 Detroit Savings Bank building, paid the money to the go-between in sight of Detective George Nosworthy. He had procured it a few hours before from the American State bank.

Detectives who took part in the capture of the alleged go-between in one of the most mysterious kidnapping schemes discovered by police here in years, were trying desperately to question the man. He was on the verge of unconsciousness, a bullet through his spine.

In many ways, police revealed, the alleged plot and the payment of money last night by the father of the kidnapped man, resembles the wildest dime novel thriller.

David Cass, 23, real estate operator, son of Gerson C Cass, police said, disappeared from his home last Sunday night. The next day, and numerous times since then, police said, the elder Cass has been requested to send an amount of money, ranging from $25,000, the original demand, to $4,000, or his son would never be released.

Called On Phone

The first demand was a telephone call at 4 a.m. Monday. The voice advised Cass that his son had been kidnapped and that a message from him had been placed in the mail box. It was signed by David, the father said, and urged that the demands be met. The ransom then was set at $25,000.

How these negotiations were carried on, police declined to say. They did make the declaration that Cass never advised them of the plot, apparently electing to carry out the instructions of the kidnappers by himself.

They found out, however, that a kidnapping was being rumored in the underworld. That was on Tuesday, it was learned.

Yesterday afternoon they discovered that the father had agreed to meet a go-between at the corner of Chicago boulevard and Lawton avenue, and hand over $4,000 in bills of large denomination. Four crime and bomb squad detectives, Albert Shapiro, Lloyd Doane, Charles Wood and George Nosworthy, prepared to entrap the man when he accepted the money.

They went to the location, Nosworthy taking up his position on a lawn near the corner. The three others drove into an alley nearby and scattered to await action. Nosworthy, in his report of the affair, said he had just arrived when he say a young man at the corner acting nervously.

The elder Cass appeared almost immediately and walked west on the north side of Chicago boulevard. The nervous young man followed for about 100 feet, drew close to Cass and whispered: 'All right."

That was the pre-arranged signal, police later said, and Cass handed over the package of currency.

STREET DANCES OPEN PROGRAM

Weak Start On Pavement Wound Up With Flourish in Collegiate.

OLD HOME WEEK STARTS.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 30 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Everybody had a grand time around town last night. Between the end of the reception and the evening's activities, there was a brief pause to allow the visitors to get their breath before the rest of the program got under way. Early in the evening the street dancing started on Front Street South. The Northumberland Regimental Band supplied the music and the crowd took to the entertainment like ducks to water. It seemed to be a case of once the ice was broken. The dancing started rather slowly, as though the dancers were just a little dubious. But they warmed up quickly and things were real lively. It was all round dancing. There will be square dancing on the street in the same place on Thursday night. That night the committee has secured some real old-time music for real old-time dancing for Old Home Week.

Dancing Free.

Special care was taken to provide every facility for dancing de luxe. To begin with, there was no charge. The street had been carefully washed and cleaned before the section used was barricaded. A generous treatment of bran took the roughness from the surface and made it fairly good as a dance floor. Midway down the stretch, two trucks were backed together and this was the platform for the band. So as not to interfere too seriously with the regular program in the High School Auditorium, the street dancing was wound up at eleven-thirty. This caused a general trek to the school, and the dancing there was carried on in earnest till two this morning. Mowry-Steers and their Silver Collegians, Peterborough, supplied the music and won for themselves an even higher place in dancing circles than they had previously enjoyed when playing at the Community Hall here recently. That they have a large following of dancers in Peterborough and vicinity was evident by the number of young people from Peterborough who came down specially to dance last night.

Shows Play Part.

On the Market Square the Maple Leaf Shows did a good night's business. This amusement company not only has the midway at the Market Square, but also the concession rights of the entire town. Their attractions include all the usual rides and concessions and they are being generously patronized.

To-day's Program.

To-day is another big day, with the big parade as the feature attraction to start the program. The parade begins at half-past one and will follow a route through most of the business and nearer residential sections of the town. An hour later the centre of attractions will be at the Agricultural Grounds, where field sports and a lacrosse tournament will be the order of the day. The lacrosse will be a three-way affair between Oshawa, Peterborough, and the local team.

Water Carnival.

In the evening the program will be an attractive one with a water carnival as the spectacular attraction. This will be held on the stretch of water just north of Bridge Street and will be well worth seeing. Dancing at the High School is expected to go over the top again when Roy Locksley and his Canadians from the Uptown Theatre, Toronto, will supply the music. This orchestra has been under contract with Rye's Pavilion, Peterborough, and the committee considers itself extremely fortunate in being able to secure them.

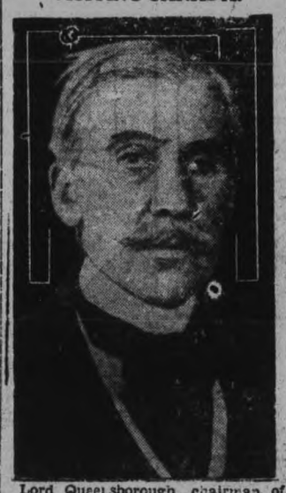
EXPLOSION KILLS MINERS.

WALDENBURG, Silesia, July 30.—(C.P.)— Twenty-three miners were killed and 12 seriously injured in an explosion last night in the Friedenhoffnung mine near Neiderhernsdorff. The cause of the explosion has not been determined.

YOUNG AT FENELON FALLS

Other sports than swimming are indulged in by the Catalina Channel conqueror in his training for the C.N.E. Wrigley marathon at his camp at Fenelon Falls. The bulky star is herewith shown displaying his agility by leapng over a tennis net, racquet and all the other day. He made the grade by some inches, but it was apparently some task, judging from the strained expression of his face and the position of his tongue.

VISITING CANADA.



Lord Queensborough, chairman of the London board of the third Canadian general investment trust, lands in Quebec on July 27, to study the opportunities for investment which Canada offers. He will visit Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto.

CLERGY CAUSE BISHOP WORRY

Segregation May Make Churches Centre For Disaffected Members.

NOT VISIT TWO CHURCHES.

LONDON, July 30.—(By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Corespondent).—In a endeavor to gain some measure of discipline over certain clergymen who refuse to obey his directions regarding reservation of the sacrament, Rt. Rev. Arthur Winnington-Ingram, Bishop of London, has decided to adopt a policy of "segregation" towards at least two incumbents in his diocese.

The Bishop will decline to visit these two churches, or to license the curates attached to them, and the diocese grants to the churches will cease.

Whether or not the affected clergy will be seriously inconvenienced by the Bishop's action is doubtful. The extreme Anglo-Catholics among their congregations have plenty of money, and the refusal of a license for a curate fails to prevent any properly-ordained person from assisting the rector.

His Lordship's action indeed may tend to make these "segregated" parishes merely havens of shelter for disaffected clergy.

YOUNG AMERICAN DENIES DRUNK ON ACCIDENT EVE

Takes Stand Himself After Trial Is Reopened.

LONDON, July 30.—(Canadian Press).—Richard Joshua Reynolds, wealthy young American who is standing trial on a manslaughter charge growing out of an automobile accident, took the stand to-day at resumption of the re-trial made necessary by last week's sudden halting of the case.

The American, who is 23 years old, denied allegations of the prosecution that he was drunk when he ran into a motor cycle driven by Arthur Graham last May.

"ROBIN" GETTING TIRED.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 30.—(Canadian Press).—With their motor weakening but still able to keep them aloft, Dale (Red) Jackson and Forest O'Brien created excitement here this morning when they dropped a note from the endurance plane St. Louis Robin saying they were going to come down "some time." The note evidently was meant to "kid" the ground crew and was dropped about 6.30 a.m.

LACROSSE PRACTISE.

C.G.E. Club Will Meet On Wednesday Evening at 6.30.

The C.G.E. lacrosse club will hold a practise on Wednesday at 6.30 on the Sacred Heart Grounds and a full turnout is requested. The picking of the two teams which has been held up lately owing to the lack of goal nets, should begin shortly as the nets will be ready on Wednesday night.

All former lacrosse players are invited to attend these practises, as are all the old timers who are still interested.

The following C.G.E. players are requested to be present: Killoran, Foley, Simmons, Williams, Price, Rainey, Ashmore, Weir, Adamson, Bates, Howe, Thornton, Newson, Fraser, Bannon, Smart, Foy, McGillen, Fisher, Corkery, Swanger, Hatton, Carroll, Craig, Woods, Jones and Donovan.

Special guests at the picnic were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Haddow and two children, of Bolivia, who are now on furlough, and J. Turnbull, son of Rev. and Mrs. Turnbull, of Bolivia.

A jolly picnic supper was served on the lawn to about seventy-five members and friends of the Band.

PARTY LOST MANAGING POWER NEEDS OVERHAUL SAYS WARDEN

Would Bring Best Brains To Camp and Forget All Prejudices.

JOINED CONSERVATIVES.

LONDON, July 30.—(By Thos. T. Champion(Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Col. Grant Morden, native of Prince Edward County, Ontario, and Conservative Member of Parliament for Brentford and Chiswick, has joined those Conservatives who believe the central executive of the party needs a drastic overhauling.

'Rothermere and Beaverbrook certainly did nothing to help the party in the election," he told his constituents last night. "They are both very great men, but when they tendeerd their views they were practically told to mind their own business."

"Let us drop all this prejudice and bring the best brains back into camp. I do not condemn the heads of the party as a whole, but they have lost the power of managing things."

Col. Morden was one of the few Conservative Members in the London district who retained their seats in the general election of May 30. Founder of Canada Steamship Lines and British Commonwealth Union he has been in England since the World War. During the war he served with the Canadian Overseas Forces. His wife is the daughter of Charles G. Henshaw of Vancouver, B. C.

U. S. OFFICIALS TAKING ACTION

Forestry Head Claims Fires May Become a National Catastrophe.

WORST IN YEARS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30. — (C.P.) — Characterizing the present forest fire situation as "the most critical the nation has known in many years," George D. Pratt, president of the American Forestry Association, today urged government, state and private agencies to drastic action to prevent what might become a national catastrophe.

Mr. Pratt said present means for prevention and protection are "hopelessly inadequate," and pointed to fires sweeping over thousands of acres in California and the Pacific Northwest with little relief in sight. He cited that in the Modoc National Forest in California more than 50,000,000 board feet of lumber have been burned and more than 3,000 acres of forest land burned over. Another fire is raging in Minnesota.

BRIAND'S NEW GOVERNMENT WILL CONVENE TO-MORROW

Confidence Vote Is Expected of About 300-150.

PARIS, July 30 (Canadian Press). —The French Parliament will convene to-morrow and hear the program speech of the new Government of Aristide Briand, Premier. The same Government, minus Raymond Poincare, which M. Poincare steered past so many parliamentary shoals in the eight months of its life.

On a vote after the program speech, the Chamber is expected to express its confidence in the new Cabinet, probably by a ballot of about 300 to 150. The Opposition, practically the same as the Opposition to the Poincare Government, is so split it hardly could force no-confidence witholt a measure on which to unite.

THEATRES

"SHOW BOAT."

Long heralded and announced by the blasting of many trumpets, "Show Boat" has come to town. The screen production combbines the story by Edna Ferber, with the Ziegfeld musical comedy success and the semi-talkie contrived by Carl Laemmle. For "Show Boat" is only vocal at intervals. The action is such and the musical accompaniment so attractive that the words are not greatly missed, but when the screen does start to talk in an important scene it comes with rather a shock. And then most of the actors don't talk with the screen anyway. Synchronization is absent in this picture.

The music is wonderful. From the familiar whistle and thin soprano shrilling of the steam calliope which announces the arrival of the show boat to Mississippi river towns, to the moving melody of "Old Man River," as the heroine (or her double) sings it on the stage, the music is memorable and fascinating.

"Show Boat" opens with three of the musical numbers from the Ziegfeld production. Helen Morgan, one of the hits of the piece, appears to sing "Bill;" Angelina, with her noted Jubilee Chorus warbles "Hey, Feller," in real darky style, and there is a marvellous rendition of "Old Man River" by the superb voice of Jules Bledsoe, with his chorus.

These talking pictures and the music that comes with them, are like nothing that has been imagined heretofore. They seem to bring an entirely different type of production to the screen and it is doubtful if any audience has yet become accustomed to their variety. The impression made by a picture like "Show Boat," for instance, is hard to describe. It is just as if a book came suddenly to life and started to talk and act its tragedy and comedy. Nothing like it has probably ever been conceived.

The action deals with life a half century back, when women wore crinoline and ringlets and men sported high stocks and white beaver hats and tight nether garments. "Show Boat" is the "Cotton Palace" floating theatre boat of the Mississippi, coming to the river towns with its plays and music, and heralding its arrival by a steam calliope, and a gorgous brass band, with a wonderful drum major.

Captain Andy Hawks (Otis Harlan) and his wife Parthenia Ann Hawks (Emily Fitzroy), who by the way is the grim, hatchet-faced lady who acts always as a female martinet and never cracks a smile, are the owners of the boat. Little Magnolia is their daughter and she grows up to be a beauty and the leading lady of the river boat cast. Then comes the handsome Gaylord Ravenal (Joseph Schildkraut) and with him, romance. To the echo of her furious mother's warning words, they are married.

Captain Andy is drowned and matters come to a climax the furious quarrels between the mother and her son-in-law, when the daughter decided to take her share of the property and leave. Wth a cheque for $20,000, they go to Chicago, and here the real drama begins.

Ravenal is a gambler, and the money soon melts away on the roulette wheel and at baccarat. The woman and her child are hounded from pillar to post and finally the break comes again when the mother announces that she will pay them a visit and the husband deserts his wife.

The picture shows an elusive tendency in its transformation, instantaneously, from one scene to another. It is a new bit of technique that gives an unreal value to the story. For instance the child is but to bed in the squalid lodging house where the penniless Ravenels have found a shelter. Gaylord has a stroke of luck at cards and comes in during the night, his pockets full of money. The change from the lodging house to a sumptuous hotel is shown through the medium of the bed with the child in it. Slowly changing its color and form it takes on a new appearance while the audience watches.

So with the years that transform Magnolia from a young woman to a mature matron. She makes a hit in a little Chicago theatre where one of the old employees of the show boat is the manager. First defeated and jeered at, she comes back with "Old Man River," and sings it so poignantly that she arouses the audience. Then she becomes famous and Ravenal watches her from the obscurity of the house while she receives flowers and plaudits. Later, a return to the old show boat, when her mother dies, brings a reunion of the pair. The voice of an old darky, singing "Look down, look down, that lonesome road, before you travel on," rings through the last scene, and brings back the feet of the man who has refused, through pride, to seek out his wife.

There are little bits of comedy and much pathos interwoven through the screening of the "Show Boat," and the cast is a wonderful one. Laura LaPlante, as Magnolia, is outstanding in her art and unconscious artistry and the remainder of the group is memorable. It is a very outstanding picture, colorful and romantic, and set to a gorgeous musical background.

CO-EDS DEMAND SMOKING ROOM

College Girls Peeved At Not Being Allowed To Smoke Near University

CAMPUS SMOKING BANNED.

TORONTO, July 30.—Although expecting to find scented cigarette smoke belching from the famed Norman portals of University College, as a result of rumours current to the effect that the lady teachers employed there were smoking. No evidence of such going-on is, as yet evident.

However, interesting information was gleaned.

And it was soohtnig for those who have been exercised about "the example to children whose lady teachers smoke in public."

According to evidence gathered, it was not the women teachers, but the varsity students temporarily employed to do clerical work, who felt the need of a stimulant to while away the deadly monotony.

Strange to say, those who were approached on the subject of the women smoking failed to take the matter seriously.

It is only the department of education and the Senate of the University who have become uneasy.

One fair co-ed of "peppy" propensities stated frankly:

"Sure, I had to have a smoke, so I went out in the quad.; you have to smoke somewhere."

Smoked on Front Steps.

Another recalled having seen a varsity maiden indulging in the much-maligned weed on the steps of the front entrance.

"The girls are kicking about having no smoking room. They complain that they have to go some distance from the college buildings to a tea-room to smoke," remarked another party, "and one girl gave that as a reason for failing on her examinations."

According to the maiden in question, she could not get a smoke around the university. By the time she has walked to a tea-room, had had a smoke, and walked back, she had lost a good hour of her precious time. Ten minutes at the most would have been required for a smoke in a legalized smoking room on the campus, she points out.

The some authority stated that there had been considerable smoking on the campus about three weeks ago, when the work of examining papers first began.

Then the "riot act" had been read by Mr. R. A. Croskery, the registrar of the department of education. And this served to check the epidemic, since the victims feared losing their jobs if they failed to comply.

Drink at Parties.

The same co-ed went on to say that the men and women did not drink around the university buildings, but that this did not apply to "parties." The Hart House elections occasionally saw some of John Barleycorn's products flowing around.

Co-eds Demand.

During the past year, a percentage of the co-eds of supposedly "suppressed desires" had smoked in the women's cloak-room of the library. But in short order a request that they desist was posted.

This being disregarded, another notice, couched in more threatening terms, appeared. Its only result was a series of remarks written underneath by the students, to this effect:

"What about a smoking room for the women?"

"How about the women smoking outside the swinging doors like the men?"

The net result of this investigation is found in the conclusion that there seems to be no prospect of stopping smoking among the co-eds, or of their being allowed a room for that purpose.

Miss Irene Fulton Tells How Cuticura Healed Eczema

"Eczema started on my face in hard, red pimples which in a few days would break and then scale over. While it was in this scaly form my face would itch and burn, and the irritation prevented me from sleeping or getting any rest. The trouble lasted about four months.

"I used several remedies but they did not seem to help me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they relieved the itching and burning, and in about five weeks I was completely healed, after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment." Many players, with no definite bidding standards, would open this deal with an original one Heart bid if holding South's hand as Dealer. Such a bid would be unsound as South does not hold two Quick Tricks, the minimum which is absolutely guaranteed by an original bid. Furthermore, in view of his freak distribution, South must realize that there is practically no chance of the deal being passed out and that he will have an opportunity to show his Heart length on a later round of bidding.

The trouble with too many players is that they have no specific minimum requirements for their bids, or if they do have such minimums, fail to adhere to them. Give such players an extra card or two in their long suit and they will open the bidding regardless of a shortage in Quick Trick strength and without stopping to realize that such bid may accomplish little more than the deception of partner.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South and West passing, North bids one No Trump, holding slightly better than a minimum Third Hand bid. East has no sound overcall or double of a No Trump on right and passes. South now takes out to two Hearts, which concludes the bidding as North, holding three Hearts to the Ace, has no reason to rebid No Trumps.

Contract: As in Auction, North makes an original Third Hand bid of one No Trump. South, holding seven Hearts to the Queen-Jack-Ten (which should produce five tricks if trumps) and the Ace of Spades, bids four Hearts. His bid of a game contract, rather than one trick under game or one trick over game is an indication that four Hearts is "finished business" so far as South is concerned and that unless holding solid values, North should not attempt nor invite a Slam contract.

Salient Points of the Play.

West leads initially the King of Diamonds, South plays the Ace from Dummy, discarding the Three of Clubs from own hand, and leads the four of Diamonds from Dummy, trumping in own hand with the Five of Hearts and not the Three. The point of trumping with the Five is that this may serve to keep the two hands liquid by providing, possibly, another entry in Dummy's Four of Hearts.

South now leads the Queen of Hearts and finesses, East winning with the King.

East now considers his next lead. He cannot underlead his King of Spades with the Queen showing in Dummy, a Heart lead seems pointless, and he certainly does not wish to lead Clubs up to Dummy's King. He, therefore, selects the Jack of Diamonds as the lesser of several evils.

South trumps the Diamond lead with the Six of Hearts, then leads the Heart Seven, taking the trick with Dummy's Ace. He next leads the Five of Spades, finessing the Jack in his own hand, which wins. He then lays down the Ace of Spades, followed by a small Spade, which throws East in the lead with the King. At this point, East, stripped both of Hearts and Diamonds, is forced to lead either a Club, which would give Declarer a trick with the King of Clubs in Dummy, or to lead another Spade, which would allow Declarer to trump with the remaining trump in Dummy and discard a losing Club in own hand.

Thus South makes four odd in Hearts, losing but the Ace of Clubs, the King of Spades and the King of Hearts.

GREAT NORTHERN RAILROAD LINKING WEST TO INLAND SEA FINALLY REACHES ITS GOAL

Steel Ribbon Stretching Miles and Miles is Completion of Many Dreams.

OPEN WIDE IN 1931

Tons of Grain and Minerals From New Fields Will Take Short-Cut.

THE PAS, Man., July 30.—The iron trail has reached Hudson Bay! Western Canada's dream of half a century has come true at last. Those "twin streaks of rust" are shaking hands to-day with Canada's great inland sea, a sea which is steeped in the lore of sub-Arctic pioneering, of adventurous navigation, of fur trader struggles, and of thrilling naval battles.

Mardi Gras in the Fall.

The work of ballasting and grading the northern stretches of the steel is now being pushed rapidly. Sometime in the fall Fort Churchill will be the scene of a big Mardi Gras when the golden spike will be driven in the last rail at the historic site of Fort Prince of Wales. And by the summer of 1931, it is expected that regular traffic will be in full swing on the much discussed and often maligned, Hudson Bay railway.

Farmers of Western Canada will bask in the dawn of a new day when hundreds of thousands of bushels of grain will take the short-cut route to Europe. Mineral shipments from the virgin regions of Manitoba and Saskatchewan also will likely add their measure of progress to the Hudson Bay railway.

Saskatoon, which centres the prairies of Saskatchewan and Alberta, is 3,733 miles from Liverpool by way of Hudson Bay while the distance over the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence route is 4,878 miles. And, to elaborate the comparison, from Fort Churchill to Liverpool is practically the same distance as from Montreal. Thus it can be seen that the sea hauls are about the same length. Going further, the distance from Saskatoon to Fort Churchill is only 847 miles, while Saskatoon to Port Arthur makes a total of 904 miles.

Churchill is 2,926 miles from Liverpool. From Winnipeg to Liverpool, by way of Hudson Bay, is at least 500 miles less than the Montreal route. And the Edmonton to Liverpool distance is reduced by 1,000 miles over the Bay route.

No Rehandling.

Grain loadings on the prairies may be delivered direct to Hudson Bay elevators without rehandling. With present shipping, grain sent to the head of the Great Lakes must be reloaded into grain carriers, shipped to the Welland canal, transferred to canal barges, sent to Montreal, and then reloaded to deep sea vessels.

Those figures give a picture of the Western insistence for 40 years that a railway line be built to the inland sea. Present costs of taking grain will be lowered when the Hudson Bay route will be open, and that will mean better prices for the Western Canada farmer.

The younger generation may think that the demand for a railway to the northern sea is fairly recent. Far from it. In the Canadian statues from 1886 to 1908 there was a standing offer of subsidy in the form of land grants to anyone who would undertake the construction of a line. In fact, the idea for a railway to the bay might be said to date back to 1755 when Capt. La Corne planted the first seed in Western Canada on the banks of the Saskatchewan river.

Land Pays for It.

An important point about the Hudson Bay railway which is not generally realized is this: That the project will not cost Eastern interests one dollar!

Fifty million dollars' worth of prairie lands were sold for Bay railway purposes. Twenty million dollars has been collected, and it is declared that the major portion of the thirty million outstanding is collectible. More than $20,000,000 has been expended on the line to date, and the estimated total is in the neighborhood of $28,000,000 exclusive of terminals at Churchill. So it can be seen that the collectible surplus remaining to the credit of Western lands account will finance operations—with millions to spare.

The first stretch of the road northward was built in 1887, when the 40 miles between Winnipeg and Shoal Lake was linked with steel. But the plans really didn't take definite shape until 1920 when Hudson Bay Junction, Sask., and The Pas were joined, and the building of a government line from the latter point to the inland sea was authorized by parliament.

Work Began in 1911.

Work was started the following year, with Churchill as the objective. The proposed route, at that time, was 474 miles in length, compared with the actual 510 miles of steel to-day. Operations were hardly well under way, however, when Port Nelson was picked as the terminus. Construction proceeded until 1918, and in that year the rails had reached Kettle Rapids, Mile 322. War costs, with consequent lack of men and equipment, brought a halt to the project.

One of the crises came in 1922 when instructions were given to tear up the rails. The West raised a storm of protest, and the order was withdrawn.

Propaganda tending to discredit the entire project kept on after the "tear up the rails" storm had subsided. And it exists to this day, though its force is pretty well spent. Efforts to damn the railway to the bay gave birth to organized plans to combat the maledictions. One of these was the On-To-The-Bay Association of Canada.

Work Resumed in 1926.

In 1926, the railway took a new lease of life when the government resumed construction.

The question of whether Nelson or Churchill would make the better port was a natural problem at that juncture. The services of Frederick Palmer, British marine expert, were called, and that notable returned a hearty verdict in favor of Fort Churchill. And it was also found that it would be no more difficult to finish the rail line to Churchill, than to end the steel at Port Nelson.

The argument that Hudson Straits would prove a grave yard for ships had been a popular ace in the hands of the opposition. So in 1927, the department of marine and fisheries launched an extensive aerial survey of the entire water lane. Flying bases were established at three strategic points. The legend that the Straits were not navigable for more than three months in the year had been widespread, but the aerial reconnaisance established that the northwest passage is open for shipping at least five months out of the twelve.

Twenty-two hundred men were employed on construction during the peak of last year. It was no easy task feeding them and caring for their wants in the far north, but it was accomplished The workmen lived in warm bunk cars and in well-constructed camps. Hospital cars, with doctors and nurses, made periodic trips up and down the line to check sickness.

The historic task of completing the steel trail has been under the supervision of Major G. J. McLachlan, divisional engineer of the railway. He has been aided by Engineer G. C. S. Johnson and a corps of assistants.

Northern railway construction is esentially a job for the strong. But it has made strong men out of mediocre and shambling material. At times last winter, the steel gang kept on working when the mercury was shivering at 50 below. And they didn't mind the weather, unless it was windy. Because when a stiff wind rakes the Barrens, it cuts like a whip, and makes the "No Work" order not only good business, but humane as well.

Many Benefits.

The benefits which Canada in general will derive from the Hudson Bay railway are many and varied. In fact I doubt if anyone would attempt to visualize the situation in 50 year's time, and the portion of agricultural, mineral and trade growth which can be attributed to the Bay line at the end of half a century.

Farm interest in northern Manitoba will be greatly stimulated when the railway is open for regular business. A government report of a few years' ago stated that there are about 6,000 or 7,000 square miles of clay land suitable for agriculture in the region of the rail line. That would provide 25,000 farms, each of 160 acres.

Wheat, oats and barley have been successfully grown at the experimental stations at Mile 137, Mile 185 and at points even farther northwatd.

Extensive mineralized areas on both sides of Hudson Bay are awaiting proper development and the aids of modern transportation.

In the meantime, all Canada, and a good part of the rest of the world, is sitting in the galleries and watching the stage—a stage with picturesque sets of forests and rushing streams of barren lands and rock empires, upon which human labor is putting the finishing touches on the steel trail to the Midnight Sun.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

AN ESSAY ON LIFE.

The armadillo does no harm.
His ways are filled with simple charm,

His food is chiefly useless plants
And worse than useless swarming ants.

And of shell are built his clothes
To save him from destructive foes.

The turtle is a kindly brute
Who is not avid nor astute

But basks beneath the sunlit sky
To watch the river wimple by

The while he smiles a cheerful smile
Devoid of art or craft or guile.

Yet he must pull his tail and pate
Inside a hide of armor plate

For fear the brutes which lurk about
Will seize upon and pull them out.

And you and I, who have no will
To steal or burglarize or kill

Must constantly abide in fear
Of gangman, crook and racketeer.

Which seems to prove that being good
Will never get you what it shoud.

WENT OVER FALLS.

Jean Lussier, daredevil stunt man from Springfield, Mass., who went over Niagara Falls in a rubber ball last July 4, and plans to repeat the performance this year and as well pass through the whirlpool. He plans to make the try on September 2.

POWER PROGRAM BEING UNDERTAKEN

British Columbia Faced With the Largest Hydro Task Ever Started.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 30—(C.P.)—The greatest water-power development program ever undertaken in Western Canada is now facing British Columbia, with half a dozen important utility corporations involved in the petitions for hydro concessions.

These applications stipulate for the harnessing of 800,000 horsepower additional to that already being utilized. The total electrical output of the province thus is being increased by projects now under way from approximately 480,000 to something over 1,000,000 horsepower, all of which is needed to keep pace with expanding industry.

Most of the present development is being carried out by the two great power companies of British Columbia, the B. C. Power Corporation which owns the power, lighting, gas and street railway franchises in Vancouver, New Westminster and several other centres, and the West Kootenay Power and Light Company, which is an important factor in the development of mines in the interior of the province. Among the other companies applying for rights are the International Utilities Corporation, Canadian Utilities, Ltd., Campbell River Power Company and the Strathcona Power Company.

The B. C. Power Corporation's chief development now under way is at Bridge River, 135 miles north of Vancouver, where two units to produce 30,000 horsepower each, are being installed, but it is expected the ultimate development here will reach 350,000 horsepower, the largest hydro scheme in the west. At the same time this company is carrying on development at Ruskin on the Stave River, to produce 40,000 horsepower and later two additional units of the same size will be installed, making a total of 120,000 horsepower.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

Questions for the Preachers to Answer.

Was Adam, the progenitor of the human race, made a living soul, or was he given a soul?
If death is the penalty for sin, is the death of Jesus a complete offset for this penalty?
If the death of Jesus paid the penalty for sin, is it not proof that all mankind shall be resurrected, and live again?
If mankind is delivered from the penalty of death by being resurrected for what purpose are they given life gain?
Is the life restored by resurrection temporary or everlasting?
If this restored life is only temporary, is there any chance of mankind, after being thus restored, obtaining everlasting life by any course of action?
Why does David in the 96th and 98th Psalm speak of the judgment of the people as a time of joy and gladness? M. T. BUTCHER.

ROTARY ENGAGED IN WORLD PEACE

expansion of Rotary. There are now 3,350 clubs in the United States, 106 being new last year. The first club established outside of the United States was in Winnipeg and now there are an even 100 in this Dominion.

Every country in the Western Hemisphere is represented in Rotary. Mexico has 41 with 37 soon to be formed. It was said that many of the members who attended the international convention held several years ago in Mexico got an entirely new viewpoint of the country and returned with their new outlook to their own widely separate clubs, and so goodwill spread.

There are 78 clubs in South America and every country in Central America has one or more clubs.

In Great Britain there are 378 clubs and the number is ever-increasing. Sweden, Norway, Belgium, Holland, France, Spain, Switzerland, Italy and Germany have Rotary Clubs. Rotary was not established in Germany until two years ago and its beginning in that country is now a famous chapter in the burying of old grudges for service. A Frenchman who had lost several sons in the Great War stood up and warmly shook hands with the German members at the conference. On the spirit of friendship Rotary was established in Germany and there are now five flourishing clubs with many in formation.

22 Countries in Europe

In all there are twenty-two countries in Europe represented in Rotary. Twelve clubs in Africa and one of the latest achievements is the establishing of a club in Jerusalem. China, Japan and many countries of the Far East are now represented. While Australia and New Zealand are strong for Rotary.

In all there are 3,180 clubs in fifty-five countries and the numbers is certain of increase.

W. R. Morris, past president introduces District Governor Charles Buchannan. Present were five members of the Lindsay club.

It was announced that Mr. Buchannan will be in Campbellford on August 12 and an inter-city meeting at which a strong delegation from this city will be present is planned for that occasion in Campbellford.

There was almost a 100 percent meeting to hear the District Governor's address and his message of inspirations struck an answering note of enthusiams in all present.

EGYPTIAN INDEPENDENCE.

PRESTON, Eng., July 30.—(C.P.)—Tom Shaw, British Minister of War, in a speech here last night, said his Government intended to give Egypt independence on terms which would establish the happy relations of Britain and Egypt and insure the safety of British communications with her Eastern Empire for all time.

His statement was much more definite than previous official intimations.

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

THRESHING IN DOURO.

A record in the early thrashing of Fall wheat wah made on the farm of Charles Towns of Douro, when Martin Coughlin's machine was used to do the work. Mr. Towns is a son of P. G. Towns. This sets a very early date for the thrashing of Fall wheat.

SIX REASONS.

A story about six girls who attended the Capitol last night was heard on the street and if it is true it demonstrates six reasons why men do not get married. This party, were of the age who should know better, than to lean over the front of the balcony and drop things, to turn around and wave at their friends in the rear of the house and above all it is alleged that they accompanied every song that was sung from the screen by their own version and tune. It is plainly six reasons why men leave home or shun marriage.

TWO AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE.

A motor accident occurred on Water street between Brock and Murray streets, about 9 o'clock last evening. Bruce Johnson, of North Monaghan, had been parked on the west side of Water and as he backed from the curb a collision occurred between his car and Francis MacPherson, 450 George street, who states he was driving south on Water at a speed of 10 miles per hour. Considerable damage was done to each car.

LIGHTNING FORMS CINDER

An interesting bit of evidence of the intense heat generated by a stroke of lightning was given to The Examiner yesterday by Hector McLeod. It was a cinder that seemed more of a mineral nature than vegetable that was picked up by Mr. McLeod from the ruins of the large elm tree that was destroyed by lightning on the highway Sunday evening. The cinder resembled anthracite coal and was evidently formed when the tremendous heat of the lightning bolt fused the gum and wood of the heart of the tree into a solid mass.

KIDDIES' CAMP POPULAR.

Many children are daily taking advantage of the children's camp operated in Jackson's Park by the Peterborough Health Association with the assistance of the Kiwanis Club. From the time the bus disgorges the happy horde of children in the morning till they return in the evening, the park rings with their happy laughter as they play in the shady nooks about the camp. They are in charge of a nurse and one assitant. Occasionally a special treat is arranged for the children when they are each given a substantial slice of watermelon before embarking on the bus to return in the evening.

posited in the name of Boris Bakhmeteff, former Ambassador of the Kerensky government, in the National City Bank may also be claimed for the Czar's estate.

Belief that $100,000,000 of the Czar's money was invested before the World War in American securities rests upon a report to the State Department by former American Ambassador Francis, according to Kohler.

The Ambassador reported he had been unofficially advised that of this amount $50,000,000 had been invested in Pennsylvania Railroad, $5,000,000 in New York Central, $5,000,000 in Baltimore & Ohio and the remainder in other coroporations not known.

Held Czar's Property

While it may be found that all funds in this country were invested or deposited to the account of the Imperial Russian Government, the contention would still be advanced that they were the property of the Czar, according to Kohler, who stated:

"At the time these transactions were made, the Czar was the acknowledged personal owner of all state funds, and the then international understanding, under which the transfers were made, would certainly enter into the contest."

This view is also taken by Edward H. Fallow, No. 75 North avenue, who will present the claim of his mysterious client, "Grand Duchess Anastasia."

It was admitted at Fallow's offices that the first legal action on behalf of "Anastasia" probably would be in New York Supreme court, where a declaratory judgment, precedents for which have already been created, will be sought to establish her as the rightful heir to the throne of Russia and the Imperial estate.

Kohler declared yesterday he was ready to oppose any effort which might be made to deprive the thirty-three members of the Romanoff family of any proceeds which may be found here. He insisted that the Romanoffs were convinced that Mme. Tchaikovsky's claim was false.

In Police Court

Two workmen, who had been labouring in the hot sun, cracked a bottle of cold beer and were enjoying it in a moment of ease at noon yesterday. They were each fined $10 and $4.50 costs in police court this morning for imbibing in an illegal place.

Two men pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place and were fined $10 and costs of $4.50.

SLIMMER HOPES HELD FOR PEACE

Lack of News Leaking Out Seems To Point Russia Taking Aggressive.

FRONTIERS QUIET.

LONDON, July 30.—(Canadian Press).—Prospects for peaceful solution of the difficulties between China and Soviet Russia seemed slimmer to-day. All reports of negotiations under way seemed to have proven false.

China was reported very anxious to negotiate a settlement of the dispute arising from seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railway, and as confident of an agreement, if Russia "would realize her mistake in propogandizing China."

There was no indication however Russia would recognize such a condition. Everything pointed to Russian disinclination to open discussions at all. Such scanty news as was received here seemed rather to suggest Russia felt her position strong and was in no wise disposed to regard herself as other than the agrieved party to whom reparation was due.

Meanwhile the frontier was reported quiet with the rival forces separated by a wide neutral zone.

SOVIET DENIES REPORT.

BERLIN, July 30.— (Canadian Press).—The Soviet Russian Embassy here issued to-day an emphatic denial of a report from Washington which stated that although direct negotiations between the Society Ambassador and the Chinese Minister here have not yet started, indications are that they will soon begin.

The Soviet Embassy declared this report as untrue as a previous report that Russo-Chinese negotiations regarding the Chinese Eastern Railway dispute are going on in the German capital.

official nominees, returned Mr. Evanturel, it would have been no great surprise. It elected him in 1925 when he was not an official candidate and defeated him in 1926 when he was. However, Mr. Bertrand, who runs a general store in L'Original and who has taken an active part in municipal politics, including his election as Mayor of the town, carried the seat by quite a substantial majority. The election was made necessary by the resignation of Louis M. Auger.

In Vaudreuil-Soulanges, Mr. Wilson was elected in 1925 and again in 1926 by big majorities, running against Conservative candidates. Mr. Wilson was for fifty years in the wholesale wine importing business in Montreal. A man of considerable means he has been untiring in his efforts to develop typical French Canadian culture. In former years he frequently brought Canadian artists who had finished their training in aPris, to his constituency where they gave free entertainments in order to inculcate among his people a greater appreciation for the higher type of music and drama. He brought artists to entertain the members of parliament after his election in the hope of impressing on the parliamentarians his cherished plan for a national theatre here where Canadian art, both French and English would be developed. He resigned his seat last fall but decided to run again. He was opposed by two independents, Gilles Mousseau and Emil Gagne.

The election makes no changes in the standing of the House of Commons from what it was before the vacancies occurred.

The standing will be:

Liberals	119
Conservatives	89
Progressives	12
U.F.A.	11
Liberal-Progressives	9
Labor	3
Independents	2

Obituary

RICHARD DEVEY.

WOLVERTON, England, July 12.—One of the oldest and best known residents of Wolverton passed peacefully away in the early hours of Saturday morning last, 6th July, in the Person of Mr. Richard Devey, at his residence, 86 Stratford Road, Wolverton. He had reached the advanced age of 65 years, and even on Friday, the day previous to his death, he was out in the town on several ocasions. He was a native of Birmingham, and was married at St. Phillip's Church, which is now the Cathedral of that city. Quite recently Mr. and Mrs. Devey celebrated their diamond wedding at Wolverton, where they had resided for nearly fifty years. There were twelve children of the marriage, nine of whom survive. Four of them are at present abroad. His second son, Richard, is in Peterborough, Canada and is well known in this and the surrounding district for his musical abilities; his daughter, Eva, residing with her husband in California; Mrs. T. Nichols in Buenos Ayres; and his youngest son in Australia.

JOSEPH BEATTY.

OMEMEE, July 30. — (Examiner Correspondence.)—The funeral of the late Joseph Beatty, a life-long resident of Omemee, was held on Thursday afternoon. The service at the house was conducted by the Rev. A. T. Weir, and was largely attended by a wide circle of friends from far and near. Following the service, the funeral cortege, led by the Royal Black Preceptory and the Orange Order, wended its way to Emily cemetery, where two short services were conducted by the brethren. The pallbearers were Sheriff R. J. Patterson, T. H. Slinson, M.P., and Everett Mitchell of Lindsay, L. Moncrief, George Lowes of Emily, and I. H. Fee of Omemee.

MRS. HANNAH BELL.

One of Peterborough's old residents passed away yesterday in the person of Mrs. Hannah Bell. The deceased was in her eighty-fourth year, and death came after an illness of about two years at her home, 451 Water Street.

Mrs. Bell was the widow of John Bell. She was formerly Hannah Greer, born in Cavan Township, near Centreville, the daughter of the late Samuel Greer. With the exception of six years in Montreal, she has spent her entire life in this city. She was educated here, and for more than fifty years attended St. John's Anglican Church, in which she was a member of the Women's Auxiliary.

The parents of the deceased were early settlers in this country, coming out from County Cavan, Ireland, early in the Nineteenth Century.

Surviving Mrs. Bell are two sons and one daughter: Joseph of Langley, British Columbia, George of Carrot River Valley, near Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, and H. Victoria Bell at home. A sister, Mrs. M. Reid, resides at 451 Water Street.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday from the house at 2 o'clock p.m., and in St. John's Church at 2.30 p.m., with interment in Little Lake Cemetery. Revs Dr. R. C. Blagrave of St. John's Church and Rev. John L. Hughes of St. George's Church will officiate at the service.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips Milk of Magnesia.
This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.
A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book, "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont.
In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

WEDDING BELLS

CORDERY—TIMM.

The wedding was solemnized quietly at All Saints' Church of Mary Lillian, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Timm, and Mr. William Arthur Cordery, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cordery, both of Peterborough. The Rev. J. D. Paterson performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Dorothy Worboy. She was attired in a dainty gown of mauve georgette trimmed with siver and lace, with mohair picture hat and neckpiece of fox fur. She carried a bouquet of red roses and gypsophila.

The bridesmaid, Miss Marion Timm, sister of the bride, wore a becoming gown of yellow georgette with hat to match, and fox fur, and carried a bouquet of red roses and gypsophila.

Mr. Harry Cordery acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Cordery left later for a motor trip to Niagara Falls, the bride travelling in in a pale green ensemble with hat to match. On their return they will live in Peterborough.

His nominal term expires this month but some months ago he consented to remain in this high position beyond the allotted term.

The transfer opens the gates for promotion rather wide, the naval changes extending all down the line and including some famous names. Admiral Sir Osmond Brock is appointed Admiral of the fleet as a direct consequence. He served in the battle of Jutland and was awarded the Companionship of the Order of St. Michael and St., George. He is a noted gunnery expert.

Provincial Constable H. Thompson, stated that an inquest would likely be called.

He said further that he attached no blame to Warren.

(C.S.T.) because they wished to attend the funeral services to-day of George Lea Lambert, killed Monday with a student flier on a practice spin. They made the sky above St. Louis their home for 420 hours 21½ minutes, or two weeks and a half.

The fliers' greatest thrill came, they said last night, as they watched the thousands below churn the dust of the field into a sticky gumbo as a hard rain descended about six o'clock.

25,000 at Field

A crowd estimated at 25,000 was at the field and easily broke police lines and a fence erected to protect the plane.

They cheered wildly and jammed about the hangar where Jackson and O'Bine were rushed. Employes of the Curtiss-Robertson Company, sponsors of the flight, together with police, foiled souvenir hunters and the plane was towed with a tractor to its resting place beside the hangar. Its motor, a six-cylinder air cooled radial Curtiss Challenger will be dismantled for a thorough factory inspection as to any faults which may have developed in the long sustained flight.

Both Felt Fine

Jackson and O'Brine were cheerful almost to hilarity as they discussed their achievement with reporters. Red's greeting to the field physician as his physical started was "good morning, judge, what's the sentence to-day?"

Both said they felt fine although O'Brien added he was "a little weak in the knees."

Asked as to the hardest part of the flight, O'Brine replied without hesitation, "The first 100 hours."

They were steady on their feet and the long time aloft had not impaired their hearing. One of the officials started to shout at Jackson and drew the comment, "I can hear you."

O'Brien gained a pound and a half in the air while Jackson's weight remained stationary at 154

MEMBERS OF RADICAL PARTY REFUSE TO ENTER GOVERNMENT OF PREMIER ARISTIDE BRIAND

Group Fails To Vote in Want of Confidence Motion For New Premier.

TRUCE SUGGESTED.

Asks Members To Sacrifice Other Considerations To Needs of Foreign Policy.

PARIS, July 31. (C.P.) — The Radical group in the Chamber of Deputies voted to-day 42 to 34 to abstain from voting when Premier Aristide Briand asks a vote of confidence in the new French government. The action assured a sizeable majority for the new premier.

The cabinet met this morning and unanimously approved M. Briand's declaration of policy which he was to read later in the chamber.

"Three months' truce" in internal politics was asked by Premier Briand's cabinet in the traditional ministerial declaration to parliament to-day, asking for a vote of confidence for the premier to go to the Hague Reparation Conference.

Situation is Grave.

"The hour in any case is sufficiently grave to justify the sacrifice of all other considerations to the needs of our foreign policy," the declaration states.

The Hague conference, which is to put into effect the Young plan, was described as "an essential link in the chain of peace."

The defense of the rights and interests of France in this great international debate is our real reason for existence. It is our program for the moment and our only program;" Parliament was informed that "we need your full confidence."

Cause of Regret.

Refusal of members of the Radical Socialist party to enter the Cabinet was the cause of "great regret" to the government, but the cabinet hoped these deputies "can at least by their votes facilitate our international work."

Premier Briand's government considered that "we find ourselves with the heaviest responsibilities that have weighed on any government since the end of the war, but with your co-operation we are ready to assume them. We count upon you, inspired solely by the interests of France, to take your share."

Wealthy American Gets Five Months, No Labor

LONDON, July 31 (Canadian Press).—Richard Joshua Reynolds, 23-year-old American of the wealthy Reynolds tobacco manufacturing family, was sentenced in Old Bailey Court today to five months' imprisonment without hard labor on a manslaughter charge growing out of an accident last May in which a motor cyclist was killed.

Twelve Killed By Cars In Toronto During July

TORONTO, Ont., July 31.—(Canadian Press). — Twelve deaths were caused by automobiles in Toronto during the month of July, the highest figure since September, 1927, when 20 deaths resulted from auto accidents. For the first seven months of the year the total number killed in this manner was 54, as compared with 39 for the same period last year.

During July the total number of violent deaths was 85, besides eight suicides.

YOUNG WOMAN BELIEVED TO BE LOST IN WOODS

Inquest Will Probably Be Held Into Deaths of Mrs. Hisgrove and Son.

GIRL IS MISSING.

First Feared Drowned, Now Believed To Have Fled Into Forest.

BUCKINGHAM, Que., July 31.—(Canadian Press).—An inquest into the deaths of Mrs. J. J. Hisgrove, her nine-year-old son Denis, and Miss Mamie Taeger will be held if the investigation now being conducted into the disappearance from a Houder's Lake summer camp last Thursday of Miss Irene Lamont of Ottawa, warrants such action.

When the bodies of Mrs. Hisgrove and her son, vacationists from Ottawa at Houder's Lake and Miss Taeger, a resident of Hull, Que., were recovered from the waters of the lake last Friday it was decided an inquest was not necessary. However the failure to find the remains of Miss Lamont who was at first thought to have been bathing with the ill-fated party at the time of the tragedy, has caused the district coroner to believe an inquest might shed light on the affair.

Early to-day a party of some half hundrd men entered the thick bush surrounding the lake which is situated 22 miles north of here, to continue the search for Miss Lamont. Owing to the fact the young woman's wearing apparely has not been found at the camp, the conclusion that she had drowned with her companions has changed to one that she fled panic stricken into the woods and became lost after witnessing the tragedy.

COMMUNISTS' ANTI-WAR TACTICS DRAWS FROWNS FROM EUROPE

England, France and Germany Ready With Police For Disorders.

MANY LEADERS ARRESTED.

LONDON, July 31. — (Canadian Press)—All Europe watched with increasing concern to-day preparations for Communist "anti-War" demonstrations to-morrow Police in the various countries took measure to avert threatened trouble.

Inception and conduct of the demonstrations generally was ascribed here to the Moscow third International. Anti-Communist scurces took the view the affair had less to do with "anti-war" than pro-communist.

For days past reports from many Europe cities have told of vigorors preparations to combat the movement on the ground that disorders were bound to result from them. Many Communist leaders and numbers of their followers have been arrested and imprisoned.

Paris was said to have 20,000 armed troops and police organized to repress attempts at meetings and processions which have been forbidden. Berlin. Hamburg. Munich and the Ruhr district have made elaborate preparations against possible disorders and have forbidden street demonstrations.

T.T.C. PAY LINE HOLDS CONVICT

Burwash Inmate Arrested With Revolver Near Wage Wicket.

ESCAPED JUNE 20.

TORONTO, Ont., July 31 (Canadian Press). — As he stood in the employees' pay line in front of the cashier's cage on the third floor of the Toronto Transportation Commission Building at Front and Yonge Streets, yesterday afternoon, gr.pping an automatic revolver partly covered in paper, Harold Checkley, escaped convict, was arrested by Detectives Archabo'd and Greenlee.

On June 20 Checkley escaped from Burwash Prison by swimming the river. He made his way to Port Hope where he purchased the gun and several rounds of ammunition, he told the police. On coming to Toronto a few weeks ago, he secured work with a construction gang engaged in street work. Police learned he was here but when they went to arrest him he had left a few minutes previously.

FOREST FIRE MENACE IS PUT OUT IN THUNDER BAY REGION BY RAIN

Dry Weather Prevails Over the Whole Continent Temperatures In Western Canada Establish Records

Hot, dry weather prevailed over practically all North America.

Temperatures in drought-stricken Western Canada went to new peaks. Empress, Alberta, reported 104 dgrees.

At least another 24 hours of dry weather predicted.

Premier Gardiner of Saskatchewan agreed to a conference to arrange relief for farmers seriously affected by the drought.

Shortage of milk, butter and cheese predicted in Quebec, where pasturage is suffering.

Sarnia running short of drinking water.

Fire hazard increasing daily in Northern and Northwestern Ontario. New outbreaks in Gold belt east of Red Lake.

Bush and prairies fires fought in Manitoba and Alberta.

Valuable timber destroyed in British Columbia.

Crops seriously affected in the United States, while forest the situation threatens to become a national catastrophe.

Rain last night at Port Arthur was expected to help firefighters in that district.

Situation Is Still Grave in Other Sections of Northwestern Ontario.

RAIN IS EXPECTED.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 31 (Canadian Press).—Pouring rain that last night virtually stamped out the forest fire menace in the Thunder Bay district, may be forthcoming in other sections of North-Western Ontario and Eastern Manitoba some time today. Where scores of men are fighting flames with only fair success in large areas of these forest districts, rain would put the fires under control and they could be easily handled, it is believed.

The probabilities of rain were stressed by local meteorological bureau officials this morning, but the inevitable downfall, they said, could hardly be timed. North-Western Ontario, however, is expected to be drenched within the next 36 hours, and possibly before nightfall to-day.

More moderate temperatures prevailed over the fire-stricken wooded country to-day, and dark clouds hinted at a shower that might come at a moment's notice.

The Western prairies enjoyed a letup from the intense heat that has prevailed for several days, temperatures dropping to about the 80 degree mark, whereas they have consistently hovered well above 90. The West, too, will be subject to showers, but they will probably be widely scattered and light, according to the weatherman.

With the forest fire situation in Manitoba assuming alarming proportions, especially at Pine Falls, firefighters are encouraged by the moisture-laden clouds that appear in Manitoba's sky.

STATES' SENATE LIFTS TARIFF

Logs, Lumber, Shingles May Enter U. S. Free With Exception of Flooring.

15 PER CENT. ON MAPLE.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 31—(By Kenneth S. Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — Senator Couzens of Michigan has announced the decision of the Senate Finance Committee that logs, lumber and shingles may enter the United States freely. The action of the committee in yesterday removing those products from the dutiable list where they were placed by the House, and restoring them to the free list, is hardly likely to be reversed. Close observers of the tariff building would be surprised if the Senate again clapped a duty upon these building materials peculiarly necessary to the farmer. When the Tariff Bill finally becomes law, late this year or early next, it is predicted there will be little change in the duties affecting Canadian lumber and shingles. Canada's trade with the United States in shingles, alone, is valued at about $7,000,000 annually.

Senator Couzens announcement yesterday noted one exception to complete freedom of entry for wood products, this was a fifteen percent duty on maple flooring which, it was said, is designed to meet a 25 per cent tax imposed by Canada.

REDS PLAN HUGE CELEBRATIONS

Are Holding Speeches in Queen's Park and Parade Through Toronto's Streets.

NO POLICE PERMISSION.

TORONTO, Ont., July 31.—(Canadian Press).—To-morrow is to be International Red Day. Workers of Toronto are being called upon to join hands and demonstrate against imperialist war.

In a pamphlet printed yesterday and being distributed this morning, the Toronto Red Day Anti-War Conference calls upon all workers to gather in Queen's Park to a rally. The meeting, the pamphlet states, will be addressed by Jack Macdonald of the Communist Party, Lily Himelfarb of the Young Communist League, and A. E. Smith, National Secretary of the Canadian Labor Defence League.

Following the rally and the speeches a mass parade, the pamphlet states, will be held "through Toronto," when the workers will "demonstrate on the streets."

Late last night, Chief Constable Draper stated that he knew nothing of the proposed parade or rally in Queen's Park. No authority had been given for a parade. Permission from the Police Commission is necessary, he stated, before any parade could be held.

CANAL PROJY PLANS IN HANDS OF GOV'T

Public Financing of Beauharnois Canal Company in Autumn.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 31 (Canadian Press).—All the undertakings preliminary to the commencement of operations by the Beauharnois Power Company have been completed between the company and the Government. Agreements regarding the taking over of land required for the various canal works have been executed, and detailed plans of the entire enterprise filed with the Public Works Department as required by Order-in-Council.

The public financing of the Canal Company is projected for late in the autumn.

FLYING FLEET AT EXHIBITION

Largest Congress on Continent When Every Club Sends Representative.

MANY EXHIBITS

TORONTO, Ont., July 31.—(By the Canadian Press.) — The largest air congress ever held in North America is expected to be part of the Canadian National Exhibition program for this year. Nearly 200 planes, it is anticipated, will undoubtedly form the largest group at one occasion on the continent.

Airplane clubs all over Canada and the United States have already signified their intention of being represented. Airport facilities will be taxed in caring for the visitors. In addition to the club and private planes present most of the aircraft manufacturers in Canada and the United States will have demonstration planes on hand besides exhibits in the new aircraft building, the former transportation building.

An extra feature will be the return of the Selfridge Field fliers, who, a year ago, made such a "hit" when they visited Toronto.

RUSSIAN CLASH AT IMAN.

TOKIO, July 31.— (Canadian Press).—Reports reaching the Tokio office of the South Manchurian Railway early to-day said more than 100 persons were killed and wounded in a clash between Red and White Russians at Iman, a city on the Trans-Siberianf Railway outlet, north o Vladivostok. There was no confirmation elsewhere.

JURY CHANGES FIRST VERDICT

Creates Surprise When First Decision of Murder Is Changed By Indecision.

THIRD CROYDON MYSTERY.

LONDON, July 31.—(Canadian Press).—Croydon's murder mystery, involving the deaths of at least three members of the same family by poison took a new turn to-day when the coroner's jury at first decided that Mrs. Violet Sidney had been poisoned wilfully and then shifted its position deciding there was not sufficient evidence to show this.

The jury which returned a verdict of murder in the case of Mrs. Sidney's daughter Vera, several days ago first declared that the poison had been administeerd by a person or persons unknown in the case of Mrs. Sidney thus forming the basis for a murder charge.

Then to great surprise the jury retired and altered its decision returning a verdict that the woman died from acute poisoning but that there was not sufficient evidence to show whether it was self administered or whether she was murdered.

Bread-Making Qualities Of New Wheat Is Being Tested In Britain By Millers

OTTAWA, Ont., July 31. —(C. P.) — Will Canada's new rust-proof wheat make good bread? L. F. Newman of Ottawa, Dominion cerealist, is now on his way to Europe to find the answer to that question. If it is affirmative the Dominion will have another agricultural triumph to add to the fame alreday achieved with Marquis wheat.

Through the Dominion experimental farms branch 5,500 bushels of the new wheat, immune from that arch enemy of grain—the rust parasite—has been distributed in the British Isles and the continent. Under the personal supervision of Mr. Newman the wheat will be milled and the flour baked into bread. If it stands up with other flour in competition the triumph over the parasite which has caused grain growers the loss of millions of dollars will be complete.

Accidental Death Verdict Returned Though Doctor Not Fully Qualified

TORONTO, Ont., July 31 (Canadian Press).—A verdict of accidental death was returned last night by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Harold Greenlaw, 14, who died in a local hospital July 18 while undergoing an anaesthetic preparatory to an operation for tonsils and adenoids. While attaching no blame to anyone, the jury added the recommendation "that in all cases where an anaesthetic is to be administered, a fully qualified physician should always be in attendance."

Dr. H. R. Baxter, who administered the anaesthetic, admitted that although he was a graduate in medicine of the University of Toronto, he was not yet fully qualified to practice in Ontario as he had failed "in some subjects" of the Dominion Medical Council examinations. He had taken six lectures in anaesthesia and had administered 75 anaesthetics under supervision of expert doctors and 125 by himself. In this case he was alone.

SPORT PROGRAM OLD HOME WEEK IS BIG SUCCESS IN CAMPBELLFORD

LACROSSE GAME IS ENJOYED

Oshawa and Home Team Tied in Big Lacrosse Game.

WELL ORGANIZED.

All Star Team From Seymour East Win Softball Fixture.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 31 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Following the parade yesterday afternoon, the Fair Grounds was the liveliest spot in town. A. J. Meyers and his committee had organized a program guaranteed to please everyone. Softball, lacrosse, and racing was the list of sport for the day. Seymour East invaded the celebration with an all-star team, and took the wind out of the local players to the tune of 13 to 10 in five innings. Lacrosse did not end so disastrously for the local players. After four periods, the score stood 3-3 ,and the game was left as a draw. It was, as lacrosse has been for years here, the drawing card of the day.

The lacrosse was not, perhaps, as good an exhibition as has been played here, but many old-timers expressed their approval of the game, and were well satisfied. It was a friendly game, and although the play was rough in spots and an occasional penalty was issued, these only served to add to the interest and make things more exciting at intervals. Right off the bat, the local team got the first try at the goal, and when 10 minutes had passed, got into the lead. V. Cochrane scored on a close-in shot . Oshawa would have balanced the scales had not Cowell saved the situation when the visitors bore down with a fine combination terminating in a concentrated effort right around the home goal. When the tables were turned in the next minute, Fred Ingram bounced the ball on the goal-post with sufficient force to knock the post out of plumb and hold the game while it was straightened. With two minutes of the period left, Oshawa fought desperately to even the count, but they broke away and the period ended in the visitors' territory. There were no penalties.

The score: Oshawa 0,Campbellford 1.

Second Period.

Things began to be more lively and

Toronto Youth Fails To Rob Detroit Bank

DETROIT, Mich., July 31 (Canadian Press).—An attempt on the part of Edmund Martin, 18, giving his home address as Queen Street, Toronto, to hold up the Grand River Avenue branch of the National Bank of Commerce, ended in ignominious failure yesterday when an employee of the bank, who had been watching him, climbed up on a grill partition, and, leaping down on the back of the youth, bore him to the floor, where he was quickly trussed up. It was the second attempt in two days to rob the same bank.

The new Engineering and Electrical Building, costing $600,000, was officially opened at the 1928 Canadian National Exhibition.

Strength Will Be Equal

Complete Agreement Between United States and Britain Expected.

SEEKS DEFENSE ONLY.

President Hoover Answers Criticisms of Head of American Legion.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 31. — (Canadian Press).—The agreement between the United States and Great Britain looking to complete equality in the strength of their navies is held out by President Hoover as an answer to critics of his decision to postpone work on the three cruisers which were to have been laid down in navy yards next fall.

Quoting "our naval authorities" as regarding parity with Great Britain as "a complete defense of the United States in any contingency," the President has taken occasion to set forth the importance he attaches to the London agreement in a letter replying to criticisms of his cruiser postponment action by Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American Legion.

He describes the agreement as "the first step of the renewed consideration of reduction of the excessive world naval armament." And holds it to be "a forward step of the first importance" reiterating his position that defense is all that the United States is seeking.

Bandits Mistake Prey But Get Haul Anyway

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 31.—(Canadian Press)—Mistaking the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's district paymaster, F. A. Hardie, for a Bank of Montreal messenger, who was due half an hour later with $85,000 in cash, five armed bandits late yesterday held up Mr. Hardie and Canadian Pacific Railway Constable Alexander Simpson, robbed them of $84,529.96 in cheques and escaped after firing a shot at the paymaster and damaging the engine of the latter's car to prevent pursuit.

PAGEANT OPENS WATER SPORTS

Massed Bands Play While Spectators Applaud Various Dancers and Costumes.

HIGHLAND FLING POPULAR.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 31 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Yesterday evening the three-day water carnival began. Although it had been planned to have it a most spectacular affair the opening night, circumstances made this impossible. The event was curtailed to a colorful pageant at the Government dock with music supplied by the Peterborough Rangers Band and the Northumberland Regimental Band. Under the capable direction of Mrs. Cowell and her assistants, the pageant was a decided success and was loudly applauded. Miss Rosina Clarke, as a Highland lass, was so loudly and persistently applauded after her Scotch dancing, that it was necessary for the chairman of the committee, Dr. O. C. Watson, to announce that encores could not be given. While the members of the pageant were arriving, the Rangers Band played a short concert.

Maypole Dance.

The pageant itself began with a Maypole dance by a number of little girls in white dresses and wearing wreaths of roses in their hair. It was well done and generously applauded. While the massed bands under the direction of William Pearson, Northumberland Regiment, played the Tune of Ninety-Five, thirty gypsy girls danced a four-figure folk dance that was perhaps the gayest part of the program. Introducing a series of tableaux, the massed bands played "The Lass o' Gowrie." Ireland, represented by a Gay Gosson, stepped forward to the centre of the stage. "Highland Laddie" was the next number, and a girl in the dress of the Highlands of Scotland, wearing the Royal Stuart tartan, took the front of the stage. She danced the Highland Fling, and did it so well that the hundreds of spectators demanded an encore. The Prince of Wales appeared next to the musical accompaniment of the United Empire March. Brittania (Mrs. Forrest Dennis), with a bodyguard of three small sailors, appeared when the music changed to the Red, White and Blue. Last on the list came Canada. This time it was a troop of small boys in khaki. They needed no band to introduce them, because they had their own, a kazoo band. They played the Canadian National Anthem. The pageant ended with the National Anthem.

COTTON SITUATION IMPROVING AS EMPLOYERS INTIMATE MOVE

Would Save Operatives Dignity By Making First Step To Settlement.

MOVE WELCOMED.

MANCHESTER, England, July 31.—(C.P.) — The great stoppage in the Lancashire cotton industry, which has tied up 1500 mills and thrown half a million operatives out of work, loosened somewhat last night despite the failure of three meetings of different organizations yesterday to bring resumption of negotiations between employers and workers.

Although a committee of the Master Cotton Spinners' Federation confirmed the action of the Employers' Wages Committee in reducing wages 12 1-2 per cent., the employers generally last night expressed themselves as ready to meet the workers in the negotiations at any moment.

The employers were even willing to save the dignity of the operatives by making the first move; if they had an intimation such a step would be welcomed. In that case the employers' organizations would call a joint conference.

BIGGER DEMAND OF ELECTRICITY BEING EXPECTED

Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Asks Power to be Shut Off Otonabee Mills.

CHECK UP LIGHT BILLS

Workmen of Local Gas Plant Protected by Workmen's Compensation.

Understanding that the Canadian General Electric plant will likely seek more power this year from the Utilities Commission a resolution was passed by the Commission that the C. G. E. must inform the Commission of their increased needs sufficiently in advance to allow time for the installation of increased transformer capacity.

The regular meeting of the Commission was held yesterday afternoon and much general business was transacted.

The Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Company informed the Commission that they were closing down their plant, the Otonabee Mills in East City and asked that the power and water be cut off immediately. This was passed and a minimum rate will be charged for the water.

Protect Gas Workers

Workmen in the local Gas Department will henceforth be protected under the Workmen's Compensation Board, the Commission having voted to enter this system at a rate of 75 cents for every $100 of salary paid per year.

General Manager Ross Dobbin informed the Commission that the register for measuring the quantity of water passing through the pumping station at the Water Works was antiquated and worn out. Repairs will be made and new parts placed on the register. The register has been in service since the building of the plant.

It is likely in future that those persons in future who too long defer paying their electric light bills will have their service shut off and have to pay a dollar to be placed back in the system. The office of the electric department reported that some persons in the city make a practice of being most deliquent in the payment of their bills and suggested this means of hastening their attention. The matter was held over for further consideration.

The Council of North Monaghan sent a letter informing the Commission that they must smooth the service of the new drain on Lock street. A letter will be returned informing township's council that this work has already been done.

CROPS CONTINUE TO DETERIORATE ON THE PRAIRIES

All Wheat and Considerable Barley and Oats Are Headed Out.

CONDITIONS VARY

Rye Cutting Has Commenced in Various Points Throughout West.

WINNIPEG, July 31.—Crops in the prairie provinces continued to deteriorate during past ten days according to weekly crop reports issued by the agricultural department of the Canadian Pacific railway. Prolonged absence of moisture combined with very hot weather are responsible for this condition accompanied by strong drying winds in various parts and intense heat in southern parts of the three provinces, the thermometer going over the 100 mark at several points, which was particularly severe on heading grain.

All wheat and considerable barley and oats are headed out but due to the drought the heads are generally small, slow in filling, and in some areas are showing white tips The condition of the crops however varies considerably in different parts and where sown on summer fallow, they have withstood the lack of moisture better than expected. From practically everywhere there is a call for urgent need of rain to promote maturity. With continued unfavorable conditions, much of the stubble grain and that sown on fall and spring plowed land will be a complete failure and if heavy precipitation is delayed much longer, a great deal of the later sown crop will not be huge enough to cut, or worth cutting at all. Oats and barley are generally short, much of the former having very discouraging prospects and invariably all need rain even to make feed in some localities. Haying is now in full swing and rye cutting commenced at various points during the week. Sweet clover and alfalfa where grown for hay have shown up relatively well this year. Pastures are becoming scant and brown in dry areas but livestock generally has a good appearance. Further evidence of black and red rust is reported from Neville, Man. No hail damage of any account took place but there was some damage from high winds in southern Alberta.

WHY NOT FRAT PINS?

LONDON, July 31.—Baronets of Great Britain, with the exception of Scotland, are all permitted by an order of the king to wear a classy little badge consisting of a shield of the Arms of Ulster, surmounted by an Imperial Crown, and enclosed by an oval border embossed with a gilt scholl-work. The Scot baronets have had badges for 300 years.

GOV'T PROBING RUM RUNNING

If Many Canadians Involved Bill Will Be Passed Forbidding Clearance Papers.

PUT OUT OF BUSINESS

OTTAWA, Ont.(July 31.—(Canadian Press).—A check-up is to be made of the liquor-running activities along the Canadian border for the Department of National Revenue to ascertain just what number, if any, engaged in the traffic are Canadians. This will be done to enable the government to reach a conclusion whether there is a sufficient number to make it worth while introducing legislation in the next session of Parliament to prevent citizens of this country from obtaining clearances for liquor going to the United States. The recent statement of Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of National Revenue, announced that if there was any considerable number, legislation to put them out of the business would be introduced.

Men Now Mould their own Futures

MEN and women to-day have found they need not be victims of circumstance. They can mould their own futures without fear that even prolonged illness or premature death will ruin their financial plans.

Our forefathers struggled a lifetime that they might "get the home clear" and have a little "nest egg." To-day Life Insurance is used to guarantee success in all such projects. In addition, it removes a load of care and makes life happier.

A man aged 35 can set up immediately a $17,000 Life Insurance estate by an annual deposit equal to $1.00 per day.* (Other ages and other amounts in proportion). Contrast this with a lifelong struggle, filled with uncertainty.

Strength After Childbirth

"After my baby was born I was very weak and run-down. I was not able to do any heavy work but I had to be around on my feet all day. The strain proved too great and I was real sick for about two months. My mother advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I started to take it. You should have seen the change in me. I am now well and strong and in good spirits. I have taken the Vegetable Compound ever since if I feel my energy lacking. I also take Liver Pills and I find them a wonderful help for constipation." —Mrs. James E. Robson, Box 693, Fernie, British Columbia.

Paris favors prints for her ensembles, and Premet has created this frock in a dark blue printed crepe de chine, accompanying it with a coat in solid tone which is trimmed with the printed silk.

PARIS FAVORS PRINTS FOR HER LIGHTER MOMENTS.

By Madame Charlotte of Premet.

Paris favors prints for the races, for the tea hour in the Bois and for many of her lighter moments. I have used a dark blue printed crepe de chine for this frock, giving it originality by the use of godets and the pleated ruffle which trims the bottom of the skirt. A coat in solid color blue trimmed with the print may be worn with this frock.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

ANGINA PECTORIS.

You are reading quite often about angina pectoris, that strangling oppressive pain in the chest over the heart which unfortunately is becoming more common than in former years.

The pain is very severe, of a suffocating nature that causes the patient to stop in his tracks, unable to speak or even move. If standing when attack comes on he makes no attempt to sit or lie down. If sitting down, he remains in this position with every muscle tensed in a sort of effort to ward off the pain.

The skin "appears grey in color, covered with cold sweat, and the whole picture is one of unspeakable agony."

While the pain is most severe, it is the terror, the feeling of impending death that is the outstanding characteristic of the attack. This fear seems to be a symptom in very many cases irrespective of how brave of heart the individual knows himself to be.

There is a "sense" of impending disaster, of breathlessness, apprehension, melancholy and such emotional agony that the suffering is nearly as great as from the pain itself."

Notwithstanding the fact that these patients have numerous attacks from which they have always recovered, they are nevertheless always terrorized by them.

Unfortunately physicians are unable to diagnose this condition by an examination of the heart itself as it does not give any characteristic sounds or murmurs, and the blood pressure may be normal or just slightly above normal.

Of course if the physician sees the patient during an attack, the diagnosis is simple.

I have seen cases where the patients were able to swim or walk considerable distances without inducing an attack, but walking at a slightly faster pace, going upstairs, or lifting an object, would almost always bring on an attack.

The most frequent cause is emotional "stresses and excesses. Anger, grief, even pleasurable emotional experiences, are the most frequent excitors of attacks."

Overeating is another cause.

Treatment during an attack is heat to the heart, one or two nitro-glycerine tablets 1-100 grain which most patients carry in their pockets. One-eighth grain tablets of morphia is also good treatment.

Rest between attacks.

Surgical treatment has been successful in some cases.

MISSIONARY DIES WHILE IN CHINA

Succumbs to Typhus After Serving Eighteen Years in Orient.

TORONTO, Ont., July 31.—(Canadian Press).—Word has been received here of the death of the Reverend Lloyd Robert Rist, formerly of Toronto, who succumbed to typhus at Ching Wei, China, June 10. Mr. Rist was one of several missionaries stricken with the disease which is still raging in this district. The pressure of work among the suffering and unsanitary conditions are thought to have caused the susceptibility to the disease.

The late Mr. Rist left Canada for China in 1911 in the service of the China Inland Mission, and before that he was connected with the Upper Canada Tract Society.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

A Column of Particular Interest to Women Readers, Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

HAVE you ever noticed while attending an informal afternoon tea how the women talk more or less about what they have seen while on a vacation trip or something of the sort?

* * * * * *

So I am going to tell you of something which I saw not long ago—a chintz spread with envelope flaps to enclose the pillows! Some say, "I saw it while on my vacation in Ottawa," or "While in New York." But I saw it right here in Peterborough!

* * * * * * *

I hope some of your friends who were here during Old Home Week were able to go home and say: "I saw the cutest things while in Peterborough...."

* * * * * * *

But to go back to the spreads—I thought they were a further development to the spreads of former seasons because then the pillows were laid over a top section seamed wrong side out on to the upper part of the spread. This top section was turned over the pillows after they were neatly arranged, and tucked about the pillows smoothly—this brought the section right side out. These spreads are very good, but a few stitches make them more complete.

* * * * * * *

These new envelope spreads have the upper portion seamed along each edge thus forming a flap,and it is under this flap that the pillows are concealed. The edge of the flap on the particular spread which I was examining was bound instead of hemmed, and the binding carried out the most prominent color of the chintz. Of course they may be hemmed just as well, if one does not desire a one color trimming.

* * * * * * *

According to the size of your pillows you will be able to determine whether or not your flaps require fullness. Pillows of ordinary size require no extra fullness in the flap, for the tighter the pillows fit into place the smoother the flap will be, and it must be real smooth to look well!

* * * * * * *

But if pillows of a large size are to be enclosed extra width of flap will be needed, and this can be had in two ways. The pillow section can be very slightly gathered as it is seamed to the main portion of the spread, or two pleats can be taken in the pillow flap, one at each end.

* * * * * * *

Neither of these fullnesses will show when the spread is on the bed as they will come well under the pillows and the bulk of the pillows themselves take care of the fullness over them.

* * * * * * *

The pleats or slight gathers that are fitted into the binding along the end of the flap will be concealed under the pillows also.

* * * * * * *

These spreads would be, I am sure, quite easy to make—either in chintz, cretonne or some kind of patterned linen. On the particular one which I saw the top was plain, and the sides finished with a wide ruffle. The flap on this ended at the plain top portion of the spread and the ruffle was carried along the edges to make it reach from the footboard to the very top of the bedstead.

* * * * * * *

If you see something which catches your eye while on vacation, don't be afraid to ask your hostess about it; she'll appreciate it to think you have noticed her daintiness!

* * * * * * *

Another thing which might be useful to you while on vacation, especially if motoring, is a bag for your fur scarf—or, of course, is equally as valuble for storing furs in summer when not in use, and may be used all the year around.

* * * * * * *

This is the way it is made: Take two ordinary embroidery hoops, using one for the top of the bag and the other for the bottom. Cretonne or any other suitable material may be used. The bag should be just a few inches longer than the length of the fur and large enough to keep the sides from bruising the scarf. Sew the material to each of the hoops to make a telescope bag. Allow an opening in which to slip the fur, and fasten it securely with a drawstring. It would be well to keep a small piece of camphor in the bag, but do not allow it to touch the fur itself.

* * * * * * *

As I said before, it would be well to keep the fur in the bag whenever it is not being worn, and when travelling, it is not bulky to take along in your bag.

* * * * * * *

Have you noticed anything which you think Peterborough Neighbors haven't noticed yet? If so, why not tell them bout it through our pages—everyone is always glad to hear something new!

OUR CHILDREN

NAUGHTY CHILDREN.

Naughty children are usually children who are without direction and therefore are working without motive. All children must work, must act, keep moving. They cannot help themselves for that is the law of their growth. When we neglect to supply them a field of activity they must discover one for themselves and of course, in their ignorance, select the wrong ones—for us.

"That's the very worst child I ever saw. Look now. There he is up on the shed beating the slates with a piece of pipe. Did you ever?"

"Sammie is about the limit. He's just ruined the bathroom. Scrubbed the wall with a wire brush dipped in blueing."

"Susie is awful. Yesterday she cut great holes in the living room curtains and when I scolded her she just grinned. I never did anything like that in my life. Do you think there's anything wrong with the child?"

Not a thing. There's nothing wrong with any of them. All they needed was a job and when it wasn't supplied they went out to look for it. They cannot be blamed because they took the wrong one. It is we who are to blame for not supplying the right one.

When you were little you probably had fields and orchards and stone walls and books and ponds and animals and freedom to enjoy them at your disposal. Even then you got into mischief now and then. But our children not even a backyard to play in. Those that have yards must preserve the lawns and the shrubbery. The children are driven to find employment within the house or within themselves, and rarely, rarely can that be done with safety.

Children are a career. Those who have them, must work them out just as artists and professional people and laborers work out their tasks. There must be a program, loose, but with sure structure underneath. There must be tools to work with and the place to work in. There must be companions of somewhat the same tastes and close to the same mental age. Children cannot thrive unless they are set in an environment that provokes growth. It is our duty to supply that stimulus. We cannot rest content with supplying a scolding and a punishment for the naughty children who will follow the law of their being and do things.

Open the playgrounds that are already in existence. Supply wise supervisors who know enough to let children alone. Make new playgrounds in the neighborhoods where little children live. They must be nearer home so the mothers can see the little ones occasionally. Put the older ones in the further field because they are noisy. But provide for all of them.

Each home must provide occupation for its children as soon as they begin to creep about. Begin with very simple equipment, a very little of that and gradually increase it until they have swings and wheels and elementary tools and a sand heap. Give them a chance to be busy in their own yards even if you have to wait for the lawn and the shrubbery. Or move to one of the modern developments where children are planned for and given all the space and equipment they need for growth. Then you will have fewer naughty ones.

BIRTHDAY PARTY AT PRESTON HOME

Eightieth Year Is Celebrated By Friends Who Present Electric Stove.

LAKEFIELD, July 31.— (Examiner Correspondence.)—On Friday evening last about forty friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garvin Preston on Bridge street to celebrate Mrs. Preston's eightieth birthday. The early part of the evening was spent pleasantly in progressive euchre, Mrs. Bruce Preston and Gordon Fitzgerald being the prize winners. Refreshments were served and Bruce Fitzgerald read an address offering in fitting terms the good wishes of the company to Mrs. Preston on her birthday and expressing the hope that she will be spared to enjoy more of these happy re-unions with her family and friends and that God will continue to give His blessing to Mr. and Mrs. Preston. Mrs. J. H. Payne then presented Mrs. Preston with a two plate electric stove. Mr. and Mrs. Preston replied, thanking their friends for the kindly thought which prompted the remembrance of the day and also hoping that their home would see more or these happy gatherings.

Mr. Preston danced a little jig which belied his eighty-on. years and showed that years are as naught when the heart is young.

The house was tastefully decorated in mauve and white and presented a very attractive appearance.

Concert Well Attended.

The second concert given by the Citizens' Band on Sunday evening was largely attended and very much appreciated. The concert began about 8.30 and an excellent program was given, including a solo number by Mr. Boorman of Peterborough. So much was the concert enjoyed that the members of the band have been beset with inquiries as to the date of the next Sunday concert.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG, That old and antique song we heard, last night.

WHEN YOU GO AWAY (Pest)

When you go away, my friend,
When you say your last good-bye,
Then the summer time will end,
And the winter will be nigh.

Though the green grass decks the heather,
And the birds sing all the day,
There will be no summer weather
After you have gone away.

When I look into your eyes,
I shall thrill with deepest pain,
Thinking that beneath the skies
I may never look again.

You will feel a moment's sorrow,
I shall feel a lasting grief;
You forgetting on the morrow,
I to mourn with no relief.

When you say the last sad word,
And you are no longer near,
And the winds and all the birds
Cannot keep the summer here.

Life will lose its full completeness—
Lose it not for you, but me;
All the beauty and the sweetness
Each can hold, I shall not see.

WHOOPING COUGH AT CHEMONG PARK

Communicable Diseases Brought to Resorts, Smith Health Board Learns.

A meeting o fthe Local Board of Health for Smith Township was held at Dr. J. A. Morgan's office, Peterborough, on Saturday afternoon, July 27, at 1.30 o'clock. Those present were: M.H.O. Dr. J. A. Morgan, Reeve Henry D. Coons, Deputy-Reeve Gordon Fitgerald, Secretary Percy T. Udy.

Dr. Morgan reported a case of whooping cough in Chemong Park. The residence concerned is being placarded at once.

It has been called to the attention of the Local Board of Health for Smith Township that a number of cases of communicable diseases are contracted before the families come to our summer resorts and from this habit several cases develop in the summer residences and vicinity. In regard to such practices, which are prohibited the law will be carried out.

Septic Tanks for Park.

The question of having chemical closets or septic tanks installed in Chemong Park was considered and recommended by the Board.

The Board also decided not to allow any more pit or box closets to be built within the confines of Chemong Park or on other summer residence properties in the vicinity.

The dwelling which at the second last meeting was ordered to be placarded as unfit for residence has now been cleaned up and repaired and is again inhabited.

The meeting adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

SHOWERS ANSWER PRAYERS.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., July 31. (Canadian Press). — Prayers of all classes were answered last evening when about 9 o'clock a heavy thunder shower broke over Port Arthur and district, carrying a volume of rain that exceeds anything that has been seen in several weeks. If it continues and proves to be general, it should go a long way toward removing the menace of forest fires which are threatening loss of untold thousands in the timberlands.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 31, 1929

CAMPBELLFORD'S RE-UNION.

Campbellford's Old Home Week has had a most auspicious opening, and the large number of visitors and the general enthusiasm leaves no doubt of the continued success of the re-union.

A very enthusiastic committee has planned the details of the celebration so effectively that the interest promises to be sustained throughout the week, culminating in a spectacular climax on Friday when the swimming marathon will give the people of Eastern Ontario a chance to see George Young, Ernst Vierkoetter and a score of other famous natators in action.

The securing of this attraction was a masterpiece of publicity for the re-union.

Just now the long distance swimmers are news, and Campbellford in securing their presence is cashing in on the advertising that the "human fish" are receiving in connection with the Wrigley marathon, a priceless piece of propaganda that will bring thousands of visitors into the town on the Trent.

Peterborough citizens, having just completed a most joyous and successful celebration, will wish their Campbellford neighbors every success this week.

THE TIMBER QUESTION.

Hon. Wm. Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, who has always been a reforestation enthusiast, has returned from a visit to Sweden, more keen than ever to preserve a steady harvest of timber in Ontario by seeding new trees, as the Swedes have been doing with marked success.

Sweden has made a business of reforestation, and the result is that from a forest area less than 10 per cent. the size of Canada's she is able to cut one and a half billion cubic feet of timber, or more than half the quantity cut in this country each year.

This showing is enough to make a much less zealous advocate of reforestation than Mr. Finlayson enthusiastic about the results of such a policy when applied to Ontario.

Undoubtedly the assurance of an annual "crop" of timber for this Province is a matter of the greatest importance, and the Minister should have the earnest support and co-operation not only of his colleagues but of the Province generally in any forward policy likely to give results that he may bring down.

Timber products form one of our greatest sources of wealth, but they cannot be expected to last for ever unless something is done to preserve them.

THE LANARK RESULT.

The result of the by-election in Lanark where the Independent Conservative candidate, Dr. Murphy, was elected Monday by a sweeping majority, should not be without its interest and value to politicians.

In this overwhelmingly Conservative constituency the powers that be called a convention some weeks ago and placed Thomas A. Thompson in the field as the official party candidate.

Dr. Murphy, of Smith's Falls, claiming that he had not been given fair play, retired from the convention and announced his intention of appealing to the electorate as an Independent supporter of the Conservative party.

The answer as given on Monday shows that the voters do not always rate the machine higher than the man.

Making allowances for the fact that those Liberals who took the trouble to vote would naturally throw their support to the Independent rather than the official candidate, and that the town of Smith's Falls gave nearly an unanimous vote for its own candidate, the verdict is nevertheless significant.

The party machinery does not always deliver the goods—there are occasions, such as this one, when the people refuse to accept the ruling of the party leaders and insist upon making their own choice.

A SERIOUS SITUATION.

The fact that the Ontario Government is considering the advisability of closing various districts in the north to prospecting and travel offers conclusive evidence of the seriousness of the forest fire situation.

So alarming indeed is the outlook that the Department of Lands and Forests has under consideration the closing not only of areas in which prospecting is being done but of other districts in which underground work has been commenced.

In Northern Ontario during the past week there have been over seventy fires burning at once, taxing the resources of the Provincial Air Force and of the Forest Protection Service to the limit, and, according to the department, there is little reduction in the number at the present time.

The economic waste involved in the destruction caused by so many fires must represent a huge total, and the situation calls for unusual measures, including the proposed closing of timber sections that might be endangered by the carelessness of campers and prospectors.

The intimation that most of the trouble has been the result of failure on the part of visitors to the timber country to exercise ordinary care will strengthen the hands of the Government in any measures it may be forced to take.

THE HOME OF THE REFUGEE.

The fact that Leon Trotzky has been denied admission to England is not to be taken, as in some quarters it has been taken, as an indication that Britain has changed or modified what is called her traditional policy in regard to granting asylum to political exiles from other countries. All it signifies is that the Labor Government, like other governments, is learning from experience of political responsibility the truth of the saying that circumstances alter cases, and that, for good and sufficient reasons, the presence of the ex-Soviet leader in the country, which he was wont to bitterly revile, is, for the present at least, not desirable.

Owing to abuses of a privilege, perhaps all too freely extended in the past, there has been a change of British sentiment, to a certain extent, with respect to the indiscriminate admission of aliens. To quote a recent authority on the subject, it has been realized that there is a danger in the unrestricted influx of people of alien races "unfitted by habit of mind and inheritance to uphold a form of government, traditions and institutions which their mentality ignores." But that the British Government has been charged by some of its own supporters, among others, with betraying a sacred principle and violating a time-honored practice in rejecting Trotzky's application is in itself evidence of how ineradicable and deep-rooted at home is the idea, so widely accepted abroad, that, in the words of the old music-hall ditty: "England is truly the land of the free, the paradise of the refugee." There by hangs a tale of national sympathy, tolerance, and magnanimity, which has no parallel in any other country, save perhaps, Switzerland, and which, however cynics may scoff, stands as a striking tribute to England's love of liberty and humanity.

It is a century and a half since Cowper wrote:

"Slaves cannot breathe in England; if their lungs
Receive our air, that moment they are free;
They touch our country, and their shackles fall."

But long before these lines saw the light, England had come to be recognized not merely as the mother of freedom, but as the guardian of the oppressed. In the middle of the sixteenth century the country swarmed with refugees from Italy and other parts. Later came the Huguenots, first from France, and afterwards from Holland and Germany. As the historians relate, they included people famed in war, in letters, in art, and in science. Throughout the eighteenth century the influx continued and increased, to reach its greatest proportions in the nineteenth, even every movement in Europe, social, political and religious, contributed its quota of exiles fleeing from tyranny and oppression of one sort and another, or seeking a freedom they could not find in their own or any other country. Political reformers styling themselves Liberators, outlawed revolutionists, dethroned kings and banished princes; literary outcasts and religious zealots; nihilists, anarchists and apostles of almost every kind of "ism" flocked at different periods to England and were made welcome, or at least tolerated.

Not always was their gratitude apparent, however, or their presence free from the embarrassment which the Labor Government seems to have feared might arise in the case of Trotzky. Among the celebrated literary refugees who found a temporary home in England there was Voltaire, for ever mocking its literature and reviling its people. There was Rousseau, also, fussing and fuming, quarrelling with his hosts and friends and generally acting like a madman in the circles into which he forced himself, or was invited.

Nor were some of the noted political heroes of Europe, who sought rest or refuge in the land of the free, less disconcerting and difficult to deal with. To say nothing of the temperamental peculiarities of Mazzini, described as "a man whose name was at once an alarm, a menace and a prediction," or of the emotional outbursts of Kossuth, there was the curious case of Garibaldi. Welcomed in England as no conquering hero of its own had ever been welcomed; feted by people of the highest rank and tumultuously acclaimed by the masses, the Italian patriot in the red shirt proved so irksome that Gladstone declared: "I do not know what persons in office are to do with him."

The story of Garibaldi's sojourn amongst the British people, of the embarrassment it caused to the Government of the day, of the disingenuous efforts of its members to conceal it, and of the popular hero's sudden and unceremonious departure is an interesting chapter in political history, one of many that reveal the difficulties surrounding the traditional privilege of asylum which has been withheld from Trotzky. Yet the Socialist Government cannot have forgotten that it was while living in London, in dire poverty and neglect, that a refugee from Germany, the great Marx himself, wrote what has been called "the Bible of Socialism"—Das Kapital.—Ottawa Journal.

interesting when the whistle started the second session. Two minutes later Davidson evened the score for Oshawa. Whitton got his ear cut and Jacks scored on a pass from H. Ingram all inside of a minute. Campbellford was still one up and the play was getting fast and furious, with Oshawa showing the result of a season of careful training and coaching. There were two minor penalties for slashing, but these were only two minutes each. One minute before the end of the period, L. Copperthwaite and H. Luke got benched for five minutes each for playing rough.

The score: Oshawa 1, Campbellford 2.

Third Quarter.

The Oshawa aggregation decided that time was passing and if they were to give a good account of their visit to town, they had betetr start something. They settled down in their places and began to play some real lacrosse. The first three minutes passed without disaster to their plans, but then Jacks made it three to one for the home team. Cowel got two minutes for slashing and just as he returned, Huck McArthur got chased for the same time for the same thing. It was only the referee's whistle that saved Oshawa getting a count. Pete Garrison did his best a moment later to cut down the lead. It was a beautiful try, but he mised. D. Runions and H. Luke, one from each team, got chased for losing their lacrosse sense for a few seconds. When the period ended, the score stood three to one for the home team. There were several penalties, only two major ones.

Final Quarter.

Right from the start, Oshawa went out to get goals. They got the first after two minutes when Black scored on a solo play. Four minutes later R. Cardinal tied the score. It wasn't long before Whitton got a nice try but it didn't make the grade. When the whistle blew, the score was three-three. It was already past six o'clock and since the game was merely an exhibition, there was no overtime.

The line up:

Campbellford—Goal, Fox; point, H. McArthur; cover point, Cochrane; 1st defense, H. Ingram; 3rd defense, R. Copperthwaite; centre, L. Copperthwaite; 1st home, Ibey; 2nd home, D. Runions; 3rd home, G. Runions; outside home, F. Ingram; inside home, V. Jacks; subs, McPherson, Sperry, Reid, Bland.

Referee—Chas. Holmes; judge of play, Jack Nesbitt.

Softball.

The farmers were not as generous as the visitors from the Motor City. What would have been the tale had the game gone the full nine innings can only be surmised, but certain it is that the all star team from Seymour East took the Hometowners for a ride to the tune of thirteen to ten. They had the knack of hitting heavy and often, and their hits usually meant something. The third frame was the disastrous one for the town players. The Easterners rolled up nine runs to make a grand total of twelve. They got one more in the fourth and did not count at all in the final inning. Brown's home run with two men on bases, was the high light, not only of the third inning, but of the entire game.

The line-up was:

Seymour East: C. Smith, p; Jeff, c; Shillinglaw, 1b; H. Brown, 2b; Rannie 3b; Eagleson, ss; Jones, cf; Kerr, rf; Hume, lf.

Campbellford: Maybee, p; Lambert, c; Denike, 1b; Ibey, 2b; Gay, 3b; Massie, ss; D. Runions, cf; N. Reynolds, rf; H. Ingram, lf; Blakely and Wilkes, subs.

By innings:

Seymour East ..... 21910—13
Campbellford ..... 30403—10

Umpires—Tinney and Farrell.

For those who did not care for either lacrosse or softball, the race track held its attraction. As a novelty, the committee had arranged a number of events. In the horseshoe pitching contest, George Waller, Toronto, came out on top with Bill Blue in second place. Then came the junk auto race. This was for old model cars only. In order to enter, the driver must drive an old car, the older the better. The next thing was to drive a half-mile backwards and be the first to get there. Walter Owens with his old Buick Six touring was an easy first. The second honors went to Roy Loucks, Seymour East. He drove an old model Ford touring.

There were also three track running races, half mile, mile and two miles Cliff Barker, Belleville won the half mile in 2 minutes 14 3-5 seconds. T. Ibey was second and Jack Phillips, Peterborough, third. Barker won both the mile and two mile events as well. His time for the mile was 5 mins., 24 secs., and for the two miles it was twelve minutes. Emmorey of Deloro was second in the mile and Harry Lambert, town, was second in the two mile event.

Suitable prizes were given for first and second places in each event.

THE MAKE-BELIEVE WIFE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 5.

Beatrice's heart, as she watched her sister on this untimely warm April evening when the windows were wide open to soft, scented airs, began to hammer in slow, thick, terrified strokes. Were they letting Marcia die by inches under their eyes?

"But what can I do—what can I do—?" she asked herself in a panic. "I have no money. The doctor seem satisfied enough. Marcia doesn't seems sick, exactly. Oh, why ,why doesn't somebody fall in love with her? She's so sweet, she's so good, and she'd be so happy in her own life, with a husband and a car and kids and a garden—"

Late in May she went alone to Marcia's doctor, and blubbered helplessly, forlornly, like a child, when he began to talk to her.

"I'm sorry," said Beatrice, mopping her eyes, struggling to regain her dignity as the man looked at her in polite sympathy. "But we had no idea—my mother and I—that it was so bad!"

"Oh, yes—this sort of thing is always serious!" Doctor Duchesne said simply, regretfully.

"But you said—you said all Marcia would have to do was to gain those eleven pounds—"

He shook his head faintly, polished his glasses with a fine handkerchief.

"Yes. But it is almost impossible to gain, in her condition. Run down, you know—"

A silence. Then Beatrice wiped her eyes, gulped, and looked at him courageously through wet lashes.

"But, then, what are we to do, Dr. Duchesne?"

"Ah, there are plenty of things for us to do!" the doctor said almost gayly.

She hated him, She hated the spring, coming so softly, so richly, so fluffily green to the trees in his horrid little side yard. She hated his tan net window curtains and his bronze elephant book ends; she hated this orderly office, with the sunshine slanting into it, on this hideous Saturday afternoon.

And she hated poverty, humiliating, heartbreaking, inexorable. Why should she have come to ask this dapper, unconcerned little doctor if Marcia oughtn't to stop work, if Marcia oughtn't to take a long rest, in some hot, dry country? Of course he would say that Marcia ought to do exactly those things—and what of it? That wouldn't even pay him his five-dollar fee, so simply solicited by his secretary, as Beatrice blind and agonized, walked past the neat little desk on her way out.

"I don't see how my sister can get away just now," Beatrice had stammered to him wretchedly.

And he had answered in doctor's phrase, "I think it's hardly a question of can, Miss—ah, Miss St. John. I think it's a question of must now. I told her months ago that rest might put that weight on and start in her the right direction again. It hasn't, unfortunately. Ask her to come to see me."

Meat balls, fried potatoes and chocolate custard for dinner that night; somehow it did not seem the right supper for a hot May night. Beatrice was so quiet, so preoccupied, that her mother asked her if she would like a can of asparagus opened, as a salad. The girl said no, and Mrs. St. John offered kindly to telephone for some ice, and they could all have iced tea. But Beatrice, angry, helpless tears in her eyes, said "No" again, and then, more appreciatively:

"No, thanks, Mummy. You're awfully kind. But this is fine—this is all right. I guess I'm just not hungry."

"Don't you get sick!" Marcia said, with a faint, despairing laugh and an accent on the pronoun, and Beatrice, pulling herself together, disclaiming sickness and fatigue and low spirits boldly, asked herself in a panic what families as poor as theirs did in circumstances like that. What could they do?

That night Mrs. St. John played cards as usual, and Beatrice sat at the table in the center of the parlor, pasting last summer's snapshots into her photograph book and lettering them carefully with white ink. She liked fussy, dainty work, and pressed and snipped carefully, absorbed in what she was doing.

There had been recent rains, but the night was warm and clear, and the twilight seemed to linger a long time. There were unwonted noises and voices in the shabby street, and the thick new leaves on a maple tree, at the corner, waved and moved restlessly, gently, in a soft wind. Marcia sat at the window, looking out, as twilight gave place to dusk, rocking a little now and then, hardly speaking.

Suddenly to Beatrice's horror, Marcia burst into tears. She was struggling in their arms, her mother and sister both trying to hold her, for a few minutes, and then they were all in the bedroom, and Beatrice, the larger and stronger of the two, was embracing her, Marcia's head on her sister's shoulder, and Mrs. St. John was standing holding out a nightgown bewilderedly, as if Beatrice were the mother, and her mother the child.

"It's just—" sobbed poor Marcia, gulping and plunging, and wiping eyes upon anything she could reach, an beginning to laugh again even as she began again to cry—"it's just that I know—oh, I know, you darlings! And I do want to live—I do want to live—I don't want to die before I've had my chance to live—

"I see it in your faces," she gasped, straightening up, and blowing her nose, and facing Beatrice with trembling, smiling lips and drenched eyes. "You can't hide it. And I think I'd been hoping—I think I'd been hoping—I'm not putting on weight, Mummy, and I know it. I've seen it all! And in a few w-w-w-weeks," she faltered, "I believe I'll get used to it. But now—just sometimes!—"

Beatrice found words. They were heartening, scolding words, and she did not spare them, as she helped Marcia's lean, chilly form in between the sheets, and ran about for pillows and hot-water bags.

An odd look was in the younger sister's green-gray eyes as she came and went. There was a sobered, sensible quality to it that contrasted itself oddly to Beatrice's favorite expression of dreaming and laughing through life. It had suddenly occurred to her that she was a fool. And in her prayers that night she put a new petition:

"Oh, my God, I think I must be crazy. I've never fallen in love with any man—I've never wanted to, and consequently I've come to believe that something remarkable is waiting for me that some Launcelot on a white horse is going to come galloping into North Underhill and carry me off. Please—please—don't let it be too late for me to save Marcia if marrying Houston Challoner will save her!"

Some weeks later she dined with Houston Challoner at a little cafeteria that was just around the corner from the St. John's apartment house.

It came about quite naturally, after all. Mr. Challoner had called, as he often did, to ask for Marcia, and had brought roses. There were a few minutes of wild confusion and laughter in the apartment, and then he was conducted from the kitchen to the bedroom, and Marcia, looking suddenly quite lovely, with the flowers in her arms, had a few minutes in paradise.

Mummy wasn't dressed, and didn't want anything but a cup of tea, but Beatrice, it appeared, was going to the cafeteria for her dinner. The caller quite simply and naturally offered to accompany her.

"It's a little Southern place—they have a colored cook—sometimes it's quite good," Beatrice said nervously as they walked to the cafeteria.

"I like a cafeteria," Challoner said.

"I can't imagine you in a cafeteria," the girl said amused, "I hope they will have corn bread—they have the best corn bread!" she exclaimed more than once.

He really did seem to know just what to do; he took his tray and the napkin—wrapped utensils quite readily, and he and Beatrice went along the track, admiring everything and choosing here and there. There was corn bread to-night, and—by fortunate chance!—apple pie too, and bluefish.

The place was quiet; it was late for diners, and they could sit isolated and at peace in a window ingle, with pots of flowers and blue-checked curtains framing the pleasant vista of the warm, twilight street. The two candles embellished rather than lighted their meal, and Beatrice's strange blue-green eyes looked mysterious and starry by their light; her face was a little pale, and her manner oddly gentle and quiet; she seemed tired. Against the white lining of her old, shabby, dark-blue straw hat her richly red hair sprayed in tendrils.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

Officer McChortle closes a local speakeasy single-handed, by consuming all the likker.

STEP THIS WAY!

Once you have got the hang of it, finding your way about a Department Store is a pretty fairly simple thing. All you have to remember is that my first is a small, fur-bearing animal from Patagonia, and my fourth is a five-letter word meaning "the lower mandible of a species of grasshopper," and my whole reading upper left to lower right spells the name of a popular presidential candidate. With this system clearly in mind, and a slight working knowledge of trigonometry, the arrangement of the departments in the average Shopping Emporium is like an open book to you, written in archaic Greek.

This was brought home to me (along with my hat and cane and eyeglasses and other articles which were found after the body was removed) when I went downtown yesterday for a waffle iron.

After consulting the chart outside the door, the floorwalker, and an elevator boy, I learned that waffle irons were usually kept either on the third floor or the seventh floor, probably the ninth, and were either in the front or the rear of th building. This gave me all the br xs to start with.

I told the clerk at e Kitchen Ware Department on fifth that I wanted a waffle iro He shook his head and smiled.

"You'll find those in the Iron Ware Department on the second," he said.

I tried the second. I asked for a woffen irol, I mean a waffle iron.

"Sorry, these are only the electrics. The gas waffle irons are up on the sixth."

The sixth was more encouraging.

"These's a special sale on waffle irons," he said. "You can find them in the basement."

"Have you a wiron offle," I asked the basement, "iron waffle, that is, a waffle iron?"

"Isn't that funny!" grinned the clerk. "We just this minute sold our last one!"

We had a great laugh over it together. In the course of it I even got a little hysterical, and tried to bite his leg. Somehow they got me to the Manager, up on the tenth.

"I want—" I began.

"Sorry," he apologised, "but we don't handle waffle irons in this store. You might try next door, but—here, good Lord, man!—somebody, I say, a little water——"

HOME TOWNERS

CAMPBELLFORD
Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

Yesterday was an easy day at the registration booth when only one-hundred and thirty-six names were added to the list of guests. Things are humming today. The register is in the lobby of the old Windsor Hotel. There are also several members of the committee there to give information to visitors on arrival.

Rock Locksley and his Canadians supplied the music for dancing at the High School last night. This band of musicians enjoys an enviable reputation as the summer orchestra at Rye's Pavillion in Peterborough. They did much to establish a similar status here yesterday. The general opinion among the dancers last night was not that they were dancing, but that when the music started, their feet took them for a ride. Bill Blue said that it was either a case of dance or die of longing. The same orchestra will be on deck to-night and at the top of their form.

Yesterday, Campbellford fans as well as the visitors saw a good lacrosse game. It was the first game to be played here for several years. Just to see the old Orange and Black in action again, an Old Boy from Western Canada postponed urgent business requiring his return. He left to-day instead.

Cecil McConnell just grinned and kept along with the rest when he found himself and his three-ton cream truck included in the parade at the corner of Tice and Canrobert streets yesterday afternoon. He said he had been getting the cream of the country but had not expected such a crowd to welcome him on his return.

There weer two cars to finish in the Old Car Race at the fair grounds yesterday afternoon. The old Buick kept rolling right along, but it made the Ford boll to have to back up half a mile and then come in in second place.

Everyone seems to be shaking hands with everyone else around here. That is what we want you to do, but have you been around to the lobby of the Windsor Hotel to sign the register yet? We would like you to do that as well.

It is impossible to have everyone here for all the time. People keep coming and going, but everyone says, as they are leaving to tend to business, "See you around on Friday." In other words, they are coming back to see the swim that afternoon and the boxing tournament arranged by Playfair Brown at night.

UTILITIES ARE IN BIG DEMAND

Several Soar From 4 to 22 1-2 Points On Wall Street.

TRADING IS SMALL.

(By Stanley W. Prenosil).

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 31 (Canadian Press).—Heavy buying of the public utilities, several of which soared 4 to 22½ points, featured the resumption of the upward price movement in to-day's stock market.

Buying orders were distributed over a fairly broad list, but the continued stringency of credit conditions kept down the volume of trading.

Call money renewed unchanged at 10 per cent. There was a heavy calling of loans in the forenoon, but fresh funds came into the market around midday, and money brokers held out hope of a lower rate within the next day or two. Time money continued firm.

Business and earnings reports continued favorable, the United States Steel Corporation making the best showing in its history during the second quarter. Iron Age reports that "the end of July has disclosed no marked recession from the high rate of steel output that has prevailed since early in the year." Pillsbury Flour directors declared an extra dividend of 50 cents and Libby Owens Glass doubled the dividend paid on the old stock.

Merger and stock split-up rumors, though unconfirmed, contributed to the rise in the power stocks. People's Gas soared 22½ points to a new high at 385.

HEAVY BUYING IN MANY ISSUES

Base Metals Feature Stronger Market On Mining Exchange.

NEWBEC GAINS.

TORONTO, Ont., July 31.—(Canadian Press).—Heavy buying in selected issues, and strength generally in the base metals featured the morning session of the Standard Mining Exchange.

Amulet rose and profit-taking showed a net gain of 8 at 2.63. Newbec, which has tended to slip of late, strengthened almost 10 points to 49 on sales of 267,750. Big Missouri exceeded the 100,000 mark in sales, adding 15 at 1.65. Ajax Oil in good demand strengthened 2 to 2.56.

Noranda firmed 25 cents to 58.00. Sherritt Gordon was firm at 7.50. Sudbury Basin dropped 5 to 8.50 and Vetures 10 to 8.00. Waite-Ackerman-Montgomery rose 5 to 6.25.

Falconbridge was up 40 cents to 13.50. Although the golds held their ground the oils were weaker. Associated Gas and Oil dropped 20 to 3.55 under selling pressure and Alberta Pacific Consolidated was off 10 to 3.80. Home Oil yielded 25 cents to 22.75 and Dalhousie 15 to 3.95. Merland was up 4 to 1.04.

HARBOR BODY PREPARES BILL

Will Authorize Deepening of Great Lakes Channels to 24 Feet.

PRESENTED IN DECEMBER

WASHINTON, D. C., July 31. —(By The Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—A new river and harbor bill, "carrying authorizations of great importance to the entire Great Lakes region," will be prepared by the House Rivers and Harbors Committee early in the regular session of Congress in December. This was made known yesterday by Chairman Dempsey of the committee. A feature of it will be authorization to deepen the Great Lakes channels from their present 20-foot depth to 24 feet.

Supporters of this proposition will have in mind both the early completion of the new Welland Canal and the prospective improvement of the St. Lawrence. Not only will numerous inland waterway projects of great moment be included in the bill but efforts will be made to get authority to deepen the canal across New York State to fourteen feet.

C.P.R. ADVANCES THREE POINTS

Massey-Harris Is Also Little Stronger On Toronto Exchange.

TRADING IS QUIET.

TORONTO, Ont., July 31. (Canadian Press). — Trading was quiet on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning and price movements irregular.

Massey-Harris continued its revival, rising to 54½ from 52. Other implement stocks were quiet, but Canadian Pacific, which is supposed to share with them the effect of wheat reports went up 3 to 230 on sales of 13. The utilities failed to show strength when Brazilian weakened fractionally at 59⅝, Power Corporation gained ¾ to 118, and Dominion Power and Transport dropped a point to 69.

Canada Gypsum and Alabastine, which has been markedly firm, sold off 1½ to 117. International Nickel advanced slightly to 47⅞, as did Service Stations to 65, while Canada Dredge added a point to 68. Both Loblaw issues were off fractionally at 22. In the steels, Lake Superior Corporation gained 1 to 24, and in the beverage group Walkers, which accounted for most of the activity sold at 18½. The oils reflected the general slowness.

REPRESENTATIVES NOT CHOSEN AS YET

Hon. R. Dandurand Will Be One, Hon. W. D. Euler Possibly Another.

OTTAWA, July 31. (C.P.) — Canada will probably be represented at the coming meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations by Hon. R. Dandurand, Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of National Revenue and another member of the Dominion government. The selection of Canada's representatives will be made definitely at the next meeting of the Cabinet, it is understood. Mr. Dandurand, who is Canada's representative on the Council of the League of Nations, will certainly go to the Assembly, and it is understood that Mr. Euler will be one of his companions. Just who else will go is not known. There has not been an official announcement on the matter yet.

Community singing will be heard at the 1929 Canadian National Exhibition Grandstand performance.

WESTERN CROP REPORT.

The crop situation in the west is causing grave concern all over the Dominion and has not improved any in the last week. Mr. Robert Harstone, who owns a number of farms in Saskatchewan and Alberta, is in daily touch with the situation, and the information he gets by wire is from altogether reliable sources.

Three wires received this morning are from different districts and contain much.

The first, from Regina, .. practically a general survey of the whole Province of Saskatchewan and is as follows:

"Regina and Soo Line district dry, stubble wheat and coarse grains serious, but in some cases could benefit by rain; summer fallow holding fair, heads filling, rain needed. Northern districts fair to good Regina to Moose Jaw south; spreading east and west most seriously affected."

The next covers quite a district in the south-east end of the province:

"Bouey wheat good, barley needs rain bad; Clarke wheat good; barley fair; Evans wheat good; barley needs rain. Davidson's crop o.k. Seiemmer man's crop o.k. No rain since last wire."

The following wire is from Central Alberta and also covers quite a good deal of territory:

"Have had no rain. Weather is very dry and hot. Wheat estimate about the same as last report. Oats very light and all straw very short grain; filling and harvest will be early.

The Examiner is indebted to Mr. Harstone for a good deal of reliable information on the crop situation in the west this seaeson. In fact his advice as to the actual conditions was the first authentic news to reach us.

BRITAIN AIMS FOR SEA SPEED

Will Try to Wrest Honors From Great German Liner.

RATE WAR IS SEEN

LONDON, July 31.—British shipbuilders are not expected to rest content while the speed laurels of the shipping world remain in alien hands. While congratulations were going forth to the crew of the German ship Bremen, plans were being formulated to regain the trans-Atlantic honors.

It is thought probable that the Mauretania, long holder of speed records, will make a great effort to regain it. Much work has been done on her engines this year, and it is believed that she is capable of beating her own previous record, if not of surpassing the Bremen's. In shipping circles tales are told of a run made recently by the Mauretania between Cherbourg and Plymouth, details of which have not been published.

Nevertheless, the Mauretania now is getting old, and new British champions will have to be built if German challengers are to be met seriously. The Cunard Line is said to be planning a super-Mauretania, 1,000 feet long, and with a contract speed of 28 knots, while the White Star already has laid down the keel at Belfast of their 60,000-ton liner Oceanic.

Work was suspended on the Oceanic this spring, but it is believed that it will be resumed soon, and that a great effort will be made to build a ship capable of beating the Bremen.

One of the problems British shipowners have to decide is the most suitable type of engine. Sir Charles Parsons, inventor of the steam turbine, who is attending a meeting of the British Association of South Africa, said that he still pinned his faith on the turbine, believing that the Diesel engine was uneconomic owing to its weight. He also expressed the conviction that Britain would recover the Atlantic speed record before long.

MODERN BUSINESS

RACINE, Wis., July 31.—Many business men are utilizing airplanes to put over a business deal and beat competitors. Carlyle Godske of this city is one of them. He recently got a hot tip from Milwaukee on a pending deal. He hopped into his plane, and an hour later was in Milwaukee with the deal closed and the order in his pocket.

RICH FIND RUMOURED.

Wire received to-day over Stobie, Forlong and Co's wire, states that there is a strong rumor that Newbec have come into ore on the 250 ft. level and expect that official confirmation will be given soon.

We believe that news that Canadian National Railways will build a spur line into the Amulet property, will have a good effect on the stock.

Stobie, Forlong and Co.: Paramount, Famous Lasky, Fox, Metro-Goldwyn, United Artists, Universal and Warner Bros. concerns, have issued a statement declaring a truce in strife over interchange ability of Talkie apparatus They declared willingness to use their talkies with any make of talkie apparatus which a committee of independent experts should approve.

DIVORCE ALL WRONG

LONDON, July 31.—The law which provides for sexual equality in divorce is all wrong, according to Justice Hill, divorce lawyer. "The law which gives a wife the right to divorce her husband for a single act is a great temptation to a husband who wants his wife to divorce him," the lawyer says. Such a law in England now is making it easier for divorce, Hill claims.

PLANNING COMMITTEE OBJECTS TO BRIDGE AT CHARRING CROSS

Claims Traffic That Needs the Bridge Would Not Be Served.

HEIGHT SPOIL SKY LINE.

LONDON, July 31.—(Canadian Press Cable).—A protest against the scheme for building a new traffic bridge across the Thames at Charing Cross in place of the present railway bridge has been lodged with the Ministry of Health by the Greater London Regional Planning Committee presided over by Sir Bannister Fletcher. The committee expreses the opinion that the object of the bridge should be to deal with traffic between the area at the mouth of the river and the west and northwest of London.

Far from facilitating this traffic it is claimed the present scheme would distort it in an attempt to serve north and south bound traffic which would not naturally use the Charing Cross bridge. The natural flow from the bridge to the northwest would be seriously interfered with by the proposed disconection of Charing Cross Bridge from Northumberland Avenue and vehicles going to Westminster and Piccadilly would not only be diverted from ther natural course but forced to use the already congested center at the Strand whle the creation of the new circus on the Strand so near Trafalgar Square would cause serious delay to traffic.

Spoil Historical Views.

From an aesthetic point of view, the committee also objects to the bridge. It claims the structure would have a detrimental effect on the characteristic views of the city including the view of St. Paul's from the embankment and the view of Westminster due to the raising of the structure to a level necessary to cross over traffic on the embankment. Due to its height it would be out of proportion to the remaining features of the sky-line.

The existence of an overhead railway from London Bridge to Charing Cross presents the chief obstacle to the development of that part of London south of the river, the committee remarks. The removal of that obstacle, probably by placing the railway underground would ultimately become necessary and anything which would render that removal more difficult or costly was to be deprecated.

Railway Approves.

Yesterday it was announced the shareholders of the Southern Railway Company had approved the scheme to move the Charing Cross Station to the other side of the Thames and build a traffic bridge in place of the present railway bridge. The scheme is being actively pushed by the London County Council and will ultimately cost more than $60,000,000.

Corn and Wheat Show Advances On Chicago Mart

CHICAGO, Ills., July 31.—(Canadian Press).—Corn led a brisk upward swing of grain values early to-day. Reports were current that owing to high temperatures coupled with excessively dry weather the Illinois corn crop is firing in spots. Word of better export business in North American wheat tended also to lift values. Opening unchanged to 2½c higher, corn subsequently scored gaining all around. Wheat started ½c to ¼c up, and subsequently made a sharp general upturn. Oats were firmer. Provisions also advanced.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO, July 31.—Butter values moved upward in wholesale produce trading yesterday, finest No. 1 creamery solids being quoted at 39¼c. to as high as 39½c. a pound for supplies delivered. Coming in the wake of an advance on Monday, yesterday's rise clearly indicated the strong price undertone which is accompanying increased demand. With production in Ontario curtailed by continued dry weather and high temperatures, higher prices were not altogether unexpected. Demand yesterday was reported to be active, particularly at any concession from ruling market levels.

No. 2 grade creamery moved correspondingly upward to a range of 37¼c. to 37½c. a pound, delivered, or 1½c. below the market for No. 1. As yet no change is shown in quotations by wholesale dealers to the retail trade. Prices of 41c. to 42c. were quoted for No. 1 creamery prints, with No. 2 prints at 39c.

Egg Market Is Firm.

Although no change was shown in wholesale egg quotations yesterday, the influence of continued light receipts and active consumptive demand lent decided firmness to the market. Offerings of extras are reported to be particularly meagre and there is a pronounced demand for this grade. Dealers paid 29c. to 30c. a dozen for fresh extras, delivered in Toronto, cases returned, while firsts continued to rule at firm levels of 26c. to 27c. on the same delivery basis. Prices to the retail trade were unchanged at a range of 36c. to 37c. a dozen for fresh extras in cartons, and at 34c. to 35c. loose. Firsts moved into distributive channels at 31c. to 32c. a dozen.

No change was shown in wholesale cheese quotations, and dealers continued to quote 18¼c. a pound for finest No. 1. Government graded, new large waxed cheese, delivered in Toronto.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, July 31.—The butter market was easier yesterday, No. 1 pasteurized in a wholesale way selling at 38¼c per lb. Retail prices were 40c per lb. for solids, and 41c for prints. Receipts were 623 boxes, as compared with 405 boxes on the same day a week ago.

The cheese market continued quiet with an easier tone. Prices were unchanged. Receipts were 17,296 boxes, as compared with 9,682 boxes on the same day a week ago.

Egg prices were higher. Western eggs sold on a basis of 34c for extras, 30c for firsts, and 24c for seconds, delivered in Montreal. Ontario eggs on spot were 35c for extras, 29c for firsts, and 22c for seconds, f.o.b. Ontario points. Retail prices were: Fresh extras, 40c; fresh firsts, 34c, and fresh seconds, 27c per dozen.

The potato market was steady, with locally grown new potatoes selling at $1.75 to $2 per 80 lbs.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Union Yards Tuesday—Cattle, 350; Calves, 790; Hogs, 950; Sheep and lambs, 825.

A downward price tendency in the market for common cattle marked trading at the Union Stock Yards yesterday. In addition to fresh receipts there were approximately 1,600 head left from Monday's market, and the bulk of these were of common quality. With the exception of a few baby beeves, nothing of choice quality was offered.

Buyers took a few of the better killers at steady prices, but so light was the general demand that only 1,000 head had passed over the scales up to 2 o'clock, and fully half these consisted of sales of stockers.

Sales included three lightweight butchers steers at $11 per cwt. for two, with the other animal bringing $11.75 per cwt., and most steer and heifer sales were made under $9.50 per cwt., with some as low as $7. Cows were slightly more active within a range of $7.50 to $8 per cwt., for a few good butchers' cows, while common to medium quality grades brough $6 to $7. Canners and cuters moved out readily at from $4 to $5.50 per cwt., while bologna bulls were also in demand at $6.50 per cwt., for the fleshy animals, and at $6 per cwt for thin bolognas Baby-beef values were notably stronger on a very light offering, sales ranging from $11 to $1550 per cwt., or an advance of 50 cents per cwt. for best quality over Monday's market.

Stockers Bring Lower Prices.

Declines in prices for stockers and feeders resulted from a liberal supply of these types and only moderately active demand. It was reported that continued dry weather in the West had resulted in larger shipments of stockers, but the fact that Ontario pastures have also suffered from a lack of moisture has discouraged local buying. The result was a further decline of 50 cents per cwt. for stockers and feeders yesterday, lightweight stockers ranging from $7 to $8 per cwt. for common to fair quality, while breedy steers were quoted at $8 to $9. Plain quality feedrs sold within a range of $7.50 to $8.75 per cwt., and a few good animals realized $9 to $9.40.

The guest of honor was placed in the centre of the bevy of girls, the gifts being held over her head while she guessed what each article should be used for. Needless to say, much merriment was occasioned by the guesses. The hostess served a dainty buffet luncheon, Mrs. Melville Carr pouring tea.

Mr. Albert Elliott is improving his place in Cavanville by painting it and making other improvements.

The weather was warm and the evening ideal for an outdoor gathering, so that the guests as they arrived were seated on the verandah. In the living room, under a large white bell, a clothes basket was placed, being piled high with parcels, wrapped in white paper. When all had assembled the guests were asked to take their places around the room, and the girls of the community, with the guest of honor, were asked to come in, Mrs. A. B. Kennedy playing the wedding march. Miss Matchett was seated under the bell, beside the hamper of gifts and with others to assist her, unwrapped the parcels, passing them around that all might see. The gifts were many and beautiful, including an electric toaster, table linen, china and silverware. Miss Margaret Lang, Toronto, sang a solo in pleasing manner, Mrs. A. B. Seniors Tied For Second Place In Central Loop

PETES SCORE SEVEN RUNS IN ONE INNING TO GIVE RAY ROSE NEAT WIN OVER LEAGUE LEADERS

Five Extra Base Hits in Succession Wipe Out Belleville Lead in Hurry.

TIED FOR SECOND.

Fighting Victory Over Leading Nationals Put Petes Right in Running.

(By F. D. C.)

The Petes invaded Belleville without one of their regular pitchers in the squad, spotted the league leaders four runs and then putting all their punch into one glorious round hammered out a most gorgeous victory to the tune of 7-6, creating a three-cornered tie for second place in the exciting scramble for a Central Ontario League play-off berth.

In the absence of the Petes' gunners, with Heckman and Macdonald away and Hardill dropped from the roster, Ray Rose, second baseman of the Swanston crew, was the hero of the occasion, by reason of a nice display of pinch-pitching. Called upon in the crisis Rose's sweeping curve and effective turn of speed gave the National hitters plenty of trouble and had the Petes' defence been as airtight as on Saturday he would have coasted along. The fielding slips including those by Rose himself were costly and only three of Belleville's six runs were earned. The spotty support made the work of the veteran second sacker particularly creditable for he kept on fighting in spite of disheartening early innings breaks and finally had the supreme satisfaction of turning in a well deserved victory to put the Petes square with Belleville on the [illegible] rivals.

Legon, first up in the Petes' sixth, popped to Blakely. Swanston was safe on Blakely's low throw to first. Rose hoisted one to H. Mills. Ash forced Swanston on a rap to Blakely.

Sonny Green started Belleville's end with a walk. Bennett singled past first but the Hollingsworth brothers hooked up in a relay that nipped Green when he tried to go to third on the play. Red Hollingsworth then dashed over second to grab Scott's roller, touch the keystone sack and shoot the ball to Ash for a fast double play that earned a fine hand from the crowd.

Then came the deluge.

Red Hollingsworth opened the Petes' big seventh with a triple past Bennett in right field. Len Hollingsworth double to the same field to score his brother. Tommy Holyman tapped a double down the left field foul line to score Len Hollingsworth and the Petes were on their way. A pleasant Sweetman shot a drive to centre and Canada when Sonny Green tried to make a spoke shoe string catch the ball ripped ple by past him for a triple, sending Holynationalman in. Jimmy Hall contributed the predomififth extra base hit in succession by tive Gsmashing a long triple over Ben-North Bennett's head to send Sweetman home to the with the tieing run and Alex Weir sat wout of the box to centre field. Ab industr young, the relief hurler, ran into favored double right off the reel. First he Governleared the bases by wild pitching order-Hall home with the run that put the Petes in front and then he proceeded to fill them up again. First Legon walked, then Swanston singled to left and after Rose struck out, Ash was hit, crowding the bases. A pass to Red Hollingsworth, up for the second time, forced in Legon. That was enough for Young, who went back to centre field while Alex Weir came back in the box. Len Hollingsworth greeted him with his second hit of the inning, scoring Swanston. Then Weir finally got the side out by fanning Holyman and getting Sweetman on a high fly to V. Weir.

The Nationals made a fighting effort to take back the lead so suddenly wiped out by the Petes. Verne Weir walked and went to third when Harry Mills singled to right. A wild pitch scored V. Weir and put Harry on second. W. Mills' long fly to L. Hollingsworth was deep enough to let H. Mills go to third after the catch and he scored on Blakely's slashing single through short. Blakely stole second but was left there when Alex Weir struck out and M. Green flied to Hall.

In the eighth Hall rolled to Blakely, Legon to Scott, and Swanston made Blakely's second victim of the inning.

The Nationals went down without a struggle. Sonny Green and Young fanned and Holyman tossed out Scott.

The game was called then on account of darkness.

NO EXPORTS IN 4 YEARS.

WEST VANCOUVER, B.C., July 31.—(Canadian Press).—Concluding the first portion of his mainland tour of British Columbia, Hon. R. B. Bennett made caustic references here last night to the effect on the Canadian Dairy Industry of the extension by the Government of favored nation treatment of New Zealand. The increased imports from New Zealand of butter especially as a consequence of the act of the Dominion Government, was emphasized by the Conservative Leader.

The theatre, where the meeting was held, was well filled and broadcasting arrangements carried the speeches further to an invisible audience. Mr. Bennett was supported by Gen. A. D. McRae, Chief Conservative Whip, and Gen. J. Clark, Dominion Member for Vancouver at Burrard.

Used To Export.

"Four years ago," the Opposition Leader declared, "before there was any such arrangement with New Zealand, our dairy farmers supplied our own butter equirements and we exported some. Last year, as a result of the action of the Government, we had to import 28,000,000 pounds of butter. We had to come principally [illegible] the rubber, finally getting [illegible] side out after thirteen Petes had batted and the visitors were leading 7 to 4.

Showing their usual fight, the Gerowmen maanged to get two runs back in their half but they could not score in the eighth and it was their last chance for Umpire Nicholson, after consulting with his colleague, called the game on account of darkness at the close of the eighth.

And what a pretty row there was then mates. The Belleville team staged a mob scene around the officials, and maintained bitterly that there was plenty of light left for another innings and the howls of anguish from the National fans were sweet music to the Petes as they scampered gleefully to their bus. The officials of course had the last word and they were right too for the diamond was deep in shadow and the light uncertain.

It was a great evening for the Petes, who got more enjoyment out of coming from behind and beating the leaders on their own grounds than they have had in any engagement this season. And the wrath of the Belleville fans just gave the victory an extra kick.

The win was of great importance to the Petes, giving them an even break with the Nationals on the season's play and at the same time pulling the winners up level with Deloro and Oshawa their two rivals for second place. The standing of the three teams is:

	Won	Lost
Peterborough	8	10
Oshawa	8	10
Deloro	8	10

Here It All Is.

The Petes got a hit but no runs in the first. Jimmy Hall fanned and Legon hoisted to Scott. Swanston beat out a tap down the third base line but Rose flied to Sonny Green.

Scott led off for Belleville with a single over second and moved up a peg on V. Weir's sacrifice. H. Mills rolled to Ash and W. Mills flied to Legon.

In the second Ash flied to Sonny Green. Red Hollingsworth drew a pass and after Len Hollingsworth had floated a fly to Sonny Green Holyman walked. Sweetman struck out.

The Nationals started the scoring in their half. Blakely beat out a roller to short and stole second to score when Holyman missed A. Weir's roller. Weir went to second while Rose was tossing out M. Green and scored on Sonny Green's double to left. Rose threw out Bennett and fanned Scott to end the inning.

UHLE WEAKENS TIGERS DOWNED

Athletics Come Out With Hits in Tenth to Take 5-4 Victory.

PITCHERS' DUEL.

PHILADELPHIA, July 31 (Canadian Press). — George Uhle weakened in the ninth inning of a pitching duel against Lefty Bob Grove yesterday, and enabled the Athletics to pull out a 5 to 4 victory over the Detroit Tigers in the tenth.

Up to the ninth, Uhle had allowed but four hits, one of them a homer by Jimmy Foxx, and had a 4-1 lead.

In the ninth, Al. Simmons came through with a homer with one on base and Foxx followed with a single to drive Uhle from the mound.

Dykes' double off Graham scored Foxx with the tying run and Simmons brought in the winning run with a timely single in the tenth.

CARDINALS WIN FROM BROOKLYN

Hard Hitting Game Is Forced Eleven Innings.

REDS SHUT OUT.

ST. LOUIS, July 31.—(Canadian Press).—The Cardinals ended their losing streak of three games yesterday by winning the first game of the series from Brooklyn, 10 to 9, in an 11-inning swatting bee. A pair of singles and a stolen base brought the winning run.

The Cards fell on Doug. McWeeny for five runs in the sixth inning to overcome the Robins' early lead and tie the score. Home runs by Orsatti and Sherdel featured the rally.

The Robins broke the deadlock with a pair of runs in the ninth but St. Louis tied it up again in the home half. Vance was charged with the defeat.

SHUT OUT REDS

CINCINNATI, July 31.—(Canadian Press).—For the fourth straight time this season Fred Fitzsimmons shut out the Reds, winning a pitching duel against Jakie May by a 3 to 0 score yesterday.

Fitzsimmons allowed but six hits, keeping them well scattered, while the Giants got only five from May.

All three runs were scored in the seventh inning, Andy Cohen clouting a home run.

WESTCLOX BOYS ARE DEFEATED BY WILDCATS

Close Game of Softball Is Played in Central School Grounds.

SCORE 4 TO 1.

Excellent Support Is Given Both Teams, Both in Infield and Out.

Westclox went down fighting in the softball game at Central School Grounds last night that was marked by snappy fielding when they met the Bridgenorth Wildcats and lost by a score of 4-1.

There was little to choose between the two teams ,both aggregations giving their hurlers good support. The Cats were perhaps a little heavier on the willow which marked by a couple of errors on the part of the Clocks spelt defeat in their score column.

Both pitchers twirled a good game, and while the strike-outs were not numerous for either, not many of the marksmen who appeared at the plate, for either side were able to drive the sphere beyond the infield.

The Hillmen scored their lone counter in the third innings, and it was the first marker of the game. Baptie, who singled safely, went to second on Baird's error and to third on a passed ball, and scored on Currie's hit.

Take One Run Lead.

When the Wildcats appeared at the plate in the fourth, it seemed as if they were determined to come through with the tying counter, and so Galbraith, the first man to bat, drove a long one into deep left field which rolled through Currie's hands and went for a homer.

Weese then scored the run to put the Cats one up, when he singled, went to second when Baird sacrificed, to third on Maniece's error, and chalked up the leading counter on Forsythe's hit.

There was no score until the eighth when another brace of markers were hung on the Wildcats' belt. Baker doubled into centre field and scored on Baird's single, who went to third on Delahey's error and scored on a passed ball. That finished the scoring with the Floating Bridge aggregation three up.

The Westclox team lost all chances in the ninth when only four men faced Forsythe .Barrie popped to H. Dormer, Hayden rolled to Forsythe, who threw to first, Maniece walked, but Fields knocked an easy one to Weese for the final put-out of the game.

The Westclox outfield gave a nice exhibition of spectacular circus catches. In the first Currie in left field made a nice clutch of Galbraith's fly and in the third Hayden did a dive and a roll to get Weese's long hit.

Dormer at first for the Cats played a perfect game without an error to his credit and with eight put-outs.

The line-ups:

Bridgenorth — G. Dormer, ss; H. Dormer, 1b; Galbraith, lf; Weese, 2b; Baker, cf; Baird, 3b, rf; Connors, c; Forsythe, p ;Scates, rf; Bradshaw, rf, 3b

Westclox — Baptie, ss, Goodson, rf; Currie, lf, Delahey, p; Foley, c; Barrie, 2; Hayden, cf; Maniece, 3b; Fields, 1b.

QUAKERS BEAT PITTSBURG.

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 31. — (Canadian Press). — The Yankees won the seventh successive game of their home stay yesterday by beating the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 3, in the opener of a three-game series.

The Yankees hit Alphonse Thomas for 14 hits, bunching five of them for a four-run rally in the fifth inning. Herb Pennock kept Chicago's 10 hits well scattered and was effective in the pinches.

Mol Berg, Chicago catcher was stunned in a collision with Dickey at the plate and was forced to retire.

Quakers Beat Pittsburg.

PITTSURG, July 31.—(Canadian Press).—Six Pittsburg pitchers failed to hold the hard-hitting Quakers in check yesterday and the Phillies annexed a 13 to 5 victory to shatter a losing streak that had beset them on their western invasion.

The Quakers made 18 hits for a total of 27 bases. Klein, Whitney and Hurst hit homers.

Klein's 32nd of the season came with two on in the third.

Senators All Hit In St. Louis Defeat

ROCHESTER TIES WITH BUFFALO

Carleton Makes His 14th Victory At Bisons' Expense 9-4.

COLLINS GETS 30TH HOMER.

ROCHESTER, July 31 (Canadian Press). — Rochester evened the count with Buffalo in the present series here yesterday, winning from the Bisons 9 to 4.

"Rip" Collins hit his 30th home run in the fourth inning to take the lead in the circuit race with George Fisher.

Watkins followed as the next hitter by pounding his 14th out of the lot.

It was "Tex" Carleton's 14th victory of the season, against four losses.

Tex allowed nine hits but scattered them in a quiet spot to keep the Bisons checked as did three more wing double plays.

STEWARDS CUP WON BY S. JOEL

Fleeting Memory Takes Goodwood Feature Event On Odds 100-8 Against.

GOLDEN ORACLE SECOND.

GOODWOOD, Eng., July 31.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Sol Joel's four-year-old Fleeting Memory won the Stewards' Cup yesterday afternoon in a thrilling dash over the six-furlong course with 18 other starters. Capt. H. Whitworth's Golden Oracle was second by three-quarters of a length, and in third place, but another neck behind, was J. B. Joel's Dark Fire.

Fleeting Memory started at odds of 100 to eight against; Golden Oracle at nine to one, and Dark Fire at nine to one.

The winner, by Vencedoria-Memoria, was ridden by Perryman and carried 113 pounds, whereas Golden Orcle called 116 pounds and Dark Fire 104.

Run 90 Years.

The race, established 90 years ago and now one of the greatest of the short distance handicaps, featured the opening day of "Glorious Goodwood," a great social event at this season. It carried $5,000 with extras besides the cup.

St. Fortunate threw his jockey, S. Wragg, in the paddock before going to the starting post. From the break, Navigator held a slight lead from Caballero, Oakridge, Sixwheeler, Fleeting Memory, Flying Phoenix and Fingle Bridge. Dark Fire raced up to take the lead at the three-furlong pole, with Golden Oracle and Fleeting Memory close in pursuit. Fingle Bridge lost his footing and fell two furlongs from the finish.

Hard Pressed at Wire.

Nearing the finish, Fleeting Memory surged in front, with Golden Oracle and Dark Fire pressing him to the wire. The last furlong proved a particularly fine race, with Golden Oracle repeatedly challenging Fleeting Memory.

Songe was fourth. The winner's time was 1.13 2-5.

Of the 21 probable starters Monday night only two withdrew from the race, Yoho and Bearskin.

PIE AND ICE CREAM SOCIAL OF W. I. IS BIG SUCCESS

Large Crowd Attends Annual Social of Lakefield Institute.

LAKEFIELD, July 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—The pie and ice cream social held under the auspices of the Women's Institute was an outstanding event of Saturday night, and was a great success. The social was held on the grounds of the Town Hall, and with the gaily lighted booth and the seats grouped about and always filled with friends and well-wishers of the Institute, the scene was exceptionally attractive and a large crowd kept busy the ladies who were in charge. Pies were there in abundance, rich, juicy berry pies and the good reliable apple pie which never fails. Soft drinks were also on sale, and music was provided from a victrola located in the band stand and in charge of Mrs. John Northey. Financially, the social was successful, as well as in point of attendance. The weather was ideal for an ice cream festival, as the heat was very great and the rain which threatened early in the evening obligingly held off. This was the second annual pie social held by the Institute. The following members assisted: Mesdames Evans Blewett, Howard Bullock, A. Davis, Charles Frankish, Gordon FitzGerald, E. S. Kelsey, W. G. Morrison, J. Mahood, Gilbert McIlmoyl, C. O. Northey, John Northey, Theodore Nicholls, W. Nicholls, Walter Preston, Joseph Roseborough, Howard Sanderson, Stuart Sanderson, Misses L. Frankish and Edna Blewett.

Jersey City Loses Two On Keys' Twin Homers

JERSEY CITY, July 31.—(Canadian Press).— Reading took both ends of a double-header here yesterday by scores of 3 to 1 and 10 to 6.

Hood's four-ply wallop with bases loaded in the sixth inning of the night cap gave the Keys their double victory.

Taylor also hit a homer in the seventh and final inning of the same game with one on.

Orioles Beat Newark To Win Five Straight

BALTIMORE, July 31 (Canadian Press). — The Orioles extended their winning streak to five straights by defeating the Newark Bears, 8 to 4, in the final game of the series here yesterday.

The victory gave the flock a clean sweep in the trio of battles.

Heavy stick work and smart base running enabled the Birds to take the final tilt.

Home runs were blasted by Clarkson, Loepp, and Lutzke.

Wally Pipp was ejected from the game for protesting a decision by Umpire Michaelson ,on a play at first base.

MAPLE LEAFS STOP GRAFTONS

Best Game of Year Is Played By Teams in Bantam Series.

CALLADINE PLAYS WELL.

The Maple Leafs did the unexpected and stopped Grafton's Bantams in eleven innings. This was the nicest game played in the City League this year.

Calladine on the mound for the Maple Leafs allowed Grafton's ten scattered hits and struck out 21 of the Clothiers. He was very effective with men on the bases, and several times he cut off dangerous rallies by striking out one and two batters with men on third. He also fields his position nicely and hits the ball in the pinches.

He was given almost airtight support. Burton, the small left fielder, going away back to pick up Craig's long fly in the seventh. Dixon on short stop knocked one that was travelling a mile a minute down, then he threw the runner out at first.

Maple Leafs hit in the pinches. Young Eddie Starr started things when he slammed a clean double in the fifth to score two runs.

Burton also came through with a single which scored two runs. The seventh was the big innings for the Maple Leafs, when making use of six hits they scored three runs. Gardiner third baseman for Maple Leafs, turned in a fine game. Calladine is the one outstanding player on the Maple Leafs, and it is not fair to differentiate among the others, because they all did their bit to pull the win.

Routley pitched for Grafton's; he was in good shape and pitched a fine game, allowing only ten hits, but these were bunched. He struck 12 East City batters out. His control was not quite as good as Calladine's, and he walked three batters. He was given good support in the field although the Maple Leafs got their last counter on errors.

Grafton's started off in first with a walk and a hit for a run; they got another in the fourth when Jap tripled and scored on a wild pitch.

In the eighth they scored two more with three timely hits.

Hits a Triple.

In the ninth Moury tripled and scored when Routley singled. This run tied the score and Grafton's hopes began to soar.

The Maple Leafs did nothing in their half of the ninth, and in the tenth Grafton's lost a good chance when Jay was out at third trying to stretch a double into a triple. The Maple Leafs went out in order.

In the eleventh Grafton's lost another good chance when Moury was out, trying to stretch a double into three bases.

Then the blow-up came! Starr, the first sticker for Maple Leafs, flied out. Burton, the next up, flied to centre, and Frost tried hard but dropped it. Burton started for second on the first pitch; Cadd's throw was wild so Burton kept on going. Frost recovered the ball and threw it over third. Percy Williams would have had a hard time to catch young Burton as he tore down the home stretch, to secure the winning run, and become the hero of the team.

The Maple Leafs deserved to win the game without the extra innings. This win puts Maple Leafs in second place.

The Line-up.

Grafton's: McCullough 1b; Cadd c; Jay ss; Clarke 2b; Craig 3b; Moury lf, Frost m; Stanger rf; Routley p.

Maple Leafs: Starr c; Burton lf; Dixon ss; Calladine p; Whitnell rf; McCarthy 1b; Connors 2b; Gardiner 3b; Courneya m; Thornley m.

MADOC BOWLING CLUB ERECTS NEW CLUB HOUSE

Two Teams from Stirling Play Friendly Games on Opening Day.

MADOC, July 31. — The Madoc Bowling Club has been very enterprising and has succeeded in finishing their fine club house, which is 40 ft. by 12 ft., with ladies and men's dressing rooms.

The club house was opened on Friday evening when two teams from Stirling arrived to play their return games, after which lunch was served by the members.

W. E. Connor's team was successful in the evening's play by four points, and S. Ashley's team won by two points.

Incidentally Mr. Connor's team has not yet been defeated this season.

BIG TRANSPORT BREAKS BRIDGE

Truck Load of Butter Crashes Through Jackson Park Structure.

UNABLE TO MOVE IT

An inter-city truck loaded with 2 tons of butter and other commodities broke through the bridge in Jackson Park at 7:30 Monday evening. The butter was removed a few hours later but the lifting of the truck is presenting great difficulties.

The truck is one of McGlashan's transports, running between here and Toronto. The driver, E. McDonald, of Toronto, said that he was directed through the park to reach a certain house where he was to take on a load of furniture.

All went well until they came to the old bridge spanning the creek just below the dam in the park. The heavy transport had reached the far side, its wheels being on the bank, when the bridge suddenly gave way and the truck rolled back almost into the stream.

This bridge had but lately been repaired to allow ordinary motor traffic, but it was never built to withstand the weight of a giant transport.

The truck was damaged along the running board and front and to raise it from its present position is presenting difficulties of which no solution has been suggested.

HOGSETT'S WIN BREAKS ROYALS LOSING STREAK

Sam Gibson Hurls Great Game But Fails To Equal Montreal's Ace.

LEAFS LOSE 2-1.

Although Outhitting Montreal 8-6 Leafs Stumped By Runs in First.

MONTREAL, Que., July 31.—(Canadian Press).—Sam Gibson hurled a great game of ball here yesterday, but Gibson's best was not quite good enough to match the fine performance by Chief Elon Chester Hogsett, ace of the Montreal mound brigade. There the Leafs went down before the big Indian southpaw, 2-1.

The victory was Hogsett's 17th victory of the season and cracked a four-game losing streak that the the Royals had acquired since Hogsett scored his 16th victory of the season in Buffalo last week.

The Leafs outhit the Royals, 8 to 6, but failed to do anything with men on bases and the two runs, which the Royals managed to collect in the first inning held good until the end.

Fastest Game of Year Won Through Efforts of Hornsby, Wilson, Stephenson.

BLAKE WELL SUPPORTED.

CHICAGO, July 31. — (Canadian Press). — Chicago gained another game in the National League Pennant race by blanking Boston, 4 to 0 here yesterday, as Pittsburg fell before the mauling bats of Philadelphia.

Sheriff Blake held Boston to five hits and was accorded sensational support by his mates, who executed four double plays to get him out of what trouble he encountered.

Hornsby, Wilson and Stevenson, the three active members of "murderers" row, accounted for the Cubs' victory.

It was one of the fastest games of the year, requiring only one hour and 28 minutes to play.

BENNETT SCORES GOVERNMENT ON DAIRY IMPORTATION ACTION

Claims New Zealand is Favored, Thus Cutting Our Own Products.

NO EXPORTS IN 4 YEARS.

WEST VANCOUVER, B.C., July 31.—(Canadian Press).—Concluding the first portion of his mainland tour of British Columbia, Hon. R. B. Bennett made caustic references here last night to the effect on the Canadian Dairy Industry of the extension by the Government of favored nation treatment of New Zealand. The increased imports from New Zealand of butter especially as a consequence of the act of the Dominion Government, was emphasized by the Conservative Leader.

The theatre, where the meeting was held, was well filled and broadcasting arrangements carried the speeches further to an invisible audience. Mr. Bennett was supported by Gen. A. D. McRae, Chief Conservative Whip, and Gen. J. Clark, Dominion Member for Vancouver at Burrard.

Used To Export.

"Four years ago," the Opposition Leader declared, "before there was any such arrangement with New Zealand, our dairy farmers supplied our own butter equirements and we exported some. Last year, as a result of the action of the Government, we had to import 28,000,000 pounds of butter to supply our needs, principally from New Zealand."

Goes To Vancouver.

In the early hours of this morning, Hon. R. B. Bennett left to make the crossing to Victoria. At Bowker's Beach, outside of the provincial capital, the Conservative Leader late to-morrow afternoon will make the first speech on Vancouver Island of his Pacific Cost tour. Several other speaking engagements will be filled by Mr. Bennett before his return to Vancouver on Sunday next for a brief rest before proceeding up the coast.

Spoke At Open Air Meet.

Yesterday, he had a hectic day of engagements and it was long after midnight when the Opposition Leader enjoyed any cessation from his labors. Arriving during the night he had a number of appointments to fill. Then he spoke to an open air gathering of constituents of North Vancouver, attended a function by General A. D. McRae, Dominion Member for the riding, and at night Mr. Bennett motored to West Vancouver to deliver his second address of the day.

His earlier speech was marked by a plea for a national development of Canada "on a proper basis." He spoke also of the power of the people by their votes in determining the national destiny In the evening, the predominating note of the Conservative Chieftain in his address at North Vancouver was his reference to the injurious effect which, he said, was worked upon the Canadian industry by the extension of the favored nation treatment by the Government to New Zealand by order-in-council.

LAST MINUTE DECISION SAVES BARCLAY'S LIFE

Sentence is Changed to Life Imprisonment by Cabinet

TORONTO, Ont., July 31.—(Canadian Press).—By an eleventh-hour decision of the Cabinet at Ottawa, William Barclay of Toronto, who on New Year's Eve murdered Mrs. Nancy Hudson in her Breadalbane Street rooming house, has had his sentence of death commuted to life imprisonment just a few short hours before he was to have gone to the gallows.

With the execution set for to-morrow, counsel for the condemned man had had the case before the Cabinet over a week ago, but the final decision was withheld. On Monday renewed argument was presented to the Minister of Justice as to why the prerogative of clemency should be exercised.

E. P. L. PLAYOFFS ARRANGED.

Excitement is at fever heat in the East Peterborough League, and activity is shaking the two rival camps, Cogs and Bethany, which clash for the championship. Last night the executive announced the playoff dates. The team taking two out of three games will win the ribbon.

The first game is scheduled for Bethany on Wednesday, August 7, and the return engagement will be played at Exhibition Park the following Monday or Tuesday evening. The third game, if necessary will be staged on the local diamond, too, Doc. Hamilton giving his full approval to this plan.

The Cogs play Crescents here this Friday evening, and although there is nothing at stake both will be out to win. The rivalry between these two teams has been too keen to allow either to bow to defeat without a stiff struggle. The game will serve as a great practice for the Cogs, putting them in trim for the hectic final series.

Meanwhile Doc. Hamilton's brawny boys are bedding down the horses early these evenings, and going out behind the barn for a little solo work with glove and bat. All the practising of the mountain village lads must be done individually since they are too far separated, and too busy, these days, to lay off work and travel into Bethany for a team work out.

RAYS LOOK GOOD IN PRACTICE.

The Raybestos ball club held a valuable practice at the Exhibition Park last night. The manner in which the boys cavorted around filled Art Primeau's heart with glee—they are hitting them hard, and fielding hotly. "Sailor" Maudsley's arm is coming along nicely, and he was hurling the ball with much of the old speed and cunning. The other pitchers, Rus Kitchen and Art Armstrong, also exhibited great form and Kitchen, especially, has made great strides.

The Rays are waiting for word from the executive of their league to learn whether they play Oshawa or not for the championship.

O.B.A.A. ISSUES PLAY-OFF DATES.

Word has just been received of the play-off dates in the O.B.A.A. as drawn up at the important meeting of the committee held in Toronto last week.

The champions of the Central League will meet the T.A.B.A. Winners in the first round on September 25.

As expected the East Peterborough League winners will clash with the Lakeshore League's best around August 17. The Rays should win their group, but no predictions will be ventured on the outcome between Bethany and Cogs.

The Kiwanis team, champions of the junior City League, play the Moose, Belleville winners, about August 10. The Moose, champion juvenile team, and Grafton's, winners in the bantam series here, have drawn a bye and will go right into the semi-finals about the first week in September.

AHOY! SAILOR! AHOY!

Mount Julian will be the lodestone for sailing men of the Kawarthas this Friday. The Old Boys' Association of that thriving resort has drawn up one of the best programs of water sports of the season for their 15th annual reunion. Open sailing races, outboard speed boat races, and a handicap race of outboard motored fishing boats on the Kawarthas, are a few of the features that crowd the bills. Probs for the day "Cool and warmer," with a spanking breeze.

CRICKET CLUB WILL PLAY IN TORONTO ON HOLIDAY.

Bill Dwyer, owner of the New York Americans, may offer the job of manager of his team to Harris Ardiel. Mr. Ardiel is well known here, and he is the father of T. R. Ardiel, the daring young sea flea racing driver who has been winning such fame for himself in the races at South Beach. He was an outstanding figure in amateur hockey circles a few years ago, and did much to establish Lionel Conacher in sport.

Conacher has been holidaying in this district and he returned to Toronto to get in touch with the New York hockey magnate concerning the problem of managership of the Americans. Conny is reported to have said that neither Frank Patrick, Eddie Gerard or himself will be the new manager. Harris Ardiel could fill the job to perfection

CUBS VERSUS ATHLETICS.

It looks much like the Cubs and Athletics are to meet in the world's series. The Athletics are as good as home in the American league race, and Cubs with eight straight victories to their credit, look like the team to beat in Heydler's circuit.

It should make a great series and would no doubt attract a record gate if the parks in the respective cities were larger. With half of the series being played in New York for the past few years, it will be hard to offset the attendance record, owing to the large seating capacity of the Yankee stadium.

MONTREAL C.N.R. WIN AT WINNIPEG.

For the first time since 1925 the Dominion Football Association championship comes to the east. Before six thousand rabid fans the C.N.R. team, conquerors of Oshawa by one goal, toppled United Western of Winnipeg, in the western metropolis on Monday evening. The prairie contenders were disorganized by the quick onslaught of the east, and their defence became a rout toward the end.

BROCKVILLE, July 31.—Fines aggregating $2,000 with costs of $34.65 were imposed today in police court upon J. Carman Eyre, of Harlem, upon four charges laid under the Dominion Live Stock Pedigree Act by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Two other charges against Eyre were withdrawn. A fine of $500, with costs, was imposed in each case. The hearing of six charges of the same type against Frank Tackaberry, Plum Hollow, was adjourned to August 7. The charges concern alleged falsifying of certificates of registration of cattle, some of them disposed months ago to buyers from other parts of Canada and from the United States.

What every sufferer wants is quick relief from the terrible itching that almost drives them mad.

Nothing acts more quickly than Peterson's Ointment when rubbed thoroughly into the skin. Many times all itching disappears overnight.

As a remedy to banish eczema and to rid the skin of pimples, blotches and eruptions, Peterson's Ointment has been in great demand for many years—its mighty healing power is marvelous.

One woman writes: "It is the only Ointment that helps control my Eczema." Another woman writes: "It is the only Ointment I can find that will heal Eczema."

Other remedies may fail, but the success of Peterson's Ointment is so certain that druggists are glad to recommend it for eczema, pimples, acne, ulcers and all skin eruptions.

FIRE HAZARDS GROWING DAILY

Great Army of Foresters Fight Losing Battle As Drought Continues.

PRAIRIE ON FIRE.

TORONTO, Ont., July 31.—(Canadian Press).—Sun-scorched timber lands across Canada are ablaze. The same drought which has cut the grain crop in half has created a fire hazard so menacing that a holocaust is feared.

From Atlantic to the Pacific heavy smoke clouds are hanging, while flames eat up miles of evergreen. On the eve of August, considered by fire-fighters the most dangerous month, the situation is already more acute than at any time since the disaster which wiped out Haileybury

In Thunder Bay settlers are fighting a grim battle to save their homesteads from destruction. In the timbered sections of Manitoba and Alberta hundreds of animals are frantically rushing from the bush. The dried-up prairies themselves are ablaze in spots.

While farmers have been forced to stand helplessly by and see their crops burn up, the greatest army ever mobilized in the forests is attempting to save great areas from destruction.

OVERLOADING SANK VESTRIS

Board of Trade Inquiry Into Disaster Claims S O S Delayed Six Hours.

HIGH WIND HELPED.

LONDON July 31 (Canadian Press)—The Board of Trade, which conducted an inquiry into the sinking of the Lamport & Holt liner Vestris last year, found to-day overloading was a cause contributory to the loss of the vessel.

Among other causes assigned were the tender condition of the ship, the insufficient margin of stability and reserve of buoyancy, the weather and high wind which caused the vessel to list to starboard.

It also found the SOS call seeking assistance should have been sent six hours earlier than was the case.

Add overloading

The inquiry court's report said the ship was loaded properly as to cargo and coal, which was distributed within, to prevent shifting; although the coal should have been carried in the upper shoots.

Water in Coal.

Water finding its way into the lower bunkers saturating the coal, was given as another contributing cause of the sinking. It was said this probably caused part of the list and prevented the pumps working efficiently.

The finding continued that the vessel was not in safe condition when it left Hoboken and that no steps were taken to bring her to proper marks before proceeding to sea. As it was the vessel was not fit to encounter the perils of its voyage.

Listed among the things wrong were: Half doors on the upper deck not weather tight; weather deck hatches not battened down; tarpaulins had been supplied, but were not available when needed; and the vessel had not the free board required.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE IDLE RICH," ONE OF THE SEASON'S BEST ALL TALKING PICTURES, WITH CONRAD NAGEL, BESSIE LOVE AND LEILA HYAMS, COMES TO THE CAPITOL THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

Here is one splendid example of the superiority of the talking picture over both the silent screen and the stage.

"The Idle Rich," as a new 100 per cent. talkie from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, brings to us a picturization of the famous play, "White Collars," a story of an American family that is delightfully intimate and very real in dialogue, action and atmosphere. In directing this novel domestic comedy William de Mille takes us into the bosom of the Thayer family and makes us laugh and cry with them rather than at them.

The cast chosen for the picture, which opens at the Capitol to-morrow is obviously a hand-picked one. Conrad Nagel, Bessie Love and Leila Hyams share stellar honors, and those lovable old troupers, Edythe Chapman and James Neill, run close seconds as the mother and father. Robert Ober and Paul Kruger are great as Cousin Harry and Tom Gibney, and they rightfully should be, for they played the same parts on the stage for four years.

In filming this cross section of the middle classes De Mille has shown his mastery of stage direction and dialogue spacing. His atmospheric sound effects, the clatter and bang of flat-dwelling life, is fittingly raucous as a background. There is no attempt whatever at ostentation and the sheer simplicity and crowdedness of the settings is in keeping with the theme.

Nagel, of course, is ideally cast as the multi-millionaire who marries his middle-class stenographer, Leila Hyams, in the picture. Miss Love, who scored such a triumph in "Broadway Melody," is the flappery little sister who is content with her truck-driver sweetie and perky $8 dresses.

The Toledo Baseball club has the reputation of carrying the heaviest payroll outside of the major leagues.

Damsel Weighing 450 Lbs. Breaks Hospital Record

TORONTO, Ont., July 31.—(Canadian Press).—The heaviest patient ever admitted to a city hospital entered St. Michael's Hospital yesterday in the person of Miss Gertrude Restoule, 16, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., who weighs 450 pounds. She is 5 feet 8 inches tall.

Increasing obesity has rendered Miss Restoule helpless, and two of her family who share her affliction will also be brought to the hospital for treatment. These are a sister, 13, who weighs 375 pounds, and an infant brother, whose daily increasing weight has puzzled physicians. Their parents are of normal weight and height.

In order to convey Miss Restoule to the hospital an electric truck was backed up to the door of the car of her train and she was assisted to the steps where she sat on a box. The truck was then moved into a waiting ambulance and she walked across planks into the vehicle.

PICTORIAL GOLF

PIVOT AND TIMING ESSENTIAL IN GETTING OFF GOOD SHOTS.

Duffers play their clubs in many freak ways but perhaps the worst of all is the man two twists his body out of shape by an exaggerated sway and arm movement. With this awkward style usually goes the flat-footed stance. There is no suggestion of pivot in the swing and no correct timing can be secured.

The straight left is permissible when the hands are held high above the head or there is a decided flat swing. Styles of this kind do not suggest grace and an easy poise.

Strange to say, golfers do obtain some creditable shots at times despite the lack of form, but it is more of an accident that they get any distance or direction. It is one of the things in golf to avoid.

(Copyright, 1929, by the Bell Syn., Inc.)

WATCH THE POISONS.

When you swallow Carbolic Acid or Tincture of Iodine, by mistake, you at once become alarmed and say, "Send for the doctor, I have been poisoned." For one person poisoned from these preparations, there are thousands of persons poisoned daily from faulty elimination of poisons produced by the body itself. When the kidneys or the liver are not working well, they fail to carry away these dangerous poisons and the result is that you wake up in the morning with a headache, a stiff back or stiff joints, caused by poisons that remain in the system. If you wish to correct this condition, procure a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will enable the kidneys to eliminate these poisons from your body and will make you feel fit and active for any kind of work.

Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills are for sale at Lynch's Drug Store, and if they fail to do what we claim for them, your money will be refunded. w.s-7673

DR. C. A. HARRISS COMPOSER DEAD

Conducted First 10,000 Voice Chorus in Empire, Thanksgiving 1913.

MONTREAL ORGANIST.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 31 (Canadian Press).—Dr. Charles A. E. Harriss, one of Canada's leading composers and known throughout the Empire as an impressario, whose specialty was the furtherance of British music, died at his home here to-day. Dr. Harriss, who was 67 years of age, was predeceased by his wife several years ago.

Death followed an illness of several months, and occurred at his historic home, "Earnscliffe," which formerly was occupied by Sir John A. MacDonald, Canada's first Prime Minister.

Dr. Harriss' interest in music during the past 30 years largely centred in international enterprises, particularly within the British Empire. In Hyde Park, London, on Empire Day, 1913, he conducted the first 10,000-voice chorus in the history of the Empire. It was the Imperial Choir and Chorus of Peace and Thanksgiving.

While occupying the position of organist and rector-chori in the Montreal Church of St. James the Apostle, he composed the first of his many works. "Daniel Before the King," a sacred cantata, which was the earliest musical composition ever published and performed in Canada by a resident of the Dominion.

FLORISTS HEAR PROF. A. LAURIE

Lecturer Gives Address on Various Ingredients Needed in Soil.

T. W. DUGGAN SPEAKS.

The Tuesday afternoon session of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association opened in Legion Hall with an address by Professor Alex. Laurie of Michigan State College on fertilizers for greenhouses.

In the course of his address he stated that phosphorus was absolutely necessary in the soils and was formerly supplied in the form of the expensive bone meal but now can be procured in the form of super phosphate which contains about 20 per cent more of the chemical than the meal and is used a great deal by rose growers.

"Nitrogen is another necessary plant food," he stated. "And was formerly supplied from liquid manure which was not pure but contained many other foreign substances. Eureah is now the product used which contains about 45 per cent nitrogen and is extremely available and can be used in liquid doses. It is very strong and serves the purpose best when one ounce is mixed with ten gallons of water.

Potash Important

"Ammonium sulpnate is another substitute that is used in place of liquid manure or eureah but is not as strong, and it takes one ounce to every two gallons of water. Potash is another substance that is absolutely necessary to the soil.

"Manufacturers lately have been making a complete fertilizer containing all these substances and in most they are found to be most desirable and not injurious to plants, but they have to be used according to the directions. The plants have to be fed with common sense.

"When samples of soil are sent into us they are not analyzed as it would cost too much and we would not be any farther ahead as we could not tell how much of the soil surrounded it.

"The samples are tested for various acids, lime and phosphorus and the location from where they are sent is known and so recommendations as to how to treat the soil are advised.

Lime Not Needed

Lime as it is commonly thought is not needed in all soils. Some have enough and a sprinkling of more on the surface of the ground may prove injurious. In the States soiltex is supplied to test the lands for acid and to tell if the ground needs lime or not and growers can obtain this from the department at a reasonable cost and more use of this would be helpful to them.

Every bench of soil contains sufficient material to last for years and by the means of manure fertilizers it can be kept in the benches for a long time and save the trouble of moving the soil each year.

Sterilization of the soil by steam releases certain plant foods and in many cases during experiments have resulted in much better results.

Home vs. Imports

T. W. Duggan of Brampton was the next speaker and spoke on home grown stock as against imported stock.

He said: "With regard to the "Home Products vs. Imported Products". There can be no question that our standard stocks such as roses and carnations that are our bread and butter during the whole year demand fair prices that are necessarily lowered by competition with bloom grown from bulbs or plants that have to be imported and while "foreign" imports cannot be overlooked to a reasonable degree such ought not to be over-imported as to compete unfairly with what is being and can be produced locally with our own labor. I have already stated that I am not averse to giving the public, through our greenhouse production, a reasonable variety of flowers such as tulips, daffodils, hyacinths and lily-of-the-valley, and thus have in each season of the year a variety of stock such as may attract the public and can wisely be grown to a proper degree but when there is an over-production in these incidental lines their lower market prices, in many cases less than cost, make the price of standard lines look large in comparison and chill the demand for all year round stock which the grower often has to offer at lower prices because of this competition. Every grower of home products knows that the very moment the markets are crowded with bulbous stock the rest of his products are in lighter demand. A fair division of varieties is not to be objected to in the different seasons of the year but an overproduction in one line causes a riot in prices in all lines.

Credit System a Curse

I have mentioned the curse of the credit system because I believe that the long term payments awarded to growers causes them to be extremely careless about the size of their orders. I must give the Hollander credit for his skill in salesmanship but I must on the other hand seriously question what I term the costly foolishness of random purchasing in so many quarters to an extent that overcrowds the market and is a serious loss, not only to those unwise growers but to the whole trade.

I think that our florists' trade, of which I am proud to be a member, ought to be conducted not only with zeal but with dignity. We are not butchers and there is no reason why we should be slaughtering our products with consequent loss as has been the case, during the last two years particularly.

Returns Not Enough

Very few of our growers are getting the returns for their labor that their work justifies. The business which I have been conducting for so many years, so successfully with the co-operation of a loyal staff, has been successful along the lines that I have been indicating and I confess that I have felt personally very sorry that other growers have not made their business to some commensurate degree—as profitable as ours. I have been quite willing and ready at all times in connection with our conventions to give our brother growers the benefit of every experience we have had—so that they—as well as we might reap reward in keeping with our efforts. I have been really sad at times to find that the lack of caution and thoughtful consideration of best plans, has kept so many growers down to a poor living and in many cases not even that. I think that if we would listen to each other carefully, make the convention a serious affair as to speaking and listening attentively with a determination to make our business not only the honourable type that it properly is but one that will sufficiently reward us all by a careful, minute study along lines necessary to success in any calling.

The afternoon was completed by a trip over the Floating Bridge at Chemong, to Gannon's Narrows and thence to Buckhorn where luncheon was served and the delegates were the guests of the Canadian Florists.

Indigo, once the principal crop of Louisiana, was relegated to minor importance in the 18th century when it was attacked by a destructive worm.

Deals occur repeatedly wherein the original bidder shows two suits and partner holds approximately the same supporting strength for either suit. Almost invariably the result in such cases is that the same number of tricks can be made at either declaration. Consequently, the general procedure of the partner of the two-suited bidder is to show his preference for the shorter game-going declaration whenever possible.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South bids one Heart originally, selecting his shorter and weaker four-card Major in preference to his longer and stronger Minor. North, holding excellent support for partner's Heart suit, passes, as do both opponents.

Contract: South bids one Heart as in Auction. North, holding strong support for partner's bid, including the King-Queen-Small of Hearts, raises the contract to three Hearts, despite the fact that his hand is lacking in distributional values, that is, ability to trump short or missing suits. The full assist to three odd with North's distribution is justified by the fact that he holds the King and Queen of partner's suit in addition to his side values.

South now shows the semi-two-suited character of his hand by bidding four Clubs, a bid which clearly indicates that his Heart suit is not so strong as it might be and which puts the situation up to North for decision as to the game bid.

While North holds substantially the same support for Clubs as for Hearts and while he now realizes that South's Heart suit is undoubtedly of but four cards, he takes the bid back to Hearts, figuring that four odd may be made at either declaration, thus giving the partnership a game at Hearts, but no game at Clubs.

Salient Points of Play.

West leads initially his fourth-best Diamond, the Seven, which is won by East with the King. East returns the Ace of Diamonds and follows with the Five, upon which South discards his one losing Spade, refusing to shorten his trump holding for fear of a 4-2 split of the outstanding adverse six trumps.

There is no other salient point in the play of the hand as thereafter South can make the balance of the tricks without any difficulty as the cards lie.

It will be seen that if South had not refused the force and had trumped the third Diamond lead in his own hand, he could not have gone game as East-West would then make, in addition to the two Diamond tricks already won, a Heart trick and a Spade trick.

FOREST FIRES RAGE IN WEST

Coalspur Surrounded by Dense Brush is in Grave Danger.

ANIMALS FLEE FLAMES

COALSPUR, Alta., July 31.—(C.P.)—This district is experiencing one of the worst fire seasons on record with a rainfall to date of only one-tenth of previous years.

Grass, bushes and trees are as dry as timber and small water courses have been dried out for some time. The major fire situated south of Lovett has burned an area of over fifty square miles of brush. With the subsidence of the high winds of last week a large corps of fire fighters is battling tooth and nail in a desperate effort to gain control. Prompt efforts of the fire fighting staff at Coalspur prevented two small fires less than a mile away from getting into timber that surrounds the town on all sides.

Lookouts report another large fire starting to the eastward, appearing to be situated in the heart of the Brazeau Game Reserve, recently set aside by the Provincial Government. Men returning from the fire report seeing large numbers of animals fleeing from the fire passing close to men and horses alike in their eagerness to gain sanctuary. Slower animals such as porcupines are being consumed by the flames.

American Tourist Hooks Thirty-Pound Lunge

American tourists are reporting many fine catches of fish from Rice lake this year Emil Schaum of Bridgewater, Pa., with his guide, Bert Adams of Hiawatha landed a thirty pound lunge on Monday, near Paudash Point. The fish put up a furious struggle, which lasted for one hour. Mr. Schaum shipped the fish to the States as evidence for the fish stories he will tell upon his return. A five pound green bass and many fine pickerel were also victims of Mr. Schaum's hook and line.

The municipal council of the township of Smith met on Saturday morning July 27, 10 o'clock. Reeve H. D. Coons presided with all the members present.

By-law No. 873 making provision for the levying of certain sums of money on all the rateable property situated in the several school sections therein mentioned in the township of Smith for the year 1929 and for collecting the same received its several readings and was passed.

By-law No. 874 for levying and collecting the rates and assessments of the township of Smith for the year 1929 was passed.

A letter was received from ex-reeve J. A. Middleton and family expressing their thanks to council for flowers and sympathy expressed during their recent bereavement in the death of the late Mr. James Middleton, collector for Smith township.

Moved by councillor Milburn and seconded by Dep. Reeve Fitzgerald that registered plan number fifty, sub-dividing part of lot number twelve in the eighth concession of the township of Smith, now owned by Mr. Allan B. Mann, as received from the registry office, Peterborough on July 3, 1929 be received and filed.

Communications were received from county treasurer, Ed M. Elliott, reporting the equalized assessment of Smith township for 1929, the list of arrears of taxes to be added to the collector's roll for 1929 and the county rates for 1929.

Unable to Gravel Road

A petition was received signed by a number of the owners of property in Chemong Park asking that the roads in the park be coated with trap rock similar to that placed recently on the Chemong Road.

After discussion, council decided that as provision had not been made in the estimates for road expenditure during 1929 for such outlay, that therefore the cost of the work would be more than the funds on hand would warrant.

Moved by councillor Mullen and seconded by councillor McConkey that the offer of Mr. Webster to build a cement culvert on the middle line near the river road in Smith township be accepted.

Wish to Lay Gas Mains.

A communication was received from the Peterborough Utilities Commission through its solicitors, Messrs Hall, Hall and Stevenson, applying to Smith township council to pass the necessary by-law to permit the Utilities Commission to lay and maintain gas mains and services within the township.

Moved by councillor Milburn and seconded by councillor E. G. Mullen that the municipal council of the township of Smith accede to the request of the Utilities Commission of Peterborough as outlined above; and that the Utilities Commission prepare the necessary by-law to permit the same and submit it to the council of Smith township for consideration.

Want Tax Collector

Moved by councillor McConkey and seconded by councillor Mullen that the clerk advertise for applications for the position of collector of taxes for the township of Smith for 1929, at a yearly salary of $225, which sum includes postage and stationery. All applications are to be in the hands of the clerk by 12 p. m., August 15, 1929.

Moved by councillor Mullen and seconded by councillor Milburn that the following bills be paid:

Wm. J. Robinson, first payment on garbage collection, $50; Dr. J. A. Morgan, services as M. H. O., $50.25; P. T. Udy, telephone account, 75c; Peterborough Examiner, printing C. Pox Cards, $2.29; Wm. J. Robinson, second payment on garbage collection, $100;

Council adjourned to meet August 24 at 10 a. m., daylight saving time.

BIG PARADE IS GREAT SUCCESS

Band of Peterborough Rangers Takes Part in Old Home Week Event.

LONGEST EVER WITNESSED.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 31.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)—The big parade was one of the outstanding successes of the week. It is over now and everyone is getting ready for the Calithumpian parade Friday. This will, it is expected, be even larger than yesterday's affair. Yesterday the parade route led from the top of the "School Hill" along Bridge street, thence north to the Baptist church corner and along Garry to Canrobert and Tice. From there it took a direct route to the east side of the town and north on Front street to the Fair grounds. The parade itself was one of the longest ever seen here, and was composed of everything that could possibly be conceived as suitable. Near the head of the column, the band of the Peterborough Rangers occupied the position of honour in so far as the music was concerned. Their scarlet tunics with brass decorations, their smart pace and glistening instruments ,all lent color to the scene. Their music was applauded at various points along the line and was ideally suited to occupy the position at the head of the line.

Yesterday's procession began at the armouries with the flag, the Rangers Band ,the Legion in mufti and medals and the Northumberland Regimental Band. This small beginning grew to immense proportions when they did a left about wheel at the top of the school hill and the parade proper fell into line. Well out in front of the column the Union Jack was carried by Harry Cubbit. Next came a sign in the form of a giant Maple Leaf with a welcome in white letters printed across it. Two cars bearing the civic officials followed the welcome sign. Then came the Rangers Band and the Legionaires, followed by the local cadet corps and visiting cadets with their own kazoo band. School children were the next in line. Cars and trucks, bearing the smaller members of the cast of the pageant followed the school children. The next party added colour to the parade. They were a band of local girls in gay gypsy costumes led by Miss Rosina Clarke, dressed as a Highland lass. They danced merrily along in front of the regimental band in its khaki, and when they had passed, there were still more gypsy maidens to collect applause as they skipped gracefully along their way. The Girl Guides in uniform were a marked contrast to their more care-free sisters of the gypsy tribe. The Duchess of Clarence, Lady True Blue Lodge fife band was next in line.

Some of the old boys got a surprise when they saw the present fire fighting equipment. They remarked the vast difference between Old Britannia and the shiny new fire truck with its modern equipment that followed in the parade yesterday. Advertising Campbellford's greatest asset, the service truck of the local Water and Light Commission carried a banner which read, "Cheapest power in Canada." Not only did the local citizens decorate their cars for the occasion, but many visitors from across the line were in the parade. Among the American markers noticed under the decorations were some from New York, Michigan and Illinois. The new Essex coach to be given as a grand prize in a local contest followed.

Then the parade suddenly dropped from the sublime to the opposite extreme when a clown band from the Maple Leaf Shows appeared on a miniature band wagon, making music that was nearly akin to noise. Bakers' wagons, milk wagons, decorated bicycles, and a kazoo band filled in the next section. The Windsor Old Boys let the people know they were in town by appearing on a truck, each one dressed as a cowboy de luxe. They had a piano on board and someone to play it. Assisted by a generous supply of mouth organ music, the singing went over pretty well and was applauded lustily. Although it had not been previously arranged, one of the creamery trucks brought up the rear. Cecil McConnell happened along just in time to join in the parade for two blocks of its route through the centre of the town.

About 8,000,000 wood shafts, mostly made of hickory, will be used for tool handles and golf clubs this year.

REGISTER

Of Social and Business Meetings

The Register is published to enable organizations planning major meetings to know in advance, and reserve, evenings on which there are no rival attractions. It will pay Peterborough organizations to consult the Register prior to settling dates. Responsible officers should mail notices well in advance.

Before deciding a date for any event, consult the Register to ascertain that there is no conflict with other events—and then send in YOUR date quickly so that other organizations will not use it.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

MORE ABOUT THE TURKI.

During all the ages the Sultans have reigned—
Which compromisequite a number of years—
The people of Turkey have strictly abstained
From the cup which too actively cheers.
No levantine versions of bourbon or rye
The Turks would imbibe on a bet
But now since by law the Republic is dry
They are getting decidedly wet,
And year for hard stuff with a thirst as sincere
As that which so widely prevails over here.

One might think that the government, looking askance
At a public so grimly perverse
Would make every effort to check the advance
Of alcohol's hideous curse.
One would think it would close all the speakeasies down
With a hand that was heavy and rough
And that President Kemal would savagely frown
On the sale of the terrible stuff.
But the turk looks on things with a different slant;
He's established a government alcohol plant.

Being wise in the lore of the age tutored East
Which in Solomon's era was old
He knows that the public is not in the least
Disposed to do what it is told.
And since it will drink, though drink isn't allowed
The Turk has discovered a way
To get what the bootlegger, hi-jacker crowd
Collect in our own U.S.A.
This may be regarded as rascally craft
But you'll have to admit that it cuts out the graft.

RANGERS BAND WELL RECEIVED

Took Prominent Part At Field Sports and Staged Open Air Concert in Evening.

CLASSICAL NUMBERS.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 31. — To add to the liveliness of the celebration the band of the Peterborough Rangers visited town yesterday afternoon and evening. Under the direction of Bandmaster Peryer, the visiting musicians dispensed music both freely and frequently during the day's activities.

Mr. Peryer himself is not a stranger in Campbellford, particularly to the bandsmen of the Northumberland regiment. During the war he went overseas with the 59th Battalion as bandmaster. Several men from this town served under him there. He has also composed several pieces of band music and these have been featured by the leading bands of Chicago and other American as well as Canadian cities. That the citizens of the town in general and the visitors as well, were delighted with their music, was easily seen by the crowds which thronged to the place wherever the Peterborough Rangers' band was playing.

Open Air Concert.

After leaving the parade at the open fair grounds, the band returned to the armouries and played an open air band concert for the benefit of those who had not gone to watch the field sports. The afternoon program consisted of eight numbers: Lutspell Overture; an operatic selection, Reminiscences of Sullivan; Frau Lina Waltz; Selection, Iolantha (Sullivan); Song for the Old Folks; Musical Switch; Colonel Bogie March and the Tune of Ninety-Five.

At the government dock in the evening, before the pageant began, they played two numbers: Western World Overture and Novelty by the Swanee River.

STAND MOVED AGAIN

Blind Jack's news stand, erected for Jack Brownlee by the Kiwanians has been moved again. Due to the expansion of the British American gas station on whose property it is situated it has been necessary to move it back about twenty feet from its former site. However, its present location will offer no inconvenience to the many who have been patronizing the stand it being easily accessible from the street.

CIVIL SERVICE OFFERS

The Civil Service of Canada announces some opportunities for graduates of technical high schools as inspectors of gas and electricity in Eastern Canada. Application must be filed with the secretary of the Civil Service Commission not later than August 12. Fuller information on the matter may be obtained from J. J. Duffus of Peterborough.

FIREMEN DEMONSTRATE.

A small demonstration will be staged by the Peterborough Fire Department in Confederation Square to-morrow at 11.45 a.m. for the benefit of the convention of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association.

NO FIRES.

No fire calls were received at the department yesterday.

IMPROVING LOT.

The lot on which the old fish market stood up to a short time ago on George Street, opposite the Y.M.C.A. is now being levelled off in preparation for the building of the service station. The excavation is being done by the Warren Bituminous Paving Company with the aid of a steam-shovel.

THREE BEAUTIES.

The cement work employees at Lakefield combined last night to make a very nice catch of lunge. E. W. Woodhouse and Fred Young, both employees of this plant, and Lakefield men, went out for an hour and a half after work and returned with three beauties. Two weighed ten pounds and the third one five. They were caught just above the village and the bait used was a home-made copper and silver spoon, made by Sam Gylls, another Lakefield resident and cement plant worker.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

Take a vacation that will benefit all the family alike—a place where there are no annoying little chores or the everlasting housekeeping routine to attend to—a place surrounded by the wild beauty of the northern woods, yet having the convenient facilities and comfortable accommodation of the city home.

Nipigon Bungalow Camp, situated on the east shore of Lake Helen in the Nipigon River district, is easily reached by Canadian Pacific Railway or Great Lakes Steamers.

French River Bungalow Camp, located on the beautiful French river a mere 200 miles from Toronto, is also served by the Canadian Pacific.

In these camps one enjoys the privacy of a cozy bungalow, comfortably furnished and electrically illuminated, with maid service to take care of details. Charges which are very reasonable are "American Plan" and meals are served in the big dining room of the Club House, or, in hot weather, out on the wide, screened, cool verandas.

Both camps have every facility for outdoor recreation such as tennis, swimming, boating, and hiking. Fishing, for which these camps are famous, is perhaps the most popular pastime. French River also boasts an excellent nine hole golf course.

For further information enquire from any Canadian Pacific Agent. He will be glad to help you.

THREE CONTEST BY-ELECTION

Sir William Jowitt Stands As Labor Member With Two Opponents.

FORMER LIBERAL.

PRESTON, England, July 31. — (Canadian Press Cable). — Preston voters went to the polls to-day in the first by-election in Great Britain since the general elections two months ago. The by-election was caused by the retirement of Sir William Jowitt (elected on May 30 as a Liberal) in order that he might stand for re-election as a Labor candidate. He joined the Labor party shortly after the elections and was taken in the ministry — though not into the Cabinet as Attorney-General.

To-day Sir William was opposed by Dr. A. B. Howitt Conservative, and S. M. Holden, Independent. The Liberals are not opposing Sir William's candidature though they are preparing a candidate for the next general elections.

Strike Plays Big Part

The stoppage in the Lancashashire cotton industry is naturally playing an important part in the contest. Dr. Howitt complains a number of Labor agents have been declaring he advises the workers to accept the 12½ percent reduction in wages which is being opposed by them. He indignantly denies this.

Preston has two members in Parliament. On May 30 Rt. Hon. Thomas Shaw, now Minister for War, headed the poll with 37,705 votes; Sir William Jowitt came next with 31,277; Dr. A. B. Howitt, Cons., had 29,116; C. Emmott, Cons., 27,754; and S. M. Holden, Independent, was at the bottom with 2,111.

GOV'T WISHES EMPIRE TRADE

Motherland Would Hold Imperial Trade Conference With Dominions.

NEW ZEALAND WILLING.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, July 31.—(Canadian Press Cable Via Reuters.) — The British government is willing to participate in an Imperial Economic Conference if a general desire for such a conference is expressed among the Dominions. Communications from the Dominions Office in London have reached New Zealand to this effect and Prime Minister Sir Joseph Ward announced in the House of Representatives to-day that the New Zealand Government had expressed its willingness to participate.

The general purpose of the conference is development of Inter-Imperial trade, the communications from the British Government state.

TRANSFER OF ADMIRAL C. MADDEN

Station, is appointed a Vice-Admiral.

Capt. Carpenter Promoted

One of the most interesting changes is promotion of Captain Alfred F. Carpenter, who commanded H.M.S. Vindictive in the glorious assault on Zeebrugge in April, 1918, to be Rear-Admiral. He is retired simultaneously. His vessel, a small old cruiser specially fitted for the assault, drew a fierce fire from the German defenders at the Zeebrugge Mole while two out of three British cement blocking ships were effectively sunk in the entrance to the canal.

"Jazz" Dewar Retired.

Another Captain promoted to be Rear-Admiral and placed on the retired list is Capt. Kenneth Dewar, who was dismissed from the command of H.M.S. Royal Oak at Gibraltar in April 1928 for "conduct subversive discipline" as a result of the famous "jazz" case. Commander H. M. Daniel of the same vessel was similarly dismissed, while Rear-Admiral Bernard St. G. Collard, whose dissatisfaction with the program furnished by the Royal Oak's band led to the incidents martial, was retired. Captain Dewar was some time ago awarded a good service pension of $750 per annum.

Five captains in all are promoted to be Rear-Admirals, but four of them are placed immediately on the retired list. All five equally meritorious service records, but nowadays there are opportunities for only about a quarter of the Junior Captains to continue flying their flags at sea.

BARE-LEGGED GOLFERS

TORONTO, July 31.—(C.P.)—Bare legged golfers have hit Toronto. And they are not men in Scotch kilts either. There have been rumors of girls playing tennis without the regulation stockings or socks but Martha Norelius knocked the members of the Cedarbrook Golf club cold when she appeared in a sun back dress — not much back—and minus stockings. It is quite true it was some time before the prexy even noticed that the mermaid was stockingless. Her tanned legs resembled the latest shade in hosiery. The swimming star is a golf player but a temperamental one. In front of a gallery she drove a ball from the first tee that went 200 yards and then dubbed her next shot only a couple of yards.

ARSENAL BURNS.

BELGRADE, Jugo Slavia, July 31.—(A.P.)—The arsenal at Sarajevo was destroyed by fire last night, the damage amounting to 8,000,000 dinars, or about $1,500,000.

C. S. THOMPSON IS RE-ELECTED

Peterborough Man Gets Horticulturist Secretary-Treasurer Post Second Time.

FOUR INSTALLED.

C. Stanley Thompson, advertising manager of the Canadian Horticulturist, a Peterborough man, and a resident of Peterborough, was elected by acclamation for a second term as secretary-treasurer for the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association, at the opening meeting on the second day of the convention which is being held in the Canadian Legion Hall in the city.

According to the new constitution, which was adopted as read this morning, the nominations for officers takes place one day and the elections the next. But this morning several of the officers were elected without any opposition. S. A. McFadden, of Toronto, was returned to the office of president for another year, and R. S. Scott, of Montreal, was acclaimed first vice-president, while the office for second-vice-president will be contested by A. V. Main, of Ottawa, and W. W. Walker of St. Catharines.

There are six directors to be appointed and the nominations for these include J. Muston, of Stouffville; W. Harris, Brockville; A. Frost, Toronto; J. H. Taylor, London; L. McKenna, Montreal; P. Angle, Montreal; L. Armor, Montreal; F. Edwards, Montreal; J. Nellson, Montreal; and Professor Thompson, of Guelph.

The larger portion of the morning was taken up by an address given by Dr. G. H. Berkley, a graduate of Queen's and Toronto Universities, now of the Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology at St. Catharines, Ontario, who spoke on "Diseases of Greenhouse Plants."

Disease Loss Great.

"The annual loss from plant disease is between $120,000,000 and $175,000,000," he stated, "and on realizing this the great value of the Dominion Government Plant Pathological Service is at once apparent, because the prime reason for its existence is to lessen this large annual loss by stopping as much as is humanly possible the great losses incurred by plant diseases.

"Plant pathology as a science is now beginning to take form, but in its development it was naturally influenced by the prevailing thought of the times.

"The pathogenic nature of diseases is now well established. That is, plant diseases are caused by various organisms, such as fungi and bacteria, which parasitic green plants derive their food from, and in so doing produce a disease which manifests itself in different forms such as leaf spots, canker rots, etc.

Preven'n Losses.

"The main object of the plant pathological service is to prevent as far as possible the great losses incurred in field, orchard, and greenhouse crops caused by diseases of various kinds.

"The work is:

"(1) To study plant diseases and to work out satisfactory control measures.

(2) To attempt to improve existing control measures when they are not satisfactory.

(3) To prevent new diseases gaining an entrance into Canada.

This work is carried out by means of research, embargoes, quarantines, etc., inspection services and surveys.

"The control measures of to-day are based and fabricated around the scientific knowledge of the cause of disease gained from a study of disorders.

"For example fungus diseases are readily diagnosed on acocunt of their symptoms. Fungi or small plants which lack chlorophyll and are therefore unable to produce their own food and must of necessity obtain their food ready prepared. This they are able to do by parasitizing our economic green plants and in so doing produce disease. The disease is often introduced in the greenhouse by infected cuttings. These therefore should be secured from healthy plants. If the disease makes its appearance, spraying with bordeau should be resorted to. All diseased material should be destroyed by fire.

"Non parasitic diseases consist of a heterogenous assortment of ills. Diseases caused by unfavorable soil conditions, by mechanical injury ,of wind, illumination gas or fumes, unvarious kinds such as hail, ice, frost, favorable climatic conditions and various other environmental factors which affect the normal growth of plants.

Cause Unknown.

The cause of the virus diseases is yet unknown. Theroetically it is thought that a minute ultramiscropic organism within the plant itself is the cause of the disease in this group and is commonly spoken of as mosaic.

"The control of greenhouse diseases is effected by (1) prevention and (2) cure. By prevention, the grower should strive for proper soil requirement, balanced fertilizers, correct temperature, aeration, good ventilation, sanitation by destroying all old diseased plants, soil sterilization to kill disease germs, and it is recommended to disinfect all seeds.

Disease Remedies.

"When a disease procures a foothold, cure is necessary and the steps are (1) Ascertain type of disease.

(2) Employ cures recommended for the ascertained disease.

Rotation of crops, removal of weeds and always use healthy plants.

Me'aine Speaks.

L. S. McLaine, secretary of the Destructive Insect and Pest Advisory Board of Canada, spoke on import regulations with regard to plants. "In 1923," he said, "we changed our whole system of imported plants. Then we had two sets of importations, one dealing with United States and the second dealing with countries other than the United States. The United States' certificates were so abused that it was decided to put them under the other regulation. Now all are under one. The regulations are: (1) The importer must procure a permit, (2) The plant be inspected; (3) They enter into Canada through a specified port, and finally they be inspected on entering. There are now eleven ports of entry and they extend from coast to coast.

In 1919, 376,000 plants were inspected. On March 31, 1928, plants totalling over 43,000,000 were inspected, and this year we should run over 50,000,000. Shipments numbering 883 were found diseased, and 860 of these were not allowed in at all.

Immigrants coming into Canada bring all kinds of plants to this country and so inspectors meet all the boats at the major ports and go through the baggage to seek for diseased plants.

Trade Growing.

Canadian export trade is growing. Last year 560 shipments were made, the United States being the biggest buyer, but shipments were made to every country in the world.

Canada Safe.

The Mediterranean Fruit Fly is a tropical pest and will not affect Canada. It was found in Florida last April, but it cannot exist where cotton does not grow. If it becomes too serious, the loss of the citrus fruits exports from the infested area in that part will amount to a great deal, as these sections are absolutely under ban.

Afternoon of Pleasure.

The afternoon and evening sessions were given over purely to pleasure. At one o'clock all the delegates and their families boarded the Steamer Stoney Lake and were taken for a trip over the Lift Locks and then back down the river to Wallace's Point, where a couple of hours' fun will be had and the annual Association banquet will be held as served by the local farmers' wives of Stewart Hall Settlement. There will be no addresses and the gathering will be one of merriment and recreation.

Three Meetings.

Last evening the convention broke up into the three sub-sections for their annual meetings. The Growers, the Retailers and the Gardeners all held separate meetings. Reports were read and discussion was heard. The officers for the ensuing year were elected. The Growers elected J. W. Dunlop, of Richmond Hill, as their chairman, W. E. Hall of Montreal, as vice-chairman, and W. E. Grover of Hamilton, as secretary. The Retailers' officers are: Chairman, J. A. Neal of Toronto; vice-pres., L. McKenna, Montreal, and Miss Mary Young, Brantford, as secretary. Those elected by the Gardeners were: Chairman, J. Therele, of Cartierville, Que.; Professor A. H. Tomlinson, of Guelph, as vice-chairman, and A. V. Main of Ottawa, as secretary.

Also a committee from each subsection to consider the matter of holding a spring show in all the larger towns and cities was elected. The following were appointed:

Retail—S. A. McFadden, Toronto; Leo McKenna, Montreal.

Gardeners—J. Therele, Cartierville, Que.; Prof. Bunting, St. Anne de Bellevue.

Growers — W. C. Hall, Montreal West; S. Kirk, Georgetown; J. H. Dunlop, Richmond Hill.

RAIN DAMPENS SCOUT OPENING

Sir Robert Baden Powell, Chief Scout, and Family, Visit Camp.

50,000 SLICKERS PARADE.

ARROWE PARK, England, July 31. (C.P.)—Drenching rains pelted this international gathering of 50,000 boys of the Boy Scouts' World Jamboree to-day as the gates opened to civilians flocking to witness the formal opening of the great rally by the Duke of Connaught.

The Scout answer to the downpour was to break out in raincoats, ponchos and slickers of all kinds and to carry on with cheers

The gathering of the troops of boys from 42 nations on the parade ground for the rally to-day however developed into a very damp job. Just before noon Sir Robert Baden-Powell, Chief Scout, and Lady Powell, the Chief Guide, made a tour of the camp with their three children: Peter who is a Scout, Betty who is a Brownie, and Heather, who is a girl Guide.

Two Rowboat Victims Still Missing In Lake

OSHAWA, July 31. (C.P.) — After an intense search the bodies have not yet been found of Mrs. Robert Beswick and Walter Stapley, two of the four people drowned in Lake Ontario here on Monday night. It is now thought that the bodies are not likely to rise to the surface for several days.

An inquest will probably not be held, according to Coroner Rundle, who stated to-day that there was no evidence available that might throw light on how the drownings occurred.

Arrangements have been completed for the funeral of Mrs. Edward Gomme and her infant grandson, Robert Beswick, the other two victims of the tragedy.

WEDDING BELLS

STURGEON--GULLIVER.

A very quiet wedding took place at All Saints' Rectory, Whitby, Ont., on July 26th, when Charlotte Elizabeth, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Gulliver, of Whitby, became the bride of Mr. Goodwin Kier Sturgeon, eldest son of Mr. Robert G. Sturgeon of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. M. Crisall, rector of All Saints' church, Whitby.

The bride wore navy blue georgette ensemble, with hat and shoes to match, and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and baby breath. She was attended by Miss Eva Sturgeon, sister of the groom, and the groom was supported by Mr. Joseph Gulliver, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, when a dainty luncheon was served, and later the bride and groom left on an extended motor trip.

In Police Court

The list of English boys who have come to Canada under the British immigration scheme and found farm work not to their liking was further swelled this morning when two lads appeared in Police Court on a charge of vagrancy. Both had run away from the farms where they had been placed. "I don't like the farm and I can't stand the work," said one. They were remanded in custody until an inspector of the Department arrives to arrange for their return to England.

A local man, a second offender under the L. C. A., pleaded not guilty to the charge of consuming liquor illegally. He was remanded in custody.

When pouring jelly into glasses put a few chips or flakes of paraffin in the bottom of each glass and pour the jelly on top of them. The hot jelly will melt the paraffin which causes it to rise and seal the glass better than when the paraffin is melted and poured onto the jelly.

When the rush season comes there are not hours enough in the day to do everything you want to do. That is where the McCormick-Deering tractor owner has the advantage. He can work early and late and all night if necessary.

The only way to get all the potatoes is to use a McCormick-Deering Potato Digger. It goes right down under the hills and digs 'em out every time, shakes the dirt off clean, and without bruising, and then deposits them in a neat, easily-gathered, trash-free row where you can see every one.

A cataract in Yellowstone Park is worth two in the eye.

"What line did you say you were in?"
"I manufacture face powder that can't be kissed off."
"Who has charge of your proving ground?"

More work in less time at less cost per acre is the story of the man who uses McCormick-Deering tractors and power machinery.

A loving husband broke one of his phonograph records the other night and his wife told him "that was the only record he ever broke." Now, he doesn't know whether he was being complimented or bawled out.

Where silo filling is done with McCormick-Deering skill and experience, a good, fast, and economical job is assured you.

Little Edgar visited for the first time his aunt in the State of Maine. Noticing the troubled look on the lad's face, she asked him what was the matter.
He replied: "On my gogerphy map Maine is a red state."

LOUIS SINGER RETURNS TO JAIL FOLLOWING JEFFREY'S DECISION THAT WALDRON RULED RIGHTLY

Judge Refuses Singer To Dominion Police, So Jail Governor Arrests.

COUNSEL ENTERS APPEAL.

Justice Jeffrey Says Commissioner Has Very Wide Powers in Labor Inquiry.

TORONTO, Ont., August 1 (Canadian Press).—Bail was refused Louis M. Singer, organizer of the Amalgamated Builders 'Council, by Mr. Justice Orde in the First Division of the Appellate Court this afternoon when application was made pending the hearing of appeal of accused against the decision of Mr. Justice Jeffrey, who earlier to-day refused a writ of habeas corpus. Singer was committed for contempt by Gordon Waldron, K.C., Royal Commissioner investigating the Builders' Council under the Combines Investigations Act when he refused to give information and record pertaining to the Council.

TORONTO, Ont., August 1.—Louis M. Singer, K.C., goes gack to jail as the result of the judgment of Mr. Justice Jeffrey to-day refusing to grant the writ of habeas corpus asked by Singer's counsel, W. F. O'Connor, K.C. following Singer's commitment for contempt of court by Gordon Waldron, K.C., Royal Commissioner investigating the Amalgamated Builders' Council. At noon the jail governor was on the way to take Singer into custody after the judge had refused to hand him over to Dominion Police. W. F. O'Connor entered an appeal immediately and will ask for bail probably this afternoon.

If Singer's counsel is successful in asking for bail pending an appeal he may yet be released before night.

Commissioner Waldron was justified in committing Singer to jail for contempt after he had refused to give information relative to the Amalgamated Builders' Council of which he is an official, states Mr. Justice Jeffrey in his verdict.

Has Wide Powers.

As Royal Commissioner appointed by the Dominion Government under the Combines Investigation Act, Mr. Waldron has wide powers, the judgment continues. That the Comissioner notified Singer before he came to his office to conduct the hearing is another point stressed by His Lordship.

When the verdict refusing to allow the writ of habeas corpus was announced, F. W. Griffiths, K.C., Government Counsel, moved that Singer be taken into custory by Dominion Police but this Mr. Justice Jeffrey declined to order. It then became the duty of local jail officials and the governor of the jail started for court to make the arrest himself.

Singer has been free on bail of $100,000 during argument on the writ of habeas corpus which released him from jail July 24 after he had spent 32 hours in confinement.

STRONG WIND IS RETARDING BIG AIRLINER

Graf Zeppelin Successfully Navigates Difficult Mountainous Region.

18 PASSENGERS ON BOARD.

Average Speed Is Cut Down To Less Than 50 Miles An Hour.

PARIS, August 1 (Canadian Press)—Pushing her way slowly against a strong wind down the valley of the Rhone, the transatlantic air liner Graf Zeppelin this afternoon was well down towards the Mediterranean after having successfully passed the scenes of her losing struggle against contrary winds in her unsuccessful voyage in May.

The big dirigible, carrying 18 passengers, steadily but cautiously negotiated the difficult mountainous regions between Basle, Switerland, and Lyons, France, this morning, and was reported at Montelimar in Southern France, 90 miles from the mouth of the Rhone, at 12.40 p.m. (6.40 a.m. E.S.T.).

Making 50 Miles an Hour.

Leaving Friedrichshafen at 3.29 a.m. (9.29 p.m., Wednesday, E.S.T.) to-day, the Graf Zeppelin everywhere met head winds and was making an average speed of less than 50 miles an hour.

The day was generally cloudy and the visibility only medium as she flew at an altitude of 3,000 feet from Valence France, where she was sighted at 11.35 a.m. (5.35 a.m. E.S.T.) to Montelimar.

Two women, Mrs. George E. Crouse, of Syracuse, N.Y., and Mme. Gourevitch, wife of a Russian pianist from Paris, made the trip to-day. Two others failed to get aboard.

At Saintes-Maries-de-la-Mer, in the Rhone Delta, the dirigible planned to start out over the first section of her sea journey, reaching the Spanish coast near Barcelona. Thence, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the air liner, planned to head for Gibraltar, as on his first successful flight to the United States.

18 ON BOARD.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 1.—(Canadian Press).—There were eighteen passengers aboard the Graf Zeppelin ast its departure for America to-day. Their names were:

LEAK IN CANAL STOPS SHIPPING SEVERAL HOURS

Thought Entire Bank Separating Two Canals Might Give Way.

BREAK AT BOTTOM OF BANK.

Will Take Week To Pump Out Two Miles Ship Channel Under 10 Feet.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Aug. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Navigation on the present Welland Canal was resumed at 8 o'clock last evening, two hours after the leak in the bank separating the present ship canal channel from the new canal at Thorold was repaired.

The leak being of serious proportions navigation on the present canal was halted to ensure against damage to boats should the entire bank separating the two canals have gone out. All signs of water seeping through the break at the bottom of the earth and rock bank having ceased at six o'clock last evening, the canal was later opened for navigation.

It is estimated at least a week will be required to pump out the two mile stretch of the ship canal channel, covered by approximately 10 feet of water. Workmen are engaged to-day in setting up the pumps at various points of vantage and work will be started to-day on pumping out the ship canal in order that construction work on the safety weir and guard gates may be carried on.

FIRE SITUATION STILL SERIOUS SAYS MINISTER

Some Parts of Provinces Conditions Are Worst in Past Ten Years.

ISSUES STATEMENT.

Situation In Kenora Is Very Bad Declares Hon. Mr. Ferguson.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 1.—(Canadian Press).—"In some parts of the province the conditions are worse than they have been for over ten years but so far the local foresters and fire chiefs have had the situation well in hand," said the Hon. William Finalyson, Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario in a statement to-day on the forest fire hazard.

"The fire conditions have been extremely bad this year," said Mr. Finalyson who went on to stress the precautions taken against the fire menace, in building up a permanent force of fire fighters and extending the services of watch towers, wireless and telephone communication and hoses and pumps.

Issues Detailed Statement.

He was issuing a detailed statement so that the public may be aware of the situation and discount alarming reports but it must be confessed that the fire hazard in the west is still alarming and nothing but heavy rains can relieve the situation," said the minister. "Undoubtedly there are careless prospectors and careless campers and this year there has been an unusual percentage of fires from lightning. The department invites the cooperation of the travelling public and acknowledges the help received from companies and those interested in the localities. It may be necessary to close areas from time to time but this will only be done as a last resort when it is absolutely necessary in the public interest."

The situation in Kenora is very bad and causing the department great concern said Mr. Finalyson. Fifty fires have been reported in the last ten days and so great has been the strain that fire fighters have been

To Renew Normal Relations Russia Claims Special Consideration Is Needed.

MOSCOW, Aug. 1.—(C.P.)—Russia and Great Britain have reached a deadlock in their London conference for the resumption of trade and commercial relations and diplomatic services. Great Britain refused to accede to the Russian desire for immediate appointment of Ambassadors before controverted questions were taken up.

Russian Ambassador Valerian Dovgalevsky, of Paris, who has conducted the negotiations for Russia with British Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson, to-day returned to his post in France. The negotiations began shortly after the Russian Ambassador arrived in London at the end of last week. For this purpose Mr. Henderson invited a Russian delegation to come to London.

Ambassador Dovgalevsky yesterday Mr. Henderson handed the Russian reply to the British proposal, in which Russa said Mr. Henderson's reply

C.P.R. TRAINMAN IS LAID TO REST

Special Train is Run From Smith's Falls To Havelock Carrying Friends.

BORN AT BONARLAW.

HAVELOCK, Aug. 1.—The funeral of the late Ross Brown, C.P.R. trainman, who was killed at Tweed Monday at 6.40 p.m. when the engine on which he was riding overturned after striking an auto, took place Wednesday afternoon from the home of David Vansickle, services being held in the United church and burial in Maple Grove Cemetery. Havelock A.F. and A.M. took charge of the ceremony which was very largely attended, it being estimated there were a hundred cars in line. A special train bearing fellow employees and friends from Smith's Falls and intermediate points, three carloads of passengers arrived in Havelock at 1.10 a.m.

Born In Bonarlaw.

The late Mr. Brown was a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Brown of Bonarlaw. Ten years ago he married Grace Vansickle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. THOUSANDS FIGHT VAIN BATTLE TO SAVE HUGE TIMBER LANDS AND TOWNS FROM FOREST FIRES

Lack of Rain Aids Conflagrations in Idaho, Montana and Washington.

MANY OUT OF CONTROL.

Famous Forest Reserves Burnt While Lumber Towns Flee For Lives.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 1.—(C.P.)—One thousand men were fighting forest fires to-day in Idaho, Montana and Washington under conditions that were made acute by the lack of rains.

Probably the most dangerous fire in the region was at Schwartz Creek in the Missoula National Forest, which roared out of control before heavy winds after fighters had subdued it and part of their force had been shunted to new battle lines. Several thousand acres had been burned over. Fires were burning also in the Lolo, Butte and Black Feet forests in that State.

In North Idaho several blazes, most of them confined to sections a few hundred acres in area were burning in the Nez Perce and Selway forests. In South Idaho the Challis fire which had burned over 1,400 acres, jumped from control lines yesterday, but the Salmon Forest blaze, which had devastated 8,000 acres in ten days, was believed to have been subdued. Observers in the Boice Forest reported that a conflagration that had run for ten days had been controlled.

WIND AIDING FLAMES

CRANSON, Wis., Aug. 1.—(Canadian Press).—A crackling, hungry flame nearly 20 miles long covered the northwestern corner of Oconto County to-day fanned by a stiff wind, was licking deeper into Forest County and the Northern Wisconsin Lake country.

Actually there were five separate fires strung out in a wavering line, roughly paralleling the Northwestern Railroad right-of-way. However, with not a single rain cloud specking the blood-red night sky, and the wind that yesterday was in the southeast early to-day veering to the north, the gaps between the fires were growing smaller.

Towns Smoke Filled.

With more than a thousand state Conservation Officers and volunteers fighting the flames with axe and shovel to check their inroads on some of the most valuable timber still standing in Wisconsin, the residents of half a dozen lumbering towns were ready to flee. Great billows of smoke were rolling through village streets so thick at times that it is difficult to breathe.

LINDSAY PLANT COSTS $150,000

Lord Shaughnessy Announces That Operations Will Start Next Month.

MAKES WOOD ALCOHOL.

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—(Special to The Examiner).—Next month will see the commencement of operations in the new Lindsay plant of the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company, Limited, said the Right Honorable Lord Shaughnessy, president of the firm yesterday. Good progress has been made in the new building, said his Lordship, who explains that it is intended for the making of wood alcohol and kindred products. The new building will cost something in the neighborhood of $150,000.

Stories going the rounds in financial circles of Toronto and Montreal to the effect that he is contemplating resigning from the Board of Directors are entirely without foundation, says Lord Shaughnessy. Asked regarding similar rumors of the impending resignation of one of his colleagues, E. R. Decary, His Lordship replied that nothing had been definitely settled yet, but that it was not improbable that Mr. Decary would be compelled to resign eventually owing to pressure of other business, desmanding much of his time. There is not the slightest likelihood of any other members resigning, he declared.

Lord Shaughnessy, who is the eldest son of the famous railway magnate suceeded to the title on the death of his father in 1923. Among his numerous business titles he includes a directorate of the Canadian Pacific Railway and of the Canadian Northwest Land Company. He is a member of the most exclusive clubs of Montreal and New York.

BRITISH DISARMAMENT GESTURE NOT APPRECIATED BY WORLD

Ships and Submarines Scrapped Were Laid Down Last Year.

THROW MANY OUT OF WORK.

LONDON, Aug. 1. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—The sacrifices entailed by the British Government's latest disarmament move are stressed by the Daily Telegraph to-day, the newspaper pointing out the two cruisers, Surrey and Northumberland, the submarine depot ship Medway and two submarines belonged to the 1928 program and money had been voted months ago.

Advices from Glasgow are that at least 700 men have been thrown out of work by suspension of work on the submarine being built there. The development is a particularly severe blow for the Clydeside, where orders for mercantile vessels have been slack lately. The keel of the submarine had already been laid and the frame of the hull was being advanced.

No Sacrifice Says America.

"From comments in the foreign press, particularly in certain papers, it is clear the full meaning of the British Government's latest disarmament gesture has not been appreciated by all observers," the Telegraph says. "It is freely stated for example that in suspending the cruisers Surrey and Northumberland, and cancelling two submarines and a submarine depot ship, we have scrapped ships only existing on paper and consequently no real sacrifice of naval strength is made.

1928 Program.

"Actually all the ships, construction of which has been stopped, belonged to the 1928 program which had been approved by Parliament and for which large ships had been voted long before the latest developments in the direction of naval disarmament had even been foreshadowed—and incidentally nine months before passage of the 15-cruiser program by the United States' Congress."

Claims for broken contarcts in connection with the vessels will undoubtedly be forthcoming, the Telegraph adds.

Brightest Boys In U. S. Await Edison's Choice

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 1.—(C.P.)—Forty-nine rather badly frightened boys were assembled here today for a series of tests to determine upon which one of them the mantle of Thomas A. Edison shall descend.

The boys, ranging in age from 15 to 21 years come from the 48 states and the District of Columbia. They were selected by elimination as the "brightest" in their States and to the winner will be awarded a scholarship by Mr. Edison for free tuition in technical schools for four years.

REGIMENTS REVOLT FROM SOVIET ARMY

Deserters Claim Reds Disorganized, Afraid To Concentrate Large Forces.

LONDON, Aug. 1 (Canadian Press)—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Chang Chun, Manchuria, to-day said that two Soviet regiments had revolted north of Vladivostock, near Iman, and seized all armored trains, cutting the railroad. The correspondent cited the statement of two alleged Red Army deserters that the Soviet Army was somewhat disorganized and the Government therefore afraid to concentrate large numbers of troops without supervision.

China to Have Charge.

PEIPING, China, Aug. 1 (Canadian Press).—Sun Fo, Minister of Railways in the Nanking Government, told the press to-day China intended to conduct negotiations with the Soviet Government on a basis that while all rights and interests in the Chinese Eastern Railway would be placed under a Sino-Russian joint ownership, the administrative power over the railways would be taken over by China.

The Weather

The months are slipping quickly by, and we are now in August. July, in this section at least, was a pleasant month, with few oppressively hot days. The rainfall was abundant, and as a consequence the returns to the agriculturist for his labors promise well. Such cannot be said of all sections of this great Dominion. The warmest day in July was the 28th, with the temperature at 89 degrees. The coolest day was the 19th, with the thermometer down to 44 degrees. The rainfall for the month locally, was 3.44 inches. We had ten heavy showers. I notice that in some sections in Northern Ontario and especially in Northern Quebec there were snowfalls on several occasions. In some places over one inch fell, and the ground was white for several hours. And this in July!—W. P.

METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE, Toronto, Ont., Aug. 1.—(C.P.)—Pressure is low over Eastern Quebec and Saskatchewan and high over the Upper Lakes. Local thunder showers have occurred in Ontario and Quebec, while elsewhere the weather has been fair. It has become cooler in Western Quebec, Ontario and in the far west.

COMMUNISTS APPEAR INACTIVE AS POLICE HOLD EUROPE QUIET

Trunks With 40 Rings Lands Youth In Jail

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 1.—(C.P.)—Leslie Green, 18, of Hamilton who was arrested here last night when he attempted to pawn two rings told police today he found 40 rings, valued at $800, when he retrieved his lost valise from a passing truck.

Green stated his travelling bag was stolen "somewhere in the eastern part of Virginia" and that he saw it on a truck while walking along the street here. He recovered it from the truck and upon opening it claims he found the rings. He is being held for investigation.

Factories All Operate and Few Men Quit Work For "Red" Celebration.

BALKANS QUIET.

All was reported quiet on all the Communist fronts in Europe to-day as anti-war demonstrations for which police of every European capital had taken elaborate precautions went off without notable disturbance or enthusiasm this morning.

Most of them attracted small attendance. Factories and stores opened normally nearly everywhere, and few men left work.

Moscow went to work as quietly as the rest of Europe, the day of demonstration bearing no official character in Russia. Small separate manifestations in different quarters of the city and suburbs were scheduled for the evening.

Paris Quiet.

The streets of Paris were tranquil under the control of more than 30 000 troops and police. Conditions were generally normal. One clash was reported from Montpellier in Southern France, but it was without great importance.

London reported a few street processions and meetings at factory gates in industrial quarters. The British capital's part in the anti-war day was far from sensational.

Balkans Calm.

Berlin waited watchfully without reporting any disturbances. Brussels, Vienna, Sofia, Budapest, and Copenhagen were all tranquil beyond police expectations. The calm in the turbulent Balkans was notable.

Toronto Reds Active.

LABORER IS FOUND STABBED TO DEATH

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 1 (Canadian Press).—Patrick Kearns, 30, laborer, this morning was found stabbed to death on a vacant lot. Police formally charge Arbrose Hockwater, 49 Regina, with murder.

Kearns had been stabbed three times, one knife cut severing the jugular vein. Wednesday night the accused man approached a constable with a story about being robbed of a watch. Recalling Hockwater's excited condition at that time, Inspector J. Toop this morning visited his lodgings, and police claim Hockwater was found with a blood-stained knife in his possession, and his shirt sleeve saturated with blood.

Graf Zeppelin Starts Voyage

Stowaway Aboard Ship

Graf Zeppelin Soars Aloft On Flight To America.

BAD WEATHER PREDICTED.

Big Airship Describes Circle Over Home Port Before Heading West.

Friedrichshaften, Germany, August 1. — The dirigible Graf Zeppelin took off on her flight to the United States at 3.29 a.m. to-day.

The big ship got away one minute ahead of her schedule, which had been set for 3.30 a.m. (9.30 p.m., Wednesday, E.S.T.) She described one circle over Friedrichshafen, then rapidly disappeared in the west, her new motors, taking the place of those which had failed on the last previous attempt to reach America, making a steady hum.

The ground crew started to drag the huge airship from her hangar shortly after 2.30 a.m. At that hour the flight crew and passengers were ready to go aboard and they entered their quarters as soon as the bow was in the clear.

It was 3.25 a.m., before the dirigible was entirely clear of the hangar.

Stowaway Aboard

As the ship was dragged from the hangar a stowaway was seen to jump from a beam to the top of the Zeppelin and to disappear through a ventilator into the interior of the big airship. A shout was raised and the crew quickly found him, but the Zeppelin was not halted to eject him, and it sailed with the interloper on board.

Dr. Hugo Eckener before entering the gondola, told the Canadian Press that the first part of the journey promised to be difficult because of weather conditions. Early Wednesday evening he was informed of a low pressure area over Ireland, and shortly before midnight learned that it had moved to the English channel.

Better Weather Later.

"Our latest advices," he said, "are that there are clouds and rain over Northwestern France all the way as far as Strasbourg. So we will have a hard time flying low under those

ARMORED CARS PATROL.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Two minor communist demonstrations in the international settlement to-day were suppressed quickly by police who had anticipated a much more eventful August first in view of widely advertised red activities.

The comparative quiet was attributed by the police to raids recently on communist centres in the International Settlement and the French Concessions in which ammunition and pamphlets were seized. Armored cars patrolled the French concession to-day while the entire police force and reserves stood by in the International Settlement.

Bruins Routed Bushmen Now Ears Adorn Cabins

PORT ARTHUR, Aug. 1. — (Canadian Press).—Bushmen in camp at James have drawn first blood in their battle against invading bears, and the cook tent is decorated with claws and ears as a sign of victory. There have been four casulties in all from the ranks of bruin. Recently the invaders attacking en mass scorned attempts to beat them off with axes and shovels and trembling lumbermen sat helplessly while their camp was routed. Rifles were immediately commandeered from the city.

POINCARE IS OPERATED ON

Recovers Consciousness Saying He Felt No Pain At All.

DOCTORS CLAIM NO FEVER.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—(C.)— Raymond Poincare underwent successfully today a preliminary operation for the treatment of a plevic affection, which forced his retirement as Premier last week.

"My Raymond Poincare has been operated upon this morning under the best possible conditions by Dr. Marion. There were present at the operation Professor Gosset, and Dr. Boidin.

"Everything passed off in the simplest manner."

(Signed) "Dr. Marion, Prof. Gosset, Dr. Boidin."

Was Very Short.

The former Premier's operation took only a brief time. He left the operating room within a half hour of his entering it at 8.00 a.m., and shortly afterwards recovered consciousness. He said he felt no pain and his doctors said there was no fever, and they were confident everything would go well.

Mme. Poincare was not permitted in the operating room with him. She seemed greatly relieved when he regained consciousness, although throughout she had showed great fortitude and full confidence her husband would regain his health.

The Premeier's operation was for an affection of the prostrate gland, of a nature common to old men. He will be 69 years old August 29.

DREADFUL EPIDEMIC FEARED IN ONTARIO

Health Department Issues Book On Dangers Of Infantile Paralysis.

TORONTO, Aug. 1—(Canadian Press).—Infantile paralysis, which in the last three years has successively been epidemic in British Columbia, Alberta and Manitoba, is feared by Ontario Public Health officials this year.

An increase in the number of cases of the dread disease, particularly in Ontario, prompted the Dominion Department of Health to issue yesterday a special blue book warning the public of the danger of an epidemic.

Infantile paralysis serum is being supplied free to all sufferers from the dread disease through a policy announced some weeks ago by Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health. The serum is supplied through the physicians of the Province.

CHINAMAN STRIKES AMERICAN BOY'S FATHER PROTESTS BLOW BEATEN BY FIFTEEN OFFICERS

Lad Had Only Been Playing in Streets of Harbin When Struck.

SON OF LIEUT. CRYERO.

Dad is Taken to Police Station Where He Is Further Assaulted.

LONDON, Aug. 1. — (Canadian Press).—A despatch to the London Daily Mail, from Changchun, Manchuria, said that an American boy, the son of Lieutenant Cryero, an official of the National City Bank of New York, was struck by a Chinese policeman for playing in a street at Harbin Tuesday.

When the father protested he was brutally attacked by 15 policemen who beat him with rifle butts and bound him with ropes. They then took him to the police station where he was assaulted again.

Weird Tonsil Promise Kept By Faithful Wife

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 1. — (Canadian Press). — Arthur Cromwell died at Big Cedar Swamp near Goshen, N.Y., of infected tonsils, but before he died he made his wife promise that she would have the tonsils of all the family removed. BREAKING UP CENTRAL SYSTEM DEPENDS ON BELLEVILLE VOTE

Hydro Expects Favorable Vote in Hastings City Next Week.

TO COST $200,000.

TORONTO, Ont., August 1. — Dismembering of the whole Central Ontario Hydro system likely will ensue if Belleville's vote next week is favorable to the assumption of its own distributing system, according to the Hon. J. R. Cooke, Government member of the Provincial Hydro Commission.

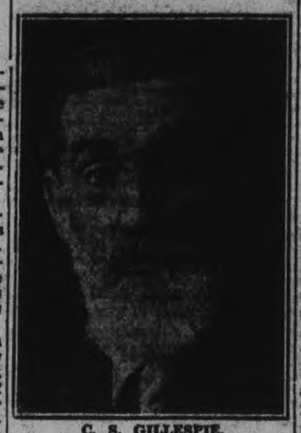
The Commission hopes to see Belleville take over its system and to this end, Hon. Mr. Cooke and F. A. Gaby, chief Hydro engineer, will address a public meeting in Belleville to-morrow evening. Belleville citizens are offered the city system for its book value, about $200000.

Lindsay took over its own system about a year ago, and just a few weeks back, Oshawa followed suit. Hon. Mr. Cooke believes that if Belleville's vote is favorable, similar action likely will be taken by Napanee, Cobourg Port Hope, and the other municipalities of the old Central Ontario system.

The dismembration is favored by the Commission, Hon. Mr. Cooke intimated, because it rids the provincial body of such businesses as the Peterborough street car line and other concerns which form part of the public ownership system, but are wholly extraneous to the Commission's main business—the generation and sale of power.

Out of the 500 municipalities which form the Hydro system only 14 or 15 do not own their own distributing systems. These, which accordingly let the provincial body sell direct to their consumers, are located mainly in Central Ontario.

FOURTEEN YEARS REEVE.



C. S. GILLESPIE.

Campbellford is one of the few municipalities in Ontario which foresaw the advantages of ownership of its own resource of electric power, and in that enterprise a great deal of the credit has been justly given to C. S. Gillespie, who was one of the chief promoters of the town's purchase of the old Gilmour Lumber Company's power rights at Crowe Bay. To-day Campbellford boasts of the cheapest industrial power rate in the province, and during the last six years the town's power plant has returned to the town treasury the sum of $81,000.

SOLVED AT LAST.

GENEVA, Ill. — Why a man sings in the bathroom while taking his morning ablutions has finally been solved by the Newcombe-Hawley laboratory of the United Reproducers Corporation here. The narrowness of the bathroom sets up waves which makes the feeble tones of weak singers sound majestic, and more sonorous. The proud male finds here the only place where his singing really suits himself, so he cuts loose with his vocal renditions.

CRASH AT JAIL ENDS IN CELL

Canadian Flier On Trip To Cape Cod Had No License For Plane Or Himself.

OUT ON OWN BAIL.

BRIDGEWATER, Mass., Aug. 1.—(Canadian Press).—An airplane operated by a Canadian aviator, Osborne Lefurgy, of Prince Edward Island, crashed into a tree on the State Farm here yesterday after a take-off. Shortly after climbing from the wreckage slightly bruised Lefurgy was arrested on charges of piloting an unlicensed plane and being an unlicensed operator.

Lefurgy, who left the East Boston Airport earlier on a flight to Cape Cod, first made a forced landing on the farm property. His engine died again after another take-off and he hit the tree. He was treated for cuts and bruises at the State Farm Hospital.

He furnished bail after the arrest and was scheduled to appear in district court at Brockton to-day.

The first of January, 1929, saw the installation of 357,504 telephones in Los Angeles.

Three Fine Boxing Bouts Will Be Put On in the Evening.

To-morrow afternoon, at 3 p.m., Standard time, the biggest swim ever put on in this district will be staged in Campbellford, when entries from all parts of Ontario and the United States will take part. George Young and Vierkotter will be there, and Oh! what a race they will make of it. It is the first time that the Catalina swim champion and the Wrigley C.N.E. swim champion have ever met where water and weather conditions were favorable. Last year in Toronto the water was cold, and no one finished the struggle, while the swim which was pulled off a few days later failed to show the speed that either of these men can demonstrate as they were exhausted in the big event The race will be over a three mile course.

In the evening an excellent boxing program has been arranged in Meyer's Arena. There will be three big bouts. Steve Rocco of Toronto, is matched against Red Egerton of New York; Sam Hackett, of Toronto, vs. George Barber of Toronto, and Red Bragan of Toronto will fight Art McCann of Philadelphia.

Seven Women and Man Chained to Omnibus Draw Out Scotland Yard.

BUS SEATS SAWED OFF.

LONDON, Aug. 1. — (Canadian Press).—Eight British Communists, seven women and one man yesterday engaged in a farce at the expense of Scotland Yard.

Th eight Communists boarded one of the familiar red London omnibuses, chained themselves to the upper-deck seats, and at a signal burst into the airs of "The Red Flag" and the "Internationale." They waved a big banner with the legend "Workers, strike against the preparation for war", in honor of the worldwide Communists anti-war demonstrations to-day.

They were taken to Scotland yard, where detectives sawed the seats from the omnibus with the Communists attached.

The "Reds" were conveyed to the police station for examination.

BREAKS 59 YEARS OF VOLUNTARY IMPRISONMENT

The Pope of Rome came out of the Vatican on July 25, upon the square of the famous St. PePter's in Rome, thus ending a voluntary imprisonment of 59 years. He will not, however, cross the narrow boundaries of the Vatican city, but will confine his appearance to the square for the purely religious purpose of the procession of the blessed sacrament. The photographs here show: (1) The present pope, Pius XI.; (2) famous St. Peter's in Rome, upon the square of which the pope appears today; (3) boundaries of the new Vatican city fixed by the recent lateran treaty. Several prominent Roman Catholic priests of Toronto are in Rome today to witness the ceremony.

COMMUNISTS WILL CELEBRATE REGARDLESS TORONTO POLICE

Claim Permit Not Needed To Stage Demonstration in Queen's Park.

HAVE NOTIFIED POLICE.

TORONTO, Aug. 1.— (C.P.)— As part of an International organization aiming at strikes in China, European cities and other parts of the world, local Communists plan to contribute their share to-night to the "world movement toward revolution." With a meeting in Queen's Park, at which John MacDonald, secretary of the Communists party in Canada, Lily Himmelfarb, an active figure in the party's youth movement, and A. E. Smith will be the speakers.

The meeting will be held irrespective of the attitude of Chief Constable Draper toward public gatherings of Communists, it was officially stated by Communists last night. Their argument was that a permit had never been required for a Queen's Park meeting, and all that was necessary was to notify the police of gathering.

Police headquarters, they say, has been informed the meeting will be held, and also that a parade will take place, although official sanction has not been given for it.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Aug. 1—Including store cattle there were 2000 on sale on the Dominion Livestock Exchange yesterday. Trade was very slow on butchers. Occ butcher steers sold up to $11.00 with most sales at $7.00 to $9.50. Cows were fairly active at $4.00 for canners and up to $8.00 for the best. Bologna sold at $6.50. Baby beeves were in demand up to $15.00. Stringers were stronger.

Calves were steady at $14.00 to $15.00, with grassers downward to $7.00.

No settlements were made on the hog market. Country reports indicated that packers paid as high as $14.75 f.o.b. for selects yesterday, while bidding only $14.50 off car for selects yesterday in the yard.

Lambs opened at $15.00 for a few early sales owing to a short run. The bulk of good ewes and weathers regardless of quality will likely be sold at $15.00, with bucks at $13.00. Sheep were steady at $3.00 for culls and up to $7.00 for good light ewes.

Receipts 525.

Heavy beef steers, $10.50 to $11.50.

Butcher steers, good to choice, $10.50 to $11.25.

Butcher cows medium, $7.50 to $8.

Calves, good to choice, $14.00 to $15.00.

Good ewe lambs, $15.00.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 1.—Wheat had a narrow range in a rather dull market yesterday and closing prices were unchanged to 2 3-8c higher on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Some local selling and easy cables from Liverpool caused weakness at the start, but the market quickly strengthened when Chicago advanced on reports of good export business in United States wheat and flour. October came back 3½c from bottom levels and December 4¼c. July, because of further liquidation, was unable to make the same headway. Subsequent offerings reduced the advance. The only future thus passed from the trading list quietly at $1.72 a bushel, or some 53c better than it was on the same day of July a year ago.

Liverpool wheat after a weak opening closed 5-8d higher in 11 months. England cables stated that importers had sufficient wheat on hand for the time being, with native offerings more liberal and good quantities of Argentine wheat still unused.

Demand for cash wheat during the morning was improved. Exporters sought Nos. 5 and 6 wheat, but offerings were light.

CHICAGO PRODUCE.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Butter and eggs: November futures were traded in cautiously on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday with the close unchanged at 36¾c and the range only 1-8c above and below for the day. Storage movements on the four markets were regarded as bearish, showing 7,619 cases net in against 4,887 cases withdrawn a year ago yesterday. The spot was steady. December butter futures were somewhat stronger on the basis of reduced receipts and a steady cash level. The storage situation was not materially altered.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—Dullness prevailed on the cheese market, with prices slightly easier. No. 1 Quebec white and colored sold at 16 7-8c, while No. 1 Ontario white and colored sold at 18c per lb. Receipts were 3,222 boxes, against 3,092 on the same day of last week.

Eggs were higher. Ontario fresh sold at 33c per dozen for extras, 28c for firsts, and 22c for seconds, all f.o.b. Ontario points. Retail prices were: Fresh extras, 40c per dozen; fresh firsts, 33c to 34c per dozen, and fresh seconds were 27c to 28c per doz. Receipts were 648 cases, as compared with 2,238 cases on the same day last week.

The local butter market was steady, with prices unchanged. Receipts were 1,285 boxes, compared with 514 boxes on the same day last week.

Potato prices were unchanged with steady trading.

BUTTER AND EGGS

TORONTO, Aug. 1.—Continued strength in the butter and egg markets marked wholesale produce trading in Toronto yesterday. Under active demand, finest No. 1 creamery moved at 39½c to 39½c a pound for supplies delivered in Toronto, and sales were reported in some instances as high as 39¾c. Conditions underlying the market were much the same as those which caused previous advances in wholesale prices this week. With no relief from hot, dry weather in sight the question of feed is an increasingly important factor in butter production, and as this condition is common to Ontario, Quebec and the Western Provinces its far-reaching efects are being reflected in produce market throughout the country. Receipts of fresh-made butter were reported to be insufficient to meet current demand yesterday.

Following the natural course of buying prices, wholesale buter quotations to the retail trade were higher yesterday. Leading wholesale houses quoted 42c for No. 1 creamery prints to the retail trade, compared with a range of 41c to 42c on Tuesday, while No. 2 grade prints advanced to the correspondingly higher price of 40c.

Cheese Prices Unchanged.

There was no change in quotations for cheese yestertay, but dealers sensed an easier tendency in the undertone of trading. Much will depend on quotations announced at week-end cheese board meetings, but meanwhile new large cheese, waxed, finest No. 1 Government graded, delivered in Toronto, remains at 18¼c a pound.

"BUMMING A RIDE."

Hitch-hiking, as a means of "getting places," has been growing in popularity in this district in the past few years. The art is now to be seen at its best on the Chemong road Any afternoon or evening motorists on this road may see a number of the younger generation of Peterborough attempting to get their transportation to the park by this method, which the Americans have dubbed "hitch-hiking" in preference to the less distinguished phrase, "bumming a ride."

The rush hour for this business is, perhaps, one o'clock in the afternoon, when the motorist will meet many youngsters with their bathing suits slung over their shoulders at the city limits, with hopeful faces. Another lot are to be found on the road about eight in the evening, also Chemong-bound, but at this time with the dance pavilion as their objective.

The trick of securing a lift as practiced by the more experienced of these travellers is very interesting. The hiker first walks out to the bend in the road on Reid street. Here he generally picks a soft spot in the grass and patiently waits for an outward bound car. As soon as he is aware of one of these in the distance, he jumps to his feet and commences to walk at a brisk pace toward his goal. If he seems to be in an extra hurry the car driver usually takes pity and brings his car to a stop with a genial "Going far?" much to the delight of the pedestrian. The car may be full already or the motorist may be an American accustomed to shy clear of any strangers on the road. The would-be traveller then may loose a torrent of epithets at the passng motorist or if he is more philosophically inclined he will return to his grassy resting place unmoved by his luck to repeat the performance a moment later.

Barclay Misses Gallows; Hangman Paid Anyway

TORONTO, Aug. 1.—(C.P.) — Hangman Arthur Ellis will not officiate at the hanging of William Barclay who was reprieved after being sentenced to die August 1 but he collected his fee of $100 and his expenses today nevertheless. By arrangement with the Government the functionary receives his fee in those cases where his offices are rendered unnecessary by a reprieve.

Mr. Ellis complained today of shattered nerves due to overwork. He stated that he had seven candidates for the scaffold on his waiting list.

PETER DIRECT WINS 'A' CLASS

Three Fine Races Are Held in Campbellford in Connection With Big Week.

ELEANOR MAY THIRD.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 1.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Old Home Week would not be complete without yesterday afternoon's horse race program. While many ball fans watched the game between Peterborough and Belleville, the remainder flocked to the grand sand and the sidelines near the wire to witness the harness races in which the best horses in the district vied for first honors. There were three clases, A, B and C, the latter having nine entries at the start, and only one horse being drawn in the final heat. Art Blade of Peterborough handled the bell and made the drivers pay attention to his instruction. The judges were E. Caughey, Cobourg; Percy Morgan, Lown, and J. H. Davidson, Cobourg. J. R. Battisby and H. Jones were the officials timers. The races were run under Dominion Harness Association rules, and although there was some fast heats, the record for the local track was not either reached or broken. Yesterday's best time was two and one quarter seconds behind the 2.12 records of Bessie Brooks and Polly Stout, established several years ago.

In the Class A event, Peter Direct, owned by L. G. Bennett, Port Hope, won first money with three consecutive firsts. Dick Sunday, owned by T. McCracken of Trenton, won second money with two seconds and a third in the final heat. Eleanor May, a Peterborough horse owned by James Akey took third money with two fourths and a second. Jack Abbie also ran, scoring 3, 3 and 4. Time of the mile 2.14¼.

Class B drew five entries. Della Wilkes, owned by Craig of Smiths Falls won first money with three consecutive firsts. Lew Todd owned by R. Walsh, Hastings, was second with three seconds. Minnie Patchen, owned by J. Sutherland, Peterborough, won third money with two thirds and a fifth. Peg O' My Heart and Hal E. also ran. They counted 4, 4, 4 and 5, 5, 3 respectively. The time for the mile was 2.15.

From a spectator's point of view, the Class C race was the most spectacular, there were nine horses entered and all ran three heats with the exception of Minnie Hal, drawn in the third. The first money was won by Louis Botha, second by Red Peter and third by Valley Todd. The names of the horses appear in order as they were placed for the first heat. The time of the mile was 2.20. Alice May 2, 6, 4; Mac Dale 8, 7, 7; The Limit 5, 5, 6; Rose Direct 9, 8, 8; Mr. Penalty 4, 4, 5; Minnie Hal 7, 9, drawn; Valley Todd, 6, 3, 2; Louis Botha 1, 1, 1; Red Peter 3, 2, 3.

HOME TOWNERS

CAMPBELLFORD

Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

The prediction is that someone will be killed yet on the School Hill. The paved roadway seems to be too great a temptation for children with wagons. Every day they may be seen coasting merrily down the street right past what is usually considered a dangerous intersection. Yesterday afternoon about 5.30, one boy had his nice new red wagon smashed to matchwood and narrowly escaped death when his wagon was struck by a car coming up the hill. The crash happened practically on the intersection of Ranney and Bridge Streets. The driver's brakes were in good condition as was shown by the skid marks on the pavement. Eye-witnesses of the accident were of the opinion that the child was at fault.

No one is thinking of disputing the fact that the animal at the Fair Grounds yesterday is the largest ox in the world. The animal weighs 3,600 pounds. It is just over seven years old, and is a cross between a Holstein and a graded Durham. At the present time, the animal is the property of Mr. A. Worden, of Bowmanville. He purchased it some time ago from G. W. Isaac of Fenelon Falls.

Jitney dancing proved popular at the High School last night. Roy Locksley and his Canadians supplied the music. To-night the Ace High Orchestra from Oak Lake Pavilion will have the platform.

The reason for cancelling the water carnival last night was evident. With frequent heavy showers and an electrical storm that was more severe than any this season, such a form of entertainment was impossible. Accompanied by blinding lightning and roaring thunder, the storm broke about 7.30 with a shower of hailstones as big, for the most part, as cherries. One lady who was driving her car along the main street at the time the storm broke had one finger of her left hand severely lacerated by a falling hailstone.

Because the official dancing program was over soon after one o'clock, that did not say that the dancing was concluded for the night. On the intersection of Front and Bridge Streets there was a stag dance till almost 3 o'clock. The orchestra consisted of a mouth-organ player seated on one of the boothe. The dancing was all square.

To-morrow is the big swim. To-night the hearts of the real old timers are to be gladened with an old time dance on the streets. This is to be a strictly square dance. The round dancing will be at the High School as usual.

During this week, Campbellford has seen the heaviest motor traffic in its history. Many people prefer to walk places rather than bother driving through the congestion at various places.

FERRY TOURIST NEW PROBLEM

Consider Stopping Purchases Duty Free Unless 2 Weeks Abroad.

MERCHANTS WORRIED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 1.—(C. P.)—Border merchants are greatly aroused against the "street car" and "ferry" tourists who have been dashing across the boundary into Mexico or Canada and purchasing their clothes where the tariff doesn't apply.

The law allows travellers returning from foreign lands an exemption of $100 on purchases brought home. It seems some of the citizens who disregard the "trade-at-home" signs have been going across the border and purchasing dutiable goods under the $100 mark.

An amendment has been suggested to the tariff act to make purchases over the border dutiable unless the returning American has been abroad for two weeks or more. The Senate Finance Committee is giving serious consideration to the proposal.

clouds. Later, however, we expect to meet better weather."

Gas was pumped into the balloons of the Zeppelin until the last few minutes before the getaway.

"I expect to reach New York in from 80 to 85 hours," said Dr. Eckener. This would enable the Graf Zeppelin to circle over New York City some time Sunday before flying on to Lakehurst for a stop of only a few days before beating back on its transatlantic trail on a circumnavigation of the world, with the schedule calling for a return to Lakehurst late in August via Friedrichshafen, Tokio and Los Angeles.

The Graf Zeppelin's route will be by Besancon, Lyons, Marseilles and Gibraltar, where Commander Eckener expects to strike favorable winds which will quickly push him to the Azores. After that the decision will be made whether to fly on a northerly or a southerly line for America. Dr. Eckener again expressed full satisfaction with the dirigible's motor's.

For the first time Dr. Eckener will wear what may be regarded as a talisman. An unnamed Rhineland jeweller has sent him a gold ring with a curious brown stone. Engraved on the ring is a legend in Latin meaning "Pray, work, give, accept, rejoice, be patient, hope, be silent and remember death."

SCOTS PROUD OF DUCHESS

Everybody Pays Homage To Popular Duchess of York

EDINBURGH, Aug. 1.—(By The Canadian Press).—Writing of The Duches of York when the General Assembly was in session, and unveiling of certain statues took place. An observer says:

"Here I watched the City Fathers in their scarlet and purple and ermine robes; the doctors and professors and the dignitaries of the Church; the Highland regiments in their swinging kilts; and the Duke with the little Duchess at his side in pink, smiling and bowing and waving her hand to the crowds of men and women and children that thronged her path wherever she went. Scotland is very proud of the Duchess, as they have good reason to be and what most of us feel. He was an ex-service man and had been one of the lucky ones asked to the Garden Party for Soldiers at Holyrood. When my friend asked him what he thought of the Duchess, he said, "Well, shel's the loveliest wee body ever I saw."

FRIDAY, AUGUST 2, 1929

A SERIOUS OUTLOOK.

The forest fire situation is made the more serious by reason of the fact that August is the worst period of all from a fire viewpoint, and unless unusually heavy rains drench the sun-scorched timber lands, it is to be feared that the loss will be the heaviest on record.

In some districts settlers are battling to save their homesteads from destruction, and the whole situation is full of peril and menace.

It takes so little to start a forest fire when the woods are like cinder—just a lighted match, an unextinguished cigarette butt, a camp-fire carelessly located or left burning.

And once started there is no telling where or when the damage will stop.

The warning is plain to everybody, even in our own district, to exercise unusual care, to protect the parched woods against fire.

While in the immediate neighborhood lumbering operations have come to an end, much damage can be done by fire even in this neighborhood, and as many Peterborough people visit the timber belt farther north a word of caution is necessary.

Every person who is in the woods these days should regard himself as a fire ranger charged with the responsibility of protecting the forest.

RAISING THE STANDARD.

Once more Hon. George S. Henry has announced that examinations for driving licenses are to be made more rigid, and once more The Examiner hastens to point out that tightening up the test will not accomplish a great deal unless it is accompanied by a much closer check-up of the manner in which holders of permits are driving.

Judge Coatsworth, called upon to deal with 315 traffic cases in one day, declares in an interview that provincial and municipal authorities should get together to consider means of stemming the tide of traffic lawbreaking.

Dr. M. M. Crawford, Toronto's chief coroner, is even more emphatic.

"The general level of courtesy and driving ability among motorists on the highways is terribly low," is the comment of the official whose duties includes investigation into traffic fatalities.

In the checking-up of this discourteous, inefficient and careless driving lies the hope for better conditions on Ontario's roads, and Mr. Henry might be well advised to seek a remedy along that line, going ahead at the same time with his plan to raise the standard of the test required of new applicants for driving licenses.

EXHIBITION TICKETS.

The Examiner believes that the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board is following a wise and popular policy in making a twenty-five-cent admission to the grounds and grandstand possible.

During the whole of this month strip tickets will be sold at the rate of four admissions, good at the gate or grandstand, for a dollar, and the public should take full advantage of this opportunity to secure cheaper admission.

With these tickets on sale both in the city and all over the district, there should be a ready response from patrons of Peterborough's big fair, a response hearty enough to convince the Exhibition Board of the wisdom of making this arrangement of a month's sale of strip tickets a permanent feature.

It has been the contention of many citizens that a 25-cent admission and a similar charge for the grandstand performance should be provided; the directors have met this contention by the present policy of selling tickets in advance at that price, and there should be no complaints later on from citizens who fail to avail themselves of the chance and find themselves called upon at Exhibition time to pay the regular admission and grandstand rates.

It will be decidedly good business to buy Exhibition tickets during August.

SUPPORTS THE MOVEMENT.

From the Lethbridge Herald, the paper of that well-known Peterborough old boy, Senator W. A. Buchanan, comes able support for the movement to honor the memory of David Fife, the discoverer of Red Fife wheat.

The Alberta paper heartily endorses the proposal in paying tribute to the value of the discovery made by David Fife in the following editorial reference:

"On the occasion of Peterborough's re-union celebration, Senator W. H. McGuire, a native of the county, suggested that a monument should be raised to the man who brought the Red Fife wheat into the world. The wheat was named after him and he was a citizen of the township of Otonabee, close to the city of Peterborough. Red Fife played a potent part in agricultural development in Western Canada, and though later supplanted by the Marquis, it was this grain that enabled the Western prairies to be established as wheat-growing areas.

"We are too prone to overlook the men who have contributed to the welfare of the country's great industry. Rarely are they singled out for distinction, but they are as deserving of monuments as our statesmen, explorers and inventors. It took long, painstaking and patient experimenting to evolve Marquis wheat, and its actual cash value to the Western Canada farmer can hardly be over-estimated. In cutting down the period required to ripen wheat alone it has meant millions in the pockets of Western farmers. Had it not been for Red Fife and Marquis establishing that grain growing could be safely and profitably carried on in the Western Provinces, we undoubtedly might yet be in the experimental stage in agriculture.

"Peterborough, indeed, has the fullest justification for raising a monument to mark the contribution one of its citizens made to the agricultural advancement of the country."

GET AT THE TRUTH.

It is decidedly to be hoped that officials of the Detroit Automobile Club will adhere to their expressed intention of attending a special meeting of the Walkerville Police Commission, with evidence to back up charges they have publicly made that American motorists have been discriminated against in that town. Complaints have been made against police all along the Border, but an investigation in Walkerville, as typical of municipalities in this district, should do much to clear the air.

If American motorists are being badly treated around here, the local public wants to know it. The facts can be brought out only in a hearing at which the complainants produce evidence, and the police have a chance to defend themselves. The fact that Mayor Thomas A. Lanspeary, of Walkerville, has offered to call the special meeting, is evidence in itself that the municipal authorities do not wish to see discrimination, and are ready and willing to do away with undesirable conditions, should they exist.

Up to date, the evidence is all against the stories which have been broadcast by the Detroit officials and by individual motorists from the other side of the line. The Border Cities Star, when the latest complaint was made in a Detroit newspaper, took it upon itself to check up as far as it could. Not only was the case mentioned in the Detroit paper brought to the attention of both Mayor Lanspeary and Police Chief James P. Smith, but other allegations which had come to the ears of the Star were given to the two officials. Both men gave frank answers on every point raised, in many instances backing up their statements with documentary evidence.

The Star's interest in the case goes beyond the matter of treatment of American motorists. It is just as closely concerned with charges that local people have been unfairly dealt with, and several accusations of this kind were cited to the mayor and police chief.

In these matters, both gentlemen were equally frank. Chief Smith declared that much of the criticism of his department had come about through the fact that no favorites are played in Walkerville, that even councillors of the town have paid fines for speeding, and that no influence brought to bear on the police will secure immunity for anyone from the results of his actions.

Mayor Lanspeary cited at least one case in which a Detroit lawyer complained of ill-treatment of one of his clients by the police. In his case, the mayor called a special meeting of the Police Commission, and invited the solicitor and the complainant to attend, even offering to change the date to suit their convenience. No answer was received, and the accusers failed to put in an appearance. Just how much further the mayor could have gone to secure the facts of the case, it is difficult to see.

In further substantiation of their stand, the mayor and chief of police told of several letters that have been received from Americans who were checked up for traffic violations, and who wrote to compliment Walkerville on the treatment received from the police.

It is safe to say that the general public, particularly the motorists of the Border Cities, do not believe that there is any great discrimination against Americans. The statement may be frankly made that, on the highways about Essex County, most of the reckless driving is done by American drivers. Perusal of accounts of accidents taking place in this county, particularly over the week-ends, is enlightening, in that it shows that American cars figure in the majority of the mishaps. This is not an unconsidered statement, but one which is backed up by incontrovertible facts, known to everyone who reads the newspapers.

The American tourist is welcome to this county and to this Dominion. While here, he is a guest, and is entitled to all the courtesy which we, as his hosts, can extend to him. There are two things, however, which he must not do. He must not flagrantly abuse our laws, and he must not go back home and make unfounded and unwarranted complaints when he is brought to book for his misdeeds. If he chooses to disobey the law, then he must expect punishment, and if he desires to make unfounded charges, he must expect to be called upon to prove them. The only way for him to do that is to appear before a tribunal such as the Police Commission, and produce evidence, and he must be prepared to meet the evidence which the authorities will produce in reply.

In the meantime, Western Ontario should not lose any sleep over the prospect of losing tourist business. Tourists will continue to come for the same reason that the Michigan Central Railway runs across our Province—because this offers the shortest and best route.—Border Cities Star.

DISAPPROVES OF SPEECH

Dear Mr. Editor:

May I be allowed to express my disapproval at a certain part of Captain Stanley Nelson Denney's speech.

As an immigrant to this country it makes me a little sore at the statement: "I do not think we should pay people to come here who may have been failures in their own countries and certainly will not be anything more in Canada."

I wish to state when I applied for immigration into Canada, I had to submit two references from independent people. These references were also verified before I was passed.

It is also reasonable that if a fellow is no good in his own country, he will not stay in Canada long.

All the people in Canada (except the native Indians) are either immigrants in person or by virtue of their ancestry. What the Dominion is at present is largely due to the immigrants or settlers who have come to her shores. Without those immigrants Canada would still be the pasture land of the buffalo in the west and the primeval forest in the east.

That which she is, for good or bad, her immigrants have made her. That which she shall be in the future will be determined by the people of Canada, and by others still to come.

Yours very truly,

"IMMIGRANT."

CREDIT TO OFFICERS

To the Editor:

The objection raised by Crown Attorney M. M. Brown to the verdict first proffered at the inquest held recently at Gananoque on the death of the American tourist Matonesk, and the action of Coroner Mackie thereon, in refusing to accept the verdict reflects credit on both these gentlemen as competent and honest representatives of the law. It also calls attention to what has become more than a suspicion — namely, the growing tendency to cover up the facts regarding liquor.

In the case in point, a coroner's jury had before it the sworn statement of a competent medical man who had examined the body. His testimony was that the man died of "acute alcoholic poisoning." Notwithstanding this, the jury ventured to submit the verdict of death "from natural causes." Sent back to reconsider their finding, they rejected the well-established scientific description of the fact and substituted the vager phraze "excessive drinking." That was allowed to pass.

Just what the motives of the jurors were, would be interesting information. They may never have known that alcohol is a narcotic drug, and therefore a poison; or like many others they may have been slow to accept this fact. Or it may be that the straight scientific truth conveyed in the term "alcoholic poisoning" had an ugly sound to their sensitive ears. Or was there among them a leading mind that naturally had influence in guiding the decision of the twelve good men and true. One juror at least, was suspicious that these travellers on their way to the land of plenty, might have secreted some vile American stuff as they crossed the line. Whatever the influence, this jury succeeded in side-stepping the established scientific description hitherto used in such cases, in favor of one that does not throw quite so lurid a light on good Government Liquor.

It has been pretty generally understood that the church must not speak out on the liquor question now that it is in politics. In many cases the press has modified its tone and is very mildly critical of the liquor business. The influences operating here, no doubt, have been various, but it is known that the liquor barons have not hesitated to resort to intimidations when unfavorable comment threatened. Is science to go softly in the presence of this tyrant, and our courts to pay deference to the liquor traffic? The attitude of this jury is a sinister sign and it does not by any means, stand alone. The pulpit, the press, and the courts are pillars of society. Politicalized liquor with its steady seepage threatens to undermine these essential social foundations.

Sincerely yours,

A. J. IRWIN.

"It's a little more expensive than some," Beatrice said. "They've got a real old mammy for a cook—what she cooks is delicious. We often come here, if it's hot, because our kitchen sort of warms up the whole place."

"I have never tasted bluefish any better than this," the man said.

"It's a specialty here. But whatever she cooks is good. She makes popovers every Friday night, between six and seven, and everyone comes here for them."

"Colored, eh?"

"Oh, yes, she's a regular old Southern mammy."

"Well," said the man pleasantly, easily, in a short silence, "did you get my letter?"

"Yes, I did," she answered quickly, laughing and coloring.

"And what did you think of it, mademoiselle?"

"That you were one of the kindest persons alive," she answered readily, but deeply embarrassed just the same. "Then it's an understood thing?" he said.

"Oh, it can't be, Mr. Challoner!" Beatrice protested, shaking her head. "I couldn't let you do it!"

He was watching her, an expression of kindness and admiration in his face. "Then what are we to do, Beatrice?" he asked, simply. "About Marcia, I mean?"

Beatrice put her elbows on the table, and linked her finger tips to form a rest for her round, firm chin, and looked at him steadily.

"I couldn't let you put all that money in the bank for us," she assured him. "It wouldn't be right."

Challoner was smoking; he looked at her quietly through a drift of blue smoke. Beatrice faced him, an odd, confused expression on her face.

"I wonder you have patience with me!" she exclaimed, irrelevantly and impulsively.

"Patience with you!" Challoner said. "To me you are the most—interesting—girl I ever knew! I am thinking of you always, whether I see you or not. Why shouldn't I have patience with you?"

"You think too much of me—" Beatrice muttered, reddening and looking down.

"Possibly," he conceded, smiling. But he was a little shaken too.

"What I was thinking"—she began again after a while, with a little difficulty—"what I was thinking is that—that nobody could be kinder—could be more generous than you've been—about everything, and that nobody"—she was growing incoherent again—"nobody could appreciate it more than I do—" She stopped short.

Houston Challoner put down his cigarette, and ground it out. He looked across the table at her seriously for a moment of silence before he spoke.

"You mean that you might be willing to try the experiment, Beatrice?" he asked, in a carefully levelled voice.

"I mean—would you?" she countered, flushed but brave, her bright eyes on his.

Yes," he said soberly. 'I would. You would make me very proud an happy."

He watched her; her eyes were lowered now, and her color still high, but here was a smile tugging at the firm, fine line of her young mouth.

"Well, then—?" she asked, shrugging looking up. And there was a long silence, while they smiled at each other.

Much later—days later—she told him that the world would say that she was marrying him for his money, and that it would be true.

"And yet money doesn't mean much to you, Beatrice," he said.

"Oh, yes, it does! Not for stockings and furs," she explained, laughing. "But for Mummy and Marcia—and things like that."

"But you wouldn't be marrying a man you didn't like, for all that, would you?"

"I wouldn't be marrying a man I didn't love," she corrected it.

"Then you do love me?" he could not ask it often enough.

"Love you! What do you think I'm made of? You're the kindest, most considerate and thoughtful person I've ever met. Why shouldn't I love you? Of course I love you."

She would laugh joyously, saying it, and rest the deep firm wave of her red hair against his cheek.

"But you haven't a 'case' on me!"

"I don't believe in cases and crushes and all that nonsense," she answered.

"But you do know something about marriage?" he pursued, a little uneasily. "Your mother's such a gentle, old-fashioned little lady,' and you're only twenty, after all—"

An amused, maternal flash of the blue-green eyes answered him.

"I know enough to know that you are going to have a devoted wife," the girl said, suddenly grave. "I know that you're spoiling me, and that I'm going to do my best to spoil you!"

And for such a speech she was always rewarded by seeing a look of utter happiness and satisfaction come into his rather serious eyes, and by hearing something actually boyish in the happy ring of his voice.

They were married on a burning August morning, as quietly as was possible, which was not very quietly, after all. Houston's mother was brought carefully to the church, and wheeled to a front pew for the ceremony; Houston's married sisters—Mrs. Randall White and Mrs. Tom Carey, With their husbands and children; handsome, well-dressed, confident folk—were all in evidence. Houston's niece, little Marian Carey, preceded Marcia, as flower girl. And Houston's cousin, a clergyman, performed the ceremony.

Marcia, in orchid organdie, was maid of honor, and looked so plain and weak and sick that Beatrice's heart sank at the mere sight of her. Yet Marcia was happy. She had insisted upon filling the proud post and had had her rather colorless hair elaborately waved for the occasion.

There were pews filled with Fairfaxes and Flints, the members of the firm, and all their families, and many employees; Beatrice was too confused and excited to identify them, but her mother told her afterward that even the elevator boys from the building were there.

And finally there were scores of old friends of the Challoners, the finest folk in town, and an amazing number of old friends on the St. John side too, many of whom had not remembered her existence until this brilliant marriage of the pretty red-headed St. John girl had brought her suddenly to mind again.

What To-day Means To You.

AUGUST 1—"LEO"

If August 1st is your birthday, the best hours for you on this day are from 11 a.m.to noon,from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.,and from 10:30 p.m. to midnight. The danger period is from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

The influences for this date will be inspiring and you may expect to have some brilliant "brain waves," which will point the way to some later successes. Plenty of romance is predicted for the day and the evening will be one of joy and happiness for the younger members of the community.

Plenty of romance is predicted for the of the community.

Children born on this August 1st will be cursed with moods. Their moments of joy and sadness will both be short, one quickly succeeding the other. It will only be through influence of their wise mentors that they will develop a more perfect mental balance.

You are a very vital, energetic, ambitious and decided person—you know very clearly what you want from life, and you are riding straight to the mark, as fast as Destiny and circumstances will permit. You will draw to you the things that you want, through the magnetism of your desires.

If a man, you consciously, or unconsciously, seek your happiness through your dream of power and financial success. You struggle on with your face turned toward the horizon where the realization of your ambitious lie. The elixir of your life is the excitement of the chase. The harder the struggle, the bigger the fight, the happier you are. You do not speak of what you are going to do—you do it. Your tastes are very materialistic.

If a woman, you seek your happiness through the channels of love. The circumference of your world encircles your home and those who are very dear to you. You are slavish in your devotions and unselfish in your acts. You cannot do enough for those whom you love. Although you will do unto others much more than you will ever receive from anyone, you are content. You do not feel yourself a martyr in your sacrifices, you are a sincere and happy giver. You are decidedly a mother woman.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT—

CHAMPAIGN, Ill, August 1.— E. I. Serlin and I. W. Zeiger, transfer students at the University of Illinois, recently pleaded not guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct. They were arrested for exposing their bodies "in a nude condition to the public view." Police stood outside the boys' home at night and said they undressed without pulling down the blinds.

JUDGMENT HELD M. SINGER CASE

Whether Singer, K.C., Goes Back to Jail or Not Rests With Judge.

O'CONNOR QUERIES ACTION

TORONTO, Aug. 1.—The decision as to whether Louis M. Singer, K. C., must return to jail for his refusal to supply information and records concerning the Amalgamated Builders' Council to Gordon Waldron, K. C., Royal Commissioner appointed by the Dominion Government, will be given this morning by Mr. Justice Jeffrey.

Argument on the writ of habeas corpus by which Singer was released from confinement was concluded today after which His Lordship reserved judgment, continuing Singer's bail of $100,000.

Concluding a lengthy address which lasted five hours at yesterday's session, W. F. O'Connor, K.C., counsel for Singer attacked the action of Commissioner Waldron in committing his client to jail. He questioned the scope of the Commissioners powers alleged irregularities in the warrant for arrest and claimed that Singer had been wrongly detained.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

"That, madam, gives you height."

TRUE RUSTICITY

How charmingly rustic the modern fashionable summer resort is! What a change from town! Of course, there are occasional dinner parties (perhaps four or five a week), small, informal affairs (consisting of seventy or eighty people dressed within an inch of their lives), and now and then there is a dance (though seldom more than one or two a night). The outdoor life (bridge begins immediately after lunch), the wholesome, regular diet (cocktails are shaken at four o'clock sharp), and the early hours (the average party is usually over by five in the morning) all make for a robust health. Moreover, nearly every fashionable resort is sufficiently near town to facilitate the importation of jazz bands, professional dancers and liquor, though the last-named commodity is almost always to be had from the local bootlegger.

Everything is so delightfully simple in the country—the unpretentious dwellings (some of them actually possess fewer than thirty bedrooms), the rambling lanes (macadamized boulevards), and the natural wilderness (designed by a landscape gardener) all combine to produce a picture of genuine naivete and unaffected charm. It is true that there is a certain note of informality (no dinner is ever given before eight o'clock), (the bathing beach is used only during the fashionable hour), (everyone changes his clothes at least four times a day), but then, are we not living in a decidedly unadorned age?

C. G. S.

A FLOOD OF TEARS

"You put glycerine in their eyes to make them cry, don't you?" asked the visitors at the Super Film Studios.

The super-director waved his hands in temperamental horror.

"Oh, public ignorance!" he cried. "Glycerine? No! Glycerine tears are as archaic as pie in light comedy, thanks to me. In all emotional films where grief is to be registered, stars under contract with Super Films use the Tear Spray. Miss Flicker! Here, please."

One of the humbler members of the company, a mere $300-a-week novice, approached at the director's call.

"Miss Flicker, be so good as to adjust the Tear Spray for the benefit of these good people. . . . As you see, the spray is a curved pipe about the thickness of a lead pencil that is worn across the eyebrows, worn concealed by a bandeau of finest rubber. It was a sprinkling cart that gave me the idea."

"But how—"

"I am coming to that. In the big sob scene, where other producing companies give the public but an unconvincing glycerine trickle, we—we give them lavish art! The eye-brow pipe attaches to a rubber tube which all Super-Film actresses wear coiled in their hair. Jealous tears, angry tears, tears of sorrow,—all are here, a full half-pint, in the rubber coil. Sob, Miss Flicker, and press the bulb in your coiffure—NOW!

"Ladies and gentlemen, when a Super scenario requires the leading lady to 'burst into a flood of tears' she bursts—thanks to me."

After-harvest cultivation

Now is the time when weeds can be killed most cheaply and effectively

It is easiest to kill perennials like twitch grass and sow thistle now because their vigor has been somewhat exhausted by growing a crop. The hot sun and drying winds will work for you. For these plants use a plow or stiff-toothed cultivator.

Thousands of weed seeds may be caused to sprout by light cultivation. These young plants will afterwards be killed. For this purpose a disc is effective—a gang plow or cultivator may be used.

Economize in manual labor. Use four horses and large implements if possible.

Cheapen your cost of killing weeds! Place after-harvest cultivation on the list of jobs that MUST be done. Do not leave it until you "get time." Do it NOW!

LEADERS MAKE SHARP GAINS

Massey-Harris and Steel of Canada Are Stronger On Standard Exchange.

LOBLAWS IN DEMAND.

TORONTO, August 1. (C. P.) — Toronto Stock Exchange trading was generally firmer to-day after an active close yesterday. A few leaders made sharp gains and there were small advances all along the line.

Leaders came from a number of different groups. Massey Harris added 2 to 56 and Steel of Canada at 59 1-4 was three above yesterday's bid; Famous Players continued its advance with a gain of 2 1-2 to 56 1-2 and Lake Superior Corporation was up 2 1-2 to 27. Canada Gypsum and Alabastine found a new high for the year at 121.

Following report of increased earnings Lowlaw "A" and "B" were again in good demand and strengthened more than a point each to 24 1-2 and 24.

International Nickel varied around 48 3-8.

De Forest Crosley and Laura Secord were exceptions to the general trend, dropping a point each to 70 and 45. In the Oils McColl Frontenac was up 1 to 40 and International Petroleum firmed fractionally to 25 3-4.

NEWBEC ISSUES IN BIG DEMAND

Metals Are Again Active On Standard Mining Exchange.

NORANDA STRONGER.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Strong trading featured the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. Metals were again responsible for the activity, oils presenting an irregular aspect.

Noranda continued to rise, adding 1.75 to 62.75 .Sudbury Basin strengthened 40 to 9.15, Waite-Ackerman Montgomery 75 to 7.25, Base Metals 35 to 5.35, Ventures 50 to 8.50, Pend Oreille 20 to 6.50 and Hudson Bay 15 to 16.90. Sherritt Gordon was an exception, dropping 15 to 7.60.

The four stocks that drew heavy buying yesterday were strong again. Ajax Oil gained 10 to 2.68, eclipsing the year's high and Amulet was up 6 to 2.91. Newbec on sales of 330,100 shares rose 2¾ to 55¾ and Big Missouri added a point to 1.69.

Hollinger rose 65 to 7.15 and the precious metals generally were strong. Mining Corporation added 10 to 4.35, Dome 10 to 10.50, Wright Hargreaves 15 to 1.90, and Premier Gold 15 to 1.90. Lake Shore was steady at 25, as was McIntyre at 16.00. Falconbridge Nickel was up 25 to 13.75.

There were a number of recessions among the oils, including Associated Oil and Gas, which yielded 10 to 2.65, South-West Petroleum 15 to 5.30, Chemical Research 25 to 16.75, and Home 25 to 22.50. But Baltac strengthened 10 to 2.10, and Alberta Pacific registered a rise of 15 to 3.95.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

Amulet continues the feature on the Standard Exchange and the remainder of the list are swinging upward in sympathy. As in most bull markets, traders are beginning to lose their heads and think there is no limit to any move. In view of the substantial appreciation already enjoyed by Amulet, the conflicting reports regarding operations and the coming stock issue, a cautious attitude would appear advisable.

Newbec is also coming into the limelight. As reported in an earlier bulletin this company is said to be in good mineralization in their drift at the outside of the diabase rhyolite contact at the 250-foot level.

Big Missouri is another active feature. This company is controlled by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company through the Buena Vista Mining Co. Consolidated controls the majority of stock in Buena Vista and Buena controls Big Missouri as will be seen Buena is purely a holding company, the medium through which Smelters controls the B.C. property. Buena Vista has made application to be listed on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange and directors of the exchange will meet shortly to consider the application. Buena has an interest in the Missouri Monarch and Black Forest Mines, two important Nevada properties which are controlled by Big Missouri.

Oat Tariff Up One Cent While Corn Jumps Ten

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 1.—C.P.)— The tariff on oats was raised from 15 cents a bushel to 16 cents by Republicans of the Senate Finance Committee today in their revision of the House Tariff Measure.

The rates of 42 cents a bushel on wheat and 25 cents a bushel on corn provided by the House Measure were left unchanged. The House had made no change in the rate on oats.

The 25 cents duty on corn is an increase of 10 cents over the present law while the wheat tariff is the same as at present.

CALL MONEY RATE GOES UP IN NEW YORK

High Rates Fail To Check Resumption of Upward Price Movement.

BIG CREDIT DEMAND.

Public Utilities and High Priced Specialties Lead the Market.

NEW YORK, N.Y., August 1 (By Stanley W. Prenosil, Associated Press Financial Editor). — High call money rates slowed up trading in to-day's stock market, but failed to check the resumption of the upward price movement. A sprinkling of issues lost ground in a midday selling movement, but the main price tendency was upward with the public utilities and high-priced specialties in the vanguard of the advance.

Heavy calling of loans sent the call money rate from 10 to 11 per cent., With indications that the rate would work higher before the month-end stringency was over. The money rates held firm, with 9 per cent. asked for the shorter maturities.

The National City Bank, in its monthly review, states that in the face of the unusual demand for credit this season when rates are customarily easy "it seems quite useless to hope for cheap money in the near future. Nevertheless there is not reason to fear that ample bank accommodation will not be available at reasonable rates to finance legitimate business, including the requirements of crop moving and the fall trade."

Inasmuch as no change was made in the Bank of England rate to-day, Wall Street is not looking for any change in the New York call rate. Because of the declining trend of prices in the latter part of last week and early this week, little change in brokers' loans is expected when the weekly statement is issued after the close.

FIRE SITUATION STILL SERIOUS

sent in from other districts as reinforcements.

Fires are scattered over a large area in the Patricia district and a good deal of it is practically inaccessible, according to the official statement. Practically all of the work done in the area is done from the air and the Minister declared that the combination of workers on the wireless and in the air was not surpassed throughout the world as a fire fighting force.

Season Not Over.

"The season is not over and it is impossible to say what may happen if the present adverse conditions continue but, to date although the losses in timber are considerable they are a very small item in comparison with what was lost in former years and if the staff are able to hold the fires we will come through fairly well, although the acreage burned is bound to be higher larger than last year" is the summary of the prospects for the rest of the summer given by Mr. Finalyson.

WINNIPEG, Man., August 1. — (By the Canadian Press)—Grim fire fighters who for two days have battled without relief dangerous bush conflagrations in the Northwestern Ontario districts of eKnora, Patricia, and Rainy River have another 24-hours of struggle with the flaring menace before suitable weather will provide the rain that hundreds of men are praying for. Tinderlike in their dryness after weeks of drought the forests will fall easy prey to the fast advancing flames unless rain comes shortly.

Towns Not in Danger

Weather officials declare Northwestern Ontario will not likely have showers in that section and volunteers must be kept up to check the fires, until Nature takes a hand in the grilling game. With more than a score of separate fires blazing away in the Kenora district, one of which, a huge blaze of Crow Lake is reported to be very dangerous, additional men were rushed to the scene last night to add strength to the already large force of fire fighters. No towns or villages are endangered, but valuable tracts of timber that stand nearby are being guarded and fighters have met with considerable success.

Little Damage in West

The situation in the Manitoba Northwest is not considered critical this morning. Fires that are burning the drought stricken bush lands will occasion little real damage it is believed, and available fire rangers are keeping close watch.

Most of the blazes in the vicinity of Port Arthur and Fort William have been successfully checked, rain aiding materially when the fires threatened most.

CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 1.—(Canadian Press) — Relentlessly and steadily licking its way onward, the huge forest fire raging some forty miles south of Calgary is still proving a tremendous problem to forestry officials. This morning, it was virtually out of control. Even the most optimistic of those combating its progress have admitted that while it may be checked, with some degree of success, it will take a soaking rainstorm to extinguish the last glowing embers. According to officials advice, it is the worst fire that has swept the countryside since the raving conflagration of 1919.

NEWS FROM THE MINES

Solloway, Mills & Company Through

Drilling in Sudbury

Two diamond drills have commenced work on the McGinn property in Baldwin township, which is under option to T. H. Rea of Toronto. Values on these claims have already proved particularly encouraging, ranging from 2½ to 3½% copper over 40 foot widths. Mineralization has been exposed for a distance of 1,200 feet.

International Nickel

Recent changes made at the Coniston smelter have brought the output of Mond division to a higher peak than ever before. A new sintering plant is being erected, which will still further increase the capacity of the smelter. Force of 150 men engaged at Levack in installing a new hoist and otherwise preparing the mine for greater production. New houses have had to be provided at Levack to take care of the extra permanent men necessary for the expanded operations. Report of International Nickel for quarter ending June 30, expected about middle of August. Report for first three months showed record earnings at $5,590,191, and it is intimated that there will be a still further gain for second period.

Bwana M'Kubwa

Operating loss of $118,435 shown by Bwana M'Kubwa for year ending March 31. This was offset by profits of $525,640 taken on Rhodesian Selection Trust shares

Amulet

Amulet official statement on recent drill results says hole 50 feet south of where high grade was cut week ago encountered high grade massive zinc-copper ore at 265 feet and continued to 299 feet, then struck low grade to 304 feet, the present bottom. Drilling is continuing. Information published a week ago was in connection with hole 217, which cut 20 feet of copper and 2 feet of zinc.

Falconbridge

Reports in North to effect that drifting on the 1,000 foot level of Falconbridge has proceeded in both directions for about 100 feet.

Hollinger

Conditions are said to be improving at Hollinger. A good shoot of ore has been opened up on the 3,900 and stations are being cut on levels above. A good mine dies hard, says our field man.

Dome

Dome shares are becoming scarcer. Yesterday's high of $10.35 only brought out a few shares. Much gossip about the New York pool supposed to be accumulating this issue, is heard on the Street. Recent talk of a possible return to the old $2 dividend basis is doubtless responsible for the interest.

FOREST BLAZES GROWING WORSE

Ten New Fires Reported Located in Kenora and Patricia Districts.

NO TOWNS ENDANGERED.

KENORA, Aug. 1.—(C.P.)—Conditions were worse in the forest area of Kenora, Rainy River and Patricia districts last night.

W. D. Cram, district forester, who is personally directing the attack on the various fires, stated last night that ten new fires were reported yesterday. Six of the new fires are in the district of Patricia, with one of them close to the Canadan National railway track at Mark Lake. They are, however, all at present small fires. Work has been stopped on mining claims in Lake of Woods pulp concession.

The huge blaze at Crow Lake continues and well over 2,000 acres are involved.

A summary of the area last night showed approximately 24 fires burning with only one serious. Additional men are being secured to handle the new conflagrations. Fortunately no towns, camps or villages are endangered.

TROOPS, POLICE HOLDING PARIS

City Quiet, With Only One Outburst By Red Demonstration At Montpelier.

PARIS, Aug. 1 (Canadian Press).—Paris was quiet to-day as troops and police held command of the streets in preparation for any possible disturbances growing out of to-day' Communist "anti-war day."

In general the atmosphere was quiet but there was a good deal of tense expectancy. Many stores were closed with steel shutters, but otherwise conditions were fairly normal.

The only trouble reported in France was a short clash at Montpelier where troops charged a riotous crowd emerging from a Communist meeting and sent the demonstrators scampering.

EXCHANGE CLOSED.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 1.— There will be no sessions of the Toronto Stock Exchange or the Standard Mining Exchange Saturday, August 3 or Monday, August 5, Civic Holiday.

HASTINGS MARBLE WORTH DEVELOPING

C.N.R. Superintendent Returns From Trip of Inspection in Hastings County.

TORONTO, Ont., July 31. — The possibilities of undeveloped marble resources in Hastings County, particularly during the present expansion in building activities, are pointed out by Cyril T. Young, F.R.G.S., superintendent of Development of the Canadian National Railways ,who returned recently to Toronto from an inspection of that section of the county.

"At present we are importing interior marble from all parts of the world through New York, and the National Railways would aid in creating a sentiment in favor of using Canadian marble," Mr. Young declared. He suggested that the creation of a market for Canadian marble would put former operating quarries on a working basis.

"Red granite quarries are opened, near Madoc, shipping to Toronto," he said. "Crushed white rock from Bancroft is shipped to Hamilton for stucco purposes. The talc plants at Madoc, the largest in the Dominion, shipping to world points, are operating successfully and to capacity."

Mr. Young pointed out that Hastings marble was used, both in the interior decoration of the east block of the Parliament Buildings and in the Standard Bank of Toronto. It was used also in the office buildings of the Hydro-Electric Commission and of the Harbor Commission.

Wheat Prices Lower; Favorable Argentina Report

CHICAGO, Ills., August 1 (Canadian Press). — Influenced by settlement of the Argentine strike troubles and by prospective larger exports from Argentina, wheat prices here averaged lower early to-day. Forecasts of showers over most of the corn belt tended to ease the corn market down also. Starting at ⅛ off to ½ up, wheat later showed setbacks all around. Corn opened at 1 cent decline to ¼ advance, and afterward kept near to the initial range. Oats were relatively firm. Provisions inclined upward.

SIDELIGHTS ON McINTYRE-PORCUPINE

In 1925 when McIntyre-Porcupine had ore reserves of $12,000,000 and was paying dividends at the rate of 75 cents per share per annum, the stock was selling at $23.00 per share. At that time the potentialities of the central and eastern sections of the mine were largely a closed book. Today, ore reserves are over $16,000,000 and the company is paying $1.00 per annum in dividends, while many millions of dollars worth of ore have been put in sight ,and yet the shares are selling at $16.00.

Officials have stated that the No. 13 and No. 14 ore bodies, which have been opened up on more than ten levels, promise to be as good as No. 5 and No. 7 ore bodies, which have been to date the best in the mine and which have yielded some 15,000,000 in gold. It would seem, therefore, that McIntyre has in these two ore bodies, which have been to date the best in the mine and which have yielded some $15,000,000 in gold. It would seem, therefore, that McIntyre has in these two ore bodies alone sufficient ore to warrant construction of a new mill.

The financial News Bureau is informed that the new mill planned for McIntyre will assuredly be built. It will be the last word in metallurgical practice and will make other mills in the district relatively obsolete. It is calculated that McIntyre will be doing customs business.

The ore body opened up by a crosscut at the 2,625 ft. level, which shows 39 feet width of ore averaging better than $9 will, if it stands up so far demonstrated, prove a prolific producer.

McIntyre officials have stated repeatedly that they do not consider conclusive diamond drill results, except as geological indices. Drills have intersected ore in the new workings of which no account will be taken as real ore until they can be proven by actual development.

Visitors to Porcupine, who have talked with engineers report that the latter are highly sanguine as to what McIntyre will have to show when the management have a more complete picture of the new workings.

Porcupine Camp is "at a discount", at the moment because of the adverse experience of Hollinger. The conditions that were adverse for Hollinger proved favorable for McIntyre.

As at March 31st last, McIntyre Company had put aside in a special deposit $1,300,000, for the new mill.

The old, western workings of McIntyre, which have so far contributed most of the ore treated in the mine, have years of consistent production ahead of them. The western shaft that has carried the load for years is down to 3,000 feet. The floor of the workings here is ore.

McIntyre is putting the final touches to the huge ore pocket that has been built below 3,975 feet. The walls are being cemented to keep them entact. All ore chutes are ready, and first thing next month, probably the skies in No. 11 shaft will be hoisting ore from all parts of the mine. This will mark the climax of the big mine development program that has been underway for several years.

The Financial News Bureau understands that the long drive at the 3875 horizon is practically completed for the time being, and that ore development can be carried forward without interruption.

The widened break at 3,875 feet depth, both east and west of No. 11 shaft is more friable and more favorable to ore deposition than upper horizons.

RETURN FROM TRIP THROUGH MARITIMES

Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Cameron Spend Three Months Touring Eastern Canada and United States.

Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Cameron returned on Tuesday night to the city after spending the past three months in a motor tour of Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, during which they covered a distance of six thousand miles, and visited many points of interest in Eastern Canada. They also spent some time in the Eastern States.

After leaving Peterborough, they made a complete circuit of Old Ontario, by way of Toronto, Kingston, Sarnia and the Niagara Peninsula. Then they motored down through the Adirondacks to Boston and the New England States and on to St. John, N.B., thence through Nova Scotia and Cape Breton. They spent some time at Rothesay, N.B., where Mrs. Cameron's parents make their summer home, and returned by way of Quebec, stopping off at St. Patrick.

Dr. Cameron reports excellent roads all along the way, and satisfactory crop conditions throughout Quebec and the Maritimes. The eastern provinces show splendid progress being made along many lines, and in Halifax an ambitious building program has just been undertaken.

Barns Burn and Cows Die During Electric Storm

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 1. — (Canadian Press). — This city and vicinity was last night visited by a severe electric storm which did considerable damage in the country. In the township of Huntingdon, barns on the property of Morley Craig and Joseph Ash were destroyed with their contents. Alfred Holland of the same township had three cows killed by lightning. In Tyendinaga Township Hugh Hinchey's barn was burned with contents and residence of Percy Reid was damaged to a considerable extent by lightning but not burned. Arthur Vermilyea of Thurlow Township had a valuable cow killed by lightning. There was no damage done in the city. The buildings and animals killed were insured.

PLANE LANDS NEAR WARSAW

Many View Surrounding Country for First Time From Air.

STAYS TWO DAYS

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, Aug. 1.— An airplane landed in a field owned by Allan Payne, shortly before noon on Saturday and in a short time a large crowd had collected. Passengers were taken up in the afternoon, and in fact, the plane was kept busy until after nine o'clock on Saturday. The plane returned on Sunday morning when more passengers were taken up for ten minute flights.

Attends Service

The United church Sunday school went in a body to the Baptist church at 10.30 a. m. on Sunday after a short service at the United church. The evangelists gave a graphic illustration of the effect of sin on the mind and soul, by showing how certain chemicals can darken and blacken a clear fluid and others again clear it. The clear fluid represented a clean heart, the darkening solutions representing sin and the clarifying one the blood of Jesus.

Service Well Attended

The Baptist church was well filled at the three preaching services on Sunday. Mr. Gregory gave the morning message from Philipians III:14, "I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

He pointed out that it is natural for any one to strive to gain in any realm of activity and to enjoy good things. To win, one must conquer difficulties. No matter how great the danger, if something is earnestly desired, the danger counts as nothing and more so when a principle or some friendship or affection is at stake. Paul had suffered all sorts of afflictions and persecutions, but was able to praise God and he told his followers not to stand still but to press forward. The Christian should never be satisfied.

Supersition and backward looks prevent people from going forward. Gossip often hinders God's work greatly. People should be friendly with all, and forget meaness. Jesus bore all. Get back to Jesus Christ, and then people can go forward.

Get back to the family altar, and the family will be fortified against wrong. It is the power of every one to decide the way he takes and strength for the right way is found in Christ.

Mr. Young gave the address on Sunday afternoon and Mr. Brown, the one in the evening. At each service, Mr. Brown sang a solo, and he and Mr. Gregory a duet. Mr. Gregory accompanying on the organ.

Mr. Brown's message was the jailer's cry, "What Must I do to be Saved?" The speaker stressed the fact that people must decide and act. He spoke of the meetings of which this was the last, man felt the call, and came, others felt it, but did not.

There is no escape if we neglect. Neglect spells failure in any line. There must be faith. We cannot live without faith, and having faith, we must act. We must be conscious of the need of Jesus. We must believe in him, have faith in him, and act on that faith, trust Him."

In his plea he declared he was not asking for church members, but for Christ members.

To Exchange Pulpits

On Sunday Aug. 4, Rev Mr. McCleary will change with the minister from Glencoe, and on the following Sunday, Mr. Hyslip is expected to preach the Presbyterian church.

Entertains Young Men

Mr. William Miller and sister, Miss Maggie assisted by Dr. Munro, and some of the young men of his orchestra, entertained the three young Scotchmen who recently came to the country, and some other guests on Monday evening. A most delightful evening was spent with Scotch music.

There were several selections by the orchestra. Solos by Miss Olive Cullen, Jean Munro, and Ruth Cullen, William Goodman, Douglas Urquhart, highland fling by little Jean Sinclair; stories by Dr. Munro, Douglas Urquhart and others; Stephen Miller assisted with his banjo and Mr. Stickler gave a violin solo. The young men assisting Dr. Munro were Mr. Stickler, a recent arrival in Canada from Cardiff, Wales and Tom Davis with violin and George Crowe with his cornet. The young men who were guests of honor were Douglas Urquhart, William Goodman and Charles Anderson.

At the close of the enjoyable evening the host and hostess served a dainty lunch. Dr. Munro gave a little kindly advice to the newcomers to this country and the evening brought to a close with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

To Hold Picnics

On Monday, Aug. 5, the Ladies' Orange Society, will hold a picnic in A. Tedford's grove.

On Wednesday evening, Aug. 7, United church Sunday school will hold its annual ice cream social and entertainment.

On Thursday, August 8, the community picnic held by the Warsaw Women's Institute will be held in George Brown's grove. A good program of sports is being planned.

Crops Look Well

Hay is practically all in and wheat nearly so. Farmers generally are pleased with their wheat. The recent rains have helped fill the later grains. Potatoes promise well, and there are some good fields of roots. Garden stuff too, looks well, and several have reported their lettuce was the tenderest they ever had. Some gardens are gay with flowers and even around the steps of the school, bright flowers are seen, the result of Miss Young's work.

Huckleberries are plentiful and raspberry pickers report a good crop.

Allan Payne has an excellent field of corn, said to be about the best in this district.

ISSUES NEW STAMPS

She was attended by her sister, Miss Selina Aboud, charmingly attired in pale yellow crepe georgette, with picture hat and carrying a bouquet of tiny pink rose buds. Mr. Aboud gave his daughter away. The groom was supported by Mr. J. Kouri, of Toronto.

Mrs. Leon Breen presided at the organ, and the choir rendered suitable music throughout the mass. At the offertory Mrs. J. Bedford sang "There is No Heart Like Thine."

After a wedding breakfast, to which only the relatives and most intimate friends were invited, the happy couple left for a trip to the Thousand Islands. The bride's going-away outfit was a sand ensemble with blonde shoes and hose and white summer felt hat. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

Campbellford Welcomes Her Old Boys and Girls

FIRST WHITE MAN SETTLED IN CAMPBELLFORD IN 1834; VILLAGE INCORPORATED 1876

Country First Settled by British Soldiers Discharged After Napoleonic War.

BECAME TOWN IN 1906

J. W. Dinwoodie Was the First Reeve of the Municipality.

Campbellford, July 29.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence)—Ninety-five years ago, the first white man came to make his home in the vast hardwood forest that clothed this section of what was then, Upper Canada. The following summer others came in his wake. Soon there were a number of settlers in the district and the town of Campbellford began its growth from a wilderness to its present prosperous status. It has taken almost ninety years for this progress to be made, and the history of those years, most of it is interesting, and well worth knowing. The country was mostly settled by British military officers discharged after Napoleon had been defeated. Among these were Major Campbell and his brother, Colonel Campbell. It was from the former that the town derived its name, Campbellford. In the early days, it was necessary to ford the river where his property was located. Thus people referred to Campbell's Ford. The derivation of the present name thus becomes obvious. It was about twenty-five years after the first settlers came in that the little cluster of dwellings decided to separate from the Township of Seymour and become a corporation in itself. This was in 1876. The necessary legislation was brought into force January 17th of that year. At that time John Clarke was Reeve of the township with John Macoun as his deputy. The councillors were R. H. Bonnycastle, W. Bell and Samuel Dunk. When the village of Campbellford was incorporated, J. W. Dinwoodie was the first Reeve. There was no deputy Reeve. Or if there was, his name does not appear in the minutes of these early meetings. The council consisted of W. B. Archer, D. Collins, Jr., J. B. Morton and Robert Linton. Henry E. Skinner was the first village clerk.

Campbellford's First By-Law.

Apparently Campbellford boasted a High School in 1876. The first by-law passed by the council was to appoint a High School Trustee, and Reeve Dinwoodie was the man appointed. The by-law dated January 17, 1876, and reads: Whereas it is necessary to appoint a High School Trustee for the village of Campbellford, be it enacted as follows, that the party hereinafter mentioned shall be and is hereby appointed High School Trustee in and for the High School in the village of Campbellford, under and by virtue of the provisions of the High School Act.

Be it therefore enacted that the Corporation of the village of Campbellford and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same that J. W. Dinwoodie is hereby appointed High School Trustee for said High School District.

Hy. E. Skinner, Clerk. J. W. Dinwoodie. Reeve.

This was the first by-law. They continued to number as high as one-hundred and nine. Then Campbellford became a town.

Incorporated as a Town.

Thirty years later, July 2, 1906, the village became a town. There was a great celebration the previous day to commemorate the event. W. J. Doxsee, Reeve of the village since 1903, automatically became Campbellford's first Mayor. He held the office up to and including 1911. The council consisted of A. H. McKeel, Chas. Cassan, J. A. Irwin and S. J. Abernethy. Mayor Doxsee was a man whom Campbellford will not soon forget. He was a successful business man of the town, and deeply interested in its welfare. He was a soldier, and as such won distinction in the South African War. When the Great War broke out, he volunteered his services and went overseas with the first Canadian Contingent, as a Captain of Infantry. He was reported missing after the battle of Langemark.

Industrial Activities.

Among the things for which the town is famous, is the fact that it was one of the first municipalities in Ontario to own and operate its own electric power plant. In January, 1899, the village council passed by-laws 171 and 172, appropriating $25,000 for the installation of an electric system and a water system. Work on the electric system was not started till January, 1890, but the water system was in operation in December, 1899. This branch of the town affairs was conducted by a Water and Light Commission. The late W. B. Archer was the first chairman of this commission with the late Dr. Macoun, the late James Benor and W. H. Ashton, as the other members. The late W. W. Armstrong, Reeve of the village at that time, was a member by virtue of his office.

The first electric plant was, compared to the present machinery, a crude affair. These were two machines, one to supply current to the arc lights, the other to the incandescent system. The first machine was referred to as a twenty-two arc light machine and the other as a five-hundred incandescent. This mechanical layout was housed in the present fire hall. Sam Lucas, whose death occurred recently, was the first operator. James Carr was his successor. The plant was kept in operation till December, 1908.

In 1899, the commission purchased property from the Gilmour Lumber Company at the foot of Crow Bay. The property was repaired and altered to some extent and thus the second step in municipal power development came about. It went into operation as a town plant sometime during the month of September, 1899. At that time, the commission board passed by-law number thirteen, setting the flat rates for commercial and domestic electrical consumption. It is interesting to note that portions of this by-law are still in force. The generator at the Crow Bay plant was a two-thousand light machine with a smaller machine driven by a belt from a pulley attached to the larger unit. The late Thomas Ford was the first operator at the Crow Bay plant.

To-day's Power House.

At the present time, there stands not far from the site of the old Gilmour plant, a modern building, housing modern generators capable of developing 2,000 killowatts. The building was completed and the machines started in 1909. It is of concrete and stone on a steel frame. The first machine was an Allis-Chalmers Bullock type generator of 750 killowatt capacity. Two years later, the second unit was installed by Smith, Carey and Chase. This machine was a General Electric product and capable of 1250 kilowatts capacity. From time to time there has been talk of installing a third unit, but nothing definite has been done as yet. It is understood that the installation would be an expensive operation. As an asset to the town, the value of the power plant may be estimated roughly by the fact that its gross receipts last year were well in excess of $40,000.

Local Hydro Development.

Although the Municipal power plant was the first in the district, there are several more along the river at the present time. The Hydro Electric Power Commission has become interested in the Trent River possibilities and has established a modern system in this district. There are five plants in the chain, not including the Campbellford one, which, at times, is switched into line with the Hydro. The development is approximately 45,000 horsepower. Roughly speaking, one horsepower is equal to one and one-third kilowatts. The operating staff in the Campbellford district comprises some thirty men with a maintenance crew of twelve as an average. Of the local system, the Healey Falls plant is the largest development at 10,000 Kilowatts. Number ten power house, as it is usually referred to locally, may be said to control the greatest development. From its controls, two other plants operate. These are numbers eight and nine plants, with a development of 1200 kilowatts between them.

At one time, the power developed in this district was consumed largely in the same area. This is not the case at the present time. The local plants are sometimes operated in connection with the Gatineau system and at others, they fall in line with the Cedar Rapids system down on the St. Lawrence River.

The Paper Mill.

Perhaps the oldest of the local industries that has continued to operate almost continually, is the Paper Mill, more properly known as the Campbellford Mill of the Canadian Paperboard Company, with headquarters in Montreal. At the present time, the mill is not in operation, but there is a feeling that it will soon be running full time again.

The first mill that Campbellford knew as a paper mill, was owned by a man named Keeler of Colborne. It was a frame building and the methods employed were strikingly crude as compared to the modern industry. In those days, all the board was placed on racks to dry in the sun. These racks were out of doors and in case there came a long spell of wet weather or sunless days, the mill was forced to discontinue operations till such times as the weather conditions were more favorable. After drying, the product was taken back into the mill for finishing purposes. The capacity of the mill was two tons per day.

The original old stone mill was built by E. G. Birk. It had a capacity of about eight tons of paper board per day. This mill was destroyed, or partially destroyed by fire, about ten years ago. When it was rebuilt, it was equipped for an output of approximately five times its former record. At the present time, it is owned by the Canadian Paper Board Company, and had a capacity of approximately forty tons per twenty-four hours. It contained all the most modern machinery and was operated with a staff of fifty men on the two shifts. Since September last year, it has not been in operation, but several men interested have expressed the belief that it will re-open soon. One industrial feature of the mill is the fact that it owns its own private electrical development plant which is capable of generating 1000 horsepower.

PULP MILL WAS ERECTED IN 1909

One of Town's Youngest Industries, But Nevertheless One of Busiest.

RAW MATERIAL SHIPPED IN

The local pulp mill, owned and operated by the Hydro Electric Power Commission, may be termed one of the younger industries of the town. It is, nevertheless, one of the busiest. The mill is situated south of the corporation, on the west bank of the river. It is of concrete and steel construction and is a complete manufacturing unit in itself. Former citizens who have been away from town for more than twenty years will not remember it, because it wasnt there then. But the management has extended an open invitation to the visitors to look over the plant and its product. Those who accept the invitation, whether they are interested in wood pulp or not, will not regret their visit if they pause for a moment to drink in the view of the River and woods which is afforded from the east doors of the mill. What is generally considered the prettiest piece of scenery in the community, meets the eye from the east doors of the mill.

The Pulp Mill was erected in 1909 by the Hydro Commission interests. Its purpose is to change spruce and Balsam wood into pulp fibre and sell it to the industries requiring this product. Most of the supply of wood comes from the limits near Bancroft, and until recently, the Hydro held large tracts in that district. Now the supply is purchased mostly from settlers and private concerns. The wood is shipped to the plant by rail. If it is not already peeled, its first treatment is at the rosser house where the bark is removed and the wood itself, cut in the proper lengths for the grinders. The bark, at one time a waste product, is now used as a fuel for heating the plant during winter.

At the north side of the mill is a mountain of wood, stripped of its bark, and cut into lengths of about eighteen inches. Slowly but surely, the grinders eat into the mountain as the men with the trolley cars bring load after load into the mill to satisfy the gnawing hunger of the great revolving stones. The wood is fed by hydraulic pressure to the four grind stones in the grinder room. During this operation, it is mixed with water so as to make a sort of mash. This mash is collected on the felts of the Wet Machines and rolled out in a continuous sheet which is cut off and folded by the operators. These sheets are loaded onto trucks and placed under the huge hydraulic presses where most of the water is pressed out of the pulp, leaving it with the appearance of coarse paper. The pressure exerted is as high as 1500 pounds per square inch. Shipping facilities are right at hand with a special spur line of the Canadian National serving the mill right at the east doors.

RATHBURN'S OLD LUMBER MILL

Rathburn's lumber mill at the corner of Front and Ranney streets. This was at one time one of the flourishing industries of the town. Several years ago it ceased to function, and the only building that now remains is the ice-house, owned by A. J. Meyers. Many of the old boys may be seen standing on the siding. Frank Golden, manager of the mill, is in the buggy, while Michael O'Donohue, foreman of the drives, is over at the fence. Others in the picture are: George Horkins, Joe Clairmount, John Callahan, John Oliver, Joe Mahoney and Mac Boyd.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND WAS FIRST DENOMINATION IN SETTLEMENT

Roman Catholics Followed Within a Space of Year or Two.

BEAUTIFUL BUILDINGS NOW

In Campbellford, there is a church for practically every leading denomination of the protestant faith and the Roman Catholic Church is considered one of the most beautiful in the district. As nearly as can be ascertained, the Church of England was the first to appear in the district. The Roman Catholic followed within the space of a year or two. Then came the Presbyterian, Methodist (Now United) Baptist and other smaller denominations.

As was the case with most of the churches, the Baptists began to worship as a small group in a wood working shop in the township of Seymour, at what is called Menie, about five miles east of Campbellford. As long ago as 1868, Baptists met in the homes of the district for service. In 1876, the Seymour Baptists opened a mission room in the Irwin Block. It was not till 1884 that the present congregation was organized by the Reverend William Peer. Before his pastorate, however, the Reverend W. H. Walker and the Reverend R. T. Fox officiated in Campbellford and Seymour as visiting clergymen holding services as regularly as possible. The Rev. Hugh Shaw, at present living in retirement at Menie, was the successor to Mr. Peer. C. M. Carew, O. E. Kendall and W. Riggs, student ministers, each spent six months as ministers of the congregation. Since that time, there have been several ministers in the local Baptist Church, the Reverends, W. S. Baker; W. E. Orton; John McLennan; W. C. Sage; James Cross; William Bilton; H. S. Bennett; E. D. Ford and the present minister, the Reverend L. M. Smith.

As for the church building, it is not new. Originally it was a Methodist Episcopal church, erected in 1874. This congregation worshipped in the building until the time of the union of the different branches of the Methodist faith, when it was sold to the Baptist congregation.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian church property is reckoned one of the most outstanding church properties in the district. The fine brick church and the brick manse, situated at the top of the hill, with its sweep of green lawn shaded by tall Elm trees, forms and imposing picture. It marks the progress of Presbyterianism in this district for eighty-nine years. In 1840 the Presbyterians worshipped in the farm house on the Given Homestead. Later the congregation grew so as to make it necessary to secure a larger building. The log school house was used. Eventually sufficient funds were secured to build a church and become an independent congregation This was in the early Eighties. The Reverend John Hay, was the first minister of the congregation and he is given credit for having preached the sides out of the church. One thing certain is, that during his time here, the congregation grew to such proportions that the building as it stood, would not accommodate the people. The building had to be enlarged. This was done by adding wings to the north and southsides of the original structure and thus increasing the seating capacity approximately one hundred per cent. The Reverend John Hay began his ministry here in 1885, and terminated it four years later. Since that time seven ministers have guided the spiritual welfare of the church. They are the Reverend Marcus Scott, 1889-1895; Rev. Dr. Robert Laird, 1895-1899; Rev. A. C. Reeves, 1899-1908; Rev. C. A. Brown, 1908;1916-Rev. C. F. MacIntosh, 1916-1925; Rev. James Grier, 1925-1928. The Rev. W. J. Mark, D.D., is the present minister of the church, having succeeded the Reverend James Grier who is now minister of the Presbyterian church in Lindsay, Ont.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

One of the fine buildings which visitors will not fail to notice is St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church. It is the imposing gray stone building at the top of the School Hill. Not only is it a place of worship, but it is a land mark that is widely known. Every day, motorists who enquire directions east of the town are told to turn right at the top of the hill, in front of the church. That is as it is now. It was the same three-quarters of a century ago. Then the church building stood practically alone on the brow of the hill, backed and flanked by the forest. It was not a stone building then, but a frame structure suitable to the times and the needs of the members of the parish then. The exact date when this first church was built, is not known. It was destroyed by fire Christmas, 1899. In the blaze, all records were lost. The building was a total loss and almost all the contents. Only a few articles from the altar were saved from destruction From the ashes of the frame building, the present stone structure rose with amazing rapidity. Burned on December, 1899, the corner stone of the new church was laid May 22, 1900. The church was ready for use the same summer. This was during the pastorate of the late Father McCloskey, whose remains are interred in the church grounds.

In the early days of the settlement of the township, there was no St. Mary's Parish as it is known to-day. The late Reverend Father John Quirk attended to the religious side of the life of the pioneers all over the district that was being settled. Later he became the priest in the vicinity of Hastings. His successor was the late Reverend Father Casey. At that time, the local parish was a mission under the supervision of the priest in Warkworth. Father Casey began his work in the district in 1879 and continued as parish priest until 1894. The late Reverend Father Conley was the next clergyman. He remained from February 1894, til June 1895, then transferred his services to Hastings. The late Father McCloskey was the local Catholic clergyman for a period of about eight years, 1895 to 1903. It was during his time that the church was destroyed by fire, and the present building erected. It was largely due to his untiring effort that such a fine building was erected in such a short time. For eighteen years, Father Whibbs guided the religious life of the members of St. Mary's parish, leaving here in July, 1921, to become a clergyman in Lindsay.

For the past seven years, the Reverend Father Phelan, formerly rector of the Peterborough Cathedral, has been the priest of St. Mary's Parish. During his time the church property has been improved in several respects. The wooden steps across the entire front of the church have been replaced by concrete. Last year the church was rewired and a modern lighting system installed which added greatly to the appearance of the church's interior. The walls and woodwork were also re-decorated and several improvements made to the exterior as well. At the present time, the Campbellford Roman Catholic church is considered one of the finest in the district.

UNITED CHURCH.

Although the present church building, St. John's United Church, dates back only forty-six years, there was a Methodist congregation in the village long before that time. Among the early ministers of the congregation were the Reverend James Clarke; Rev. James Anderson, 1888; Rev. Caleb Parker, 1891; Rev. Thos. W. Joliffe, 1893; Rev. T. M. Campbell, 1896; Rev. R. B. Greatrix, 1900; Rev. G. H. Copeland, 1904; Rev. A. J. Strike, 1908-12; Rev. W. B. Tucker, 1912-15; Rev. A. R. Sanderson, 1915-19; Captain, the Rev. H. B. Jenny, 1919-23; Rev. W. Elliott, 1923-26; Rev. Ernest Harston, 1927 and the present minister, the Reverend R. C. Tait.

To the Anglican church goes the honor of being the oldest church in the town. It was founded by the earliest settlers. These were mostly ex-soldiers of the British Imperial army, discharged after the Napoleonic campaign which terminated with the battle of Waterloo. The original building has been added to since it was built. In the church yard are to be found the grave stones of several of these pioneer soldier-settlers.

OLD TOWN HALL STANDS UNUSED

Real Hive of Industry in the Town is the Creamery.

REMINDER OF FORMER DAYS

Another hive of industry which is open to visitors during the week, is the Trent Valley Creamery on Rear Street. H. N. Carr, the owner and manager, has kindly consented to do his best to show visitors how good butter should be made. The present building was not originally designed for the manufacture of butter and had only been used for that purpose for comparatively few years. But the industry itself is not new in the district. Jabez McCulloch, who is still in its employ, vividly recalls the days when he drove a creamery wagon through the district, collected the cream at each of the farmhouses, and had to weigh each can and do most of the book keeping right on the spot. Now as he sits at the wheel of his big three-ton truck, he often smiles as he recalls the old-fashioned methods he first knew. In those days the creamery was across the river and pretty well to the north end of the town.

The present building and business is valued at $50,000. There are twelve employees on the staff and four trucks keep the flow of cream supplied to the men inside. The capacity of the plant is ten tons of butter per week. The creamery has its own mechanical refrigeration plant, and is equipped throughout with DeLaval machinery. All the cream used is pasteurised, and the standard of butter manufactured is the highest possible. In 1927 the Cambellford creamery was the runner up for the trophy presented for the most sanitary butter in Ontario. In 1928 the trophy was won by the plant. The record which was established at that time has only been reached once by any other creamery in the Dominion of Canada. This year, the product is still up to a very high standard. Some time ago, much of the butter made here was exported, but of late years it has all been sold in Canada. Asked if any New Zealand butter was used here, Mr. Carr denied most emphatically that any of it ever came into the plant.

Public Buildings.

While the visitors and the Old Boys and Girls are in town, they will look over the public buildings. Just how Campbellford compares to the hundreds of municipalities from which they have come, remains to be seen. But this town has some buildings of which it is proud. Perhaps the most pretentious of these is the new High School on Ranney Street. Those who dance will probably "Attend school" frequently during the week. They will have just that many opportunities of inspecting the building. It was recently completed at a cost of approximately one hundred thousand dollars and is classed as number one in every respect by the school inspectors. With the exception of two lots, the building and grounds occupy one complete town block. The grounds are mostly well kept lawn, but there is also an extensive playground at the north side of the building. Inside, the school is completely equipped with everything from the cloak rooms just inside the front doors, to the gymnasium in the basement. It is generally considered the most modern building in the corporation. With its present decorations, it is more than ever attractive.

Further down the street, are two more schools, the public school and the old high school, now being used for public school classes. One block east, or generally speaking, just over the hill, is the St. Mary's separate school. All four institutions considered there, is an attendance of approximately nine-hundred students.

Another of the fine buildings which stands out prominently is the Carnegie Public Library at the corner of Ranney and Bridge Streets. The building is a two-story structure with practically half the upper floor lined with book shelves containing thousands of volumes approved by the board of trustees. On this floor also, are the reading rooms, one for ladies and the other for gentlemen. The study room with its reference library is one of the most valuable rooms in town so far as the general seeker of knowledge is concerned. Once safely seated within its four walls, the student has at his disposal, any volume or work in the building. If he is unable to locate it, Miss Helen Campbell, the librarian, is ever willing to be of assistance. Her cheery smile has won her a friendship with practically everyone who patronizes the institution.

The ground floor of the building is, primarily, the council chamber. Here too, the courts assemble to dispense justice. Various clubs and committees meet to discuss the activities of their organizations.

Reminder of Former Days.

On Front Street, just north of Market Street, the old town hall stands as a reminder of former days. At one time it was used as court room, gaol, dance hall, and general entertainment centre of the community. But these days have passed forever, it is believed, and the old stone building stands practically unused, waiting for something for it to do to be found. For several years, it has been used only for a polling booth whenever an election day comes around. Until recently, the local police lodged the occasional offender there for the night, but even that practice has ceased.

Across the river on the north side of Tice Street, is what the town folk generally refer to as the armouries. It also is a stone building and is leased by the government for a term of years, to be used as headquarters for the local militia detachment, B. company, Northumberland Regiment. Until this year the site was considered anything but a beauty spot, but the council put the town men to work there and the grounds have been levelled and seeded. A decorative and at the same time, serviceable wire fence has been put around the property. Inside, the east half of the building has been redecorated by the local branch of the Canadian Legion. The west side is the headquarters for the band. On the second floor, the quartermaster holds forth with his young mountain of supplies and equipment.

OLD BOY ADDRESSES CAMPBELLFORD ROTARY

Greatest Day Club has Enjoyed since its Organization last Year.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 30. — Yesterday was the greatest day the local Rotary Club has enjoyed since its organization last year. The luncheon was in the St. Lawrence dining room and the Rotarians and their guests filled most of the tables. The Rev. Arch. Graham, a visiting Old Boy, was the principal speaker. His remarks were on the famous Peace River District. They were highly enthusiastic for the future of this part of Canada. Rev. Mr. Graham was the special minister in St. Johns United Church yesterday and also spoke at the reception yesterday afternoon.

At the conclusion of Mr. Graham's address, John Hannigan of Guelph, and Charles W. Johnston, of Galveston, Texas, also spoke briefly. The Campbellford Rotary Club is new to them. When they left here there was no such organization. The town was but a very small village. They expressed their pleasure at being the club guests and wished it every success in the future.

The guests yesterday were Charles Levinson, Hamilton; Rev. Arch. Graham, Stamford; T. J. Hannigan, of Guelph; J. J. O'Sullivan, town; Lyle Mills, London; James "Jimmy" Clarke, Jamestown, N.Y., Rev. TRAFFIC OFFICERS ASK FOR DRIVERS' PERMITS

Two Men Stationed Near Omemee Make Thorough Survey of All Motor Traffic.

OMEMEE, July 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—Two traffic officers stationed just outside of Omemee, the one on the Omemee-Peterborough highway and the other on Omemee-Downeyville road, on Wednesday afternoon, caused some delay to passing motorists. As a result of their mission, several summonses have been served for failure to carry driving permits, and no doubt a number of fines will be collected.

TOWING ROPE BREAKS LETTING CAR DOWN HILL

OMEMEE, July 30.—(Examiner Corespondence).—An Omemee youth narrowly escaped serious injury last week while steering a car which was being towed down the grade at the foundry, a blow-out occurred, thus forcing the car toward the ditch with the result that the rope broke and the car and driver went over an embankment of several feet. Fortunately, the car stayed upright and apart from a broken wheel no further damage resulted.

Old Boys' Association Will Have Gala Re-union To-morrow.

GOOD RACING

Sailors and Sea Flea Skippers Will Provide Plenty of of Thrill.

The fifteenth annual re-union of the Mount Julian Old Boys' Association at the popular Stoney Lake resort on Friday promises to be the most enjoyable in the annals of the association, judging from the program that has been prepared.

The celebration is to be an all-day affair, and old Mount Julian patrons from far and near are expected to be on hand. Incidentally there are prizes for the oldest of the old boys and girls.

Among the events of interest in the day's fun are the sailing races for the Harris Ardiel trophy; six heats of outboard speed boat racing, and a handicap race of outboard motored Kawartha Lakes fishing boats, this competition to include three heats.

The first heat of the sailing races will get under way at 10.30 o'clock and the second at 1 p.m., points to count.

The sea fleas will start at 2 o'clock, and it is expected the boats in the handicap race will face the starter at 3.30 p.m.

Altogether Mount Julian old boys have made possible a program full of fun and excitement, and there should be few dull moments in the shadow of the mountain on Friday.

The committee in charge includes Bill Thompson, Keith Leck, L. Hall, Bill Hall, Lorne Ardiel, Admiral Oxley, Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, Jim Fraser, Patrick Young, H. A. Brown, Bill Brooks, Gordon Matthews, Charles H. Lamb, Walter H. Wright, Chas. Ackerman and Robert Dobie.

ALLOWANCES' REPORT OUT

Interesting Facts Revealed in Annual Paper by Mothers' Allowance Commission.

BENEFICIARIES INCREASE

MILLBROOK, July 31.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Several facts presented in the latest annual report issued by the Mothers' Allowances Commission of Ontario, covering the year 1927-28, are of general interest inasmuch as the various municipalities have to provide fifty per cent. of the funds required, except in unorganized districts where the full amount is borne by the government.

The number of beneficiaries is steadily increasing in spite of the very careful scrutiny given every application by the Local Boards, the Investigators, and the Commission.

Widowed Mothers Grow

In a growing population the increase in the number of widowed mothers is to be expected, but, the report states, "the number of desertion cases, and of incapacitated husbands, has been mounting up to an alarming extent, and calls for the closest and most critical scrutiny of every such case coming before us." The regulation that if the husband's whereabouts are known the wife is ineligible for the allowance makes the desertion cases a serious problem, and has probably entailed considerable suffering. It has been found, however, that the majority of the deserters go to the United States, and all the expense entailed in bringing th man back to Ontario, and having the court decide that he must pay an allowance must be borne by the wife, herself in need, and with no money to spare for this purpose. Experience has proved that if the deserter is brought here and sentenced to pay a weekly, or monthly, sum for the support of his wife and family, the money is seldom paid, and the man again disappears.

Many Refused

As for the incapacitation cases, which have also grown so rapidly, the Commission gives these most careful consideration, but has been obliged to refuse a large percentage, as not being totally and permanently disabled within the meaning of the ct. As an instance—if a young man, otherwise mentally and physically fit, has become totally blind, the Commission strongly advises a course in the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, paying the allowance to the wife while he is taking the necessary training.

To insure satisfactory attendance of the children of beneficiaries at school a new regulation has been introduced during the year by which monthly report cards must be sent in regularly to the Commission at Toronto. If the card has not been received by the twentieth of each month the allowance cheque is withheld. This has proved very effective, and school principals have not hesitated to express their appreciation of the improved attendance of the children at school. Moreover the effect on the child is also apparent, as there has been noted a constant endeavor to keep the card free from bad marks. The chief of police, in one city, states he has little or no trouble with the children of beneficiaries, the threat that he will report any misbehaviours to the Investigator having the desired effect promptly.

Are Good Idea

The travelling schools, inaugurated by the government, for bringing educational facilities to the boys and girls in outlying districts, have proved of great benefit, and children of mothers drawing the allowance, have in many cases made wonderful progress.

Recommendations and requests from Local Boards, and from other sources, repeatedly asking that the Act be amended to include the mother with one child, and the wives whose husbands are serving terms in penal institutions. The commission wishes to point out that these are matters for government consideration, and are entirely outside its control.

The percentage cost of the administration of the Act was again reduced the year coverd by the last report the figures being: 3.5 per cent for 1927-28, compared with 3.7 the previous year, and 3.93 in 1925-26.

Holds Day Session

The Commission holds a business session monthly through the year, sitting four days each time for consideration of applications, and cases where the allowance has been granted and changes may be necessary. The secretarial report shows the number of beneficiaries for 1927-28 as 5,39, and the amount disbursed $2,190,407, for the previous year, 4,729, and $2,007,557; a net increase of 410 persons receiving the allowance and of $182,850. The average monthly increase was 34.16 per cent. and the figures $15,237.50.

Peterborough Has 50

Peterborough County had 36 beneficiaries, and the amount disbursed was $14.164; less cheques cancelled $75, total $14,089; Peterborough city had 50 beneficiaries, and the amount received was $22,549; less cheques cancelled, $185.223.64; Northumberland County had 41 beneficiaries, amount disbursed $14,725; Durham County had 32 beneficiaries amount $11.990; less cheques cancelled $290, total $11,700.

The commission is very careful to weed out cases likely to bring the Act into disrepute, patience, tact, careful and well-balanced judgement being necessary. The large amount of money expended annually is provided by the taxpayer and the Board must keep in mind that the taxpayers' interest lies in the judicious expenditure of the money.

The great concern is the children who are the innocent sufferers when a beneficiary proves guilty of misbehaviour, though the latter is always conferred with and given every opportunity to make good, since the investigation staff is vitally interested in every phase of the family life. A small percentage do prove failures, the mother failing to respond to warnings, pleadings, or change of location, but none are despaired of unless the conditions become such that the atmosphere of the home is detrimental to the child's welfare. In such a case reference is at once made to some organization possessing authority to act on behalf if the children.

64.5 Percent. Canadians

The nationality, by birth, of the beneficiaries for the past year was 64.5 per cent. Canadian, and 26.6 per cent. other British; leaving beneficiaries of foreign birth, naturalized but 8.9 per cent.

There are nineteen competent investigators in Ontario, and over five hundred members of local boards giving their time freely for the administration of the Act. On the Peterborough County Board are: Colonel R. E. Birdsall, chairman; vice-chairman, John McIntosh, Peterborough R.R. 3; Mrs. B. W. Squire, Norwood, secretary; C. J. Darling, Warsaw, and Miss M. Tanner, Lakefield. Peterborough city Board includes: Chairman, Mrs. J. Knox; vice-chairman, James Abraham; secretary, F. H. Dobbin; T. J. McMurray, Mrs. Jos. Mills, Mrs. George Benton, and Joseph M. Maher. The Board for Durham County is: F. W. Galbraith, Port Hope, chairman; A. Van Camp, Burketon, vice-chairman; Mrs. A. J. Nicho's, Bowmanville, secretary; H. Bland, Ida; Miss Pearl Burnham, Millbrook; T. B. Chalk, Port Hope, and C. J. Thornton, Orono. Northumberland County has the following representatives: Nelson Stone, Campbellford, Chairman; Edwin Quinn, Colborne, secretary; Mrs. M. E. Maybee, Trenton; Mrs. Pindlay Clarke, Brighton; A. R. Dundass, Cobourg, and Miss May McCaughey, Cobourg.

Receiving the allowance for 1927-28 were a total of 5,976 beneficiaries; the number of children 17,328. The total amount expended since the inception of the Act in November 1920, to Octobr 31, 1928, less cancelled cheques, was $13,321,570.

GIRL ELOPER LANDS IN CELL

Ran Away With Married Man—Returns for Children.

ASKS POLICE AID

DETROIT, Aug. 1.—Lila Ormsby, who ran away with a married man six weeks ago, came back yesterday to get his four children. The victim of her own audacity, she was in a cell at police headquarters last night.

Meanwhile, the man, Clifford Totten, 32 years old, 1260 Perry street, who received $10 and transportation to Detroit instead of a sentence when he was charged with non-support of his family before a Chicago judge yesterday, was believed to be on his way home to his family, jobless and penniless.

On his arrival, his wife said, he would be greeted by dectives from Trumbull station with a warrant for his arrest for failing to provide for her and the children.

Miss Ormsby, who is 20 years old and formerly lived at 3772 St. Clair avenue, left Hotten in Rockford, Ill., reecntly. She called on his wife in Detroit and offered to take Totten's children, too, explaining that Totten was lonely without them. The wife demurred and the two women went to the office of the prosecuting attorney to have it out. At the end of a discussion, Miss Ormsby was led to a cell and held as a police witness against Tott en, who may be prosecutec under the Mann Act by federal authorities.

To these authorities yesterday the young woman told of a romance that blossomed rapidly amid the clamor of a manufacturing plant. She was operating a punch press. Totten was her foreman. This relationship was only two weeks old, she said, when they decided upon one more intimate. On a pay-day they ran away to Rockford, Ill.

"I love him," she said, "but I was worried. He got a job and I sat around in our two rooms all day and waited for him. There was plenty of time to think, and I thought mostly of Mrs. Totten and her four children. At night I dreamed of them Finally I decided to go back to straighten the matter out. Cliff didn't want me to, and wouldn't give me any money for the trip, but I got on a bus and talked my way back to Detroit.

Didn't Expect Arrest.

"Mrs. Totten told me she was sorry Cliff hadn't told her about me before he left home. Then I offered to take the children—to do anything to fix things up. She thought we ought to get some legal advice, so we went to the prosecutor's office.

"I didn't expect to be arrested, but the more I sit here and think of it the more I guess I deserve it. I made a big mistake in going away with Cliff, I guess."

Miss Ormsby was told that railway and bus terminals in Detroit would be watched for Totten, and that he would be arrested should he return to Detroit. It was not known then that he was presumably on his way here, having been given funds by Judge John Lupe, of the Chicago Court of Domestic Relations.

Tott en, who was wanted by police for failing to support his family, was picked up in one of the Chicago parks. He told of losing his job, of the heavy debts that followed and of final decision to look for work in Chicago, but made no mention of Miss Ormsby.

He told the court he could find no work and had not even the price of a postage stamp to communicate with Mrs. Totten and the children.

"Would you like to go back to Detroit?" asked Judge Lupe.

Totten said he would.

"All right," decided the judge, "I'll give you $10 and get you transportation on a bus."

..nd he did.

OUR CHILDREN

BENEFICENT FEARS.

Fear has a very definite place in child training. We need it but we must keep it where it belongs. That is not easy because it is scarcely possible to instill, or arouse an emotion in isolation. That is, we cannot teach a child to fear fire without having him associate fire with ideas of dread. Yet we must teach a child to avoid fire lest he endanger himself and others.

And we must teach him caution of the water, care in the use of sharp tools, fear of wrong conduct. Fear is a safeguard but it must be used in that spirit and no other, for it is a very dangerous force.

It must not be used to establish a relationship between parents and children, teachers and children, doctors and nurses and children. If fear lies between them in this relationship it is almost impossible to work successfully with the children.

Parents and other directors of childhood sometimes feel that it is necessary to teach children to fear them in order to have the children respect them. What they mean by that is that the children jump to obey their slightest word. Now a child may obey immediately and habitually and have not the slightest respect for the director because his fear has killed respect. No child respects a bully. All children respect intelligence and those who put fear in the stead of love when teaching children are not intelligent in the highest sense of that word, the sense that children understand.

Children learn to obey, to follow leadership, through experience. When they learn that following a leader's word brings safety and happiness and success, as they certainly will discover if the leadership is wise, they gladly follow. But if they find that the leadership is whimsical, selfish, unthinking, they disregard it as far as they can with safety to themselves and break off all relationship as soon as may be.

Then teach little children to shun fire, disease, dirt, sharp tools, wrong conduct. Dwell on the dangerous things but let the ordinary things go by. Life experiences will soon adjust them. Never use fear to force a child to obey you when the occasion offers opportunity for understanding.

The Bible says the fear of God is the beginning of wisdom. Now instead of fear as usually understood, read understanding, or love. That is the true meaning of that term. Whatever fear you set in the spirit of love and understanding, will be beneficent fear and a safeguard for the child, physically and spiritually. But the fear you set for your selfish end, to gratify your mood, or to save yourself trouble, is very likely to prove a malignant fear.

Test your teaching. Do I want this done for the child's well-being or for mine? For his safety or my conduct? For his growth or my repose? Then go ahead.

PAYS VISIT TO GOV.-GENERAL'S HOME

An interesting social gathering was witnessed the other day at Murray Bay, Quebec, when Lord Willingdon, governor-general of Canada, and Lady Willingdon, paid a visit to William Howard Taft, chief justice and ex-president of the United States, and Mrs. Taft. The photograph shows, left to right, Mr. Taft, Lady Willingdon, Mrs. Taft and Lord Willingdon, in front of the Taft summer home.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

DROWNING ACCIDENTS.

One summer day some years ago, I was rushed out in a boat to help resuscitate a young woman who had fallen from a boat and had been in the water some minutes before she was brought to the surface.

Arriving at the boat I found the patient lying on her back, a pulmotor being used.

I turned the victim on abdomen and water immediately rushed out of her mouth.

Now a pulmotor is a splendid thing and inducing artificial respiration is essential, but the first thought in these cases is to have the victim lying with face down, even slightly lower than the feet, so that any water in the nose, throat, lungs, or stomach may get a chance to come out.

And it is while the victim is lying in this position, that artificial respiration should be induced.

You will remember that the old method was rolling him on a barrel, or raising arms upward and downwaru while the patient is lying on his back (Silvester method). But all these methods have now been superseded by the Schafer method.

I write about this every year because the number of drowning accidents does not seem to grow less.

Lay the patient on the ground face downward, one arm extended directly overhead, the other arm bent at elbow, and with face turned outward and resting on hand or forearm, so that nose and throat are free for breathing. Kneel straddling the patient's thighs. Place the palm of your hands on the small of the back with the fingers resting on the ribs, the little finger just touching the lowest rib. With arms held straight, swing forward slowly so that the weight of your body is gradually brought to bear on the patient. Don't bend your elbows. This takes about two seconds.

Now immediately swing backward so as to remove the pressure completely. After two seconds swing forward again.

Do this twelve to fourteen times to the minute, thus compressing and releasing every four or five seconds.

Keep this up as long as you and others about you, taking turns, can keep it up; hours if necessary.

Keep patient warm in the meantime.

I talk about this every year, but this is really the best known way to revive a person after drowning, inhalation of gas, or electric shock.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

By JEANETTE.

"The time has come when if I care
To buy a thing, I can.
The pence are here and here's the fair,
But where's the lost young man?"
—A. E. Housman.

Not the least interesting of the Chautauqua visits here are the little bits of fun and humour that the speakers interject into their discourses. Without these, the talks would at moments become exceedingly dry. There are few speakers who seem to remember the cardinal rules for a platform orator: (1) Be brief. (2) Be brief. (3) Be brief. What is very surprising to a newspaper writer is the fact that one who was a former newspaper reporter and must in his time have suffered considerably from hard benches and windy discourses on a hot day, would inflict an address of almost an hour and a half in length on his defenceless hearers. However—

One of the Chautauqua lecturers, Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, whose address, by the way, was not too long, but rather too short, and whose audience remained in dozens to listen to his talk to the children after his lecture was finished, remarked, with a bit of wise Oriental reasoning: "When I see that they are just a little weary of my words, I tell them a funny story. Then they relax, they forget themselves for a few minutes, they laugh, and after that, one may go ahead with the serious facts."

When speaking of Chinese characters in writing, Dr. Hsieh compared our road signs; those odd black, twisted figures that appear on white boards to indicate the windings of the road ahead, to the real Chinese manner of conveying ideas by means of twisted figures.

He spoke of his own efforts wh learning English and of its peculiarities of idiom. "We would never say 'hurry up,' to a man coming downstairs," he declared, and told of the difficulty he had with the word 'preserve.' He was not quite certain of its use but knew the general idea conveyed by it. He wished to write to a former tutor and speak of the Lord preserving him to continue his work. He looked up a dictionary and found that the word also meant "to can," so he said in the letter: "May the Lord can you!"

Chinese babies do not fare as well as those of whiter blood. It may seem incredible, but often they never taste milk and yet live to grow up on a diet of bean sprouts and tea! This is due to the practice of women who act as foster mothers giving their milk to their foster children, who pay for the privilege, and neglecting their own offspring.

One of the little bits of poetry which delighted the hearers of Lowell Patton, pianist and elocutionist, was called "The Prairie Child." It was a lovable, fantastic bit what had to do with the longing of a prairie child, whose parents had been born in Ireland, to see Donegal in the land where the air is misty from placid lakes and the fairies come out in the morning to dance on dew-capped, soft green sod. The child heard that the only way she could get from the dry prairie land to the luscious fields of Donegal was to take a plane, or sail away on a ship or sprout her angel wings again. All three were impossible. But she had heard that the earth was round and went sailing through the air at a fine rate of speed, every day. So she decided to climb to the very top of a tall lone poplar tree and drop off on Ireland as it went sailing by!

The ladies in the audience who listened to the Russian players headed by Anatol Frikin were probably not aware that the group of musicians sheltered a hard-boiled anti-feminist. He was Boris Bekkars, one of the men who played the Russian national instrument, the balalaika, a Tartar by birth, and a firm believer in the doctrine that women have no rights whatsoever!

Captain Norman Rawson, the clerical ex-soldier who delighted his hearers on the Sunday night performance for the members of the Canadian Legion, told a little story which tickled their ears. He was speaking of the adherence to their party leaders in both political camps. "Ask a Conservative who was the greatest man in Canada and he will tell you, without hesitation, Sir John A. Macdonald. And then there is the Liberal side of it. A certain old French Canadian was told that a queen was d in England and that a king soon ascend the throne. He said: 'Ah, Queen Victoria he die, eh? and King Edward she come to reign. She mus' have a fine stand in with Laurier'." It was Captain Rawson also who told his feminine hearers, with a laugh, that if they knew just what words were used for "Mademoiselle from Armentieres" in war days, they would never sing that composition.

Then there was Madam Beyea, who told the story about the little black nigger called "Perspiration," because his mammy said he was always melting away. She spoke about the conflict in her own nature which arose because of her Scotch blood, that was always warning her, 'Dinna be speerin' into her neighbor's business' and her Irish drop, which constantly urged her to go ahead and take a chance. And she told of the farmer who found it necessary to make an affidavit with regard to the exact age of his daughter, in order to receive an inheritance for her, and could not remember ever registering the birth of the baby. Then he brightened up when he recalled distinctly that the child was born on the same day that he had registered a prize heifer!

There was an interesting little sidelight into the contrasting feelings of men and woman in the war, when Captain Rawson told about his mother. He had gone to Ottawa, eager to enlist, and his chance came suddenly to go overseas on the morning after he had recieved the summons. He had no time to go home and bid his people good-bye so he telephoned the news, and his mother fainted at the other end of the wire. She had three sons fighting on the Front at the same time, and her black hair turned white through the strain.

ANNE WILCOX'S MAIL

Dear Anne:

Let me welcome you to our circle! I wonder that more neighbors are not writing you with a welcome — where are you neihhbors???

I know it came as quite a surprise when Marion announced her departure, but when we pass one there is always someone to take our place so I am quite confident that you can fill your part. Speaking of why the neighbors hadn't written, I have been wondering about "Bobbie," how she and her small son are getting on. There was another one whose letters were always interesting, I think her pen name was "Councillor," I wonder if she's left town, as I haven't noticed anything from her on the page for quite a long time.

I really must stop, for you see at this time of year there is SO much to do. Hoping to see some letters from all the familiar letters, I am,

Sincerely yours,
Sunbeam."

Thank you very much "Sunbeam" for your letter of welcome—I was thinking the neighbors had been very good—for you know what time of year this is—so busy.

Dear Anne Wilcox:

Would you be so kind as to give me the recipe of how to make sour pickles? This is the first time I have written to you to ask you for a favor, so please excuse me. I am quite interested in your column but have not had time to write and congratulate Marion but I do hope you will be as successful as she has been.

I remain with best wishes to you and your column.

Goldy.

P. S.—Will you please tell me if it possible that I may be able to write to Dr. Barton? If so please tell me with my other favor.

The only recipe I have on hand is a sweet sour cucumber pickle, as this may not be what you want I am inserting an S. O. S. and you'll get lots of answers soon. I presume it is a cucumber pickle you require.

Any correspondence which you require forwarded to Dr. Barton will be forwarded from this office, it would be well to enclose a stamp for an answer. Thank you for your good wishes.

Parisian Foibles

Premet designs this coat in dark blue crepe de chine, and trims it with printed silk which also makes a simple frock.

SIMPLE FLARING LINES FAVORED BY PARIS.

By Madame Charlotte of Premet.

I have designed this coat on the simple flaring lines which Paris likes, trimming it with printed crepe de chine in dark blue, which harmonize wit the solid blue of the coat. A simply cut frock of the print makes with this coat an ensemble of the type which is very popular this season.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

A Column of Particular Interest to Women Readers, Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

I wonder how many people there are in Peterborough who are like a chance acquaintance of mine. I believe there are a great many, for I have heard others talking about the same thing.

* * * * * * *

This friend is a chronic criticizer. I can imagine I hear a great many of the readers at once say to themselves, "Oh, yes, that is common."

* * * * * * *

It DOES seem prevalent and it is a habit which no one admires. It does become a habit, a tormenting one, and I think those who let this habit get possession of them should stop and think the matter over.

* * * * * * *

Someone has said that it is much easier to be critical than correct. Generally this is the case, for a great many of those who are always ready to criticize are those who are only trying to appear well acquainted with the subject in common.

* * * * * * *

Criticism is tormenting, especially to those who are the victims. Of course, there are a great many people who do not care whether they are being criticized or not, while others resent it.

* * * * * * *

Sometimes through envy or resentment people are led to criticize—but I wonder if they are not the losers in the end? I believe they are, for those who are always criticizing never have many friends.

* * * * * * *

Many of us are only too ready for a chance to criticize the other person when we really do not know the circumstances. It would be much better to hesitate.

* * * * * * *

At times there is reason for doing such a thing, but those who are wise will not take advantage of the opportunity, for they may regret it at some future time.

* * * * * * *

It is a good thing to be prudent in a case of this kind and do not tell everyone about it. Georges Sand says, "Be prudent, and if you hear . . . some insult or somt threat . . . have the appearance of not hearing it."

* * * * * * *

Besides the person who is always ready to criticize openly, there is the one who criticizes behind one's back. Such a way to me is mean and low, and it seems that such a person is well worth watching, for he will do harm when the opportunity presents itself.

* * * * * * *

You are acquainted with such people, I am sure, for there are a great many of these, too. While they are criticizing someone else, you will be a special friend, but just as soon as you are away, you will be a victim.

* * * * * * *

Could you make a friend of such a person, knowing all the time that you are being criticized at times, perhaps just as harshly as the rest?

* * * * * * *

I remember years ago when working in a certain office, there was an employee, there may have been others, but this one was outstanding, who could find fault with every person in that establishment.

* * * * * * *

Everyone was criticized for the least little thing and sometimes it was absurd. A wall of criticism was often built upon one little bit of evidence. Would you consider such a thing courteous?

* * * * * * *

Children at school are criticized because they failed to pass their examinations. They are charged with not paying enough attention to their work, and it happens in many cases that such is not the case. Perhaps they may have defective eyes or some other ailment which hindered them.

* * * * * * *

I do not think the person who is continually criticizing gains friends in this way, even though he may think he is. It often happens that one criticizer confides in another, and he in turn to someone else, until each one is criticizing his friend's friend.

* * * * * * *

The best policy then would be to refrain from criticizing anyone, no matter whether there are grounds for it or not. If you want to criticize and if you must, do it in your own mind, but do not speak openly, for you may regret it.

* * * * * * *

Be prudent and follow this advice:

"Have more than thou showest,
Speak less than thou knowest,
Lend less than thou owest,
Ride more than thou goest,
Learn more than thou trowest,
Set less than thou throwest. —King Lear.

CHILD RUNS OUT IN FRONT OF CAR

Expert Driving of Man Saves Life of Youngster.

ON HUNTER STREET.

It was half past six o'clock last night when a taxi car was making its way, at an ordinary rate of speed, over the Hunter street bridge. It was going east and so, apparently, was a little, bareheaded boy of about five years of age, who was trotting along the cement sidewalk, opposite the Quaker Oats building.

Suddenly, without the slightest warning and without a backward glance at the traffic, the child stepped off the curb and started for the other side, directly in the pathway of the car. The driver gave the wheel two swift, sudden left jerks that brought the big machine over onto the wrong side of the road, twisted it almost around and jammed it against the opposite curb. He applied his brakes at the same time and the wheels grazed the little body. The child had escaped death by the fraction of an inch. An oncoming car from the other direction, fortunately proceeding at a moderate pace also, stopped just in time to avoid crashing into the taxi.

The driver turned a pale face to his fare, in the back seat. "If I had killed that child, none would believe it wasn't my fault," he said.

ONE DROWNS, TWO HURT.

HAMILTON, August 1 (Canadian Press). — H. Kirby Pass, 30 son of Edwin K. Pass, well-known jeweller, was drowned yesterday afternoon in the disused filtering basin at the beach. His father-in-law, George Askew, and Alfred Lawson were both injured when their automobile was ditched as they sped to the scene. They are in the General Hospital.

GROCERS WIN BRIDGENORTH CUP DEFEATING WILDCATS IN FINAL GAME OF SOFTBALL TOURNAMENT

Big Softball and Horseshoe Pitching Contest Pulled Off At Bridgenorth.

OMEMEE WINS JUNIOR.

Bridgenorth Squad Fails To Hold Possession of Premier Trophy.

(By Staff Reporter.)

BRIDGENORTH, August 1. — The most successful annual softball and horse-shoe pitching tournament ever staged by the Bridgenorth United Church took place yesterday afternoon when hundreds from the district gathered to take part in the competitions with the keen spirit of rivalry for which the annual event is noted. The entrants represented many centers, of which some were Peterborough, Keene, Selwyn, and Lindsay.

Thirteen teams were entered in the softball matches, which were divided into four classes. Three teams competed in the girls' tournament, from Keene, Lakefield and Lindsay; and the Midget group was composed of Cooney's Midgets from Peterborough, the Bridgenorth Rinky Dinks, and the Bridgenorth Midgets. Five teams in the Junior softball class represented Keene, Fairview, Selwyn, Omemee and Lakefield, while the Harrisons of Peterborough and the Bridgenorths, made up the Senior division.

The horse-shoe pitching contests were entered into with great enthusiasm by many of the district. This side of the program was in two divisions: first, a regular tournament was run off, and then a special contest in ringing. A number of the entries in these contests proved to be old-timers at the game and their expertness attracted the interest of the crowd.

Following the horse-shoe pitching and the baseball, a number of races were staged which turned out to be one of the features of the afternoon.

Supper was served on the grounds by the Ladies' Aid of the church. Shortly after the supper period, a short but heavy shower of rain interrupted the proceedings for a few minutes, thereby marring the afternoon which up to that time had been one of bright sunshine.

Arrangements for the tournaments were in the hands of Rev. J. Totten of Bridgenorth. He was assisted by a field committee composed of James J. Jopling, Garbutt Mann and R. T. Pettersone. Thomas Black and J. Bradley officiated at the horse-shoe pitching, and the races were operated by Dr. J. J. Craig and Fred Scates. The Ladies' Aid contributed greatly towards the success of the affair in the efficient provision of supper.

The first of the girls' softball contests was between Keene and Lakefield and was a demonstration of how the game should not be played. The final count as estimated by the scorer, was 53-2, with the Keene girls on the heavy side. They hit the Lakefield squad heavily and when they did not make the circuit on home-run clouts, they came in on errors.

Thus the play-off to decide the possession of the Bridgenorth Challenge Cup was between the Keene team and the Lindsay Monarchs.

This was a slow fixture but more closely contested than the first. The Keene squad came out on top by a score of 11-6. Madeline Coley, twirling for the Monarchs, featured the play but lacked the field support needed to put across a win. For the Keene line-up outstanding work was done by F. McCarthy and J. Nelson on the mound and at short stop. D. Gainor in centre garden made some attractive shoe-string catches.

The score by innings:

Keene	6100400—11
Lindsay	0100011— 6

The teams:

Lakefield—R. Jones, p.; P. Charlton, c.; M. Mott, 1b.; B. Abram, 2b.; M. Denort, 3b.; A. Emory, s.s.; M. Abram, c.f.; J. Charlton, r.f.; M. Webdale, l.f.

Lindsay Monarchs—D. Aldred, 3b.; H. Hildenbrand, 2b.; M. Coley, p.; D. Harper, c.; D. Nicholson, 1b.; K. Cook, s.s.; C. Lee, l.f.; M. Saunders, c.f.; B. Smith, r.f.

Keene—B. McCarthy, p.; D. Gainor, c.; A. McCarthy, 1b.; H. Nelson, 2b.; I. Nelson, 3b.; J. Nelson, s.s.; C. Nelson, c.f.; M. McCarthy, r.f.; L. McCarthy, l.f.

Cooney Midgets Win.

The first midget contest was the meeting of Cooney's Midgets and the Bridgenorth Rinky Dinks. The Cooney line-up had the advantage of being bigger than the diminutive Rinky Dinks, but nevertheless it was not without hard work that they downed them by a score of 18-7. The hard hitting of the Midgets occasionally got the Bridgenorth youngsters rattled.

Bridgenorth Wins.

The final of the Midget group was a snappy game between Cooney's Midgets and the Bridgenorth Midgets. The Bridgenorth boys managed a win by the tally of 15-7 but had to work for it. Heavy hitting marked the game but the fielding was good. The teams:

Cooney's Midgets—Ross, p.; Welsh, c.; Jones, 1b; Conners, 2b.; Clark, 3b.; Fleming, s.s.; Ruiter, c.f.; Price, r.f.

Bridgenorth Rinky Dinks—Wright, p.; White, c.; Sullivan, 1b.; C. Jopling, 2b.; H. Kelly, 3b.; White, s.s.; Forsythe, c.f.; Clark, r.f.; J. Jopling, l.f.

Fairview Lose Out.

A lively contest between Keene and Fairview teams opened the Junior group. Keene defeated the Fairview aggregation by the count of 8-5 when the Fairview defense weakened in the last frame to allow four tallies. The game lagged in parts, but on the whole was attractive ball. Smooth support was given to the weak Fairview pitcher by Whalen on second, who stopped everything that came his way and a lot more.

The score by innings:

Keene	2000024—8
Fairview	0030002—5

Two of the longest clouts of the day were made in the fixture between Omemee and Lakefield Juniors. In the third innings, Payne of the Cement line-up drove one into the left garden and made the first score for his squad. Adams on the other team repeated the act in the following stanza to start the count for the Omemee boys. With a final score of 3-2, the contest was tight. Almost no errors marked the play. The score by innings:

Omemee	000102x—3
Lakefield	0010100—2

Omemee Wins Second

Omemee again triumphed when they met the junior entry from Selwyn. After a somewhat listless affair, Omemee was left with the long end of the score of 11-3. Selwyn played admirable ball in the first and second innings but exploded in the third to make a present of five to the Omemee boys. The match settled down then to a quiet level, one or two of the Omemee sluggers making the rounds each frame.

The score by innings:

Omemee	0100110— 3
Selwyn	205121x—11

In the final of the Junior group between Keene and Omemee, the Omemee lads took the lead right from the start by herding in three runs in the opening inning. But Fletcher, the Keene hurler, lost no time in getting down to business. The Omemee men again broke into the scoring column in the closing frame of the event and brought their total to 7 against the lone tally of the Keenites.

The line-ups of the Junior group:

Fairview—W. Crowe, p; Roseboro, c; F. Reynolds, 1b; Blaher, 2b; Lewis, 3b; L. Reynolds, ss; White, cf; Crowe, rf; Heard, lf.

Keene—W. Fletcher, p; McCarthy, c; Fletcher, 1b; Whalen, 2b; M. McCarthy, 3b; Wood, ss; Nelson, cf; Gilespie, rf; Shearer, lf.

Lakefield—Madill, p; Tully, c; Maracle, 1b; P. Abram, 2b; Charlton, 3b; Wingate, ss; Payne, cf; W. Wingate, rf; Junkin, lf.

Omemee—Parsons, rf; Sanderson, c; Widdess, 1b; Adam, 2b; W. Parsons, 3b; McPhee, ss; Mackey, cf; McQuade, rf; Faulkner, lf.

Feature Game.

The feature softball game of the day was the fixture between the Harrisons of Peterborough and the Bridgenorth team, rivals in the city league in Peterborough. The Harrisons defated the home team for the first time in two years at these tournaments and they consequently take possession of the Bridgenorth trophy for the year.

Losing to the Harrisons by a count of 5-1, the Bridgenorth squad did not turn in as good a game in their own back yard as they have elsewhere. For the first few minutes they put away the Harrisons in regular order but began to ease up.

The twirling of both Montgomery and Forsythe was good, preventing much heavy hiting. Few walks were handed out. The field support was especially good behind Montgomery. In the dying moments of the game which was a nine-inning contest, the Bridgenorths made a rally when Montgomery began to weaken, but careful work of the Harrison men prevented any damage.

The score by innings:

Harrisons	010031000—5
Bridgenorth	001000000—1

The teams:

Harrisons—Montgomery, p; Dobson, c; Smith, 1b; Crary, 2b; Dorrington, 3b; Westbrook, ss; Jones, cf; Calladine, rf; Vinette, lf.

Bridgenorth—Forsythe, p; Connors, c; H. Dormer, 1b; Weese, 2b; Ware, lf; G. Dormer, ss; T. Dormer, 3b; Scates, rf; Shearer, lf.

Eight teams were entered in the first part of the horseshoe tournament. It was won by F. Drumm of Peterborough and W. Breckenridge who sailed through the schedule of the afternoon, meeting all comers. Both Breckenridge and Drumm displayed exceptional steadiness, ringing them with phenomenal accuracy. The finals were played off between Drumm and Breckenridge and B. Barrett and W. Nicholls. In a fifty-point game the score was 51-38 for Drumm and Breckenridge. The prizes for the winners of the tournament were two sweaters. Two pairs of horseshoes were second prizes.

A special tournament was arranged when Wallace Nicholls and Clayton Telford donated fifty pounds of sugar to the man who could make the most ringers out of twenty shots. Many entered this contest. It was won by Drumm, the winner of the other tournament. Runners-up in the event were B. Doran and V. Milburn.

While the last baseball game was in progress, a number of races were run. These were enjoyed by old and young alike. Numerous prizes were awarded.

Victory Gives Royals a 2-1 Lead Over Leafs For Visit.

MONTREAL, Que., August 1 (Canadian Press). — "Bucky" Caudette hit the first home run he has ever made in the local park since becoming a Royalist two years ago, and this feat so inspired the Roya's that they went out yesterday and collected 14 hits off Clarence Fisher, while Elam Vangilder was holding the Leafs to 8 to win the third game of the series 6 to 0. The victory gives the locals a 2 to 1 lead of the present visit, though tied with the Leafs in games played at the Stadium this year, each having taken three contests.

READING, August 1 (Canadian Press). — Reading pounded out a 12 to 10 victory over Newark to run its streak to five straight here yesterday. The Keys won by staging a four-run rally in the eighth after coming from behind three times.

Danny Taylor's home run with two mates aboard won the game for the Keys in the eighth. George Quellish followed with his twentieth home run of the season. Bill Jurges also hit for the circuit for the Keys, while Hungling hit for the four sacks for Newark.

Robins Hook Cardinals By Evening Up In Second

ST. LOUIS, August 1 (Canadian Press). — Brooklyn punched out an 8 to 2 victory in the second game of a double-header with the St. Louis Cardinals to even the count for the day after bowing before the fine pitching of Jess Haines in the opener 5 to 2.

Haines turned in his second straight four-hit performance in the first contest, but two of the hits were homers by Pitcher Dudley and First Basemen Del Bissonette.

Bill Hallahan mixed ten passed with the eight hits he gave the Robins in the second game and was always in trouble.

Phillies' Two Homers Down Pittsburg 6-2

PITTSBURG, August 1 (Canadian Press). — Philadelphia again defeated Pittsburg with home runs here yesterday taking the second game of the series 6 to 2.

"Chuck" Klein smashed his 33rd four-bagger of the season in the second inning with the bases empty and Don Hurst got one in the fourth with two on. Koupal was in trouble several times, but three fast double plays helped him to get back on firmer ground.

SOCCER GAME STOPPED BY THUNDER STORM

Two Well-Balanced Teams Gave An Excellent Account of Themselves.

C.G.E. 2, BRINTON 0.

Game Will Be Replayed—Had Only Gone 15 Minutes in Second Half.

A large crowd of spectators were disappointed last evening when the thunderstorm prevented the Canadian General and the Brinton soccer teams finishing their tussle. The Electric boys were leading two goals to nothing when the game was called. An old Peterborough soccer player, Robert Dawson ,who played with the Thistle many years, kindly consented to act as referee. The game will be replayed.

The Game.

Captain Blowers lost the choice of goals on the spin of the coin. From the kick-off the C.G.E. forwards penetrated the Brinton defence to test Curtis, goalkeeper, with close drives that finally went past from B. McMaster's foot. Brinton team replied with aggressive tactics that found a stubborn defence giving away flag-kicks to offset the pressure.

Brintons Force Issue.

For the next ten minutes the Carpet boys laid down a barrage of shots on the C.G.E. goal. Eventually the ful lback. The re-arrangement conforwards gained possession to enact the same performance in the Brinton territory.

Wade Completed C.G.E. Team.

Jack Wade replaced Figg in goal for the Electric boys and the latter occupying his regular position, right full bak. The re-arrangement consolidated its defence, and allowed the forwards to concentrate on the attack.

Mayette's Great Effort.

Play ran fro mend to end but the most noteworthy excitement resulted from Darling's perfect corner kick. All the C.G.E. defence men endeavored to clear the ball. Mayette finally sending a lightning drive for the inside of the upright, Jack Wade saving in nick of time. On the next visit to C.G.E. goal, Bayliss headed past from a flag-kick. Quick as a flash the C.G.E. team made tracks for Curtis' charge to give him a merry time in goal, keeping it clear of the scoring column.

An Individual Goal.

After waiting his opportunity throughout the early stages of the tussle, Mitchell made his own opening to evade the defence and carried the ball with him towards goals to finish with a smart goal just as the period closed. Canadian General 1, Brinton A.A. 0.

Half-time.

On resuming, James made a great effort to gain the equalizer with a long drive. Immediately thereafter, Ward and James endeavored to get inside the defence, but the C.G.E. full backs kicked the ball away from the opposing forwards when in the act of shooting.

A Surprise Goal.

Jack Wade, playing at right half in place of Robb ,who occupied the goal, took Curtis by surprise when he landed the ball in below the crossbar. Curtis threw himself up in the air to stop its progress, but there was too much weight behind. A little later J. McMaster went right through with only the goalkeeper to beat, but to his own surprise his certainty went for nothing. At this point of the encounter a thunderstorm stopped the play. C.G.E. 2, Brinton 0.

The Teams.

Brinton A.A.—Curtis, goal; Lucas and Honor, full backs; Ward, Hawthorne and Creighton, halves; Mayette ,Bayliss, James, Sharman, and Darling, forwards.

Canadian General — Jack Wade, goal; F. Wade and Figg, backs; Robb, Mann, and Blowers, halves; Burgess, J. McMaster, B. McMaster, Mitchell and Rankin, forwards.

WELCOMES WINNER HOME

PETHERICK'S OUT OF PENNANT RACE

Springbrook Put Skids Under Home Team and Wins 17 to 10.

PETHERICK'S, August 1 (Examiner Correspondence).— In one of the most listless and least exciting games of the season, Springbrook shut out Petherick's pennant chances on Tuesday evening when they handed the locals a 17 to 10 defeat. The first inning bore all the earmarks of a real game, and Petherick's re-arranged line-up performed in sensational style. In the second the local willow brigade landed on Heath's offerings for seven hits and as many runs, including circuit clouts by T. Kerr and Anderson, these being the only hits secured by these two batters in three times up. Springbrook came back with nine runs in their half, mostly on errors. The regular Petherick's line-up with H. Petherick on first, failed to tighten up in the pinches ,and Kerr was given no support. Inability to hit retired the locals in order until the fifth when Roy Fry and Watson came through with healthy clouts for two runs. Watson and Barnum scored two each for the locals while Don Kerr usually a heavy hitter, failed to connect safely. Hazlett, M .Mason, and M. Heath with three hits and three runs each in four times up, paved the way for the Springbrooks' lead. Play on both sides was slack and many fumbles resulted. Bateman looked good for Springbrook, while McKeown, playing only one inning, pulled off the star catch of the evening, a running shoe-string grab of a foul fly down the third base line.

The league standing now is:

	Won	Lost	To Pay
Bethel	5	2	1
Menie	5	3	0
Springbrook	3	4	1
Petherick's	3	5	0
Hoard's	3	5	0

Everything now hinges on the Bethel-Springbrook game which may be played on Thursday. This is a re-play of a 5-5 tie last week. Should Springbrook win they will be firmly entrenched in third place and Menie and Bethel will be tied for first place making a sudden death game necessary. Should Bethel win there would be a three-cornered tie for third place which would mean a play-off series to decide this position ,as third place gets into the cup play-downs. An odd feature of the year's results is that Springbrook have twice bowed to Hoard's, who in turn have dropped two to Petherick's, with the latter team losing two to Springbrook. Hoard's and Petherick's are earnestly hoping that Springbrook loses the next game to give them a chance at the play-offs.

The teams:

Springbrook — M. Heath, p; Williams, c; Bateman, 1b; R. Mason, 2b; M. Mason 3b; Hazlett, ss; W. Heath, lf; Gibson, cf; G. Heath, rf.

Petherick's — G. Kerr, p; Anderson, c; Barnum, 1b; R. Fry, 2b; McKeown, 3b; Meiklejohn, ss; D. Kerr, lf; G. Petherick, cf; Don. Watson, rf; sub., H. Petherick.

By innings—

Springbrook	19430—17
Petherick's	17002—10

Umpires—F. Fry and Bailey.

Petes Take Second Game in Row From Central League Leaders.

ABLE SUPPORT GIVEN.

Youthful Pitcher, After First Innings, Has Everything Own Way With Sluggers.

Despite the fact that the game was but an exhibition affair, those two old rivals, Belleville and Peterborough battled to a close decision yesterday in a hard fought fixture. Peterborough for the second day in a row copping the duke to the tune of 4 to 2. The bout was staged in Campbellford in connection with the Old Home Week celebration there, and some two thousand rabid ball fans gave every indication of enjoying the encounter immensely.

Young Jack Crary, loaned to the Petes for the day by the Kiwanis Junior team, bested the Belleville ace, Vin Utronki, holding the Nationals to four scattered hits, and after the first inning holding them scoreless. The youngster was plainly nervous at the start, and though allowing but one hit, the Nationals dented the plate twice in the opening frame and assumed the lead. Thereafter, backed by flawless and at times sparkling support, Crary gained confidence, and pitching his own ball game, went on to a well-deserved win.

Petes Lead Off.

The Petes pried off the lid with a lone counter in the first. Red Hollingsworth got a life when his grounder trickled through H. Weir. He advanced to second on Ray Rose's shot to centre for a clean single and scored on Swanston's rap to left. Swanston advanced to second on the throw home, Rose having been previously picked off first.

Belleville came back strong with two markers in their half. Blakely spanked a hit to centre for a single. A. Weir and H. Mills fanned. Blakely stole second and advanced to third on the overthrow. Peeny Mills was hit by a pitched ball and promptly stole second. The two runners scored when Red Hollingsworth erred on Sonny Green's trick roller.

The game went along evenly until the Petes knotted the count in the fifth Bill Sweetman leading off with a single over third. Sonny Green managed to knock the ball down, but then made a fruitless throw to first which went wild, allowing Sweetman to continue to second. Rose shot a single to left and Sweetman scored with the tying run.

Petes In Front.

With one down in the seventh Red Hollingsworth doubled to centre and scored on Legon's single to right putting the ePtes one up, which was a mountainous lead considering the masterful pitching of Crary and his splendid support. However, to make things more interesting the Petes countered again in the ninth when Red Hollingsworth crossed the platter for his third time, after his hit to right, a wild pitch and Legon's single to left.

Young Crary pitched smart ball striking out three, depending on his support for the most part. The outfielders ranged far and wide picking long drives out of the ether, and the infielders came up with many hard shots and got their man.

The brand of ball displayed was even more noticeably superior considering the uneveness of the makeshift diamond layed out in the Campbellford Exhibition grounds. Throughout the afternoon the ball took erratic hops and bounds and the infielders had to be extra alert to snag them.

Harry Blakely, Belleville shortstop, contributed the fielding feature when he took Jake Hall's bid for a hit behind second on the dead run, stepped on the bag and threw to first to complete a lightning fast double play.

Box score:

CHICAGO SPLITS DOUBLE HEADER

Cubs Gain Half Game On Pittsburgh Pirates.

FIVE GAME LEAD.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.— (Canadian Press).—The Cubs, after losing the first game of a doubleheader to Boston yesterday 7 to 1, recovered their winning ways in the second game and took a 6-3 verdict from the Braves, thereby gaining a split in the two games. Chicago gained a half game on the Pittsburg Pirates, who dropped their second straight game to the lowly Phillies. Chicago is now five full games ahead of the Pirates. Hack Wilson hit his 29th home run in the third with two runners on base and his 30th in the seventh with none on.

Cuyler returned to the Chicago line-up after being out of eleven games with an injured right leg.

Have Even Break

CINCINNATI, Aug. 1.—(Canadian Press).—The Cincinnati Reds evened the series with the New York Giants yesterday, taking the second game 2 to 1 in a tight pitchers' battle between Eppa Rixey, elongated southpaw, and Joe Genewich, Giant righthander.

The Reds scored the winning run in the eighth on two singles, an error and a wild pitch.

Athletics Assault Carroll To Beat Detroit Tigers

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1 (Canadian Press).—The Athletics assaulted Carroll for nine runs in a big fifth inning yesterday and easily took the second straight game of the series from Detroit 10 to 1. Rube Walberg pitched superbly, holding the clubbing Tigers to four hits. The victory kept the A's 9½-game lead over the Yankees intact.

Thirteen of the Athletics batted in the fifth, after Carroll had limited them to one hit in the first four. Alexander's homer provided the only Detroit run.

GEHRIG HITS 26TH HOMER.

Yankees Crush White Sox In Terrific Battle 16 to 2.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 1 (Canadian Press). — The Yankee power house was turned on full blast yesterday and crushed the White Sox 16 to 2, but without aiding the Yanks in the least to draw closer to the League-leading Athletics, who beat the Tigers. It was the seventh straight victory for the Yanks. Gehrig hit his twenty-sixth homer, a double and single, and reached base five times.

Burke Shelled For Four Runs In Fourth Inning

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (Canadian Press). — Bats of the Washington Senators were impotent against Stewart yesterday and St. Louis took the second game of the series 5 to 1.

Bob Burke held the Browns in check until the fourth inning, when they shelled him for four runs.

Bisons' Rally Cuts Down Leading Red Wings By One

ROCHESTER, Aug. 1 (Canadian Press).—Buffalo staged a vicious ninth-inning batting rally to conquer the League-leading Red Wings here yesterday, 8 to 7. The Bisons drove Herman Bell to cover in the ninth and kept up the attack on John Berly, who relieved him. Fisher and Moore cracked out triples to feature the assault. Rochester made a game bid to overcome the Herds' margin in its half of the final frame, but fell one run short of tying the count.

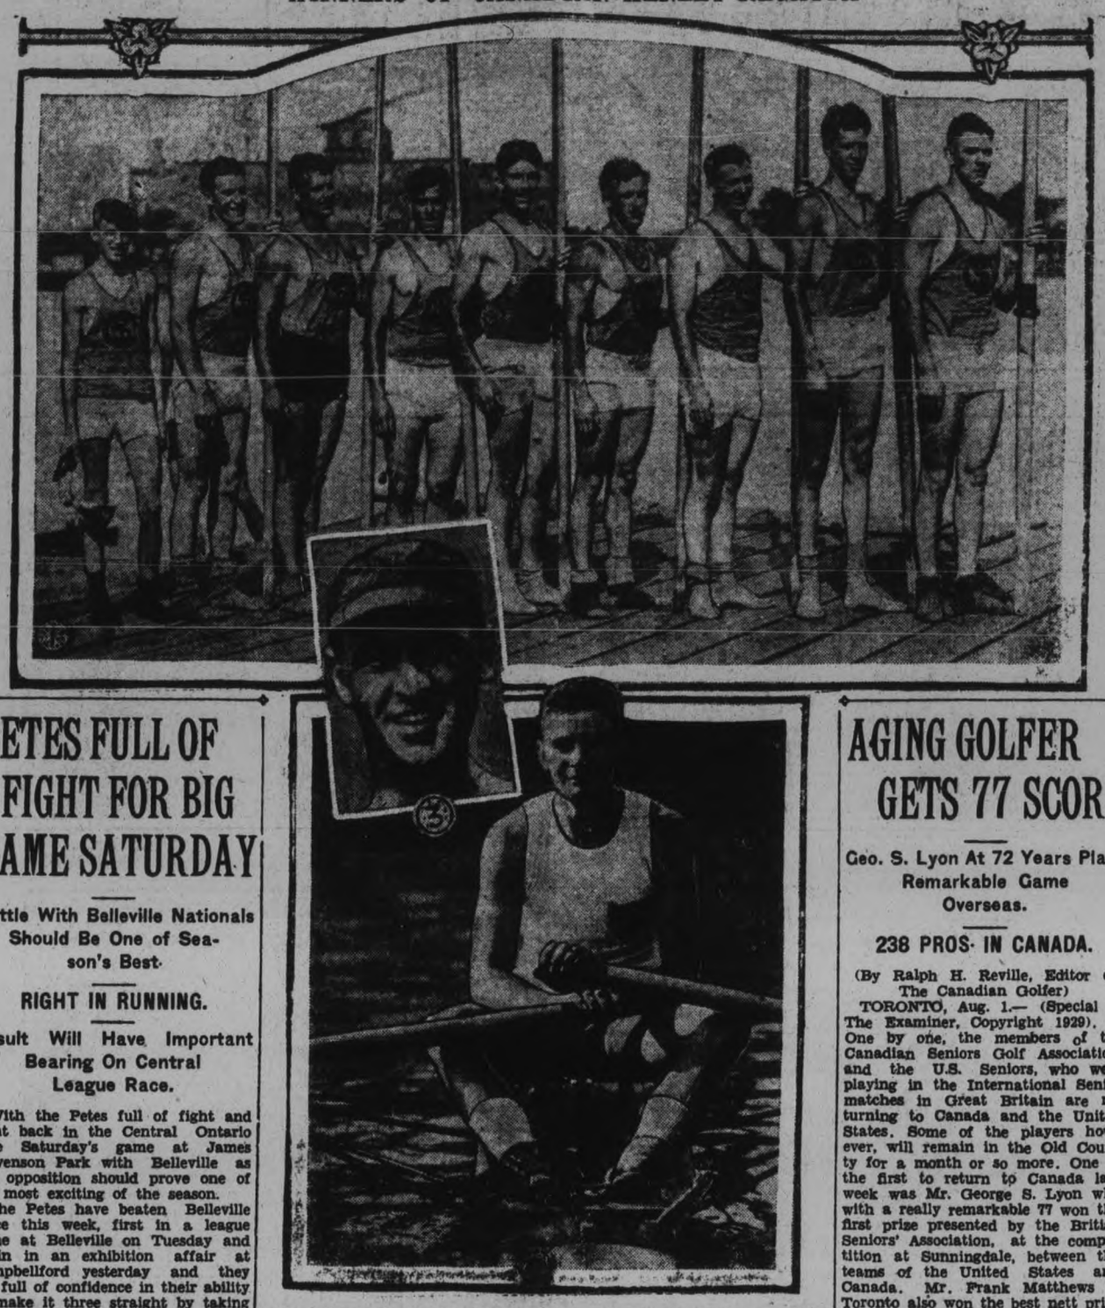
WINNERS OF CANADIAN HENLEY REGATTA



St. Catharines' powerful eight-oared crew furnished a big surprise at the Canadian Henley on Friday when they won the junior eight final from Detroit and Wyandottes. The Garden City entry took the decision by three-quarters of the length in a great, driving finish, while Detroit swept in ahead of Wyandottes by two lengths. The time of six minutes and 40 seconds bettered that made by Detroit in the 150-pound senior eight heat, and St. Kitts people think the crew will win the Hanlan Memorial Cup. No. 1, from LEFT to RIGHT, the St. Catharines crew: F. Courtney, B. Copren, C. Warren, G. Robinson, R. Welch, A. Vanderbrugge, D. Robinson, T. Bramah, D. Thom (cox). No. 3 shows Gibson Shaw of the Argonaut Rowing Club, Toronto, and the Daily Star staff who won the junior singles. No. 2, Elwood Bole, Winnipeg Rowing Club single sculler, who won the Association singles from M. Brett, of St. Catharines.

BIG SWIM AND BOXING PROGRAM TO-MORROW.

Campbellford's Old Home Week Committee is sparing no expense in fulfilling their aim of securing high class attractions for the celebration. Ball games, horse racing, the big swim and a great card of boxing, are features of the sport program.

Yesterday afternoon over 2,000 fans lined the ropes around a makeshift diamond in the exhibition grounds to see the Petes trim Belleville in a ding-dong struggle 4 to 2. Young Jack Crary, junior hurler of the Kiwanis team, who was loaned to the Seniors for the day, caught the eyes of the fans for his masterly display against the Nationals' sluggers. Four scattered hits were obtained from him. The Petes meanwhile touched Vin Utronki, first stringer, for twelve sound clouts, two of them doubles.

Friday is expected to be the greatest day in the history of Campbellford. At 3 o'clock (Standard time) in the afternoon sixty or more of the most famed swimmers of the world will plunge from the dock and go splashing up the Trent River in a shower of foam. The distance for the swim is three miles, which will take well over an hour for even the speediest of the speed merchants to accomplish, and the full course is in broad view of the spectators.

Most of the interest in the swim is centering around George Young and Ernst Vierkotter, and it will be the first time that these champion wrigglers have met under conditions that guarantee a real race. Both have been in training for months and the large percentage of the entries have also been working long and hard in preparation for the C.N.E. marathon.

Playfair Brown, famed matchmaker of Toronto and New York, in the evening of the same day, stages a card of bouts of rare merit. Steve Rocco of Toronto, and Red Egerton of New York, hook up for a six round flurry in the flyweight class at 112 pounds. Sam Hackett and Geo. Barber, both noted mitt slingers of Toronto, clash in six rounds in the featherweight at 128 pounds. To top the bill, Red Bragan of Toronto, and Art McCann of Philadelphia, will try to damage each other in six rounds in torrid fighting in the welterweight class at 147 pounds.

The fight program will be staged in the spacious Meyers' Arena, and Duncan Cowan, professional entertainer of ability, will keep the spectators in good humor between rounds.

LOCAL RUNNERS TRAINING FOR PROVINCIAL CHAMPIONSHIPS.

This city will quite possibly have several athletes competing in the track and field championships of the province to be held in Toronto late this month. Eight of the best runners in the C.G.E. Track and Field Club, Tranter, Bates, Hamilton, Stewart, Barry, McDonald, Willby and Williams, are out every evening in an effort to raise themselves to a sufficiently high standard to compete. The shorter distances in the middle distance races are favored by these runners. Stewart is shaping up extremely well, and his entry in the Junior quarter mile is practically assured.

NEW ARENA FOR BELLEVILLE.

An artificial ice arena that will cause envy among all the other towns of its size, is now being built in Belleville. This plant will be fully equipped with showers, well heated dressing rooms, and its ice surface will be 190 feet by 80 feet. It will have seating accommodation for 4,500 spectators, and will have a capacity of 5,000 in a pinch. The total cost will be around $132,000, which sum has been fully subscribed. Billy Hume, president of Hiram Walker Distilleries, is the prime mover of the project, and his investment of $56,000 made it possible.

CRICKET CLUB WILL PLAY IN TORONTO ON HOLIDAY.

The Peterborough Cricket Club will journey to Toronto on Civic Holiday to play the St. Edmunds Club. Fresh from their victory over the Chicago team, it is expected that the local club will more than hold their own in the Queen City. All players should turn out to the practice at the Oval on Friday evening at 6.30.

THREE LACROSSE PRACTISES A WEEK.

The two lacrosse teams of the C.G.E. plant are holding three practises a week—Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. The players are turning out well and hopes are entertained that they may be able to play some real games before the snow blows.

Campbellford held the Oshawa team to a tie in a game played this week in connection with the Old Home celebrations. Campbellford is anxious to play a friendly series with Peterborough.

PETES FULL OF FIGHT FOR BIG GAME SATURDAY

Battle With Belleville Nationals Should Be One of Season's Best

RIGHT IN RUNNING.

Result Will Have Important Bearing On Central League Race.

With the Petes full of fight and right back in the Central Ontario race Saturday's game at James Stevenson Park with Belleville as the opposition should prove one of the most exciting of the season.

The Petes have beaten Belleville twice this week, first in a league game at Belleville on Tuesday and again in an exhibition affair at Campbellford yesterday and they are full of confidence in their ability to make it three straight by taking the National Saturday. The game is of supreme importance inasmuch as the Petes are tied with Deloro and Oshawa for second place and with the latter hooking up in a double header on Saturday it is up to the Swanston crew to show their best brand of ball. Only six games remain to be played and every fixture will be fought out until the grim end.

The Petes took a lot of enjoyment out of coming from behind to beat Belleville on Tuesday and they are raring to go while by the same token Peeney Mills and his comrades are equally determined to get revenge Incidentally the Nationals have by no means cinched first place yet and a loss on Saturday would give them something over which to worry.

One of the biggest crowds of the year will see the battling Petes hook up with their old rivals.

BIG BOWLING TOURNAMENT TO START AUGUST 19TH

Provision Made For Accommodation of 128 Rinks and 512 Players.

Lawn bowlers of Toronto have extended a warm invitation to their fellow-players in other centres in Ontario to participate in the 37th annual Dominion bowling tournament, to be held on the Toronto greens on August 19 to 23, next.

This competition has become the most widely attended of all bowling tournaments, and this year provision is being made for the accommodation of 128 rinks or 512 layers. It has attracted the finest bowlers from all of the leading cities, as the prizes are the most highly valued of all tournament rewards, and the winners conceded to be the outstanding exponents of the game. But greater than the material rewards is the splendid spirit of good fellowship that permeates this tournament, and many bowlers from outside cities make it a point to visit Toronto so as to meet old friends they see only once a year.

The honorary secretary is H. Rowlatt, 10 Wellington street east, Toronto, Ontario, and entries will be accepted until August 13.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Idle Rich" adds vogue to the talkies. In this picture, you will see and hear, a splendid example of what voice means to pictures. Conrad Nagel, Bessie Love and Leila Hyams, the leading players.

When the moving picture was given a voice, it meant more than merely endowing its characters with speech. It has brought to the screen a good deal more, for now the screen gives voice to underlying ideas in a plot, conditions, motivation, in fact, the very spirit of a play.

A striking case in point is "The Idle Rich", Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's vivid transcription of "White Collars," the famous stage play of flat dwellers and average family life in a busy city, of the clang of street cars and the hustle and bustle of every day, of families in cramped quarters in small apartments and flats, still getting the same kick out of life that audiences at the Capitol theater will get out of the new play which opens there today.

It is William de Mille's first talking picture, it is stated, but, of course, when one remembers that he was for years a stage actor, director and playwright before coming to pictures, one can readily understand the dozens of deft little touches of artistry that embellish the play.

The story is just a cross section of the life of a family of average city people, white collar workers in offices and stores. The pretty daughter of the family, a stenographer, marries her employer, a young millionaire, and has just as much trouble cooking bride's biscuits and living a family life as the bride of a poor man has. Modern girls who work in offices don't learn to cook—and de Mille gets some quite brilliant comedy out of the fact, even if some husbands don't.

The cast is exceptionally adequate. Conrad Nagel, whose talking voice has made him famous in many a recent sound picture, is the young millionaire, a serious-minded young fellow with an infinite capacity for simple pleasures, despite his wealth. Leila Hyams is not only very easy to look at, but convincing as an actress, too, in the part of the pretty bride. Bessie Love, of "Broadway Melody" fame, scores heavily as the little flapper sister.

This year marks the 51st annual consecutive Canadian National Exhibition making this premier Canadian attractive the oldest as well as the largest exposition in the world.

SOFTBALL.

The C.G.E. and Harrisons will be the opposing teams in to-night's softball fixture. C.G.E. are playing good ball right now and with Ace Powell going good should put up a strong argument against the second-placers. C.G.E. defeated Westclox their last time out, while Harrison took the Teco into camp in a close game. The game is scheduled to start at 6.30 and will be played at Central School Grounds.

On Friday night Teco and Western Clock will hook up. Both aggregations possess some smart softballers and a good game is promised the fans. The game starts at 6.30 at Central School Grounds.

Red Sox Split Bill With Cleveland Indians

BOSTON, Aug. 1 (Canadian Press).—The Red Sox took the first game of a double-header from the Cleveland Indians here yesterday, 4 to 0, but dropped the second 6 to 2.

Rhyne's double with the bases full in the seventh inning of the first game drove in three runs, and he scored himself on MacFayden's single. L. Sewell, with a double and triple, and Hodapp with a single and double, helped Cleveland win the second contest.

AGING GOLFER GETS 77 SCORE

Geo. S. Lyon At 72 Years Plays Remarkable Game Overseas.

238 PROS IN CANADA.

(By Ralph H. Reville, Editor of The Canadian Golfer)

TORONTO, Aug. 1.— (Special to The Examiner, Copyright 1929). — One by one, the members of the Canadian Seniors Golf Association, and the U.S. Seniors, who were playing in the International Senior matches in Great Britain are returning to Canada and the United States. Some of the players however, will remain in the Old County for a month or so more. One of the first to return to Canada last week was Mr. George S. Lyon who with a really remarkable 77 won the first prize presented by the British Seniors' Association, at the competition at Sunningdale, between the teams of the United States and Canada. Mr. Frank Matthews of Toronto also won the best nett prize so the Canadian Seniors quite distinguished themselves in quite distinguished company. Mr. Lyon it will be remembered, last month, celebrated his 71st birthday. There is not another man playing golf today in the world, that could register in his seventy second year, a score of 77 on a testing course like Sunningdale. That does not admit of any argument.

Many Wrong Records

There is a very erroneous and stupid idea, prevailing throughout Canada and the States, in regard to 'record scores" on courses. A player in a match game comes in after burning up the course say with a 67 or 68 or some other good score, and that is promptly heralded as a "record" for that particular course. It is nothing of the sort. The official definition of a record score is very plain indeed. It is as follows:

"A record score can only be truly made in a scoring competition with the holes and tees in their proper medal positions. A score made in a match by holes or against "par" or "bogey" cannot be considered a record score, because the player is not playing for a score but against an opponent."

Secretaries, or any other officials of golf clubs have no right to bulletin or recognize a so-called "record" score made in match play. Newspapers too, should not publish such scores as records, because they are not. To make a "Record" for any course, the score must be made in a medal-play competition "with the holes and tees in their proper medal position."

They can now say the same thing about Leo Diegel in connection with the Canadian Open as they say about Bobby Jones and the U. S. Open, not to mention the U. S. Amateur. It is not a championship. It is an Invitation Tournament. The other players both from Canada and the States are invited to come and see him win it. For the fourth time Leo, chock-full of golfing eccentricities both as regards stance and swing, won the event last week at Montreal, and won it decisively with the record breaking score of 274 made up of four superlative rounds of 70, 67, 71, 66. The best previous score in the Canadian Open, was the late Douglas Edgar's 287 at Hamilton in 1919 which for many years was recognized as the best score made in any championship. In 1924 Diegel won the event with 287. He repeated in 1925 with 295. In 1928 he was out in front with 282 so at Montreal he clipped off 8 strokes from his best previous performance, in Canada.

Winner Gets Souvenir

The Royal Canadian Association has decided to recognize the winning again by Diegel of the championship, by presenting him with a suitable and well deserved souvenir. This will probably take the form of a replica of the championship cup on which his name has now been four times inscribed. Other celebrated names on this cup are Tommy Armour, Al. Watrous and MacDonald Smith. By the way, Armour who was runner-up to Diegel, with 277 a score which usually speaking, would win any championship, in a clever little speech at the presentation of the prizes, claimed that the Canadian Open was not third but the second greatest championship in the World. He ranked the U. S. Open first (he won it in 1927) the Canadian second (he won it in 1927) and the British third (he has never won it). This was perhaps a sly Scottish dig at Hagen, winner four times of the British Open who has yet to win the Canadian Open although he has tried to do so now some half dozen times. At Montreal last week, 'the Haig" had to be content with rather ignominiously being relegated to 13th place. The Canadian Open, is certainly "unlucky" for him. It is the only premier event he has never annexed.

"The hand-writing is on the wall" or rather the "sign is in the sky". At the Open Championship at Kanawaki, Montreal, last week, three of the outstanding entrants, George Von Elm who ranks second to Jones as an amateur in the United States, Tommy Armour and Al Watrous, planed over from Detroit to participate in the event. Before another five years, it is safe to say that the majority of the participants, will be taking the air route to the big championships. In the future a club with facilities near-by for the landing of planes, will unquestionably have the edge on its rivals or competitors. No new course should be laid out now-a-days near large centres at any rate, unless a landing field can be arranged for in the vicinity. Promoters of new courses will be well advised to keep this fact in mind.

Too Many Pros. in U.S.?

The "Canadian Golfer" has listed in Canada 238 professionals and that is about the correct number. In the United States there were some 2,000 recorded at the beginning of the season. At the Open Championship at Montreal last week, Walter Hagen was asked if he though this number was about correct. He promptly answered "no". Pressed for a reason he replied: "Why, like the fools there is a professional in the States, born every minute?" Hardly as bad as the sarcastic "Sir Walter" makes out but the ranks of the paid brigade are almost every day added to in America. But the demand is there as a result of new clubs being launched literally, almost daily and the supply apparently from all accounts, has not yet reached the saturation point.

Over 2,400 cars from the United States were counted on the Canadian National Exhibition Grounds in one day.

SHORT CIRCUIT STARTS ANTICS

Motorist Striking Pole Carrying Canadian Press Wire Starts Mystery.

HEAT EXPANDED WIRES

OSHAWA, Ont., Aug. 1.—(By the Canadian Press)—Some little time ago a passing motorist hit a telegraph pole in this city, but must have suffered little damage as he went his way without reporting the accident. Co-incidently the automatic telegraph printer through which the Canadian Press furnishes a full news service to the Oshawa Daily Times, started curious antics. Quite regularly it started in about eleven o'clock each morningmixing up signals and furnishing harrassed editors with a report mostly "pie", in the language of the print shop, but late in the afternoon would return to "normalcy" and deliver perfect copy. A curious feature was the same signals transmitted from Toronto over the identical wire to the Kingston Whig-Standard went through without interruption

This condition continued day by day to the exasperation of all concerned. Both the Canadian Pacific's Telegraph, from whom the wire was leased, and The Canadian Press sent experts down to Oshawa to locate the trouble, but after checking all the mechanical and wire equipment, could only report it was a mystery. Finally the pole struck by the peccant motorist was examined. It had been thrown out of alignment sufficiently to slacken the wires it carried, among these being the local wire off the main lead into the Times office. Copper wires expand with heat and about eleven o'clock as the sun became hot, this wire dropped a fraction more till it made contact with a wire below, establishing a short circuit. As the day cooled off, this contact was released and until next forenoon the wire worked like a ball.

It is a fundamental principle of cross-ruff play, of which this deal is an excellent example, that Declarer should take in his high card winners in side suits immediately before adversaries have any opportunities for discards and possible subsequent over-ruffs. The Declarer's play on this deal will illustrate the practical application of this important principle.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South, with a two-suited hand, bids the higher ranking Diamonds first, intending to show the Clubs on a later round if necessary or expedient.

West overcalls with one Heart. Though lacking the generally accepted requirement of 1½ Quick Tricks for a defensive bid, West's probable trick strength, by reason of the two-suited nature of his hand, is so great as to justify his bid.

North, holding in his own hand the probability of at least four tricks with Spades the trump, makes a free bid of one Spade over West's Heart, figuring that if South's original Diamond was introductory to No Trumps or to another suit, the hands may more easily be fitted after the announcement of his strength in Spades. North has no reason to overcall West's bid with No Trumps as he holds only one stopper 1.. Hearts and but a singleton of his partner's suit.

East passing, South now shows his Clubs which concludes the bidding.

Contract: While South has a powerful hand, his preferable procedure is to bid one Diamond at Contract and not to start with an original two bid. His hand is unquestionably a strong two-suiter, but the two suits are not sufficiently solid to risk partner's assumption that they may be absolutely solid and thus the consequent bidding of a Slam by North counting on South's delivering a greater number of tricks than his hand will actually produce. South, accordingly, bids but one, refusing to "over-encourage" his partner.

Following the original one Diamond, the bidding proceeds as at Auction except that North advances the Club bid to four odd and South carries it to a game contract.

The Play

West opens with the Queen of Hearts which South wins in Dummy with the Ace. South now leads the Five of Diamonds from Dummy, winning with the Ace in own hand, and in accordance with the principle of cross-ruff play, lays down the King of Diamonds, followed by a small Diamond which he trumps with the Club Eight in Dummy and which East over-ruffs with the Club King.

East now leads a small Club, hoping to kill at least one cross-ruff by so doing. South wins with the Club Nine and now takes three ruffs, two Diamonds trumped in Dummy and a Heart trumped in own hand. It will be noted that East cannot now over-ruff the Dummy on the Diamond leads.

Declarer, in the Dummy with the second Diamond ruff, leads the Queen of Spades. East goes right up with the Ace and returns the Five of Spades, which South trumps with the Club Six and thereafter lays down the Ace and Queen of trumps for the last two tricks, having lost in all but the Ace of Spades and the King of Clubs.

It will be apparent that if Declarer leads even one round of trumps he cannot make game, as East, when in with the Club King, will undoubtedly lead another round of trumps to minimize the cross-ruff.

RABBITS SCARE B. C. OFFICIALS

Authorities Frightened They May Have Australian Plague.

SITUATION IN HAND

—For about one week British Columbia was threatened with a plague of rabbits such as Australia has suffered ever since the time, many years ago, when a well-meaning but short-sighted lady imported a pair which subsequently multiplied into millions.

The threat is over, as far as British Columbia is concerned, the game administration board, the attorney-general and a host of indignant writers of letters to editors are again functioning in tranquility.

The scare started when a dispatch from Sydney, Australia, indicated that a game commissioner in British Columbia had placed an order for a number of rabbits to be bred in this province for their fur. Publication of the dispatch caused an uproar among those who had knowledge of how Australia regarded its rabbit pest, and this was intensified when later cables from Australia told how gleefully the authorities there were going about the business of filling British Columbia's order. "What a pity the order isn't for a few millions instead of a few hundred", one Australian official was quoted as remarking.

Meanwhile British Columbia officials were being alarmed. Attorney-General R. H. Pooley described the plan as "the maddest thing' he had ever heard of. A. Bryan Williams, veteran big game hunter and guide who was recently appointed as head of the provincial game administration department, declared he had never heard of any such plan and would have nothing to do with such a scheme. Attorney-General Pooley began to take steps to cancel the order, as a deluge of critical letters reached the press saying that under no circumstances would the rabbits be allowed to land.

Finally the trouble was traced to a former British Columbia assistant gamekeeper now engaged in raising foxes and he thought Australian rabbits would solve his feeding problem.

"But I didn't place an order" explained the former gamekeeper. "I just wrote to ask about it. I meant no harm."

BREAD FROM BEANS

LONDON, Aug. 1.—It has been reported here that a new British industry will shortly spring up which will manufacture flour, adaptable to bread making, from soya beans. The soya bean has been known as far back at 2836 B.C., and only recently it has been used as cattle fodder. A Viennese scientist, however, is said to have prepared a bread flour from it which does not go rancid.

HOW GARDENERS CAN CO-OPERATE

A. V. Main, of Ottawa, Tells Florists Trial Plots Should Be Registered.

URGES "GET TOGETHER."

"How the private gardener can co-operate with the retailer and the grower," was the subject of the paper given by A. V. Main, of Ottawa, Ontario, to the Canadian Florists and Gardeners at session of their conference held in the Legion Hall this morning.

Many perplexing questions were cleared up as to how the common garden flowers could be grown economically by the retailer and grower.

The first place a private gardener could assist and co-operate with retailer and grower," he said, "would be to stress the need of the support that he could give the C. F. and G. A. which would ultimately mean a better standing to himself and the welfare of the Association.

"A second way would be to register all trial plots and that parks and private estates, which have ideal conditions, should carry out these trial tests.

"In all communities large or small the professional gardener should be on the best of terms with the grower and retailer. The private gardener brings business to his door many a time and can speak the good word as to the sale and price of flowers. The store florists will find the up-to-date gardener a ready reference for his many inquiries from customers.

"We all know that the gardener can supply commodities that cannot be obtained otherwise. At our local clubs and exhibitions let us forget our petty troubles and create a community spirit.

"It could be said that the material or variety that suits the grower or retailer, or we would say that, which the public buys, would not satisfy the people that employ gardeners.

Estates Demand Variety.

"They demand more variety and choice things of the garden and greenhouse. That is a channel where private work can introduce from time to time something new in decorative purpose.

"Ask yourself these questions. Do we give some of the newer material a fair trial? Does the grower consider the requirements to grow the very best?

"Any half trial or haphazard growing will seldom give profitable results. In trying out new plants keep records of sowing and general observations of culture.

Allied To Florist.

"The private gardener is more allied than ever to the florist. He must produce for service. Very little is grown that is not used for decoration purposes. Ways and means present themselves to introduce some of our subjects. Exhibitions, private clubs and conventions can bring them into the limelight.

"The grower must produce perfect specimens of Schizathus, then the retailer will do his part. It just reveals to you what can be produced from seed in our own domain almost free from disease as we keep on producing afresh from seed. The initial cost is small. These may be some of the things that the private gardener can co-operate with the florist. At all events, the services of the professional gardener were required within the circle of any horticultural organization or movement.

Floral Demonstration.

The latter part of the morning was spent in a floral demonstration by the retailers, the representatives of which wrought miracles of beauty from the frail ferns and heartier flowers. Bridal bouquets, table bouquets, hospital pieces, baskets, and wreaths were all made before the eyes of the spectators, who were amazed at the swiftness by which, with deft strokes, they converted a few sprays of flowers and ferns into a beautiful spectacle of order and arrangement.

The flowers for this demonstration were supplied by Dales of Brampton; Miller of Toronto; Dunlop of Toronto; Grobba of Mimico; Alford of Islington, and the garden flowers by the local florists.

Prize Winners.

Mrs. Percy Walters deserves much credit in conducting the demonstration and in securing so many skillful entrants. The prize winners were: In the table competition for the best table decorations, Miss Elsie Woolams of Toronto, secured first prize, and C. K. Cooper of Toronto, and Mrs. Emily Crawford of Kingston, were next. S. Muston of Toronto, and J. L. Hicks of Kingston, were the winners for the best wreaths; C. Cooper and Miss Mary Young of Brantford, had the prize - winning baskets. Miss Mary Young of Brantford, and Mr. C. Pallister of Campbellford had the best sprays. The best double sprays were demonstrated by Miss A. Mills of Toronto, and M. Clapperton of Montreal. Miss Woolams of Toronto, and Miss Mary Young of Brantford, were the prize winners in the presentation bouquet contest, and the awards for the best shoulder bouquet went to Miss Mary Young of Brantford, and S. A. McFadden of Toronto.

Memorial Service.

After the demonstration the delegates paid tribute to the boys who sacrificed their lives in France and placed wreaths and sprays on the Cenotaph at the Legion Hall and on the war memorial at Confederation Square. S. A. McFadden of Toronto, and president of the convention, laid the flowers and Dr. N. H. Sutton, vice-president of the Canadian Legion, accepted the token of remembrance, and Rev. David Wren of Trinity United Church, held a short memorial service.

New Officers.

The voting took place for the officers of the current year and the results of the voting show: S. A. McFadden, president; R. Scott of Montreal, first vice-president; A. V. Main, of Ottawa; 2nd vice-president; C. S. Thompson of Peterborough, secretary treasurer, and the directors as follows: Those elected for two years: J. Armor of Montreal; A. Frost, of Toronto, and L. McKenna, of Montreal; those chosen for one year are: J. Muston of Stouffville; W. Harris of Brockville, and Professor R. H. Thomilson of Guelph.

Results of Sports.

The athletic events which were run off at Wallace's Point yesterday were all very interesting, and gave a whole lot of fun to the spectators. The winners were:

100 yards, men: 1 G. Ritchie; 2, H. Slichter.

75 yards, men and women holding hands: 1, Elsie Woolams and H. Slichter; 2, Masie Cowan and Leo McKenna.

Jockey race: 1, G. Ritchie and T. Clapperton; 2, J. Slichter and A. Dougan; Leo McKenna and D. Jordan (a tie.)

Miscellaneous Race: 1, Leo McKenna and D. Jordan; 2, D. Kaufman and C. Cole.

Ladies' nailing contest: 1, Mrs. Pallister; 2, Mrs. Cowan.

Throwing rolling pin: 1, Mrs. J. Mutton; 2, Mrs. G. Mills.

Voice test: 1, Mrs. Ritchie; 2, Mrs. Findlay.

RECALLS DAYS WHEN WILD LIFE WAS PLENTIFUL

W. A. Graham Celebrates His 89th Birthday To-day.

BORN AT YOUNG'S POINT

Thirty Years Ago Mr. Graham Came To Peterborough To Reside.

"I can recall the day when I saw thirty deer in a pile at Young's Point after a hunt," W. A. Graham, one of the district's oldest residents, who celebrates his 89th birthday today, stated to The Examiner this morning. "In my early days around Young's Point game of all kinds was very plentiful. One did not have to go far from the point to find bears, deer, wolves, beaver, mink and muskrat."

Many changes in the district have been noted by Mr. Graham since the early period of his life. Eighty-nine years ago to-day he was born on a farm in Smith Township, near Young's Point, and lived there for about fifty years. He was educated in the only school of the district at the time, School No. 8. It was situated in the same place as the present school.

Thirty years ago, Mr. Graham came to Peterborough and settled in Ashburnham in his present home, 182 Hunter Street East. He worked with the Trent Canal project as a constructional engineer, and for some time was an operator on the Lift Lock.

Mr. Graham's parents were among the early settlers in this part of Ontario. They came out from County Monaghan, Ireland, in 1833, and settled at Young's Point.

Almost in his ninetieth year, yet the aged Mr. Graham still maintains a cheerful frame of mind and a keen sense of humor. He relates in a droll manner numerous episodes of his younger days at Young's Point. Among the stories he tells is one in the nature of a fish story. One of his neighbors at Young's Point was fishing off the dam and caught a bass. Before he could land his fish as the story goes, a maskinonge of huge proportions swallowed the small bass and got hooked. The fisherman landed both of the fish. Mr. Graham personally vouches for this story.

"The waters of Stoney and Clear Lakes abounded in fish in the early days of my farm life," the aged resident continued. "All you had to do to catch a fish was to put your hook in and yank one out. There were no houses or cottages of any kind on the lakes in those days and the shores abounded in wild life. There were many beaver, mink, and muskrat for the trappers.

"We did not often go to Peterborough from the Point. The trail was very winding and rough and made it a tedious trip. Once in a while we took our grain and produce down, but it was mostly done in winter when the snow made travelling easier. Peterborough was a lumbering town in the early half of the nineteenth century and we brought lots of pork down for the lumberjacks. Our grain was ground in the old grist mill at Young's Point, in which the old stone grinding process was used instead of the modern rollers. There was also the saw-mill which was a great centre of activity in the log-driving days."

BROOKS SPEAKS ON EDUCATION

Claims More Natives Control Their Education More English Spoken.

ENGLISH GAINING

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Aug. 1.—(C. P. Cable via Reuters)—The more the natives control their own education, the more will the English language prevail, declared Dr. E. H. Brooks in an address on "native education in relation to national policy," to the British Association for the advancement of science today. The topic, one of vital importance in South Africa, aroused keen interest.

The question of a linguistic medium, said Dr. Brooks, was most complex. Most of those in favor of "segregration" of the natives advocated the vernacular of the tribes, while those in favor of "equal right for all civilized men" wanted English used for political reasons. English in any event was gaining ground over the native tongues and had snatched from "Afrikaans" the golden chance of becoming the cultural medium of five million people.

Most differences between the natives and Europeans in South Africa, Dr. Brooks said, arose from political and economic, not pedagogical, causes. One illustration of thiswas the need for constant pleading that both in South Africa and the southern sections of the U.S. education should tion should be given to the colored man. Opposition to education should be given to the colored man. Opposition to education rarely if ever was based on genuine doubts of the colored man's ability and capability of improvement. Similarly, the system under which the majority of native schools were controlled by missionary bodies and not government, could be explained by the state's toleration of native education rather than its active support of it.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

THE DELUDED CANNIBAL.

The cannibal was not a man
Of deep or learned mind
He formed the very lowest clan
Among all human kind.
When he had half a chance to err
He almost always erred,
And often his conclusions were
Both stupid and absurd.

His smartest foes he always stewed
With fatuous delight,
He fancied that this kind of food
Would make him also bright.
Of course we know to reason so
Proclaims a man a fool,
But then, poor chap, he did not know
A dietary rule.

Moreover when his smartest foes
Assuaged his appetite,
They never more again arose
To start another fight.
A man who's figured in a stew
Though filled with mental charm
And craft and guile can never do
Another bit of harm.

And so perhaps the cannibal
Though he did not become
A brighter man, was after all
Not so extremely dumb.
His reasoning of course was wrong
As you and I well know,
But yet it served him to prolong
His life time here below.

GREAT BRITAIN IS DEADLOCKED

showed that the British Government was unwilling or unable to agree to the restoration of normal relations between Great Britain and Russia.
Therefore special new consideration of the question on the Russian side was necessitated.
The Commissariat of Foreign Affairs was obliged to apply for instructions to the Central Executive Committee of the U.S.S.R., which will consider the new proposals of the British Government at its next plenary session.
After delivering this reply Ambassador Dovgalevsky, who came to London from Paris at the end of last week, returned to his post in France.

MOSCOW, Aug. 1 — (Canadian Press).—An official Tass news agency statement to-day reported that the Anglo-Russian conference in London for resumption of trade and commercial relations and diplomatic services between the two countries was deadlocked because Great Britain refused to agree immediately to the appointment of ambassadors.
PARIS, Aug. 1—(Canadian Press)—A Havas agency despatch from Moscow to-day reported that the conference in London for the resumption of trade and commercial relations and diplomatic services between Russia and Great Britain had been interrupted.
Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson and Russian Ambassador Dovgalevsky, of Paris, were conducting the negotiations, which were announced by the Labor Government shortly after it came into power. Some discouragement over the progress of the negotiations, which began last week, had been unofficially reported.

LOST ARTISTS ON BOARD SHIP

Three Wrecked Near Greenland Are Now On Way To Copenhagen.

ALL WELL.

(Special to The Examiner, Copyright)
OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—The American artists, Rockwell, and Kent, with a third companion, reported to have been shipwrecked at Godhaab in Greenland, have been located as safe and have started out by ship for Copenhagen. At least Rockwell and Kent have already sailed, while the third man is at Godhaab, waiting a ship for the Danish capital.
This was the word received by wireless from the Canadian Arctic exploration ship, the Beothic, which on Sunday arrived at Godhavn, Greenland. Recently a letter was received by the Canadian authorities here from the artists' friends in New York, asking Canadian aid for the missing men. Greenland is not in Canadian territory, but there is a very friendly feeling between the two governments and the Beothic made inquiries as soon as she arrived at Godhavn. Rockwell and Kent had reached Godhavn, but the third man, whose name was not given, is at Godhaab.
The Beothic is now trudging north along the west shore of Greenland, and is bound for Dundas harbor. The west shore of Baffin Straits are always cluttered with heavy ice fields coming down from the north, and a ship could be held in these ice fields has a hard time getting out. Some of the early explorers were held in the ice packs a whole year.

Cross Ice Packs.
The Beothic used to go north on the Greenland side, plunge into the ice pack and drift down, gradually edging across to Pond's inlet. Last year she tried going farther north and getting across to Dundas harbor. This she was successful in doing. Having left Godhavn Sunday, she is now going north to Etah and Frame vn both in Greenland and will then cross over to the Canadian Arctic.
At Godhavn on Sunday the Beothic picked up Dr. Kruger, a German scientist, who has been trying for years to get into the Arctic. He was taken along, he and his assistant. At Dundas harbor Inspector Joy, the R.C.M.P. officer in charge of the detachments in the eastern Arctic, will be picked up and the Beothic will then make for Kane Basin, which is the nearest landing place to Bache Peninsula. The R.C.M.P. officer at Bache will come down to Kane Basin, where his supplies will be landed for the ensuing year.

GIANT DIRIGIBLE GRAF ZEPPELIN REPORTS ALL'S WELL ON BOARD AS SHE SLOWLY SPANS ATLANTIC

Big Airship Is Making 63 Miles An Hour and Weather Is Good.

NOT SIGHTED AT GIBRALTAR.

Last Reported 600 Miles West of Gibraltar and Is Picking Up Speed.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press). — The dirigible Graf Zeppelin dispelled all anxiety over her failure to communicate her position to her home port since passing Gibraltar by announcing at 8.25 a.m. (2.25 a.m. E.S.T.) to-day she was making good speed about 300 miles west of Gibraltar.

The Zeppelin works reported receipt of the following message from the air liner:

"8.25 a.m. Central European Time (2.25 a.m. E.S.T.) 300 nautical miles west of Gibraltar. Travelling at 100 kilometers an hour. Weather good."

This was the first message from the Zeppelin at the home office since early morning. Her speed of 100 kilometers an hour made her average speed about 63 miles an hour.

LONDON, August 2. (C.P.) — A Lloyd's report from Corunna, Spain, wireless station, this afternoon, said the dirigible Graf Zeppelin was out to sea on her way to the Azores, well beyond the Pillars of Hercules and Gibraltar.

The Corunna wireless station was in communication with the dirigible at 7.00 a.m., (2.00 a.m. E.S.T.) The Zeppelin gave her position as 36 latitude north and 10 longitude west.

The big airship entered on her 3,000 mile journey across the Atlantic with a cheery salutation of "good weather, good morning," to the wireless station at Corunna.

At the Azores, which were about 750 miles distant from the position which the Graf Zeppelin gave, Dr. Hugo Eckener, the commander of the dirigible, was to choose between two routes for the American continent.

The southerly route would take the airship in the general direction of Bermuda, which she skirted in her original successful flight to America. On the northerly course, she would head as nearly direct as possible for Lakehurst, N. J., the goal of her flight.

With the better weather which her salutation reported, the Graf Zeppelin was apparently picking up speed and making better time.

SEEN BY SHIP.

ABOARD S. S. ANTHEA, Aug. 2.—(C.P.)—At 2.30 a.m., G.M.T. (9.30 p.m., E. S. T., Thursday) in latitude 35.54 north longitude 4.52 west a large airship, (the Graf Zeppelin) flying low passed over our ship steering westerly in a strong head wind. It was making slow progress.

The position given by the S. S. Anthea, a British boat, was about three miles south and 50 miles west of the Rock of Gibraltar, which Dr. Hugo Eckner, master of the Graf, had expected to reach at 2 a.m.

The Graf's distance south of Gibraltar at this point tended to uphold the presumption it passed out to sea from over the African rather than the European mainland, accounting for its not having been sighted at Gibraltar.

FOREST FIRE JUMPS RIVER BURNING 125 ACRES BUSH

Finally Controlled By Gang of Twenty-Five Fire-Fighters.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—A forest fire at South Wellington, Vaucouver Island, which got out of control and jumped from the south to the north bank of the Nanaimo River, covvered 150 acres today and is being fought by a crew of forty men.

Fire broke out in the Cedar district, south of Nanaimo, but after spreading to an area of fifty acres, it was brought under control by a gang of 25 fire-fighters.

The weather continued hot and dry over the entire Province.

Red Flag Replaces Old Czarist Banner

ABOARD ICEBREAKER SEDOV, Off Franz Joseph Land, Aug. 2 (Canadian Press). — Another flag of Czarist Russia has at last been replaced by the Red flag of the Soviet Union, nearly 12 years after the symbol of the monarchy had been replaced in European Russia by the new banner. Wednesday the Soviet Polar expedition came upon the wooden cross planted by Lieut. Sedov in 1914 on Cape Flora, Northbrook Island, and took down the tattered flag of Imperial Russia to replace it with a flaming new Red banner.

TOURIST CASES AIRED TO O.M.L.

"Tempest in Teapot" Easily Adjusted, Says Detroit Motor League Official.

GOOD FEELING EXISTS.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—Speaking at the banquet given by the citizens of Sault Ste. Marie to directors of Ontario Motor League here last night, Capt. W. S. Gilbreath, vice-president of the Detroit Motor League, who in the afternoon had laid before the directors complaints of American motorists of alleged unfair treatment in Canada, described the whole situation as a "tempest in a teapot," and took the view that the difficulties could be adjusted without much trouble. Capt. Gilbreath made it clear that he did not put the blame on the Provincial authorities, and emphasized the good feeling that existed.

The completion of the Trans-Canada Highway was a subject that was brought up by several speakers. Col. Harry Hamilton of the Sault, chairman at the banquet, urged that this was an object that the Sault should work hard for, and both Hon. James Lyons and Capt. Gilbreath predicted that it would in a comparatively short time be an accomplished fact.

200 RANGERS LOSING OUT IN BIG FIRE

Valuable Timber Limits in Alberta Are a Complete Loss.

WORST IN YEARS.

Man Power of Whole Neighborhood Has Been Requisitioned To Fight Flames.

COALSPUR, Alta., Aug. 2.—By The Canadian Press).—Despite all 200 men with adequate equipment can do, the most disastrous conflagration in years continues to wipe out stands of valuable timber throughout the district and is rapidly reducing one of the most beautiful sections of the Brazeau forest to a blackened waste.

Millions of feet of potential timber are going up in smoke and the man power of the whole neighbourhood has been requestioned in an attempt to curb the fire demon. But the need for men is urgent and unless heavy rain comes soon the seriousness of the situation must continue to increase.

Miners in Fight.

Mines along the coal branch are being denuded of workers and all surplus labour is being utilized in an effort to combat more effectively the onslaughts of the fire. Their man power withdrawn, it is expected the Foothills and Sterco Mines will be compelled temporarily to suspend operations.

The 200 fire fighters rounded up in the district are working under the supervision of forest rangers and competent foremen, and pack trains comprising more than seventy horses have been pressed into service.

While reports from the west are encouraging, on the Eastern and Southern sides of the forest the outlook is gloomy.

The fire has jumped the Cardinal river and is now in close proximity to the Grave Flats. Soon it may menace the graves of Indians who, many years ago, roamed the country and later gave this section of the forest its name.

FUEL REFUELING SHOW.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 2. —(Canadian Press). — Dale (Red) Jackson and Forest O'Brine, piloting the monoplane "St. Louis Robin," with which they established a new world's endurance record of seventeen and one half days of flight, took off from Lambert-St. Louis field at 9.05 a.m., to-day for Chicago to appear in a refueling demonstration late to-day.

Prince Is Nervous As 49,000 Boy Scouts Each Attempt To Take His Picture

ARROWE PARK, Eng., Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—The Prince of Wales, representing the King at the great world Boy Scout Jamboree, to-day shook hands and fraternzed with the youth of all nations in a tour of this great tent city of 50,000 youngsters.

The boys all looked dry in spite of a long and ineffectual wait in the rain for the Prince last night and all but a very few were waiting for him this time with cameras.

Apparently every scout was determined to be his own news cameraman.

The Prince wearing the uniform of a Chief Scout of Wales, strode nervously and quickly into the midst of this photographic reception.

After a three-hour tour of the camps the Prince changed to plus fours and left for a game of golf before lunch.

CANADIAN RUM RUNNER BLOWS UP FOUR MILES FROM EDGEWATER PILOT WITH CREW DISAPPEAR

Mysterious Fire and Explosions Draw Out Cutter and Two Fire Tugs.

$9,000 WORTH OF ALE SINKS.

Noted As Smuggler—Every Officer On Erie Coast Was On Lookout.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—The Red Bird, a Lake Erie rum-runner, was burned to the water's edge and its $9,000 cargo of Canadian ale destroyed in a mysterious fire and series of gasoline explosions four miles off Edgewater Beach to-day. Whether the crew escaped was not learned.

The pilot and crew had disappeared by the time a United States coastguard cutter and two city fire tugs reached the scene.

Captain John Fally of the coastguard boat expressed the opinion that a convoy boat had taken off the Red Bird's crew.

Every Federal agent on the United States side of Lake Erie had been instructed to watch for the Red Bird, a known rum-runner. The boat was listed at the Customs office here as having cleared at Leamington, Ont., July 11, 15 and 16, with $15,000 worth of liquor aboard each time, and to have returned to Leamington empty a few hours after each clearance.

The Red Bird, still smouldering, was towed to dock here.

BARCLAY IS BEWILDERED BY CHANGE OF SENTENCE

TORONTO, August 2. (C.P.) — William Barclay, who was saved from execution for murder when his sentence was commuted by the Dominion Cabinet to life imprisonment, left here to-day in custody to begin his sentence at the Portsmouth penitentiary. Barclay was bewildered by the change of events which saved him from the noose one day before he was to be executed.

THREE BANDITS HOLD UP TAXI

Driver, With Large Sum, Fools Thugs By Driving Into Gas Station.

ESCAPES CAPTORS.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 2. (Canadian Press).—Held up by three armed men and ordered to drive along the Kingston Road last night, Harold Goodfellow, taxi driver, managed to drive his car into a gasoline station and wrench himself free from his captors. Although he had a large sum of money with him at the time he was not forced to give it up. Police believe that these three men were the same who assaulted another taxi driver, William Riley, who was hit on the head with a blunt instrument early Wednesday morning by passengers, who afterwards escaped.

LOVER SHOOTS RIVAL.

MORRISTON, Pa., Aug. 2. —(Canadian Press). — A jealous suitor shot and killed Miss Edith Basford and William E. Ingram as they conversed in front of the girl's home here, last night. The assailant, Earl Oberholtzer, then shot himself through the head. Physicians said to-day his chances of recovery were slight.

PENSION BOARD FOR PETERBORO IS NOMINATED

Finance Committee Names Five Men to Look After Old Age Pensions.

ELECT CHAIRMAN

City Treasurer Has $162,000 Issue of Debentures for Sale.

Five men were nominated by the Finance Committee of the city council to form the Old Age Pension Board for the city of Peterborough and —these five will recommend to the council at its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday night. The five names mentioned were T. J. Stenton a nominee of the Trades and Labor Council, Alderman Walter Stocker, Arthur Metheral plumbing inspector and city relief officer, city treasurer Frank Adams and Frank Fairen school attendance officer for the Separate School Board. These five men will elect their own chairman and city clerk S. R. Armstrong will be the secretary.

Other names were mentioned by the members of the committee but on motion of Aldermen Macdonald and Lowe these will be recommended to the city council.

Suggests Two Names

The Peterborough Trades and Labor Council suggested two members but the committee felt that as there were only five men on the board that labor would be well enough represented with one representative.

According to the by-law which the city solicitor has drawn up the board will be appointed every year. Thus the board appointed at Tuesday night's meeting will hold office until the first of the year and the members will be eligible for reappointment. On account of the extra work for the secretary in the first few months of operation it was suggested that Mr. Armstrong procure another stenographer if necessary.

The finance committee was notified that its share of the Dominion Railway tax was $81.33 this year. Last year the city received nothing.

City treasurer Frank Adams reported that he had $102,000 worth of debentures ready for sale and the disposal of these were left with Alderman Phelan the chairman and the city treasurer.

Mayor Denne read a letter to the committee which he had received from two American citizens in South Orange, New Jersey.

Pleased With Peterborough

These men visited Peterborough and the Kawartha Lakes during Old Home Week. They were highly delighted with the way they were used in the city and district around Peterborough and have become real boosters for Peterborough.

Their letter read:—"This was our first Canadian trip and we enjoyed it so much that we wish to call your attention to it.

"Your kindness was deeply appreciated and we found the same courtesy everywhere we went.

"Naturally we have become real boosters of Peterborough and the Kawartha Lakes and we hope that our friends will spend their vacation there in the future. We wish to congratulate you on your fine city and the spirit of welcome which made our stay so pleasant."

An application to erect bill boards in the city was received by the Board of Works from an American

WESTERN CROP LOSSES AFFECT BUYING POWER

Economic Progress May Be Held Up Despite Large Carryover and Higher Prices.

HARM INDUSTRIES.

Splendid Eastern and Few Good Western Section Crops Will Help.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 2.—(C.P.)—"A considerable reduction in the purchasing power of the western grain-growing area is now indicated by the condition of the crops in that part of the country, even after allowing for the comparatively large carry-over of old wheat and for a higher price level during the ensuing grain year," says the monthly commercial letter issued by the Canadian Bank of Commerce to-day.

"This loss may prevent the country as a whole from continuing this year the steady economic progress it has made every year since 1924. The effect of the damage to the western crops has already been felt by certain industries, the products of which are ordinarily in large demand on the prairies, but the full force of this unfavorable development will not exert itself until the coming autumn and winter.

"The statements, particularly the first, in the preceding paragraph have been made for the purpose of pointing out the effect of crop conditions in the prairie provinces, but our analysis of the business situation now turns to other considerations, mostly of a more pleasing nature.

Some Unaffected.

The first is the possibility of improvement in some western farming communities, especially those in which crops were sown late on good soil and those districts which have not suffered severely from drought. Such an improvement would raise the total yield of wheat above that which now seems probable and would relieve a serious situation in respect of feed grains.

Crops ood in East.

A further factor, which should in some degree help to offset unfavorable conditions in the west and thus benefit Canada as a unit, is the promise of one of the most successful seasons in the history of agriculture in Eastern Canada. While the eastern farmers have more conservative spending habits and grow crops with a smaller cash return than those on

Three Greatest Swimmers of Day Enter Big Contest

Thousands of People Are in Campbellford To-day To See the Feature Event of the Old Home Week Program When the Continent's Greatest Swimmers Will Take Part in a Three Mile Race.

BYRON SUMMERS, GEORGE YOUNG AND VIERKOTTER ARE ENTRANTS IN THE GREAT SWIMMING MARATHON

Seventy-five Entrants Parade Before the Examining Board at Noon When They Are Put Through a Strenuous Medical Examination — Race Will Follow Triangular Course.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 2. — Never in the history of the district has there been so great an interest taken in a marathon swim as is being taken in this afternoon's event here. Champion swimmers of the world are here competing against each other in the waters of the Trent, in front of one of Northumberland's leading towns. George Young, the first conqueror of the Catalina Channel, is a great favorite, and his race to-day with Ernest Vierkotter, winner of the second Canadian National Exhibition Wrigley Marathon at Toronto, is a real struggle. But these two are not the only strong swimmers to be entered in the great race. Byron Summers, winner of numerous marathon swims and regarded as the best warm water swimmer on the continent, is here. He has come the whole way from California to take part in this swim, and also the one scheduled for the Canadian National Exhibition.

75 Examined

At noon to-day seventy-five entrants paraded before the examining board and were put through strenuous medical examination by the doctors before being permitted to enter the race. The course is in the form of a rectangle one-third of a mile long and hence each entrant must cover the course nine times to complete the race.

Thousands of people are crowded into this small town to-day to see this great feature event of Old Home Week. Many took up their positions on the river bank early this morning so that they might be assured a fine position to watch the race.

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont., Aug. 2.—(Staff Correspondent). — With the thermometer registering more than eighty in the shade and scarcely a breath of wind, Campbellford is enjoying the greatest day of her history. The event of the week, the three mile swim will take place within the hour and the greatest swimmers the world can produce at the present time are scheduled to take the plunge. There are seventy entrants all told and more than twenty of these are women. George Young, Ernst Viekotter and three swimmers are entered ed for the greatest classic the town and district has ever known. Local doctors have spent the last few hours examining the swimmers according to the requirements of the association. Within an hour before the start, no

COTTON TIE-UP IS IMPROVING

Reduction in Finishing Charges To Bring Cotton To Competitive Level, Asked.

CONFERENCE MONDAY.

MANCHESTER, England, August 2 (Canadian Press). — An effort was made to-day to end the cotton trade crisis when the Master Spinners' Federation appointed a special committee to take immediate action toward obtaining a general reduction in finishing charges.

The Federation approached the Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers' Association requesting co-operation the bleaching, dyeing, and packing as the first step. This means that trades will be asked to modify their charges, thus helping to bring cotton goods down to the world competitive level.

MANCHESTER, England, August 2 (Canadian Press). — The cotton dispute made no progress toward solution on its fourth day of stoppage. The Cotton Waste Spinners and Manufacturers' Association met yesterday, and resolved to enforce notices on Saturday reducing wages by about 60 cents on each $4.85 of wages. This will add another 6,000 idle operatives to the total, which al-

ONTARIO'S "RED DAY" VERY QUIET AS POLICE BREAK UP GATHERING

Two Arrests Were Total Result of Half Hearted Meetings in Four Cities.

ORGANIZER IS PUNCHED.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Celebration of "International Red Day" in several Ontario cities, yesterday, passed off quietly. Except for two arrests, Communists demonstrations were handled without recourse to prosecution and were kept within bounds by police supervision.

Swift action by Toronto Police resulted in the dispersal of what had been advertised by Communists as a monster mass meeting. Officers kept the crowd moving, leading Communists who were announced as speakers were hustled away and the ground was cleared before the projected parade could matrialize.

Tim Buck, national organizer of the Communist Party of Canada, is afflicted to-day with split lips and loosened teeth which he says were given him by police who rushed him away from the speakers' stand.

At Sudbury police suppressed the Red parade after speeches had been given by leading Communists and the affair was terminated without violence. Oscar Ryan, Toronto Communist, and S. G. Neill, committee chairman of Sudbury were arrested charged with obstructing the police and inciting an unlawful assembly when they objected to the action of officers in stopping the parade.

A small crowd at Windsor heard four orators denounce China's stand in the far eastern dispute. Police ignored the meeting, following the position taken by Crown Attorney James S. Allan who stated the best method was to "let them rave as they do in Hyde Park." Kitchener authorities refused permission asked by Charles Sims, Toronto Communist, to speak from the city hall steps. Sims is said to have addressed a private club later.

A fairly large crowd at Oshawa heard a Communist speaker from Toronto without interruption until he attacked British Imperialism when he was heckled. Police were out in force but encountered no difficulty in handling the meeting.

Liberal Party Prepares Next Year's Campaign

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 2—(Canadian Press). — Preparations by the Liberal Party for the next Provincial Election are reflected in an announcement from Toronto head-quarters to-day that two meetings will be held next week for the purpose of selecting district representatives.

A meeting for the constituency of Algoma will be held at Thessalon on August 6. Dr. A. G. Wallis, St. Catherines, and Malcolm Lang will be among the chief speakers, while a meeting for South Bruce at Ripley on August 8 will be attended by W. E. N. Sinclair, leader of the party, and A. P. McWhinney, Liberal Member for North Bruce.

Huge Black Clouds Are Hovering Over Fire-Gutted Districts Of Northern Ontario

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 2 (By Canadian Press). — Huge black clouds hovered promisingly over the fire-gutted districts of North-Eastern Ontario to-day. The rain that hundreds of rangers and volunteer fire-fighters in those isolated regions of bushland have impatiently awaited is close at hand. They believe, and official weather predictions were that their hopes will be fulfilled to-night.

Not one of the sections where fire was rampant yesterday reported rainfall, but the weather has retained its unsettled aspect. Urging the fighters to work unceasingly to check the menacing blazes until they are stamped out by rain, showers to-night would probably be sufficient to definitely thwart the advance of the raging flames.

The weather all over the stricken area, as well as the Head of the Lakes, bears promise of immediate relief from the existing drought. Temperatures are quite low.

DAWES AND MACDONALD ARRIVE AT FORMULA SAYS LONDON PAPER

Claims Battleship Building Cut, Size Decreased and Life Lengthened.

NO MORE SUBMARINES.

LONDON, August 2. (C.P.) — The Evening Standard says to-day it is able to announce that Premier MacDonald and Ambassador Dawes have reached a tentative agreement or formula with regard to naval disarmament.

Authoritative quarters in London were inclined to minimize the importance of the Evening Standard's story. It was said that no decision had been reached as yet between London and Washington although the conversations were proceeding satisfactorily.

The Standard said that the following proposals were included in the reported agreement or formula:

(1) The battleship programs to be restricted; (2) The size of future battleships to be decreased; (3) The life of battleships now in commission to be prolonged; and, (4) a declaration by both countries of their willingness to cease building submarines.

July Births Make Record In Peterborough

Seventy-one future citizens were ushered into the world here in July, and this is a record number. The files were searched back to the year 1912 and in no month during those 17 years were there as many births.

There were twenty marriages last month as compared with the bumper total of thirty-nine in June, during which month wedding bells still ring most. In July last year there were twenty-one weddings.

There were fewer deaths in July, twenty-eight as compared with thirty-two in the preceeding month.

Washington Youths Chosen To Follow Edison's Steps

WEST ORANGE, N.J., August 2 (Canadian Press). — Wilbur B. Huston, a youth from Port Madison, Washington, was named the winner to-day of the Thomas A. Edison competition for choice of a protege and follower in the footsteps of the inventor.

The forty-nine contestants—one from each State and the District of Columbia—were lined up on the lawn of the Edison home in Llewelyn Park as the announcement was made by Dr. S. W. Stratton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who was chairman of the committee of judges.

Dr. Stratton was high in his praise of the boys, who yesterday participated in a grueling examination on subjects ranging from morals and ethics to science.

KNIVES CUT LEGS IN FALL.

LINDSAY, August 2. — The 18 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell of Eldon Station, was the victim of a serious accident on Wednesday. He was engaged in cutting hay with the mower, when the lines of the harness in some way became entangled. While making his way up along the tongue between the horses, they took fright and ran, throwing the boy in front of the mower knives. He was seriously cut about the legs and thigh, and his condition was such that he was rushed to the Lindsay hospital.

Soviet Gov't Taking First Public Notice Of Peace Efforts Names Conditions

MOSCOW, August 2 (Canadian Press). — The Soviet Union Government, taking its first public notice of quasi-official efforts to reach a peaceable settlement of the Chinese Eastern Railway controversy with China, to-day announced three drastic conditions to the solution of the problem raised by the Chinese seizure of the railroad.

The conditions were:

1—Liberation of Soviet workers and civil service men held in Manchuria.

2—Appointment by the Soviet Government of both manager and assistant manager of the disputed railroad.

3—A conference to be called immediately for negotiating questions arising out of the conflict.

In addition it was said both China and Russia would have to agree to admit a status of the changed as a result of its seizure and subject to further change in accordance with the Peking and Mukden agreements of 1924.

CHANG TSUNG CHANG WAR LORD SHOOTS PRINCE WITH REVOLVER WHILE STANDING IN HOTEL ROOM

Former War Minister Claims Shot Accidental, As Pistol Exploded.

POLICE INVESTIGATE.

Chang Once One of Most Powerful Figures in China, Commanding Militarists.

TOKIO, August 2 (Canadian Press) —Chang Tsung Chang, former War Lord of Manchuria, early to-day shot and seriously wounded Prince Hsien Kai, cousin of the former Boy Emperor of China, Piu-Yi. Most mysterious circumstances surrounded the affair, which Chang claimed was accidental.

Chang's version of the shooting of the young Manchu was that a revolver which he was handling upstairs at his hotel at Beppu, Island of Kiushiu, exploded hitting the Prince, who was standing in the garden below.

Hsien Kai was 21 years old and graduated from the Japanese Military Academy in July. He was spending a vacation in Beppu and had visited Chang on the evening of the shooting.

The authorities are investigating the accident story.

Had Great Power.

Chang Tsung Chang, former War Lord of Shantung, at one time was one of the most powerful figures in Northern China, being one of the chief lieutenants of Chang Tso-Lin, the Northern War Lord who was killed be a bomb explosion more than a year ago while returning to Mukden after his defeat by the Nationalists.

Chang Tsung Chang at one time was the Civil Governor of Shantung, and as such occupied an extremely important position in the fight of the northern militarists against the Nationalists in the south. After Sun Shuan Fang had been defeated by the Nationalists in 1927 Chang Tsung Chang took over the army but he too was defeated, and the Nationalists eventually broke the strength of the militarists in the north.

AGED RESIDENT PASSES AWAY

For Nearly Century C. Haskill Has Seen Country Making Progress.

99 YEARS OLD.

FENELON FALLS, August 2. — The oldest resident of Fenelon Falls, Charles Haskill, passed away Wednesday night at his home in his 100th year. Mr. Haskill has been ill since last winter, and had only been able to get around for a short time before his death. He was born near Port Hope in 1830, over 99 years ago. Since then he has seen the country progress from a more or less backwoods state to its present highly modernized condition. He came to Fenelon Falls about forty years ago. The deceased was a faithful member of the Presbyterian Church of Fenelon Falls. He is survived by two children, Charles and Florence, both of Fenelon. His wife died seven years ago.

FOREST FIRES CONTINUE RAGE

Fair Weather Prevailed Yesterday From Coast To Coast.

NEW OUTBREAKS.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 2.—(C.P.)—Hungry tongues of fire continued to eat through Canadian forests yesterday, while crops again went unrelieved by rain. Fair weather prevailed from coast to coast. Lower temperatures brought some relief, but yesterday's expectations of rain were not fulfilled. In some sections thunder storms were predicted, but no definite relief was in sight for another 24 hours at least.

Meanwhile augmented forces of rangers and volunteers fought fires on widely scattered fronts. New reports of fires were received and threat of continued outbreaks lay in the thousands of miles of bush and forest country burned dry by the heat wave.

Crops in Ontario and Quebec were threatened by the continued dry weather, while conditions facing agriculturists in the prairie provinces were rapidly growing worse.

3758 CONVICTS REVOLT.

LEAVENWORTH, Kans., August 2. —(C.P.) — Rioting started in the dining room of the United States penitentiary at noon yesterday, and kept up for six hours before the 3758 convicts could be forced into their cells. One convict was killed and three more were wounded. The convicts did not have guns and no guards were killed.

Two Bass Are Landed On One Fishing Hook

LINDSAY, August 2. — An almost incredble fish story that could be believed only because of the authorities from which it was received, tells of A M. Fulton catching two large bass on one hook Accompanied by Mr. Newton Smale, Mr. Fulton was fishing in Balsam Lake, near Long Point. He had a "strike" that his fisherman's instinct put down as a large "muskie" After a fight he landed his "fish" and found that he had hooked a two and a half and a three pound bass on the same hook. They put up a tremendous fight.

U. F. O. HOLDS BIG PICNIC AT BIRCH POINT

Chief Speaker of Afternoon Was J. G. Lethbridge, U.F.O. Leader.

CHANGE IS NEEDED.

Taxes and Expenses Out of Proportion To Revenue Speaker Says.

LINDSAY, Aug. 2.—Attended by a large crowd the annual picnic of the United Farmers of Ontario which was hld at Birch Point Wednesday afternoon was an unqualified success despite the rain which came before the afternoon's program was completed. The program was featured by the speeches of J. G. Lethbridge, M.L.A., Bruce McNevin, president of the U.F.O., F. G. Sandy, M.L.A., and William Newman, M.L.A. Great interest was taken in a schedule of sport that was also provided.

The chief speaker of the afternoon was J. G. Lethbridge, M.L.A., member for West Middlesex and the leader of the Progressive party in the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. Lethbridge took his hearers back to 1893 when the first farm member was elected from Bruce County under the Patrons of Industry. No member represented the farmer in the Legislature for 21 years following that, the speaker pointed out, but the underlying thought was still alive. The farmers organized again and became more independent than in the early days.

Something Wrong

Regarding the farm situation, the speaker expressed his opinion that there is something wrong fundamentally not only in Canada but in the United States where the government has been forced to take special measures. Fluctuating markets and varying seasons are partly the causes of the trouble so the farmers of the country are not making 5 per cent. on their investments.

Taxes and expenses are out of proportion to the revenue, Mr. Lethbridge claimed. He gave figures to show that the revenue since 1906 in Ontario has increased only 100 per cent. whereas taxes have increased about 400 per cent.

Bruce McNevin, president of the U.F.O., on being called to the platform by the chairman, Jasper Forman, declared that agriculture in Canada has not given just returns for

YOUNG FOLK PRESENT FINE PROGRAMME

Regatta Races Strongly Contested in Old Home Week.

PRIZE WINNERS.

Thousands Are Going To Campbellford For Big Swim To-day.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, August 2.—With weather that was ideal after the storm of the previous evening the water carnival as arranged by the Water Sports Committee, was presented ast night before hundreds of spectators who occupied the government wharf and vacant ground surrounding the war memorial. Much appreciation is due Mrs. Cowell for the capable manner in which she trained the members of the cast, mostly young children, to play their parts in the pageant on board the barge which was gaily decorated and moored several yards out from the wharf. Over the whole brilliant flood lights shone and a spot light followed the principals as they played their parts.

The second part of the program was, judging from the applause equally as attractive as the first. This consisted of a parade of floats of various description past the lights. One after another in a long procession, the floats passed the spectators, receiving applause as they passed slowly along down the stream. In the procession there was a square float, suitably decorated, carrying the Lady True Blue band. Kolster radios were displayed by A. L. Riendeau's float. A Spanish galleon with a party of gay Spaniards on board, won the applause of the procession as their galley drifted down stream to the accompaniment of soft music from Spanish guitars and soft voices singing songs reminiscent of Spain. C. W. Paliser had designed his float after the model of a greenhouse. It was laden with flowers and ferns and lighted by Chinese lanterns. Decorated canoes, motor boats and other small craft completed the procession.

Not a little of the success of the parade of floats is due to C. B. Williams and his motor boat. Mr. Williams towed most of the floats past the lights, some of them several times. He did not have to work alone, however. Mr. Day of Watertown, New York, was present with his cabin cruiser and generously assisted with the work. Mr. Day is an American water tourist who is making his first journey up the Trent waterways. He remained in Campbellford overnight for the express purpose of seeing the water carnival. He was very enthusiastic over the Old Home Week and with Mrs. Day, entertained several people yesterday evening, cruising about the river during the carnival.

Regatta Well Attended.

Where the swim is the centre of attraction this afternoon, the regatta was yesterday. The list of events was not long, and consisted of the usual standards with but two deviations from the regular routine list. There was a boys' tub race and a "catch the goose." For the first time in the history of the town radio loud speakers were used to carry the announcer's voice to the farthest corner of the mass of spectators and to the starting and judges' floats as well. Earl Stephens was the starter. B. H. Beatty was the clerk of the course. P. C. Denyes did the announcing, and members of the committee did the judging.

The last event on the list caused the greatest excitement of the day. Twenty swimmers struck out after a white goose. The domestic bird led them a merry chase well out into the river, then wheeled and made for the shore, keeping well ahead of its pursuers. Canoes were despatched to head it off, and lost out. Just then a youth plunged from the bank and got the bird. But that wasn't allowed. He had not started with the other swimmers, but had merely embraced the opportunity when it happened his way. The goose was taken back and the real chase began. With the bird resorting to diving, things were interesting for ten minutes till Fred Scott of St. Catharines dove and captured the bird under the surface. His prize was the goose.

List of Events.

Men's single canoe race—Bill Smoke, Jack Smoke.

Ladies' single canoe race—Mrs. Cook, Trent River; Mrs. Blaker, Alderville.

Men's double canoe race — Frank Gray and Jack Smoke, the Smoke Brothers.

Ladies' double canoe race — Mrs. Blaker and Miss Smoke, Mrs. K. Cairns and Miss Cairns.

Girls' swimming race, 100 yards — Open— Miss Vivian Welsh, Gerard, O.; Miss R. Carr, Toronto.

Skiff race, open—Gerald LeBrash, Jack Free.

Because there was only one entry for the tub race almost caused the event to be cancelled. But it was learned that the boy had done considerable practising for the event and he was asked to paddle the twenty-five yards for a prize without a mishap. He did it and won the prize.

TRIPLE DROWNING PREVENTED AS FOUR MEN DIVE TO RESCUE War Veteran Just From Hospital, With Three Others, Jump Into Canal in Clothes.

SAVE THREE YOUNG GIRLS.

WELLAND, Ont., Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—A triple rescue from the Welland Canal, in the business section of the city, was effected yesterday, with great heroism.

Margaret Tryon, aged 10, and Ada Robinson, aged 15; who attempted to rescue Margaret White, a younger girl, were saved from drowning by four men near the Alexandra Bridge pilings. They owe their lives to the quick and effective work of a police officer, Orval Rounds, Charles Herman, Chris. Robinson, who is just out of hospital, and James Atherton, all of whom dived into the canal fully clothed.

Margaret White, while swimming, suddenly found herself in difficulties, and shrieked for help. Ada Robinson went to her rescue, and was herself rendered helpless. Officer Rounds, who was in the police station close by, rushed to the scene. He immediately dived into the water, followed in rapid success by Robinson, Atherton and Herman.

Robinson, by reason of the weight of the girl he was rescuing, was soon in difficulties. P.C. Rounds volunteered to help him, but Robinson called, "Get the girl, get the girl, I'm all right." He was finally rescued by one of the other two men and brought to safety. His was a particularly courageous act, because he is in anything but good health, and only a couple of days ago had returned from treatments at Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, for wounds received in the war.

A.Y.P.A. PICNIC AT MILLBROOK

Five Branches of Young People Gather For Outing On Golf Links.

STORM INTERFERES.

The annual picnic of the Anglican Young People's Association for this district was held on the Millbrook golf links on Wednesday evening, with branches present from St. John's, St. Luke's, All Saints and St. George's, Peterborough, and Millbrook.

A baseball game was the first item, this being immediately followed by the sports. A good program of races had been arranged by the committee in charge, but unfortunately the severe electric storm, accompanied by heavy rain soon after the races had started interfered to some extent and at times the party were forced to take shelter in the golf house, which, while serving as a "booth" also was not any too commodious for the number inside. A real picnic spirit prevailed, and while the crashes of thunder were very near, and lightning lit up the sky continuously, the dampness in the atmosphere did not reflect itself on the young people who had come out to have a good time. At the first sign of the storm abating, the races were continued and finished before the darkness came on.

Winners Announced.

Adjournment was then made to St. Thomas' schoolroom where the prizes were distributed to the winners Mr. Cecil Hope acting as chairman in the absence of the president (Mr. Jordan). Votes of thanks to the Millbrook Branch for all their trouble over this event, and to the "prizes" committee were tendered by Cecil Hope and R. Krant respectively, after which the party dispersed.

Following is the program of events:

Young ladies' dash, 75 yards—Eva Howson (Milbrook); Jessie Paterson (St. John's).

Young men's dash, 100 yards—Jack Hope (All Saints); 2 Joe Gore (St. John's).

Married ladies' dash, 75 yards—Mrs. Hepburn (St. Luke's); Mrs. Hughes (St. George's).

Married men's dash, 100 yards—Mr. Hepburn (St. Luke's); Rev. Hughes (St. George's).

Needle and thread race, each entry to be two ladies from same branch—Miss C. Long and Mrs. Hepburn (St. Luke's; Miss Eva Howson and Miss Millar (Millbrook).

Men's running broad jump—Jack Hope (All Saints); Mrs. Milliken (St. Luke's).

Branch relay race, team of four composed of two ladies and two men from same branch. Winning team, All Saints, Dorothy Worboy, Jim Morley, Ena Young and Jack Hope.

SERIOUS HITCH REVEALED.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Papers issued in Moscow and London yesterday by the respective governments revealed a serious hitch, but not a breakdown, in negotiations for resumption of normal relations between the two countries.

The hitch, as in so many previous cases of a similar kind, was due to the desire of the British Government to discuss the questions of debts and propaganda as preliminary to appointing ambassadors.

TWO ARRESTED FOR PARADING

Police Break Up Meeting in Bell Park As 1,00 Gather For Demonstration.

LET OUT WITHOUT BAIL.

SUDBURY, August 2 (Canadian Press). — Following a Communist demonstration in Bell Park last night attended by nearly 1,500 people Oscar Ryan, Toronto, Communist worker, and S. G. Neil, chairman of the local demonstration committee were arrested by the police in breaking up an attempt to head an unauthorized parade through the streets of Sudbury. Both men were removed to the police station, and Ryan was charged with obstructing the police, while Neil was charged with inciting an unlawful assembly contrary to Section 89 of the Criminal Code.

Both men were released without bail to appear in court on summons.

HOWDEN, Eng., Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Several hundred applications, with offers ranging up to $25,000 for a single berth, have been received for the first trans-Atlantic flight of the British-built Dirigible, 4-100. The airship is now being inflated for trials here, but no date has been set for its flight to Canada.

Bull Saves Minister's Life By Tossing Him Over Fence

GUELPH, August 2 (Canadian Press). — Rev. W. J. Stillman, retired Presbyterian minister, owes his life to an infuriated bull which did its best to rob him of it.

He is lying in the hospital with five ribs, a hand and his nose broken, while a puncture of the lung is feared. His condition is critical.

Mr. Stillman was driving cattle from the field when the angered animal charged him. Having presence of mind, he grasped the ring in the bull's nose as the animal tossed his head and threw him over a nearby fence, out of the way of danger. His injuries were suffered in the fall.

QUEEN CITY'S "RED DAY" FAILS ON ABSENCE OF CHIEF SPEAKERS

Huge Crowds Disappointed On Missing Anticipated Police Scrap.

CROWD KEPT MOVING.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—International Red Day passed off without the parade and the demonstration which were to have been the part of local Communism in the third international's world program of propaganda on Aug. 1.

The demonstration was to have been held in Queen's Park last night and the parade through city streets. On account of precautions of Chief Constable C. Draper the meeting and the parade did not materialize.

Ten thousand curious men and women of all ages and classes were attracted to the park through the possibility of a battle between the police and Communists. During the day Chief Constable intimated that neither meeting nor parade could be held, and Communists let it be known that they would fight for "freedom of assembly and free speech."

Leaders Absent

After Jack MacDonald, secretary of the Communist party, Tim Buck and Lily Himmelfarb failed to reach the grandstand to deliver their addresses, citizens remained, still anticipating trouble. For an hour mounted policemen, constables on foot and on motorcycles rode through the park. The crowd kept moving. Finally it was decided to clear the park. All were ordered out, including elderly men and women who were sitting on benches.

Except for one incident the meeting was quiet. That was when Tim Buck organizer of the Communist party, was struck by an officer while he was being escorted out of the park. He was walking between two uniformed policemen when a detective struck him in the face from behind splitting his lip badly.

CAMPBELLFORD Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

Judging from the general merriment on the streets all day and all night, there are quite a few who are still going strong. But to-morrow night it will be all over and Campbellford will have seen the greatest week in its history.

The cabin cruiser that assisted at the water carnival last night, was owned by Mr. Day, former commodore of the Crescent Yacht Club of New York. Mr. Day himself was in charge of the boat. He and Mrs. Day are enjoying their first cruise up the Trent waterways. They are very enthusiastic over its scenic beauty and have stated definitely that they will return next year and go right through to Georgian Bay. This year they went only as far as Stoney Lake.

There will be a big fight in Meyer's Arena to-night, but that will be all right because the fighting men will be using gloves, and there will be a referee to see that it's done right.

Mrs. Forrest Dennis won the beauty contest with Miss Goldie Nicholson in second place.

Sixteen swimmers drew their places for the big swim yesterday. Fred Scott of St. Catharines, will be number one. The first girl will be Ruth Kerr of Campbellford, with her sister, Hazel, beside her, as number four. Vivian Welsh of Gerard, Ohio, is the only other girl to draw a place yesterday. She will be number ten. Don McArthur, a local swimmer, drew number thirteen.

Dancing of all kinds was popular last night. Old time square dancing on Front street south, was one of the most popular events of the week. The street was filled with dancers and the crowd kept moving closer and closer till it was almost necessary to discontinue the dancing. Two old-time local orchestras placed one at either end of the enclosure, supplied the music. Callers off that knew the game, kept the sets in order and the dancing going rapidly. At the High school, the Ace High orchestra from Belleville and at present engaged at Oak Lake near Stirling, supplied the music for the biggest crowd of dancers that has ever been on the floor of the auditorium. They will be back again on Saturday night. At the Community Hall, Rye's Orchestra from Peterborough catered to the requirements or another record crowd.

About a quarter of a million seagoing passengers arrive and depart from London in a year. This number is about one-third more than it was a few years ago.

ACCIDENT VICTIM FIGHTING FOR LIFE

Little Port Perry Girl Seriously Hurt When Pinned Under Overturned Auto.

LINDSAY, August 2. (Special to The Examiner). — Miss Pearl Sutcliffe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Russell Sutcliffe, of Port Perry, was the victim of a very serious accident a few days ago at the head of Scugog Island, when she was pinned beneath an overturned automobile. The driver of the car, Roy Shaver, of Manilla, in attempting to round a corner, lost control of the car, which turned over, pinning the three occupants underneath. Miss Sutcliffe's side had been pierced in two places. At the back the wound had cut the liver and at the front had pierced the abdomen, and caused a displacement of the bowel. The little girl according to the latest reports, was putting up a brave battle for life

LITTLE CHAP IS HIT BY CAR

Ross Latimer Is Knocked To Pavement and Injured About Face.

PLAYING HIDE AND SEEK.

Ross Latimer, the twelve-year-old son of J. E. Latimer, a grocer and butcher and the corner of Aylmer and McDonnel streets, was painfully injured about the face and left side when he collided with an automobile driven by A. Druce of 294 Smith street, near his father's store on Aylmer street, just south of McDonnell, last night about 7.10.

Druce states that he was watching the corner and that heavy traffic happened to be crossing at the time. The little lad ran out in front of the car and was not seen until he was struck by the left front fender of his car which threw him to the pavement.

Donald Sedgwick, a playmate of his, with whom he was indulging in a game of hide and seek stated that the goal was in Latimer's back yard and that they were across the street in the bushes and Ross started to run across the street for home when he dashed in front of the car and was struck.

Druce said that he was only going ten miles an hour at the time and his companion, F. Calberry says that they were travelling fifteen while skid marks on the pavement show the brakes were applied for 35 feet before bringing the car to a stop.

Dr. Eastwood was called and the young lad taken to the hospital in the police car. The extent of his injuries are yet unknown.

FRUIT CROP IS MOST PROMISING AT ROSENEATH

Orchards Are Well Loaded With Apples—Wheat Is Fair Yield.

ROSENEATH, Aug. 2.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—The haying season is nearing a close in thits district. On many farms the crop was extra heavy, and fall wheat is spoken of as an average yield. The recent heavy rains have done a great deal of good throughout this part as some of the hoe crop was beginning to show the results of dry weather. Fruit has been a large crop, raspberries are very plentiful; some orchards look promising for a good apple crop, which is an important asset to the farmer.

The yearly food bill for the animals in the London Zoo amounts to $75,000.

Preston Lads Suspected Of Ransacking School

PRESTON, Aug. 2 (Canadian Press). — Two local boys were taken into custody by Chief Crawford, charged with being the vandals who entered the Central School and ransacked the interior of the building and caused damages amounting to $237.75.

The two boys appeared before Magistrate Blake in Police Court yesterday and were remanded until next week, when a juvenile court will be held with Children's Aid Society Inspector Pullam present.

SCOUTS AT FIRE WAIT IN VAIN

Prince Disappoints Thousands of Boy Scouts Waiting in Rain For Him.

WENT TO THEATRE.

ARROWE PARK, England, Aug. 2. —(C.P.)— Boy Scouts, gathered for the International Jamboree here, sat in a last drenching rain for two hours last night waiting for a Prince who did not come. They had been told that the Prince of Wales would come to their camp fire, and they were prepared to give him a rousing welcome.

When at length the announcement came cancelling their engagement with His Highness they sang "God Save the King" and went back to their tents in silence. The Prince did, however, call at the Scout Theatre, and saw a good part of the performance.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 2. — Spring wheat flour was advanced 10c per barrel on the local grain market yesterday. On the cash grain market oats were up 2c per bushel. Other prices were unchanged.

Prices on the local cheese market were slightly lower to-day, with light trading. Number 1 Quebec white and colored sold at 17½c and No. 1 Ontario white and colored sold at 17¾c per lb. Receipts were 5,050 boxes, as compared with 7,890 boxes on the same day last week.

The butter market was unchanged. Receipts were 1,072 cases, as compared with 782 cases on the same day last week.

The egg market was steady. Retail prices were: Fresh extras, 40c per dozen; firsts, 33c to 34c, and seconds, 27c to 28c per dozen. Wholesale prices were unchanged. Receipts were 1,006 cases, as compared to 1,347 cases on the same day last week.

The potato market was steady, with prices unchanged.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Aug. 2.—Prices remained unchanged in the Toronto wholesale butter market yesterday, but the undertone of trading was firm, and most sales were made at Wednesday's levels of 39¼c to 39½c a lb. for finest No. 1 creamery butter, delivered in Toronto. Conditions underlying the market show little or no change, and there has been no appreciable relief from the hot, dry weather of the past few weeks. Sales to the retail trade were made at steady prices of 42c for No. 1 creamery prints and No. 2 prints moved into distributive channels at 40c.

Cheese values remained at 18¼c per lb. for finest No. 1 Government-graded, new, large cheese, waxed, delivered in Toronto. Prices to the retail trade were also unchanged on the basis of 27c a pound for old large cheese, with new large cheese at 20c.

Egg Prices Unchanged.

The egg market was steady at 30c to 32c a dozen for fresh extras, delivered in Toronto, and demand was again reported to be active. Firsts ranged from 27c to 29c on the same delivery basis, and seconds were quoted at 21c.

Distributive egg movements involved a moderately large volume of supplies, but receipts still appear to be insufficient for current demand. Nevertheless, prices remained at 36c to 37c a dozen for fresh extras in cartons, with firsts at 31c to 32c.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Aug. 2.—The market was listless to-day until the closing hour when prices shot up 4 cents from bottom levels, and wheat closed with net gains for the day of 1⅝c to 1¼c.

The late upturn was caused by heavy buying of Canadian May wheat against sales of Chicago May by southern interests. Offerings were none too liberal and prices advanced rather easily.

Crop news was unchanged. Extreme temperatures again prevailed in Alberta, at some points ranging from 102 to 105. Showers are forecast and the temperature is expected to moderate.

Foreign interest of Canadian wheat has not broadened. Liverpool prices closed ¼d lower to ¼d higher.

With the exception of No. 1 and No. 2 Northern, demand for cash wheat was generally good. Demand for low grade wheat from interior mills is fair and this is taking care of most of the wheat in store in interior terminals.

Wheat delivered by farmers to country elevators yesterday, 185,479 bushels, compared with 194,053 bushels a year ago.

Coarse grains were without special feature.

Market For Cheese Is Reported Small

BROCKVILLE, Aug. 2.—That the cheese situation in Canada is becoming serious for want of a more active market was established at the weekly meeting of the Brockville Dairymen's Board of Trade to-day when the Secretary-Treasurer, John B. Wilson, read a communication from the Secretary of the Montreal Butter and Cheese Exporters' Association regarding rates of cheese shipped to England from New Zealand and Canada, in which it was said that the Canadian rate is exorbitant whent the nautical miles of travel are taken into consideration. The communication also stated that the cheese situation in Canada is in a serious condition, due to the competition from other countries. It was suggested that a conference of delegates from the various bodies interested in the trade should be held at an early date in an endeavor to arrive at a solution of the problems by appointing delegates to attend such a gathering. The matter was left over for another week or two. It was further stated that 258,000 cheese are stored in Montreal at present, as compared with 196,000 at the same date last year.

the capital put into it. It demands more thorough organization and only in that way can rural people raise their standards, the speaker continued. There must be more team play between dairy farmers, wheat farmers and raisers of hogs or beef cattle.

Bring Farmers Together.

F. G. Sandy, M.L.A., in his speech, commented on the importance of the U.F.O. picnics, due to the fact that they brought the farmers together to discuss the big issues of Ontario. He spoke on the subject of Hydro on the farms, which is at the present out of the reach of all but the rich farmers.

In his speech, William Newman, M.L.A., stressed the necessity of organization among the farmers of Ontario. He also discussed the temperance situation in Ontario, expressing the opinion that the system of government control was a failure.

The sport of the afternoon consisted of closely contested baseball games, both hard and soft ball being played. Tournaments for girls and boys were staged. Horse-shoe contests attracted much interest also. A number of races for children and grown-ups were planned but were postponed on account of rain.

SING SING, N.Y., Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—A muttered tip by a Sing Sing "stool pigeon" in the ears of a prison guard warned Warden Lewis M. Lawes that revolt and riot similar to that which flamed recently at Dannemora and Auburn, was smouldering at Sing Sing. The warning gave prison oficials time to take drastic steps to nip such a revolt in the bud, it was disclosed yesterday.

company and the matter was left with the city solicitor. Some of the aldermen were quite determined in their views that no more bill boards should be erected in the city and that there should be a curtailment on those already erected.

A communication was received from the Utilities Commission asking the board to outline its paving program for next year so that the necessary streets could have the drains and water connections relayed where required. The matter was left to the city engineer to bring in a report. Alderman Stocker was of the opinion that the city council should let up a little in its paving program and Mayor Denne although of the same opinion thought that something ought to be done in East City.

The service station owners will be asked to keep the sidewalks swept clean in front of their properties as complaints have been received from pedestrians that the streets at times were covered with small stones and pieces of cinders.

Those present last night were Mayor Denne, Aldermen Lowe, Macdonald, McIntyre, McNab, Holland, Hamilton, Stocker, Cotton and Phelan.

ELIMINATE THE WEEDS.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture, continuing its newspaper campaign to eliminate the weed nuisance as far as possible, points out in its latest advertisement that now is the time when weeds can be killed most cheaply and effectively.

The farmers who will reap the greatest benefit from the successful culmination of the department's drive should be willing to co-operate by attending to their after-harvest cultivation now when perennials such as twitch grass and sow thistles can be most easily irradicated.

There is a temptation in such cases to put the job off—but economy and good business instinct demands that the work should be done now when it can be done more cheaply as well as better.

Weeds cost this Province millions of dollars each year—a waste that could be eliminated by a general effort to co-operate with the Department of Agriculture in its campaign of elimination.

BUY YOUR TICKETS NOW.

The advance sale of tickets for the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, affording general admission for 25c and a similar grandstand charge, meets the contention of many citizens that lower admission would mean a larger attendance and in the end greater revenue.

The strip ticket plan brings the admission charges down to the level asked for, and there should be a sale large enough to show the wisdom of the new arrangement.

The tickets sell at the rate of four for one dollar, and will be on sale in all parts of the district as well as locally, but only, it should be clearly understand, during the present month.

The Examiner, in again calling the attention of its readers to this excellent arrangement, urges a ready response to this offer which makes it possible to see all the attractions of the Exhibition, including the grandstand performance, at a considerable saving.

Those who do not take advantage of this opportunity now should pay the higher prices later on without a murmur—for the way is open for lower admissions for everybody.

UNLICENSED DRIVERS.

A woman driver whose car ran down and killed a child on a Toronto street admitted that she had no driver's license.

"I was going to get one next week," she said at the coroner's inquest.

The tragedy is proof of The Examiner's contention that the present regulation is worth little or nothing as a factor in bringing about safer traffic conditions.

This woman had no business to be driving a motor car; according to the law, she should have qualified for an operator's license before she undertook the responsibility of handling an automobile in traffic.

But like thousands of others are doing, she took a chance, doubtless thinking that there was little danger of her being called upon to produce the necessary license.

The regulation has no teeth in it.

Unless drivers are unlucky enough to get into an accident they are unlikely to be asked any questions about permits; at the worst they have only to take the chance of running across a traffic officer somewhere who has decided to do a little checking-up on his own account.

There is no general or systematic attempt to check up on unlicensed drivers, and therein lies the weakness of the law and the explanation for its failure to give the expected results.

NEW SOURCES OF WEALTH.

The Calgary Herald is to be congratulated upon the special number recently issued in honor of the development of Alberta's oil fields.

This very fine issue is full of interesting information, much of which will be new to those not closely in touch with the situation in that Province.

"Alberta holds within her boundaries what may prove to be the richest oil field within the British Empire," declares the Herald, and adds that it believes that within the next five years developments of an extraordinary scope will place Alberta in the forefront as one of the world's greatest producers of oil.

Certainly the mass of information prepared by the Herald gives every reason to be optimistic as to the outlook in this field of development.

All Canada should be interested in the possibilities offered in Alberta, for the Dominion in the matter of oil supplies is almost completely dependent upon outside sources.

As a matter of fact, statistics prepared by Federal Government officials show that Canada's total production of oils for a year at the present time would serve the Canadian market for less than a week.

The Herald's special edition is a tribute alike to the enterprise of its staff and to its faith in the future of the Alberta oil industry.

TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER.

Statistics just published, showing the number of deaths resulting from motor accidents in the last four years in the large cities of the United States, are so startling that they contain an emphatic warning to Canadians to increase their vigilance to protect traffic on the highways of the Dominion. In the last four years, in 78 of the large cities of the United States, automobiles have caused the deaths of 29,483 persons. This statement is absolutely appalling, and ought to arrest the attention of the entire country.

If any epidemic or disease had been at work, in the last four years, to such an extent that it had totally destroyed a city with a population of nearly 30,000 persons, it would have aroused the conscience of the people throughout the entire Republic. No expenditure of money, scientific investigation, sanitary precautions or medical and nursing care would have been spared. The disease would be fought as vigilantly as was the yellow fever scourge in the South, which cost millions of dollars before it was banished. The fact, however, that these 29,493 persons were killed at intervals, many being battered, bruised and broken so that they ultimately died, with all the economic loss consequent upon this destruction of human life, together with the resolation of thousands of homes entailing immeasurable hardship upon the surviving members of the families, failed to arouse the public conscience, shows how indifferent public opinion is.

The conditions in Canada are not so terrible as those in the United States, but accidents on the highways from various causes have been altogether too numerous in recent years. Public safety on the highways, not only of Ontario, but of Canada, deserves the careful and unremitting attention of all those whose duty it is to enforce traffic regulations, as well as of those who use the highways. Motor transportation is one of the great conveniences of modern times, and the fact that it has come to stay demands that every effort shall be made to ensure safety on the highways.—Brantford Expositor.

THE WORLD'S SHIPPING.

(From the Stratford Beacon-Herald)

There is a shipping war on, the contesting countries being Germany, the United States and Great Britain, France and Italy apparently having shot their bolt for the time being. The first named trio seem likely to have the field to themselves, because the other countries are not what might be called maritime nations. Neither is America for that matter, but she has ambitions and money.

The biggest plum of the passenger traffic is the trans-Atlantic route. British, German and French liners have shared the traffic. There has been no American competition to speak of. Not till after the world war, when the United States acquired one of the huge German liners, interned in New York, and re-christened it Leviathan, did the United States have a look-in as a trans-Atlantic shipping force.

Germany had a lot of leeway to make up and so she built Europa and Bremen. The former was gutted by fire and has just been re-fitted. The Bremen started out on her maiden voyage last week, and it is with this vessel, and later the Europa, that she hopes to win the supremacy of the Atlantic.

The United States Government did not make a success of running the Leviathan, and so the United States Lines took it over. Now that company announces that it will build two 56,000 toners which will be commenced next year.

And what is old England doing all this time? As a matter of fact she began her reply several months ago. The White Star line has a 60,000 toner already on the stocks at Belfast, and it is expected that the Cunard Line will follow suit in the near future with one at least as large.

That being so, the U. S. liners are outclassed before their keels have been laid.

The Mauretania has been the speed champion of the ocean for over twenty years. The Cunard line will exert tremendous efforts to keep that record.

The modern demand is for speed and luxury in ocean travel. These big ships provide that, and patronage follows the prestige of the line which flies the blue ribbon of the Atlantic. Hence the war that is now on.

But there is a vast difference between north Atlantic prestige and the supremacy of the seas.

The test of supremacy of the seas is not the ownership of the finest and fastest ship afloat, but the aggregate tonnage afloat, aggregate tonnage building, marine insurance, combines and trade route organization.

Without any doubt whatever, Britain has more ships afloat and building than almost any two other nations in the world. Lloyd's Marine Insurance Company is so far ahead of any other organization as to make the others negligible. British combines and organization of trade routes leave the rest of the world standing.

When it comes down to a matter of actual shipping Britain is mistress of the seas, whether she builds the finest and fastest liner or not.

The liner prestige is valuable, but it is only a minor phase of maritime supremacy. The true test is the carrying trade of the world. Britain has that in safe keeping for as far ahead as anyone can see.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Whatever may be thought about prohibition down in Prince Edward Island, at least no one has reported seeing an ogopogo there.

LEFT TO VENDOR.

Toronto, August 2, 1929.

To the Editor, The Examiner

Sir,—A careful scrutiny of the Liquor Control Act and of the published regulations of the Liquor Control Board fails to reveal in printed form an authoritative statement of the amounts of liquor that may be purchased at one time by the holder of an individual permit The general understanding has prevailed that the limit is one case of beer or twelve quarts of hard liquor

It now appears from a press report of the trial of one, Arthur Leonard of Temagami ,that the amount purchasable at one time may be enlarged beyond this limit at the discretion of the vendor In the case mentioned, an employee of the store gave his testimony that the vendor had approved the sale of a larger quantity. Leonard keeps a summer resort

One case of beer, or twelve quarts of hard liquor seem to the uninitiated a fairly generous supply Why any leeway should be given to the discretion of the vendor, it is hard to discern Such liberty of action invites pressure of personal friendship, political influence, and class distinction A definite statement from the authorities of the Liquor Control Board as to the nature of the instructions given to the vendors on this point is due the public

A Thought

GOODNESS AND MERCY

There is dew on one flower, and not on another, because one opens its cup to take it in, while the other closes itself and the drops run off. So God rains goodness and mercy as wide as the dew, and f we lack them, it is because we will not open our hearts to receive them.

What To-day Means To You.

AUGUST 2nd "LEO".

If August 2nd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from noon to 2 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9.30 p. m. The danger hours are from 9 a.m. to 10.30 a.m., from 3.15 p.m. to 4.30 p.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11p.m.

There will be very pleasant astrological influences sensed on this date, and some unexpected occurrences will cause much happiness. Mentality will be unusually active, and the emotions will be stirred. New friendships are predicted, and there is also an indication of travel.

The child born on this August 2nd will prove to be a great reader and possess an assimilative memory. It will be serious-minded, and its stolidity will prevent any impulsive act on its part. Its nature will demand affection and, although rather unemotional, its own attachments will be enduring and sincere

You are very ambitious along materialistic lines. You are continually visualizing the possession of great power. You think, however, that this cannot be accomplished by force of personality or by strength of intellect but only by the acquisition of wealth. With this idea in your mind, you bend all your energies, concentrate all your thought, on making money—a pursuit, that frequently fails to bring happiness but always breeds

Even the woman, whose birth-lls on this date, bankers after a marriage, rather than one based o.. ve and mutual understanding.

The stars denote that both thee ambitions will probably be satisfied. They also indicate that, in most cases, the final result will be "DeadSea fruit," and regrets will be the order of the day.

You, regardless of sex, were endowed by nature with many excellent qualities. You also were given many talents. At heart, you are capable of a great love. By inclination, you are sympathetic, tolerant and understanding. Even art could find in you, if your tastes were allowed free sway ,an enthusiastic and appreciative votary. All these gifts may be utilized by you in your race for wealth and position. They will, however, only be employed as occasion demands and to serve a purpose and they could be exploited all the time, not alone for self-aggrandisement, but for the dissemination of happiness.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH HOLDS ANNIVERSARY

Singing Scots Stage Concert at Raspberry Social Monday Evening.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WESTWOOD, Aug. 2.—Anniversary services were held in St. Andrew's United church on Sunday, July28. Both morning and evening services were conducted by Rev. W. R. Archer, of Havelock United church, who preached two excellent and inspiring sermons.

Special music was given by the choir. In the morning two anthems entitled "Magnify the Lord" and "Hark, the Glad Creation" were sung. At the evening service an anthem, "eLt us Sing Unto the Lord" and a quartette "Fair allee" by Mesdames R. C. Brackenridge, E. W. Sargent and Don Cameron and Sidney Warr, were given.

Held Raspberry Social

In connection with the anniversary services a raspberry festival was given on Monday evening in the dining hall. Supper was served from six o'clock until nearly nine.

Following the supper a good program was given in the town hall. In the absence of the pastor, Rev. H. B. Herrington of Warsaw United church, officiated as chairman.

The program, which was principally given by "The Singing Scots", "Bob Hendry" and "Jack Smith" of Peterborough, accompanied by R. J. Devey, was much appreciated and received generous applause. A vocal solo by Mrs. (Rev.) Herrington and piano solos by Mr. Devey were also well given.

At the close of the program, the chairman, on behalf of the program committee, extended congratulations and thanks to those taking part.

THE MAKE-BELIEVE WIFE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 7.

Beatrice had insisted upon simplicity; she would not wear bridal white and a veil, no matter how passionately Marcia and her mother urged it. Only twenty-four hours before the actual event, she burst into angry tears, while they were talking to her, and protested that as Houston was paying for everything—flowers and breakfast, Marcia's gown and Mummy's and hers: paying for their actual rent and food and doctor's bill all this while—the less display, the better.

Marcia and Mrs.St. John, both wrapped in sentimental dreams, had been shocked and pained by this frankness, but in the end Beatrice had her own way, and wore a creamy organdie not any more elaborate than Marcia's, and a small white hat, with a little white feather wound tightly about the low crown. Her burning hair blazed against all the whiteness, but her face was unusually pale and her voice quite inaudible in the responses.

Afterward everyone in his own family teased Houston, in a dignified, characteristically Challoner fashion, for his own eager, audible answers to the clergyman's questions, and Beatrice—flushed and radiant at her wedding breakfast—laughed at him too.

"You sounded perfectly sure of yourself, Hugh!" his mother said.

She called him Hugh, and Beatrice liked the abbreviation. Some of the yourself, Hugh!" his mother said.

She called him Hugh, and Beatrice liked the abbreviation. Some of the other members of his family called him "Albert," which was really his given name, but the world of architecture knew him as "A. Houston Challoner," and that was the name upon Beatrice's new cards.

Her wedding day was a bl r to her. She was conscious of feeling sorry for everybody—for Hugh, handsome and proud and pleased—and so inexorably forty-eight; for poor pallid, sentimental Marcia, entirely ineffectual in her organdie, with her pink roses; for Mummy, fussing and awestruck, and too polite to all the Challoners,and finally for herself, feeling, strangely young, lonely, tall and bewildered somehow, in the creamy scalloped gown and the hat with the white feather around it.

She smiled at everyone; she was polite to everyone. The wedding was at ten o'clock, and Beatrice had been up and dressed for four hours by that time. Reporters had besieged the St John apartment; Marcia had had hysterics; Mummy jumbled tremulous advice and agitated compliments during the long trying process of the three women's dressing. She had laid Beatrice's scalloped creamy gown upon the bed, and a wet scrap of blue paper from the hat box had happened to be on the bed, so that Beatrice's last domestic act as a girl had been to wash the blue stain carefully from her wedding gown and press it with an iron.

Marcia, for weeks, had taken the position of martyr. She had agreed to go with Mummy to LaCrescenta, and drink Jersey milk and bask in California sunshine and sleep under California stars, with the air of a heroic big sister who humors a spoiled one. And just of late she had implied rather than said openly, but implied none the less, that she had given up Houston Challoner to Beatrice; that she could be happy without him; she could make the sacrifice: it was better, happier for them all that it should be so.

"You must be very happy—for us both, Bee!" she whispered, on the wedding morning, wistfully, emotionally. "I shall be far away—my life is over, dear. All my happiness I pour into you!"

Beatrice—harrassed, tired, excited with all and more than a bride's usual unsureness of herself and of what she was doing—had had an impulse to slap her sister in the face. She was willing to die for Marcia, but it was becoming increasingly difficult to live with her.

There was a beautiful little new watch ticking on her wrist; it said twenty minutes past one when she and Hugh came away from the decorously happy wedding group in the dining-room of his big house up on Tory Hill, and began saying good-byes in the hall. The open roadster was waiting in a blaze of sunshine at the side door; the servants were everywhere—useful, smiling, efficient. Somebody had put Beatrice's new suit case into the car, and her new woolly white coat; a rough big champagne-colored Airedale had come up the side steps, and sidled into the hall, and was nosing Hugh's hand.

"Come on, now, we must make this snappy!" Hugh was muttering, excited and happy. Beatrice noticed beyond him a little confusion at the front door: a late arrival.

"It's Mr. Bert, sir," a middle-aged maid said submissively, eagerly.

"Mr. Bert!" Hugh exclaimed, amazed, looking about.

"Yes, sir. He just came up the drive in a taxi, sir. I thought you mightn't have seen him sir," Nelly said delightedly.

Beatrice heard Hugh say "Bert!" in an astounded tone, and she turned to see a tall, loosely built young man come rapidly through the scattered groups in the wide hall, and stoop his high fair head to kiss his father, simply.

"Hello, Dad!" Bert Challoner said, in a youthful sort of voice, with a laugh in it. "I had to come home to see you—hello, is this the mater? Greetings, Madame Beatrice!"

Everybody laughed delightedly as he took both her hands, and she swayed a little on her feet, like a tall, creamy lily, perfumed and rosy and wide-eyed, in her organdie gown, with the little white feather wrapped tightly about her brilliant hair.

"From Paris!" she said, with her wide, slow smile.

"From Paris. New York Tuesday. And I'm too late!"

"My dear boy, you should have wired," said his father.

"I know it. I know it. Frog's brains—that's my trouble," the boy said, not removing his eyes from Beatrice's face. "But the truth is that I made up my mind to leave early one morning, before I was half awake, and sailed that day," he explained. His tone had become almost absent-minded: it was as if some absorbing problem had suddenly presented itself to him, and would not be shaken away. "So—I You're Beatrice?" he said slowly, "Well," he added, in an old, tone, looking straight into her eyes, "that's that, isn't it?"

Immediately he began to greet the other members of his family, and after that Beatrice and Hugh went away. The girl tucked her scalloped ruffles tightly about her, seating herself in the luxurious low-slung roadster, and Hugh took the wheel. It was a hot day, the leaves in the gardens of Tory Hill all hung motionless in the sunshine; even the shadows seemed to vibrate with heat, and the roads were almost empty.

The new country club was not opened yet, but one of the smaller cabins there was in order, and many of the servants were already at work. Hugh, as president of the club, had, of course, been able to arrange that he and Beatrice should have it all to themselves for ten days, except for the negligible presence of decorators and painters and gardeners. The girl had not seen it before; she was ecstatic about the little cottage, its open fireplaces and casement windows that gave upon golf greens and flower beds.

She and Hugh were there at four O'clock; there was plenty of time to freshen up and wander about the whole wonderful place before Harrison, the steward, served them a delicious supper on their own cabin porch. They looked at the stables and the lockers and the plunge, walked all over the golf course, and met McCandlish ,the "pro," who said that indeed he'd take Mrs. Challoner in hand.

There was a natural pond, where Hugh said a hundred dollar's worth of golf balls were lost every years. There were eighteen new greens being added to the course already finished, and much digging and sodding and watering going on in the lovely autumn sunset. There were some mild Alderneys grazing, and Hugh said that the clubhouse has its own milk and cream and would have fruit and vegetables too some day.

Her lovely white wedding shoes got mud on them, but that didn't matter—they'd clean as good as new, Hugh said.

"Sun bother you, dear?"

"No, My hat just shades my eyes."

"It's adorable," Hugh said, in a voice that made her feel prickly and uncomfortable, somehow.

"Weren't we lucky to get it?"

"Ah, if you're talking about luck—!"

ON AMBITION

("Write an essay of not less than 250 words on "The Advantages of Ambition.'"—From Lesson 11 of Pelmanism).

One of the chief advantages of ambition (in others) is that it makes them fair game for the publishers of books on "How to Increase Your Personality, Will Power, Earning Capacity, Mental Ability, Range of Interests, Muscle or What Have You?"

If it were not for ambition there would be no serious young men hellbent for Self-Improvement, and what would the writers and publishers of such books and the mail-order professors do then, poor things? They might have to go to work.

Ambition builds bridges, cathedrals, towers, tunnels and castles in Spain. It leads to power and distinction when Fortune points the way. It accumulates fortunes when directed by Luck It uplifts mankind when Fate se decrees. It has raised man above his cousins, the apes, with the aid of Natural Selection.

It leads its possessor to spend fifteen minutes every day soaking up the World's Classics so he can captivate the young thing on his right while the boob on her right eats his heart out in envy.

It forces the millionaire to foreclose the mortgage and spurs the hero to earn the money to pay the mortgage.

It makes a man catch hold of his boot straps and tug.

It is a great force.

BRAZILIAN LEADS TRADING MARKET

Stocks Are Firm With Leaders Making Advances.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 2.—(C.P.)—Stocks were firm on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning with most of the leaders making advances.

Brazilian led the trading with a gain of 2 1-2 to 2 1-2 on sales of 3,740 shares. Bell Telephone added more than a point to 173. Massey-Harris continued to strengthen, rising more than a point to 57¼ and was accompanied by firming in other implements, Great West Saddlery adding 2 to 14 and Cockshutt Plow 1 to 22.

International Nickel on good demand was up almost a point to 49¼ and there were strengthenings in those specialties which have been active lately. Famous Players added 2 to 57¾; Lowlaw A under demand was firm at 24½ but Loblaw "B" sold off slightly at 23¾, on one-tenth the sales. Canada Gypsum and Alabastine which dropped yesterday on profit-taking reached 119 on a slight advance. Abitibi Pulp and Paper rose 1 to 51.

A weaker tone was evident in the steels with a fractional drop in Lake Superior and a loss of 2 to 98 in Standard Steel. Steel of Canada gained slightly however to 60. Canada Paving was firm at 28, but there were recessions in both the common and preferred of Standard Paving. Walker's gain attracted considerable buying among the beverages and rose to 19 3-8.

Home led the oils with a gain of 1.50 to 24.00 and there was a point advance to 41 1-2 in McColl Frontenac as well as fractional strengthenings in British American, Imperial and International Petroleum.

Wheat and Corn Prices Turn Sharply Downward

CHICAGO, Ills., Aug. 2.—(C.P.)—Wheat and corn prices turned sharply downward early to-day, influenced by lower Liverpool wheat quotations and by rain and cooler weather in the corn belt. Private estimates on wheat crop production were about as expected, and were devoid of important market effect. Opening 1 1-8 to 2 3-4 lower, Chicago wheat later showed some further setback. Corn started 1 3-8 to 4 1-2 off, and subsequently held near to the initial range. Oats were easier. Provisions also inclined downward.

Lake Shore

Lake Shore has started to open up the 200 ft. level by drifting and it is suggested that this may prove to be the prize level of the mine. It may produce very spectacular high grade.

NORANDA DROPS ON BRISK MART

Sherritt-Gordon, Sudbury Basin and Hudson Bay Record Gains.

AMULET WEAKER.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Trading was fairly strong on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning although there were reactions in some of the recent leaders.

Noranda dropped back slightly to 6.90 but there were a number of gains including base metaals, 20 to 5.55, Sherritt Gordon 15 to 7.90, Sudbury Basin 10 to 9.00 and Hudson Bay 25 to 17.60. But Waite-Ackerman sold off 20 to 8.05 and Ventures the same amount to 8.30.

Amulet reacted 18 to 2.77, Newbec added 1 at 49 and Big Missouri was showed no gain at 1.65 to reveal a slower pace among the stocks that led the recent revival.

Both golds and oils were firm. Dome Rose 20 to 11.00, McIntyre 40 to 16.50, Teck Hughes 10 to 8.40, Mining Corporation 5 to 4.30 and Lake Shore 25 to 25.50. But Hollinger dropped 5 to 7.05 and Howey 4 to 1.18.

SECURITY MART IS VERY SLOW

Business in Canada is Better Than U. S., States Bank of Montreal.

MONEY UNCHANGED.

The security market in Toronto is slowest this year, now has there been the appreciation in prices of stocks. Business in Canada is comparatively better than in the United States. The Bank of Montreal in the July bulletin states "favorable features outnumber the unfavorable and the volume of commodity production and distribution is at high level." The influx of tourists from the U. S. has had a stimulating effect on business. Newsprint production is enlarging, prices are stable, and the industry seems firmly on its feet. Building construction, one of the barometers of trade, has not let up from its rapid pace as in the United States. The value of new contracts in June was largest recorded in any one month. Railway traffic continues heavy. Employment in July is reported to be well up to the level of June and on the first of that month it was the best recorded. Steel industries are busy.

While a curtailment of the purchasing power of the Canadian farmer in the west is to be expected it is yet too early to make an accurate forecast of the effect on business of the severe reduction in the wheat harvest. Revenue freight of carriers will be reduced. Against this is the higher price, members of the wheat pool will receive not only for this year's crop out from the carry-over from last year. The market action of C. P. R. and the farm implement stocks is an evidence of what the public thinks the reaction will be in this direction. Massey-Harris and and Cockshutt on the closing session this week touched new lows for the year. C. P. R. is about ten points down from the price ruling the early part of the month.

Money Unchanged

Stringency of money may be eased if the amount needed to finance the wheat crop is greatly less than in the last few years but if the price of wheat soars still higher the demand may be in the neighborhood of former years. At the present time money conditions are said to be practically unchanged. Local brokers have not experienced greater difficulty in securing loans from banks, though with the market as it has been for the past while back they have not needed to borrow heavily for market operations.

ready stands at more than 500,000. Sir Herbert Samuel, speaking at Darwen to-night suggested a round-table conference of all parties concerned to investigate ways in which economies in production and marketing might be possible.

MANCHESTER, England, August 2 (Canadian Press). — The great stoppage of work in the Lancashire cotton industry continues with but small chance of mediation this week. This is indicated by inquiries to-day among leaders of both sides of the dispute which directly affects 500,000 textile workers.

Some step toward negotiations is expected from the meeting of delegates of the operatives and spinner amalgamation next Monday, when it is hoped they will give the executives power to negotiate the best terms possible.

In the meantime there appears to be no change in the attitude of the weaving section of the cotton industry.

Canada's National Aircraft Show will be held at the Canadian National Exhibition.

STOCK A DAY

It has several manufacturing units which supply part of the products sold. The company's main sales rooms are at Los Angeles where its stores have over 10 acres of floor space and it also has branch stores at Hollywood and Long Beach and sales offices and a studio at San Diego.

The earnings of the company and its predecessor in 1928 showed a net of $762,549 which compared with $922,272 in 1927.

ISSUES REACH NEW RECORDS

Bullish Operations Renewed With Vigor On New York Exchange.

HEAVY GAINS.

NEW YORK, N.Y., August 2 (By Stanley W. Prenosil ,Associated Press Financial Editor). — Bullish operations were resumed with considerable vigor in to-day's stock market, with major speculative interest shifting from the public utility to the railroad shares. More than a score issues were pushed into new high ground, many of the gains running from 5 to 15 points.

Call money renewed at 10 per cent. but the banks appeared to be in a more comfortable position, and a lower rate is expected. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady, with business light. While many traders expected a decrease in Federal Reserve brokers' loans because of the heavy liquidation a week ago, the increase of $52,000,000 to a new high record apparently caused little concern, due to the rather general feeling that the loan total will be much higher before any major reaction develops.

Weekly mercantile reviews indicated little change in the general business situation, while the publication of another series of earnings statements testified to the widespread prosperity of the first half year. A further improvement was noted in the demand for copper, and the introduction of new lines is reported to have stimulated the demand for automobiles.

The brisk demand for the rails was influenced by the unusually favorable earnings and traffic statements now being published, and a rather widespread speculative belief that they were behind the general market. Atchison quickly made up its early 2 point loss and moved ahead 5 1-2 points to a new high record at 261 the prairies, their farms comprise about 60 per cent. of the total number of occupied farms in Canada, and, in contrast to some former years, notably the last three, there is the prospect that they will have a substantial harvest, except in the case of oats, and that practically all their products will sell at high prices.

Apart from agriculture, new sources of wealth have been opened up throughout Canada during the last years, and the success of many business operations is now largely independent of local and domestic conditions, the most notable being mining and certain branches of manufacture which have extensive markets abroad. The rate of mineral production at present exceeds, and should continue to exceed, by a wide margin that of 1928, which of course means that more workers are now being employed, and even if no new discoveries of commercial ore bodies are made this season, the plans for expansion on proven properties provide for a marked enlargement of the mining industry. Similarly, major developments in other directions, such as those undertaken by the railway and power companies, will undoubtedly be carried out."

REGINALD CUFFE SPEAKS TO CLUB

Tells Kiwanians of Y. M. C. A. Work in Kansas City, Missouri.

FORM HI-Y CLUBS.

Reginald Cuffe, associated with the Kansas City, Y. M. C. A., and a former Peterborough Boy, who is in the city on a few weeks vacation was the speaker at the Kiwanis Club luncheon held in the Empress Hotel this noon.

"There are eight departments in Kansas City," he said, "that look after all the branches of the work and in the coloured section of the city there is a special building looking after the work in that centre.

"The city is divided into four districts. There is quite a scarcity of money and so standard buildings cannot be erected. The Y. M. C. A. then locates where ever a high school is built, constructing a shack opposite it. A secretary is placed in charge and he surrounds himself with a board of fifteen men.

"The idea is to serve the boys of the school who go in there and form Hi-Y clubs and are brought together for a couple of hours each week.

"Separate clubs are formed among the Freshmen, Sophmores, Juniors and Seniors of the school and four mornings of each week one of these clubs meets as an inner circle seeking a way to elevate the moral tone of the school. The reports of the principals in these schools state that it is the boys of these clubs that have the ruling hand of the student body.

"In the north east department which has been established longer, the work has been extended more and a large community house is being opened up where the boys will have adequate rooms.

"The reason why the branches are not handicapped on account of the lack of gymnasiums and swimming pools is because the majority of the near by high schools have all these and for a nominal fee they can be used.

"In the central building there are some 300 young men who are permanent residents while there are also 50 transient roomers.

"The work is very interesting as the boys mostly come in from the small near by towns looking for work. In the large city they are likely to be lonesome and often life is swayed by the first night and the atmosphere of small hotels and cheap rooming houses is often dangerous to them while in the Y. M. C. A. there is always good moral surroundings.

"Employment bureau, medical service and prominent men who come in every week to advise the young men as to their work are all part of the attractions of the work," he concluded.

Harold Mustaine, pianist for George Dibble, the evangilist who has been in the city for some time delighted the gathering with his unusual rendition of the old hymn, "My Faith Looks UP to Thee," by playing it as it would be given in the different countries around the world.

Kiwanian Vernon Morphet introduced the speaker and President John Turner expressed the thanks of the club.

THREE GREATEST

entrants had been refused on account of their physical condition.

George Young, the hero of the Catalina Channel swim three years ago, is the favorite for this afternoon's event. Vierkoetter, the famous German water dog, is crowding him for first place among the fans.

Other swimmers who have been in town for several days have also won a soft spot in the local hearts. Boats from all over the Trent Waterway have congregated for the big event. Shore parties have been arranged for weeks.

When Ellwood Hughes, of Toronto, fires the starting gun, the event of the era, in so far as this district is concerned, will be on.

For some time past, there has been rumors that George Young would not be here. This was definitely denied this morning when Young was shaved in a loca lbarber shop.

Vierkotter, they said this morning, would not race. He was in town yesterday and was, judging from his general appearance, greatly delighted with the Old Home Week festivities. At noon to-day, he had made no statement to the Press that he would not swim. Of the twenty odd women swimmers, only two have shown the local fans what they can do. Vivian Welsh of Ohio and a Toronto swimmer, were in yesterday's regatta and, surprised the local fans with the speed and strength with which they ploughed through the water.

Since early this morning, the crowds have been arriving from Toronto and St. Catharines on the west and Ottawa and Montreal on the north and east.

COMBINED OPPOSITION INFORMS NEWLANDS OF GARDINER'S IDEAS

Claim Session Is Called Solely To Decide Who Shall Rule Next Year.

SIGNED BY 35.

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Acknowledging the decision of Lieutenant Governor Newlands to permit the Gardiner Government to hold a special session of the Legislature September 3, Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, Leader of the combined opposition of Conservatives, Progressives and Independents, has written to His Honor as follows:—

"May I say that the primary object in presenting the petition was to advise you that the Opposition was unanimous in its intention to defeat the Government in the Legislature at the earliest possible moment after the calling of this special session and it was felt that the expense of calling such a session was therefore unnecessary. We understand that this session called for September 3 is called for one purpose and one only and that is to decide on the floor of the Legislature who shall be entrusted with the carrying on of the Government in this province during the life of the next Legislature.

The petition presented by Dr. Anderson to His Honor a few days ago contained the signatures of all the Conservatives, Progressive and Independent members, 35 in all. It stated that they were opposed to the continuance of the Gardiner goverment and asked His Honor to dismiss Premier J. G. Gardiner and call on Dr. Anderson to form a Government.

In his reply Lieutenant Governor Newlands said Premier Gardiner contended that as Leader of the largest group he was entitled to meet the Legislature and that His Honor had consented to this course on condition that the Legislature was called at the earliest possible date, September3.

JUDGING CLASS GETS COACHING

Popular Lindsay Lady Shows Girls How Household Science is Criticized.

WINNERS GO TO "EX"

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Aug. 2.—The coaching classes, in connection with the girls' judging competition in household science, were held in the town hall on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 30 and 31, Miss E. Hopkins, of Lindsay, who won for herself a high degree of popularity among the girls taking the short course here last winter, being in charge.

The competition is under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture, and offers a splendid opportunity not only for the girls and young women of the community and surrounding district, but for the older homemakers as well, if they care to avail themselves of the instruction periods which begin at 10 a m. each day, and close at 4 in the afternoon.

Will Choose Girls.

The competition for Durham County will take place at Orono on Tuesday, August 6, beginning at 9 a. m., and at its conclusion the three girls who are to represent this county on the judging team at the Canadian National Exhibition will be chosen. The prizes at Orono will be in cash, running from five dollars for the highest girl, down to fifty cents, in each class, and the three girls who go to the C. N. E. will be given five dollars toward expenses. Any girl may go to Orono and take part in the competition whether she has attended the coaching classes, or not. The names of those going to Toronto must be sent in not later than August 8, and girls not chosen for the team judging may enter in the open competition. The age limit is from 16 to 26 years.

List of Classes

The girls' household science judging competition for 1929 includes the following: Class A—Nutrition: (1) school lunches; (2) Family Menus; Class B; House Furnishings: (1) Farm Living Rooms; (2) Kitchen Plans; Class C; (1) Dress Parade; (2) Country Girl's Wardrobe.

A variety of school lunches were laid out on the long table in the centre of the class room on Wednesday morning, and after a whole day of instruction on Tuesday, the girls judged these under the heads of container and packing, and food value. Afterwards the reasons were given, when the proper rating had been decided upon, and Miss Hopkins added any corrections that were necessary to the girls' deductions. This proceeding was followed in connection with each class and its different heading, the instructress thus learning if her pupils had a correct grasp of the instruction that had been imparted.

Church Gowns

Four models paraded before the class, dressed for the occasion, the girls being asked to judge who was most suitably attired for attending church in the country on a Sunday morning, the standards being: general effectiveness, suitability to the occasion, and suitability to the person.

The family menus were printed, and planned supposedly for a farm family of adults and children, from six years old and up, covering one day's meals in the season in which the class was being held. The points to be considered were: food value, including balance for individual meals and balance for the day; suitability to the season, with the query, are the foods served in the season in which they are grown; suitability to Farm Resources, because so far as possible the foods used should be produced on the farm, and attractiveness, tempting to the palate, and the very reading of the menu arousing hunger.

Model Kitchen

Charts were used for the plans for a workshop kitchen, and for the farm living-room. In connection with the former, equipment counts above inequalities of size or arrangement, the principal requirements being: stoves, range and oil-stove, fuel box, sink with draining-boards, and water on tap; dumbwaiter, or refrigerator; high stool; chair; swing door to dining-room; work table; counter cupboard; wheel tray. An oblong room is preferable to one in shape and a maximum of wall space with a minimum of floor is desirable; ventilation is also important, and lighting, and an adjoining wash room and laundry is imperative. The equipment must be arranged to minimize steps, and in good relation to light.

Colored charts were used for the farm living-room, and the standard for judging was concerned with lighting, arrangement of furniture, style of furniture, coloring, appropriateness to the farm home, and appearance of comfort.

Proper Attire

Charts were also used for the country girl's wardrobe, and coaching included such points as general appearance covering harmony of style and color; durability, and suitability to purpose. Practical suggestions as to what a well-furnished wardrobe should contain, for the farm girl, were given in detail.

Fifteen minutes were allowed the class for judging in the various classes, and at the final competition in Orono only two minutes will be given for advancing reasons for the decisions arrived at. Miss Hopkins will give the final coaching for the girls chosen for the team judging, and those deciding to enter the open competition, at the C. N. E., on August 21 and 22, the place to be announced later. Last year it was at Port Hope, and the county competition was held at Millbrook with forty-four in attendance .

Peterborough Exhibition will have a judging competition for girls, in household science, on its list of attractions, the prizes being from ten dollars down to one dollar with four in the last named class, making fifteen cash prizes in all. London, Hamilton, Ottawa, and Toronto are the other four large centers where such competitions have been, and still continue to be, annual features.

An increased interest on the part of parents, teachers, and such organizations as the Women's Institutes, in the coaching classes and the county competitions, especially under such competent leadership as that of Miss Hopkins, would lead to a larger attendance, and results would be of practical value in home and community life, particularly among the 'soon-to-be' homemakers throughout the province.

List of Entrants

The classes here on Tuesday and Wednesday had the following members: Sadie and Anna Rowland; Marian and Martna Earle; Audrey Larmer; Vera Armstrong; Isabelle Gibson (Oakville); Marjorie Bristow; Margaret Larmer; Jessie Armstrong; Mrs. George Fallis; Mrs. H. A. Earle; Mrs. Will Armstrong, Mrs. Allie Fallis; Mrs. T. H. Aiken. The married ladies are all members, and some of them officers, in the local branch of the Women's Institute. This organization will give practical help in enabling the girls to be at Orono to take part in the Durham County competition.

BARN IS BURNED IN ELECTRIC STORM

Farmer Is Burnt On Hand While Attempting To Move Wagon.

HORSE IS LOST.

MADOC, Aug. 2.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Madoc and district was visited on Wednesday night by one of the worst electrical storms seen here in years. A barn owned by Sandy Ashe about five miles south of here was struck and burned The barn contained about twenty-five loads of hay, a fanning mill and two horses. Mr. Ashe was able to get one of the horses out, but the other one with the contents of the barn was destroyed.

Mr. Ashe was burned about the hands while moving a wagon which was close to the barn and had caught fire. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

When the Son judges the Father!

THERE comes a time when nearly every son sits in mental judgment upon his father. Sometimes, alas! that time does not come until the father is dead. The son, perhaps, may be a mere lad, faced with the knowledge that his is the task of helping to look after mother and, perhaps, younger brothers and sisters. Then it is that he judges his father. Then it is that he remembers his kindnesses, condones his weaknesses, and then it is that he wonders sorrowfully, why his father did not make better financial provision for his mother.

If you have known of an instance where a son has thus sat in judgment upon his father, remember that the time may come when your own son (or your daughter)—if you have children—will sit in judgment upon you. What will their verdict be insofar as it applies to your provision for their, or for their mother's and your wife's maintenance?

If you haven't provided sufficiently for their maintenance, until they are able to look after themselves (and their mother)—isn't this the time to do it—by means of Confederation Life Insurance?

Write for the pamphlet "No Matter What Happens". You will find it very interesting—to say the least. Address your request now to—

DEGREE TEAM VISITS STIRLING

Morton Descendants Hold Their Seventh Annual Re-union.

125 PRESENT.

STIRLING, Aug. 2 (Examiner Correspondence).—Stirling Lodge No. 239 I.O.O.F. was visited by a delegation from Thomasburg on Wednesday night. The second degree was exemplified by the local lodge. It was intended to have conferred the third degree also, but the bad electric storm which prevailed in the evening prevented the full degree team of Thomasburg coming, so their part of the work was postponed. Brother Bullen of Campbellford, the new D.D.G.M. of this district, was present as a visitor.

Hold Seventh Re-union.

Over 125 were present, and a very pleasant time was enjoyed by all. The attendance was not so great as other occasions. Stirling Agricultural Grounds was chosen as the meeting place for 1930, on the last Wednesday in July.

SAVED FROM RECEIVER.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—A restaurant in the Latin quarters of Paris is thankful in more ways than one that the revolver that Sigismund Walness, well-dressed Russian, tried to commit suicide with, did not go off. He ordered an enormous meal of the best the house could summon. After he had eaten he announced his suicidal intentions, but the gun failed.

"My brakes are bad. I'll get them fixed some time next week."

The Result—an accident Today

The driver knew his brakes were faulty. He fully intended having them adjusted—some time.

But today a child darted across the road in front of him. The car wasn't going very fast. He jammed on the brakes. They didn't hold. He tried the emergency. Too late! A shriek of pain! Calls for a doctor, for police, for an ambulance! And then he remembers he had decided to get the brakes fixed. . . some time.

No car with defective brakes has a legal right on Ontario highways. It is imperative that every motorist keep a careful check on his braking equipment. Get faulty brakes fixed at once. Today. . . your life and the lives of others may depend upon your brakes. They should always act instantly and efficiently.

With a car going 35 miles an hour, good four-wheel brakes can hardly bring it to a stop in less than 75 feet. The margin of safety is little enough. A lot can happen in 75 feet. Traffic Officers have authority to check up your brakes.

The object of the Highway Safety Committee is to maintain safety on the highways for motorists and pedestrians alike. It asks for the utmost help every motor car driver can extend for safe, common sense driving, particularly during this week-end when traffic will be heavier.

7 RULES FOR SAFETY

You must observe each one scrupulously all the time

1. Have your car in perfect mechanical shape—particularly Brakes, Steering Gear and Headlights.
2. Give your undivided attention to your driving. In passing traffic, be sure there is a place for you in the traffic line ahead.
3. When other motor vehicles try to pass you—let them pass.
4. In entering main streets or highways, or in approaching a railway crossing where a full view of the track is obscured—stop and look.
5. Don't "Loaf" where traffic is heavy.
6. Always signal before you slow down, stop, or change your course.
7. Never back up before ascertaining that the road behind is clear.

OH, LOOK, DADDY, I CAN BURN A HOLE IN THIS PAPER WITH THIS MAGNIFYING GLASS-ISN'T IT WONDERFUL?

WONDERFUL?-THAT'S NOTHING-JUST WAIT UNTIL YOU HEAR ABOUT THE MAGNIFYING GLASS I HAD.

.WHEN I WENT WEST TO VISIT GRIZZLY IKE I BOUGHT A POWERFUL MAGNIFYING GLASS-PERHAPS THE MOST POWERFUL FOR ITS SIZE EVER MADE-I USED IT IN MY STUDY OF MINERALS, BUGS, FLOWERS-EVERYTHING I WAS INTERESTED IN-

GENERAL 2T

-WHEN I GOT BACK FROM TOWN I FOUND GRIZZLY IN THE DOORWAY HALF CONSCIOUS -HE TOLD ME THAT A NOTORIOUS OUTLAW HAD ROBBED HIM OF SOME VALUABLE PAPERS AND MAPS OF GOLD MINES-HAD BEATEN HIM INTO INSENSIBILITY AND LEFT HIM FOR DEAD

I IMMEDIATELY WENT AFTER HIM-I KNEW WHERE HIS SECRET RETREAT WAS-I WAS SO FULL OF VENGEANCE FOR MY PAL GRIZZLY THAT I THREW DISCRETION TO THE WINDS AND TOOK AFTER HIM ALONE-

.HIS HUT WAS IN THE MIDDLE OF A CLEARING-THERE WAS NO CHANCE TO APPROACH UNDER COVER AND AS I GALLOPED UP A BULLET TOOK MY HAT OFF-

I QUICKLY DROPPED OFF MY HORSE AND TOOK A POSITION BEHIND A HUGE STONE-I KNEW IF I DID NOT GET HIM BEFORE NIGHT-FALL, HE'D ESCAPE UNDER COVER OF DARKNESS AND IT WOULD BE SUICIDE TO RUSH IN ON HIM NOW, SO I GOT THE OLD BRAIN WORKING-

TAKING OUT MY MAGNIFYING GLASS AND MY SHAVING MIRROR, THAT FORTUNATELY I ALSO HAD IN MY POCKET, I REFLECTED THE SUN'S RAYS THROUGH THE GLASS ON TO A PILE OF RUBBISH ALONGSIDE OF THE CABIN—

IT WASN'T LONG BEFORE THE RUBBISH CAUGHT FIRE AND THEN THE CABIN-

AS HE CAME OUT OF THE BURNING CABIN, I COVERED HIM AND ORDERED HIM TO THROW AWAY HIS GUN WHICH HE DID-

I THEN SLIPPED OUT INTO THE OPEN-THREW MY GUN AWAY AND TOLD HIM THAT I WOULD SQUARE ACCOUNTS WITH HIM WITH NATURE'S WEAPONS

BELIEVE ME, I WAS SOME FIGHTER IN THOSE DAYS AND I GAVE HIM A LICKING HE'LL NEVER FORGET-I THREW HIM OVER MY HORSE AND DELIVERED HIM TO THE SHERIFF—

I BET THEY HAD A LOT OF RESPECT FOR YOU AFTER THAT, DADDY.

I'LL SAY THEY DID-ALL THOSE TOUGH CATTLE RUSTLERS ACTED LIKE THEY WERE IN CHURCH WHEN I WAS AROUND.

WESTERN CROPS RECEIVE RAIN

Change Will Be Too Late For Most of Western Grain.

CROPS FAIR ELSEWHERE

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press)—The heat-parched crops of Western Canada went generally unrelieved and the forest-fire menace continued to spread again yesterday, though rain in some districts brought long-awaited relief, and cloudy skies presaged rain in other districts.

Relief was expressed in many quarters at reports of downpours in sections of Ontario and Western Canada, the belief being this break in the weather was the forerunner of generally better conditions.

In the Prairie Provinces, however, the change in the weather will come too late. Crop conditions there are "very bad," according to official reports to the Dominion Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. Elsewhere rain would save the situation for the agriculturists, the reports indicating crop conditions fair in Ontario and the Maritime Provinces, and good in Quebec.

TRANSPORT BIG HERD TO MacKENZIE DELTA

Government Is Planning to Raise Reindeer in Northern Territory

(Special to The Examiner)

OTTAWA, Aug. 2.—Arrangements are now in progress for the transportation from Alaska to the eastern delta of the Mackenzie river of a herd of 3,000 reindeer, and it is expected that the drive will begin some time in October. Several years will be required to herd that great number of animals across the northern strip of the Arctic. This is part of the Canadian government's scheme to establish the raising of reindeer as an industry in that region, not for the ambitious project of commercializing it so much as to furnish food for the wards of Canada—the Eskimo population. Alarm reports of a growing scarcity of food in the Northland have been received from time to time, and it is hoped that this action on the part of the government may contribute in some measure towards allaying that alarm.

The reindeer have been purchased from Lomen Brothers of New York and Alaska, and the contract calls for the delivery of the three thousand in the eastern Mackenzie delta.

OUR CHILDREN

I FOUND IT.

"Where did you get that knife, John?"
"I found it."
"Where did you find it?"
"Ah, eh, in Fritzie's yard."
"Did you ask anybody about it?"
"No. I just found it."
"Then you will have to take it back and inquire who owns it. Return it to the owner. It isn't yours."
"I don't want to. I found it and finding's keeps."
"Not if the owner can be found. Come along. We'll see about it. You cannot keep anything that does not belong to you and you know this knife is not yours. Never mind about finding it. You haven't tried to find its owner. Come along."

John delayed in every possible way. he had to get a drink. He had to put on a clean blouse. He couldnt find his hat. But everything has an end and at last he started reluctantly enough. He lagged two steps behind his mother and when she said, "Come along. Come along," he grumbled and whines, "I'm coming. You go too gast."

"Why yes, that's Fritzie's knife. He is out looking all over the yard for it. Thanks so much for bringing it back. I'm glad John found it. Fritzie thinks he laid it on the bench, but I tell him if he had done that it would have been there. Knives don't walk off. Thanks so much. Come again soon, John."

"Don't find anything again John. That's just another name for stealing. When you took that knife you knew it wasn't yours and you meant to keep it. Then you told a lie about it. Altogether you've done a very bad afternoon's work. We'll have to decide what's to be done about it. You will have to think hard. Last week you found Harry's marble;another time you found Susie's ring; last you went to grandma's you found a dime. Each time I've had you return what you took. Now the next time you find anything leave it where it is. It isn't lost. If you take it you are stealing. I want to know what to do about helping you overcome this greedy, coveting spirit you are cultivating. What's to be done?"

"I'll leave things alone. If I have anything that isn't mine you can make me take it back and 'pologize."

"You'll have to tell next time that you took it. No finding. Is that right?"

"Yes. If I take it again and say I found it I'll have to say so 'cause I don't want to steal. I only want things. But stealing'll make me stop finding them I guess. I'll just leave them alone."

Investigate every found thing from the starting place. This finding, borrowing, lending, trading idea is all of a piece, and dangerous.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

DON'T NEGLECT A VACATION.

The fact that previous vacations have not given you the rest you believe you needed, should not make you forget that everybody needs a rest, a change, at least once or twice a year.

You are apt to think that perhaps your brain needs a rest but your body does not, or vice versa.

Now the very fact that you feel a bit tired, your work is not interesting to you, and you feel restless and irritable, are definite signs that you are not well, that you have dis-ease, that is that you are not at ease.

If you have an infection from teeth, tonsils, sinuses, intestine, or gall bladder you have dis-ease

Why?

Because the pr duct from any of these infections is poison to the system, and it is this poison that give you the symptoms of tiredness, restlessness, and irritability.

Now you can get these poisons that work on the system in the same manner, from overuse of your brain or body.

Every thought of your brain every, action of your body, burns up tissue and creates poison. These poisons are definite combinations just like other poisons.

If the circulation of your blood is active, it carries out these poisons from the system almost as soon as they are made, aided of course by sleep, which by keeping brain and body from working for the time being, permits the circulation to get rid of these "fatigue" poisons as they are called.

Now why not sleep more, and do without a vacation?

Because the routine things you do with brain and body everyday, should be stopped, should be changed to something else. Your eyes, ears, nose, taste, should have new or different impulses sent through them to the brain.

It is this change that removes tension and gives relaxation.

Relaxation is best obtained by going where you want to go and doing what you want to do just for a couple of weeks.

A Column of Particular Interest to Women Readers, Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

THE City Editor has handed me a clipping which some good neighbor left in the office, and its contents, or rather the heading, which catches your eye first, makes you read it. The subject would make a good column some time.

* * * * * * *

The title is this: Are You Popular?

* * * * * * *

And the clipping goes on to say:

"I know a girl who, figuratively speaking, is breaking her neck to be popular. She wants to be popular so much, and everything is in her favor but she herself. She has many things other girls lack, but she is in her own way of being lover and becomi ng an encourager. She snubs cruelly those she thinks do not count, forgetting that everybody counts with somebody. Others she ignores so flatly that people have been enraged at her ill-manners. She has her new friends who tolerate her from pity or love, one cannot say. This girl eyes the top round of popularity, not remembering that all the rounds which she must climb are composed of the good wishes of the people whom she snubs and ignores.

* * * * * * *

"But take a look at this other girl. She is a contrast to the one who is seeking to be popular. This girl is popular and well liked and well beloved, by young and old, by everybody. You see both kindness and happiness written in her eyes. Then when you know her better you realize the half has not been told by the beautiful, sincere expression. The joy of human kindness emanates from her. She is exhilarating! She is an encourager! And after a visit with her you are convinced that life is well worth living.

* * * * * * *

"Many an older life is ordered on the small boy's principle. If a big noise and a big show are made, the life is counted a success, even though there is no effective force in it or back of it. We have known even church workers who made a fine parade of what they were doing, but the results could not be seen with a microscope.

* * * * * * *

"The band is never the most important part, except of a military concert."

* * * * * * *

You can't be what you aren't!

* * * * * * *

Any girl who has a sweet and pleasing disposition is popular, as far as popularity goes, but—some people consider being popular means to be "hard-boiled," as the saying is.

* * * * * * *

Some girls think, too, that to be popular they must follow the crowd—smoke and drink a little according to the requests made.

* * * * * * *

Now all this, in some girl's point of view, may be being popular—but do you think for one minute the boys with whom they associate encourage this? I do not, and what is more, do they want this kind of a girl to be the mothers of their children when it comes to the fine thing?

* * * * * * *

There are quite a number of young men who, as the saying is, "fool around with some girls," but when it comes to settling down they will be found far from this sort of a girl.

* * * * * * *

They are seeking some girl who desires to live a higher life than the girl of the street—someone with higher standards.

* * * * * * *

As the clipping says, the girl in the first paragraph has everything in her favor but she herself—snubbing those whom she thinks do not count will not get her very far—those may be the very people in the long run who will outrun her in the race of life!

* * * * * * *

As I haves aid before, let us seek the highest standards in life so that we may gain the best, or like the one in the second paragraph.

MANY NEW DISEASES ARE LAID TO MODERN CIVILIZATION

Science is Endeavoring to Remedy What Evil Effects Produce

BIG CONVENTION OPENS

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, August 2—(By The Canadian Press)—Great Britain for 50 years has every reason to be proud of her achievements in physiology, said Professor W. E. Dixon, M.A., M.D., F.R.S., of Whittlesdorf, Cambridgeshire, in his presidential address to-day to the section of physiology, British Association for the Advancement of Science.

"It is acknowledged that Great Britain can show records second to none and that her savants have included some of the world's greatest investigators," Prof. Dixon said in concluding his address on Physiology, the basis of Treatment. "It remains for us to hope that in the future she may attain equal success in the associated sciences directly concerned with the relief of suffering and the cure of disease."

In the course of his address Professor Dixon said "Civilization has been responsible for many new diseases. Civilization has brought bad sanitation in houses and even our windows may be depriving us of fresh air and filtering out certain rays of light bringing its attendant tuberculosis—for tuberculosis is a disease of houses. Science is now engaged in endeavoring to remedy the evil effects which it has produced."

Associated With Wealth.

Civilization is associated with wealth, indoor life, luxury and sometimes excessive mental exercise. These are the conditions that lead to an exaggerated nervous sensibility and this is a much commoner feature of those engaged in a mental indoor life than in those engaged in indoor physical life. It is not then difficult to understand the excessive use of tobacco in some of these people since one effect of tobacco and perhaps its most beneficent effect, is to increase the threshold of sensation in those—supersensitive. When this supersensitiveness reaches extreme limits, these people are referred to as 'neurotic'! They easily weary of the strain and anxieties of seeking a livelihood. Now it is these higher faculties of the mind which are most responsive to narcotic poisons which influence these long before those concerned with movement and ordinary sensation—so that the supersensitive people under the influence of narcotics lose the exaggerated effect of their sensations and become more like normal people; the everyday trifles and inconveniences of life are no longer exaggerated out of proportion to their significance and, life instead of being oppressive and anxious, becomes pleasant and free from worry. Hence it is easy to understand the modern tendency in some highly civilized nations to indulge in narcotic drugs like morphine heroin, and cocaine.

It is another curious fact that it is just these super-sensitive people who drink the caffeine beverages like tea and coffee in excess. This caffeine relieves drowsiness and fatigue by direct stimulation of the brain cells. In large doses the caffeine beverages induce restlessness and nervous excitability and they may produce disturbed sleep, headache and confusion. Few people no doubt take caffeine to this extent, but most of us take from two to five grains daily.

And the effect of this continued as a daily ration throughout life is a factor significance of which is unknown. We do know, however, that caffeine increase sensitiveness to ordinary physical well as mental sensations.

"England was once a drunken nation and the larger towns contained such notices as: 'Here you may get drunk for a penny; dead drunk with clean straw for twopence.' Before the Industrial Revolution the consumption of beer alone was ninety gallons a head per year; it is now about a quarter of this. With this diminution of beer drinking is associated a truly enormous increase in tea and coffee drinking. To me it seems not unlike that this substitution of tea and coffee for beer is not wholly unconnected with the tendency of highly civilized nations to become supersensitive and neurotic, for this is the frame work on which drug addiction is built."

Prevent and Cure Disease.

At the outset of his address Professor Dixon stressed the fact that the ultimate aim of medicine was the prevention and caue of disease. "This practical aspect so far dominates all other;" he said, "that medicine is often referred to as the healing art; indeed it is difficult to think of medicine apart from treatment."

Continuing, the speaker explained the nature of disease as any unusual functioning of the tissues which might be the result of accident hereditary weakness or the presence of pernicious germ-life.

"The science of medicine," he said "is nothing more than trained and organized common sense based on psychology. It is still usual to speak of it as an inexact science; This is obviously wrong since medicine used the same methods as every other science and results of observation are as definite a those of the chemist or physicist, although it is true that in the complexity of the problem with which the physician has to deal all the conditions of importance may not be known and the results of an investigation though correct for the conditions under which it is taken may be misleading."

The speaker directed the attention of his audience to the progress made latterly in the treatment of disease. During the nineteenth century he said medicine was exclusively occupied with diagnosis so that the medical literature of the period deals almost entirely with the symptoms, activities and results of the various diseases and contained no indication of treatment whatever. It was said the almost complete lack of indications for treatment in the late Sir William Osler's text-book on medicine, which was in wide use, was largely responsible for the Rockefeiler millions given to medicine. This state of affairs was unavoidable at the time Professor Dixon pointed out, on account of the fact that the sciences of physiology and pathology were in their infancy. Even to this day, our knowledge of diagnosis was far in advance of that of treatment, he said.

Premet has used black alpaca for this afternoon frock, trimming it with pleated georgette which falls from neckline to the hem.

SMART FROCK IN EVER POPULAR BLACK AND WHITE.

By Madame Charlotte, of Premet.

Black and white is rarely combined more successfully than in this afternoon frock which I have designed in black alpaca, trimming it with pleated clusters of white georgette which fall from the neckline to the bottom of the skirt. The slender bodice and flaring skirt are smart notes in this season's mode.

FLUFFY SWEATERS

WOMEN GOLFERS WEAR NO SOCKS

Noted Swimmer Creates Furore On Toronto Course in Bare Legs.

LATEST FASHION.

(Special to The Examiner, Copyright)

TORONTO, Aug. 2.—Even in Toronto, city of churches and traditional stronghold of provincial conservatism, feminine bare legs are becoming quite "the thing," despite the fact that there are still numerous local mesdames Grundy who wail.

Time was when unsheathed ladies' limbs would bring out the police on a riot call, but nowadays, from your correspondent's vantage point, they are beginning to hold their own on the links and tennis courts.

Helen Wills did it at Wimbledon; even so were bared the limbs of Olive Wade, newly-crowned Dominion racquet champion.

But even at that Miss Martha Norelius of New York and White Sulphur Springs, Virginia, who will be a split favorite with Miss Ethel Hertle of New York if the latter enters the women's ten-mile C. N. E. Wrigley swim here Aug. 23, startled the golfing fraternity down at Cedar Brook golf course when she appeared there to play a game of golf against Miss Alexandrine Gibb, president of the national women's athletic federation, sans socks and sans stockings.

Miss Norelius, who is possibly the outstanding girl swimmer of the world—she holds eleven world's records and has never been beaten in open amateur competition started out with a 200-yard drive, but before she got through with Cedar Brook she found that that sporty course presented a lot of golfing difficulties she had not anticipated. Her score was not at all startling—either way—though her sun back costume and her tanned bare legs created somewhat of a furore.

"EXILED" IS NOT PRODUCER'S BEST

Critics Claim It Will Be Success Though Not a Good Play.

London Aug. 2.—(By the Canadian Press)—"Exiled", John Galsworthy's new play which was produced at Wyndham's Theatre recently by Leon M. Lion, actor, playwright and play producer, "is not in a sense a good play," says E. A. Baughan, dramatic critic, "nor is it one of John Galsworthy's best." Yet Mr. Baughan confesses spirit of it "even the quiet end which comforts us with the thought that if England's body is mouldering in the grave her soul goes marching on." He adds that this is the meaning of the play but it is lightly emphasized by Mr. Galsworthy.

"The spirit of 'Exiled' is to some extent the spirit of "Strife," says Mr. Baughan, "but in this latest drama there is only one scene in which for a moment the question of capital and labor becomes dramatic. It is when Sir John Mazer, 'a king of industry' tells a number of unemployed miners that he had to close the pit which they had worked because it did not pay. He expresses the point of view of 'big business' with logical force, and does so because he believes the miners suspect that Sir Charles Denbury's horse has been injured by a tramp so that Mazer's may win a local race. The dispute, which becomes quite exciting, is suddenly ended by Mazer promising to give all he might win to the miners.

"I don't believe for a moment that they would have been content with that offer. But the play does pretend to go deeply into the question of unemployment. It is entertaining however, for the simple reason that John Galsworthy has not been afraid of making his characters amusing theatrical types.

"In fact 'Exiled' will be successful, mainly because there are many effective character sketches and because they are acted with a finish that does credit not only to the players but also to the producer of the play."

NEWCOMERS TO CANADA

The photographs here show several interesting members of the party of immigrants who landed in Canada over the week-end and who are now on their way to various parts of the Dominion to pick up the threads of a new life in a new land, filled, so they hope, with opportunity. They are shown here as they appeared at the Toronto Union Station while passing through. (1) This youthful voyager may be coming to a new land, but she isn't going to entirely dissociate herself with the old, for here she has brought her most prized possession—a rag doll. (2) Mrs. Mandink Wassil, from Kalus, Galicia, who declared she came to Canada "because farming conditions in Poland are terrible." She is seen here with her child, and (3) this youngster, Trevor Day, from England, who is on his way to Perth, Ont., declares stoutly that "I know I'll like Canada."

ENGLISH OPERA IS CRITICIZED

Much Comment is Attracted by First English Play in Century.

SLIGHTLY MONOTONOUS

London, Aug. 2.—(By the Canadian Press)—"Judith", which was given its initial production recently at Covent Garden and is the first opera by an English composer in a generation, has not been received with unanimous applause on the part of the critics. Alfred Kalisch, music critic of the Daily News and Westminster Gazette, says it is a "remarkable work for a first opera," and his criticism, on the whole, is favorable. The Times' critic is less lenient, particularly with the libretto, which was written by Arnold Bennet, author and journalis, and timates that the opera left a general impression of monotony. The composer of the music is Eugene Goossens, well-known composer and operatic conductor.

Mr. Kalisch says, "The plot of 'Judith' is, or ought to be, familiar to everybody, for it follows the Biblical story closely. Mr. Bennett tells the story of the killing of Holofernes in terse, nervous English, based on the authorised version. He has not embroidered it with psychological subtleties. The story moves without deviation or episodes, irrelevant or otherwise except a dance, to its appointed end. This is a great merit; but it has the disadvantage that it gives the composer but little scope for variety of mood or atmosphere.

Music Masterly.

"The music of Mr. Goossens is best described as being the vein of 'Salome' and 'Elektra.' The orchestra is masterly, and in spite of consistent sombreness, the music is never deficient in variety. Impending tragedy broods over it from the impressive menacing theme of the opening bars to the close. Even the dances have a sinister sound. The first impression is that the composer starts at such a high pressure that it cannot quite be kept up in spite of his extraordinary rich scoring and endless ingenuity in devising orchestral effects.

"The composer has set his singers a terribly severe task by reason of the very heavy scoring no less than by the rugged outline of his vocal phrases."

The Times decribes the main theme of the opera "Judith," and says:

"Mr. Goossens seizes it in the bald unison phrase announced immediately by his orchestra, the development of which through the course of the opera is its most interesting musical feature. The prophecy itself is delivered in recitative.

Eunuch's Part not Right.

"So far author and composer were at one, but Mr. Bennett seems to have considered that an Oriental theme should be provided with the usual tappings—a Chief Eunuch who should alternately rage and cringe, dancing girls who should heighten the sensuous atmosphere in which Holofernes is to be lured to his doom, and a long lyrical scene between the two principal characters culminating in Holofernes' exclamation, 'I will kiss thy lips and thou art mine; oh, fragrance.' But Mr. Goossens steeled himself against any relazation of the austere attitude of mind that which he faced his task at the outset. His orchestra may sometimes soar into richly scintillating passages in which the resources of modern harmony are skilfully exploited, but the voices steadfastly resist all softening influences. The result is that through the entire opera, everyone speaks in the same tone of voice, the tone appropriate to the opening prophecy. The voices are strictly confined to a single note to each syllable, and the persistent use of monotone prevents the phrases from having even such character as is obtainable within these limits.

"The character of the Chief Eunuch was surely misrepresented theatrically as well as musically. A swarthy bearded gentleman, who might from his appearance have been own brother to Holofernes himself, he seemed determined, not to lose his dignity at any cost whereas the suggestion of the book was clearly that he should have no dignity to lose.

"This obliviousness to verbal suggestion accounts for the general impression of monotony which the opera left. Perhaps Mr. Goosens felt that Mr. Bennett was leading him into temptation, the temptation to do what other composers have done with similar situations, and, resisting it, determined to leave characterization and expression to the orchestra."

COUNTRY REQUIRES MATERNITY HOMES

Dr. C. Saleeby Claims Rush at Childbirth Kills Many Mothers Needlessly.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—(By the Canadian Press)—Dr. C. Saleeby Chairman, of the National Birthrate Commission, 1918-20 writes "Overseas" an article on "Saving the Mothers".

The ante-natal period is the key to our problem. The deaths of mothers in childbirth cannot be reduced merely by building bigger maternity hospitals ready for them when their hour comes. No doubt we do need more such provision. No doubt we are apt to be too hasty at these times. Everything else is speeded up nowadays. We move more quickly, squeeze more into the time and are impatient with the slow old ways of doing things. When baby is coming the doctor is busy, the relatives are impatient, the mother is impatient: why not hurry things up a little, as we hurry everything else? It is a great mistake and it costs many mothers their lives. Nature has her own tempo, and knows what she is about. No instruments, however clean or skilfully used, can achieve those vital adjustments which Nature demands. Deadly haste kills many mothers, and I repeat the stern old warning of one of my teachers nearly thirty years ago against "meddlesome midwifery." Therefore, let us have more maternity homes, where Nature's tempo can be respected.

Rules for Mothers.

What are the necessities for a healthy, happy pregnancy?—good, simple food, with plenty of vitamins; no constipat on on any account whatsoever; drastic reduction of fats in the food if morning sickness is troublesome; a proper share of iodine, in iodised salt or otherwise; plenty of rest, little or no standing, but open-air exercise without fail; no alcohol or tobacco, for these would reach the baby and harm it. Above all, consult a doctor and let him guide and guard—as, for instance, in prepa ation for nursing; and, as has only just been discovered at Guy's Hospital, London, in ordering a preventive or protective course of simple alkalies, costless and safe, if there be the faintest indication of any danger to the kidneys. Very simple medical observation may easily avert the most appalling disaster.s Let us have done with prudery, the devil's counterfeit of modesty, and let us rejoice that so many well-skilled women doctors are now available to advise their fellow-women at these times. And, finally, let the best and largest and airiest and sunniest room in the house be for the arrival of the young scion of our noble race; patience then, and cleanliness—the spirits of Lord Lister and Florence Nightingale incarnate, one on each side of the mother's bed.

The upas tree has a poisonous juice.

SPECIALIZATION IS NECESSARY

Florists and Gardners Close Successful Convention in City.

ARMOUR SPEAKS

J. C. Armor, of Montreal, spoke at the closing session of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Convention on Thursday afternoon. The subject of his paper was "Specialization," a topic which is vital to every florist and gardener who raises plants and flowers under glass. The more efficient effects and greater returns from this method of production were the outstanding features of his talk.

"The approximate population," he said, "of Ontario, is 3,200,000 and in that area there are some 7,000,000 square feet of glass used for greenhouses, while Quebec has a population of 2,750,000 and only about 1,000,000 square feet of glass. This is a very inadequate division of the industry.

"The Quebec area includes practically only that area around Montreal and there are very few outside that district. This all leads to the curse of over-production and loss of financial return.

Perishable Product.

"These statistics show the competition that must effect the greenhouse business. It effects all growers and not like the steel industry, it is a perishable article that must be marketed at once.

"In Quebec there is only one rose grower of account, the others are producers of potted plants. We allow cut flowers to come in from the west. One who specializes in one plant or flower can produce more cheaply. A few years ago we used to produce everything in the seed catalogue, but now we produce only three or four articles, with greater returns and less help. Produce what you can best grow, that is the advice I would give to you.

"It is a short cut to get cash quickly by work—not by gambling as in the stock market.

"From 1918 to 1919 we passed through an industrial rennaissance, when specialization took place, following the example of United States and Germany.

West Leads.

"That method of production produces wealth, as shown by the larger works in manufacturing. The secretary of British Columbia states that mixed farming there has gone. The farmers are making more money by specializing in one line.

"There are specialists in every branch of life, law, medicine and all others, so it seems to me that we could make far more money by following those steps in our work.

"I am fully convinced we can get greater returns by concentration; turn your capital over two or three times a year, accumulate wealth more quickly, produce a better article at a far lower cost," he concluded.

H. B. Cowan, of Peterborough, gave a brief survey of the growth and the work of the Canadian Florists, introducing to the delegates several members of his staff.

S. Muston was announced the winner of the sweepstake competition in floral decoration for the conference and will be awarded the gold medal.

Express Appreciation.

That the florists and gardeners appreciated and enjoyed the hospitality that was extended to them during their stay in Peterborough is proven by the following resolutions that were passed at the closing session:

"Resolved, that cordial thanks of the Association be extended to the Peterborough committee, under the chairmanship of H. B. Cowan, for the fine arrangements made for the convention and entertainment of delegates.

"Resolved, that our sincere thanks be conveyed to the Mayor and the Council of the City of Peterborough for their co-operation and financial assistance and for their cordial welcome.

"Resolved, that the thanks of the Association be extended to Rev. David A. Wren for his gracious services during the convention.

"Resolved, that hearty thanks be extended to the Canadian florists for their hospitality at Buckhorn."

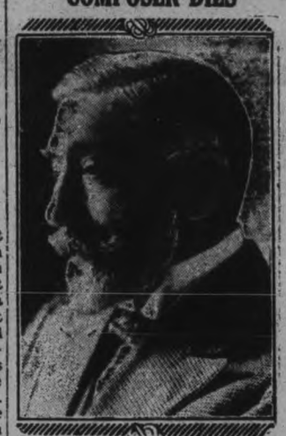
All the delegates were of the unanimous opinion that the conference in Peterborough was one of the best held to date and that any conference next year will have to take great strides to equal the one that just closed.

Montreal Next.

J. C. Armour, of Montreal, issued an invitation for the Association to hold their conference in that city next year which was heartily accepted and the date set was for the first Tuesday in August, 1930.

The closing scene of the successful convention was a drive around the city in the Peterborough busses and many of the florists and gardeners availed themselves of the pleasure.

COMPOSER DIES



Dr. Charles A. E. Harriss, one of Canada's leading composers, who died at his Ottawa home on Wednesday, at the age of 67 years.

SCOTTISH SAVANT TELLS BRITISH ASSOCIATION OF VALUE OF CHEMICAL WARNING.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, August 2—(By The Canadian Press)—At the meeting to-day of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, Professor George Barger, M.A., D.Sc, F.R.S., of Edinburgh, Scotland, President of the Department of Chemistry, delivered an address on the subject "The Relations of Organic Chemistry to Biology."

Professor Barger opened his address by dealing at length with the early difficulties of the chemical investigation of organic matter. Acids, he intimated were available only in comparatively recent times. Thus in 1770 only four acids were known in pure form and the number increased slowly. Among the names most worthy of remark in this regard were those of Lavoisier Scheele, Black, Berzelious and Gay-Lussac. The Professor went on to explain the gradual increase in the connection between chemistry and biology having origin in the fact that most physicians had a knowledge of the principle of chemistry and that many of the early investigators in biological chemistry were medical men.

Professor Barger said the most necessary advances were made in the study of the sugar substances, which study was basically connected with the study of organic life. He further remarked on the progress made on the different countries in biological science. Perhaps Germany and France until recent time were supreme in the field. The greatest influence for achievement in France was the Ecole de Pharmacie, where Peiletier and Caventou were professors. In recent times again Bourquelet, a professor at the Ecole, and Charles and Georges Tanret were notable French names in the subject.

DRESS REFORM FOR NEW YORK

Carolina Publisher Will Parade Streets and Visit Mayor in Pajamas.

ADVOCATES COMFORT.

NEW YORK, August 2. — W. O. Saunders, Elizabeth City, N. C., publisher a dnleader of a movement to emancipate men from the rigors of conventional clothing in hot weather, prepared to don a pair of pongee pajamas to-day and go down to the city hall to show Hon Jimmy Walker what's what in the way of snappy and comfortable attire for a sultry July afternoon.

If the mayor approves the garb or at least doesn't disapprove. Saunders will carry his campaign directly to the man in the street by venturing forth for a stroll on Broadway or Fifth avenue, he said.

The emancipator came to New York with the intention of dispensing with all formalities and simply walking out of his hotel in the pajamas. He had heard one could do all sorts of unconventional things in New York without being molested. But then he recalled that he had been arrested once even in his town before the mayor came to the support of his reform. He didn't want anything like that to happen in New York.

"You know, this New York trip started out as a lark," he said, "but now it seems more serious."

"Well, it would seem the only thing to do is to regard it as a lark all the way through," a reporter tried to reassure him.

"No, I am serious about this," the pajajma man rejoined. "Why should men go on wearing uncomfortable suits in summer, tight collars around their throats, belt around their waists, shirts with long tails tucked under their trousers? It's simply foolish.

WATCH THE POISONS.

When you swallow Carbolic Acid or Tincture of Iodine, by mistake, you at once become alarmed and say "Send for the doctor, I have been poisoned." For one person poisoned from these preparations, there are thousands of persons poisoned daily from faulty elimination of poisons produced by the body itself. When the kidneys or the liver are not working well, they fail to carry away these dangerous poisons and the result is that you wake up in the morning with a headache, a stiff back or stiff joints, caused by poisons that remain in the system. If you wish to correct this condition, procure a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will enable the kidneys to eliminate these poisons from your body and will make you feel fit and active for any kind of work.

Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills are for sale at Lynch's Drug Store, and if they fail to do what we claim for them, your money will be refunded. W.S-7673

Toronto Leafs Gain a Full Game on Rochester

LEVERENZ GIVES NINE PASSES TO ROYAL BATSMEN

NINE LEFT ON BASES.

Leafs Take An Early Two Run Lead—Gain Game On Rochester.

MONTREAL, Aug. 2. — Walter Leverenz issued passes to nine Royals in yesterday's game at the Stadium, but that was just four more than the number of hits the local heroes were able to collect off the Toronto left-hander, and the Leafs won the final game of the series 4 to 2 and gained an even break on the four-game visit.

Leverenz is probably one of the unluckiest hurlers in the International in respect to losing close games, but it was Herb. Thormahlen, Royal southpaw, that got all the tough breaks yesterday. Herb. outhurled the Leaf southpaw from start to finsh, but got only fair support afield and next to none at bat and the Leafs squeezed through to a tight victory.

The Leafs picked up their first run in the initial frame when a passed ball and Gautreau's error followed Stone's single to permit the left fielder to scamper home. Two Toronto singles before any was out in the second almost resulted in a score, but a squeeze play failed after both runners had been moved along by Ainsmith's sacrifice. Thormahlen fanned Leverenz and retired the side.

Then, in the third, along came the same Jonathan Stone, who had crossed the plate in the first inning, and jogged over the platter a second time when he propelled a home run over the scoreboard in right field. Two were down at the time and the bases were empty and the next Leaf did through an infield out.

Royals Tie Score in Fourth

The Royals wiped out the two-run advantage with a concerted assault on Leverenz in the fourth. Promiscuous passes to first mixed freely with base hits nearly ruined the Leaf southpaw in this frame. He walked Haines, the first man to face him, and, though Gulley forced the centre-field flash at second, Urbanski and Fowler, who followed, rapped out successive singles. But Leverenz got a break in this frame, for Urbanski failed to get out of the way of Fowler's drive and Gulley was forced to return to second after crossing the home plate before Rabbitt retrieved the ball. Gautreau then drew a walk to choke the bases and Daly delivered a single to centre that scored both Gulley and Urbanski. But the attack died there, for Thormahlen filed out to Shinners and the Royals failed miserably in the pinches in every inning after.

Nine Montrealers were left stranded on the sacks as opportunity was wasted in practically every frame. Except in the third and final frames, Leverenz had at least one man on base through his generosity, but managed to wiggle out of tight holes through feeble stick work on the part of the Royals and a tight fielding display by the Leafs. The Toronto contingent pulled but one double play, but their sparkling fielding prevented the Royals from getting many extra bases during the pastime.

PUNISH PETTY CRIME

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 2.—The stealing of a canary is pretty small, but to bribe a 13-year-old boy to do it is a larger crime. Frank Custer, 34, and father of eight children, was recently sentenced to three months by Judge T. J. S. Waxter after it had been found he had bribed the boy to steal the bird. He offered the youth a bicycle to steal for him.

BISONS WIN FINAL GAME

Take Three Out of Four From Rochester On Their Home Lot.

BEARS ARE BEATEN.

ROCHESTER, Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Buffalo made it three wins in four games with Rochester by taking the final tilt of the series here yesterday, 3 to 2.

The league-leading Red Wings played ragged ball, four errors contributing largely to the Bison victory.

Irvin hurled airtight ball, but uncorked a pair of wild throws that paved the way for Buffalo runs.

The defeat cut Rochester's lead to 6½ games, Toronto gaining a full game by whipping the Montreal Royals.

WINS TWO STRAIGHT

READING, Pa., Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Reading rallied for five runs in the eighth to take the second straight from Newark here yesterday, 7 to 2. The Keys have now won six straight.

The veteran Lee Meadows held Reading to four hits in seven innings, but blew up in the eighth.

Eddie Holley, Reading's hurling ace, was hit hard, but sensational support kept the Newark scoring down.

George Quellich hit his twenty-first home run of the season in the second inning with none on bases.

GEROWMEN ARE HERE TOMORROW TO MEET PETES

Doc Shea Likely to Get Pitching Assignment Against Locals.

A HOT ARGUMENT

Petes Out to Make It Three Straight Wins From Belleville.

Belleville Nationals who clash with the Petes in an all-important Central Ontario League battle at James Stevenson Park to-morrow will likely assign Dr. Jack Shea the task of taking the local talent into camp.

Shea beat the Petes the last time out and has won his first two starts but he is likely to find Manager Swanston's crew a different proposition to-morrow for the home squad has shown signs of hitting its right stride at last and the whole team is convinced that it is headed for the play-offs.

Just who will pitch for the Petes has not been announced. Ray Rose may be sent back at the Nationals or Al Heckman or Angie Macdonald may yet get the call. Whoevere is selected will be ready to battle the invaders with the assistance of a team that has only just begun to fight.

The two wins registered at the expense of Walter Gerow's men this week has put the Petes in the right mood to make a clean sweep of this week's series with Belleville.

In any case it will be a tussle from the first ball pitched and should attract a real crowd.

Win Fourth Game of Series From Brooklyn 5 to 2.

ST. LOUIS, August 2 (Canadian Press). — The Cardinals scored four runs in the first inning yesterday to win the fourth game of the series from Brooklyn, by a 5 to 2 count.

Roettger's double with the bases full and Gelbert's following single brought in the four first inning counters.

After that Johnny Morrison held the Cards scoreless except in the eighth inning ,then Jim Bottomley hit his 23rd home run of the season.

NEW YORK GIANTS BEAT CINCINNATI

Reds Lose Two Out of Three Game Series To Giants.

CINCINNATI, August 2 (Canadian Press).— The New York Giants made it two wins in three games with the Reds yesterday by bunching hits off Adolfo Luque in the third inning. The score was 6 to 1.

Ken. Ash, who relieved Luque, held the visitors to one hit for the last two innings.

Tony Kaufmann, who had been at bat 24 times without a hit, got his first blow of the season in the third inning rally.

JUMPS IN RIVER TO MISS TRIAL

Couldn't Face Charge of Possessihg Narcotics, So Committed Suicide.

$20,000 BAIL.

WINNIPEG, Man.. Aug. 2.—(By the Canadian Press.)—Rather than face a Narcotic Act charge in police court this morning, James Grant, 50 year old resident of Winnipeg, committed suicide in the Red river, opposite Elm park, last night.

Grant, one of four men arrested when Royal Canadian Mounted Police seized 30 ounces of heroin, valued at $15,000 a little more than a week ago, was out on $20,000 bail pending hearing of the charge.

Last night Grant jumped into the water and was drowned before would-be rescuers could get to him. His body was recovered, but for several hours remained unidentified.

DEPUTY MARSHALL KILLED IN PROHIBITION RAID

Son Wounded Also As Party Is Ambushed in Mountains.

HARLAN, Ky., August 2 (Canadian Press). — Adrian Metcalf, 56, United States Deputy-Marshal, was shot through the heart and killed, and his son, Roy Metcalf, 22, wounded in the face and chest when a prohibition raiding squad was ambushed in the mountains on Fourmile Creek in Harlan County late on Wednesday.

Willie Johnston, 21, who fired on the party with a repeating shotgun, was probably mortally wounded when two other sons of Metcalf fired into the thicket where he was hiding. One bullet struck him in the abdomen.

ATHLETICS BEAT DETROIT TIGERS

Lead Is Increased To Ten and Half Games For Philadelphia.

CLEVELAND WINS THREE.

PHILADELPHIA, August 2 (Canadian Press). — The pennant-bound Athletics increased their lead to 10½ games yesterday by beating the Detroit Tigers 7 to 4, while the Yankees were losing to Chicago.

The Athletics started out by giving George Earnshaw a good lead, but the big right-hander weakened in the sixth inning, and the Tigers tied the score with three successive walks and one hit.

Philadelphia regained the lead in the same inning on three hits and a Detroit error.

Max Bishop drove in four runs.

CLEVELAND TAKES THREE.

BOSTON, August 2 (Canadian Press). — Cleveland won the third contest of the four-game series with the Red Sox here yesterday 10-3, behind the effective pitching of Jimmy Zinn.

Hodapp, with a double and two singles, was the leader in the Indian drive against three Boston pitchers.

MANY REQUESTS FOR COTTAGES

Tourist Traffic is Heavier in District This Year, is General Belief.

STAYING LONGER

Tourist traffic in this district for July equalled, if it did not surpass, that of any other July in past years, according to T. H. Stinson managing secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. There was a noticeable increase over the traffic of last year due mainly to the slump experienced last year on account of the impending presidential elections.

Indications are that the tourists are increasing the length of their stays in the section. More requests for summer cottages have been received at the Chamber this year than any year to date. Many have rented cottages in the district who made short visits last year and were attracted to the locality again for a longer stay. The average duration of these cottagers is about three weeks.

Resulting from this new demand for cottages, there is somewhat of a shortage of cottages available for rental on the waters of the district, especially in the Kawartha Lakes section. A party arrived at the Chamber of Commerce from Akron, Ohio, a short time ago and had made no reservations for summer accommodation. In an endeavor to find a place suitable for them, more than fifteen calls were made to the various resorts of the district before a cottage was finally secured.

Hotel owners throughout the section report brisk business for the month as a whole. The trade somewhat slow for the first week but soon increased.

BRAVO SENOR

LONDON, Aug. 2.—English and American feminine beauties owe a vote of thanks to Senor Federico Beltram-Masses, Spanish portrait painter, who championed them in an address here recently. "I am absolutely against the movement which would make English women refrain from exhibiting their legs," he says. "I think they should show their knees. The American girls can also show their knees with impunity, for they are descended from the English and inherit their beauty."

GUY BUSH WINS GREAT BATTLE

Chicago Takes Fourth Game of Series From Boston.

PIRATES SCORE THREE.

CHICAGO, Ills., Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Guy Bush and Ben Cantwell hooked up in a great pitchers' battle yesterday, but Cantwell's wildness cost him the verdict and Chicago took the fourth game of the series from Boston, 1 to 0.

English scored the only run of the game in the first inning when Cantwell issued three bases on balls to force the Cub shortstop over the plate after he had doubled. Cantwell allowed only three hits and Bush was touched for five.

The victory was Bush's 15th of the year and his ninth in a row. He has been beaten only once this season.

PIRATES SCORE THREE.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—A triple by Comorosky with the bases filled and two out in the third inning, gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3 to 1 victory over Philadelphia here yesterday.

The Corsairs previously had lost three games in a row, two of them to the Phillies.

Jess Petty was in rare form and allowed but six hits. It was his first full game of the season at Forbes Field.

Sailing Is Good For Seven Innings

WASHINGTON, August 2 (Canadian Press). — Rip Collins, former Leaf, held Washington in the hollow of his hand until the seventh inning yesterday, but in that frame and the next the Senators broke loose to score 12 runs and win, 13 to 9.

St. Louis was leading 9 to 1 when the barrage started.

The victory gave Washington the series.

BANTAM PRACTICE.

Maple Leaf Bantam baseball team will practise on Friday night at James Stevenson Park at 6 o'clock. Players are requested to turn out in full force.

CANADIAN CHAMPION.

Four times in six years! Leo Diegel of Agua Caliente, Mexico, who again won the Canadian open golf championship at Montreal by compiling a 72-hole score of 274, the lowest total for four 18-hole rounds that has ever been achieved in the Dominion tourney. Tommy Armour, Detroit professional, with 277, was second.

NORTHERN CADDY ACHIEVES "ONER"

Nine Year Old North Bay Lad Drives Hole in One at 125 Yards.

TORONTO, Aug. 1. — (Special to The Examiner.)—Youth is certainly having its fling this summer insofar as the royal ancient game of golf is concerned.

While the "bugs" were still reading with amazement the other day of the exploits of a fourteen-year-old lad who was leading all-comers in the Manitoba amateur championships, came the news of a nine-year-old caddy at North Bay, Ontario, who achieved a "oner" on a 125-yard hole.

This prodigy of the North Bay Golf Club is Maurice Regimbal and he is believed to be the world's youngest golfer to ever accomplish the feat.

VARIED SPORTS FOR EXHIBITION

Practically Every Existing Sport Will be Staged at Greatest Exposition.

PLANE DEMONSTRATION

TORONTO, Aug. 2.—(C.P.)—Sport as a popular and necessary phase of Canada's national life, has been accorded a prominent place on the program of activities of the Canadian National Exhibition to be held here in August. The world's greatest annual exposition has arranged for its two million visitors a list of sports events ashore and afloat calculated to provide a wealth of thrills.

For the third year in succession the C. N. E. in conjunction with the Wrigley interests, will hold the famous $50,000 world championship swimming marathons. The course will again be laid out immediately in front of Exhibition Park, the women's event of 10 miles being held on Friday, Aug. 23, opening day, and the men's swim on Wednesday, Aug. 28, at a distance of 15 miles.

It has been stipulated that the water shall be at a temperature of 58 degrees or warmer at the hour set for the start. In the event of this condition not being met the big splash will be postponed to the following day. Natatorial stars from all over the world have already forwarded their entries.

Outboard Races

Outboard motor races, for which cash prizes of $8,000 have been provided, have attracted drivers of international fame and the spectacular little "sea fleas" will be a daily feature on the water front. Lake Ontario at this point is particularly suited to the purpose. Novelty events for these ubiquitous little flyers have also been arranged.

The Lake Yacht Racing Association will bring international competition to the Exhibition. Speed, graceful racing craft from many points on Lake Ontario and Erie in Canada and the United States will compete.

Harness racing enthusiasts will see their favorite sport at its best. Included in the program are $5,000 futurities.

Track Events

Track athletes of both sexes who represented their countries at the Olympic games in Amsterdam last year will be seen in the Canadian National Exhibition trackand field meet which antedates even the Canadian championships. The stars of Europe and America have been seen in former years at this gathering of spiked shoe exponents and the sport's luminaries will again be in competition. Bicyle racing, having emerged from its lethargy of the past few years, will again be a prominent feature.

Aviation is being stressed for this "Empire Year Celebration" and plans are being laid for some racing events. Approximately 200 aircraft of various classes and designs will attend the Exhibition. An international carnival of the clouds is one of the features of the aviation meet.

A GREAT FINISH.

Crossing the line almost neck and neck! A stirring finish in the running of the Great Foal Plate at Linsfield, England, recently. Lord Glanely's Sky Queen, ridden by Jockey G. Richards, barely edged out Medway in the feature race of the meet.

WHAT A REVOLUTION IT PROVED TO BE!

JULY 19 1924

"No ordinary standards of speed, power, and ease of riding, operating and upkeep cost, can be applied to the Chrysler. + + This car compels so complete a revolution in all previous ideas of motor car performance, and value, that you can comprehend its sensational results only through personal experience. + + True, it is built on fundamental engineering principles. But in the Chrysler these principles have been made to yield results heretofore unknown."

A BILLION-DOLLAR VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

The public has invested in Chrysler motor cars the staggering total of one billion, thirteen million, five hundred and forty-six thousand dollars—$1,013,546,000—in five years' time.

This amazing demand for Chrysler has been inseparably associated with public appreciation of the speed, power, beauty and long life of Chrysler cars.

Chrysler superiority has lifted Chrysler over the heads of long-established cars to its present lofty place in the industry.

The public appreciates the significance of Chrysler's unique engineering and manufacturing principle of Standardized Quality. It realizes that Chrysler's achievements in performance, in smartness, in comfort, in safety, in stamina, in long life, in quality and in value are possible only by virtue of that principle. That is why Chrysler has been awarded such unprecedented public preference.

Today, as five years ago, you can comprehend Chrysler's sensational results only through personal experience. We invite you to submit any Chrysler—"65" or "75"—to a demonstration.

CHRYSLER "75"—$1985 to $3050—Eight Body Styles. CHRYSLER "65"—$1325 to $1460—Six Body Styles. All prices f. o. b. Windsor, Ontario, including standard factory equipment (freight and taxes extra)

GROCERS TRIM ELECTRIC SQUAD BY LARGE SCORE

Poor Exhibition of Softball Is Given By Two Teams.

PLENTY OF HITTING.

Winners Pound Old Ball All Over Lot—Pitchers Wild.

In one of the poorest exhibitions of softball of the season, the Harrisons ran up a score of 25-8 against the C.G.E. squad at Central School grounds last evening. Countless errors and a very weak battery on the part of the Electric boys made possible the defeat received at the hands of Harrisons'. The contest was exceedingly listless and was marked by its unusual dullness.

Both Powell and Calladine on the mound for C.G.E. as well as Dundas hurling for the victors turned in poor games allowing numerous hits. Powell was removed from the C.G.E. box and replaced by Calladine in the sixth. The three moundsmen depended on the support of the teams for their effectiveness and in the case of the Electrics the support was unavailable.

The hitting of the Grocers was very heavy throughout and the C. G.E. field was unable to take care of the long clouts. Innumerable errors, most of which the victors cashed in on, were made throughout the fixture by the vanquished boys from the big plant.

At the opening of the wild contest, the C.G.E. boys took the lead, each of the first four men at the bat making hits and completing the circuit shortly after. Dundas allowed two further hits in the second from before the side was finally retired. At the same time the Harrisons managed only two counters in the first. In the second stanza the electric men were downed on the first four pitched balls. The work of the Harrison outfield in this inning was one of the few bright spots of the game.

In the second frame the Grocers went on the rampage and scored five runs, getting three walks and three hits off Powell. The rest of the runs for the Harrisons were many as eight hits were made in scattered throughout the fixture. As many as eight hits were made in one of the innings.

When the C. G. E. line-up was at the bat the game took on a snappier aspect nevertheless the work of Harrisons was far from good in the field.

Home runs were made in the game by Weir in the sixth and Green in the seventh. The seventh also saw a smart double play by the Harrisons; Dorrington to Smith.

The score by innings:

Harrisons	252 164 320—25
C. G. E.	401 003 000— 8

The teams:—

Harrisons—Dorrington, 3b; Dundas, p; Green, 2b; E. Vinette, l.f.; Dobson, c; Smith, 1b; Clark, r.f.; H. Vinette, s.s.; Montgomery, c.f.

C. G. E.—Weir, 1b.; Calladine, 2b; Newson, 3m.; Playford, s.s.; Ashmore, c.; Hedger, r.f.; Miller, l.f.; Wilson, c.f.; Powell, p.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE IDLE RICH."

An interesting study in psychology is afforded in this peppy production. A multi-millionaire marries his stenographer and then he finds himself up in arms in conflict with the "great middle class." The family, instead of taking advantage of his wealth, retire to the proud pinnacle of independence and assert their right to refuse "charity" and live their own lives. Even his bride is bitten by the same idea and brings him to live in the hot, crowded flat with the rest of the family. Complications ensue which are decidedly disagreeable for all concerned, but the picture swings on to a triumphant climax. Its chief interest lies in the manner in which the highly-educated, rich man works on the feelings of the people who are warring against him and finally brings them around to his way of thinking. He has the brains and the patience to outplay them and the result is quite satisfactory to him.

It is a picture mainly of domestic life, with a dash of romance thrown in and the emphasis on the class conflict between the rich man whose intentions are of the best and the members of the "great Middle class," who are determined to accept no favors from the plutocracy. There is a brief and very snappy fight episode in the picture which proves the millionaire's ability to use brawn as well as brains. With a straight left to the solar plexus, he doubles up the huge truck driver who has assailed him, and leaves his victim gasping for breath. But the main interest lies in the battle of wits.

Conrad Nagel in a speaking role, is exceptionally good, and so is Leila Hyams, playing opposite to him, while Bessie Lowe, as the little sister, Helen Thayer, is a whirlwind in action. The two main roles are those of William Van Luyn and Joan Thayer, his stenographer, who marries her employer. Frank Over has an outstanding bit as Henry Thayer, Joan's cousin, who has sizzling ideas about the rights of the "great middle class," or the "White Collar" brigade which inspired the the story from which the picture is played.

One of the decidedly clever comedies which the talkies have brought to the screen and which rely on the conversation, rather than custard-pie action, to arouse constant laughs, is presented in "Jed's Vacation," in which Charlie Grapewin and Anna Chance star, both known to the stage as comedians of a super type. Jed and Mabel, his wife, have a rapid-fire line of gab, and get plenty of laughs.

The little news reels which introduce the program are always interesting. Their scope is extraordinary. In this last showing, for instance, one gets a glimpse of the monstrous celebration at Turin when the Pope commemorates the return of temporal power a racing automobile burns up the sands of the African desert at more than 241 miles an hour; "Hell and Maria" Dawes, with his underslung pipe, comes to London as American Ambassador to the Court of St. James; a dinosaur has its toes cleaned at a Philadelphia Museum and the "goblin parade" of the floating pieces from a glacier starts on a long journey south, from Juneau, Alaska.—Jeanette.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

DIET AND CRIME.

A scientist declares that right eating will diminish crime.
When Mike the gunman comes at night
To take you cash and watch
And state an avid appetite
Upon your hoarded Scotch,
Be nonchalant and unconcerned;
Men kill and rob and cheat
Because in youth they never learned
The proper way to eat.

If in their boyhood they had gone
To first class modern schools
Where they were daily made to con
The dietary rules,
And taught to eat the sort of stuff
That builds a conscience, then
They might have been, not rude and rough,
But kindly gentlemen.

If when your baggage you declare
You now and then are lax
And sometimes quibble when you swear
About your income tax,
If any time upon you mind
Dishonest thoughts intrude,
The chances are you ought to find
Some better form of food.

However, when big gangsters grow
In power and in wealth
And keep French chefs who really know
What foods produce good health,
Not one among the throng behaves
As would an honest man,
But all continue crooks and knaves;
Explain that, if you can.

SMART EXHIBITION GAME FOR HOLIDAY.

The Moose juvenile team and the Kiwanis juniors, both city champions in their respective groups, will hook up in an exhibition game at James Stevenson Park, Monday afternoon at three o'clock. The Moose have many ardent supporters who are not loathe to state that their team can defeat the Junior team. Both are smart clever outfits and the game should be well worth a visit across the bridge.

PITCHERS SPARSE IN SOFT BALL.

There is a vast difference between softball as it is played here and in Toronto. Pitchers take the major part in the games in the Queen City, and they are all speed ball artists hanging up an average of fifteen or more strikeouts per game. Here the pitching is weak and the work naturally developes to the fielders. The teams handle the ball snappier and the games are more interesting for the spectators because of the freer hitting.

There never has been a real softball twirler developed here. Some of the hurlers who turned in brilliant performances in past years in local softball circles are: Benny McLean, developed in Toronto; "Hap" Harrison, trained in Toronto; and "Rube" Waddell, who hailed from Hamilton.

Also it is doubtful if any of the teams playing now could approach the Belmont Club and Lockworks' nines of four and five years ago.

WRIGHT AND GUEST COMPETE FOR AMERICAN HONORS.

Canada's contingent of oarsmen will make a strong bid for a place in the U.S. National rowing championships to-day and to-morrow. The races will be rowed on the Connecticut River near Springfield, Mass. Rowing in lanes around a hooked course is an innovation that will likely hamper the Canadian oarsmen, who are new to this procedure.

Jack Guest and Joe Wright will both race in the singles. Guest will have to conquer the feared Bill Miller of Penn Barge, J. J. Shea of Boston and several other crack American scullers, to-day, while Joe Wright will go right into the finals on Saturday afternoon.

The Argonaut senior eight and four, the Don's light weight four, the Winnipeg doubles of Armour McKay and Robert Richards, and the scullers, Johnny Durnan and Elswood Boles, are also participating in this great competition.

RUTH SETS NEW FUNGO RECORD.

Babe Ruth is the new long-distance fungo hitter. The home-run king broke the former record, made by big Ed Walsh, one time White Sox pitcher, in 1912, by driving a ball a distance of 447 feet, with a fungo before Wednesday's game against the White Sox. Walsh's record was 412 feet.

ATHLETICS AND CUBS FAVORED BY BETTING COMMISSIONERS

Odds quoted yesterday on the major league pennant races made the Philadelphia Athletics 1-to-3 favorites to win the American league pennant, and the Chicago Cubs 7-to-5 favorites to capture the National League flag.

Despite the New York Yankees' current seven-game winning streak, betting commissioners concede the pennant to the Athletics, and are quoting 3-to-1 against the world champions. Even choices with the Cubs a few days ago, the Pittsburg Pirates are now 2-to-1, with the odds likely to lengthen still more unless Donie Bush's club comes out of the slump soon.

SHORTY HORNE DIES IN NORTH

Star Right Winger of Maple Leaf Team Loses His Life While Prospecting.

CANOE IS SWAMPED.

GOGAMA, Ont., Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—"Shorty" Horne, star right winger of the Toronto Maple Leaf National Hockey League team, was drowned yesterday while on a prospecting trip north of here. The body has not yet been recovered.

With three companions from Sudbury, Horne was thrown into the water when their canoe was swamped by a wave and although he was the best swimmer in the party, he suddnly vanished from view. Two boyhood friends, Jake Jessop and Jack Stafford, Sudbury and another prospector by the name of Perdu were with him at the time.

Born in Sudbury, George, "Shorty" Horne broke into the hockey limelight with the Sudbury Cub juniors of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, before he turned professional with the North Bay trappers and Gromsby intermediates. He signed with the Montreal Maroons in 1926. Illness handicapped his work there and he was sent to Stratford in the Canadian Professional Hockey League.

His showing with Stratford led to Horne's being signed up by the Toronto Maple Leafs last season with whom he became popular immediately. He had spent the summer training at his fire rangers' camp near Burwash Industrial Farm.

Horne was 25 years of age and is survived by three sisters and three brothers.

POINCARE PROGRESSES.

PAIRS, Aug. 2.—(C.P.) — Former Premier Poincare is making good progress after his operation for a malady of the pelvic region and today was entirely free from fever.

The doctors bulletin said:

"Temperature 98.6, pulse 76. Condition after operation normal. The President had an excellent night.

BRIEF AND TO THE POINT

When the recent performances of Kid Chocolate and Jackie Johnson came to a rather abrupt finish the sport fans felt that they had had a fast one put over on them. But Jackie was the only one to be at the receiving end of a fast one, and he knew all about it. He was disposed of in the smart time of two minutes and 47 seconds.

When the sensational Frenchy Belanger was on his rapid rise to fame he met and K.O.'d Louis Passavineau in two minutes and ten seconds.

The best record for brief headliners, however, must go to Soldier Jones, who met Joe Burk of Detroit and gave him the count in the short time of 32 seconds, from when they were given instructions until Burke was spread out on the canvas.

The bidding of this deal is such as to disclose an obvious cross-ruff to the West player on the strength of which, at Contract, he carries his original bid to a game declaration after a take-out and subsequent assist from his partner.

West holds, in addition to seven Diamonds, five Hearts, the suit bid by North and assisted by South. East, therefore, is clearly marked as being void of Hearts and as West, in turn, is void of Spades. West can count upon an almost complete cross-ruff of the two hands.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South bids originally one Club. While he has a No Trump distribution, he does not hold three of the four suits stopped and the Club call is therefore preferable.

West bids one Diamond, there being no occasion for a pre-emptive bid in view of the fact that opponents have already indicated a suit and further that with West's particular holding he can show his strength and length in Diamonds on a subsequent round of bidding just as well as showing it at once.

North, with a two suited hand and only three small cards of his partner's suit, overcalls the Diamond bid with the stronger of his two suits (Hearts) rather than with the higher ranking (Spades).

East bids one Spade, seeking a better game going declaration despite holding three Diamonds to the Queen.

On the second round, South assists his partner's Hearts, West rebids Diamonds, North rebids Hearts (following his partner's assist) and East, his Spades denied, assists West's rebid by going to four Diamonds which becomes the final declaration.

Contract: The bidding at Contract is identical with that of Auction with the exception that West, following partner's assist to four Diamonds, bids five odd for game, figuring as stated above that a cross-ruff of Hearts and Spades is marked in the combined hands and that this may produce the necessary number of tricks for game.

The Play

North leads initially the King of Hearts. Dummy goes down disclosing no Hearts and Declarer uses the Diamond Two in Dummy for the first ruff of the hand. He next lays down the Ace of Spades, discarding thereon the Club Four from his own hand.

Declarer now starts the cross ruff, trumping alternately three rounds of Spades and two rounds of Hearts. Thereafter he lays down his four high Diamond honors, giving up two Heart tricks at the end. He thus makes the Ace of Spades, three Spade ruffs, three Heart ruffs and four high trumps, or eleven tricks in all.

DUTY CUT ON CANADIAN FISH

Rates On Frozen, Filleted, Skinned, Dried, Fish All Cut in Two From 21.2.

SALMON RATE SAME.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 2.—(By Kenneth S. Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Action of the Senate Finance Committee Wednesday in reducing slightly proposed duties on some fish were seen in certain quarters as concessions to Canada Fisheries. In general the committee maintained the rates in the Hawley Bill.

The rate of 2 cents per pound on halibut, salmon, mackerel and sword fish was unchanged, but the rate of one cent on "other fish" was reduced fifty per cent. The rate of 21.2 cents on fresh or frozen fish, filleted, skinned, boned, sliced or divided into sections, and the similar rate on dried and unsalted cod, haddock, hake, pollock and usk, was cut in half. Clams and clam-juice listed in the Hawley Bill as dutiable at 35 per cent. would be listed at 20 per cent by action of the committee.

The complete opening of a rice flower has been known to take place in 30 seconds. The bloom lasts from two to three hours.

STYLES WILL WANE.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Present women fashions will wane and in their places will come more conservative clothes, is the opinion of Sheief Seif bin Suleiman, of the royal line of Muscat, Oman and Zanzibar. "If women are to be equal in the world of affairs with men, I understand that they need dress to give them freedom and little trouble," he says. "But the present fashions will not last," he adds.

Exhibits from France, Cuba, Bermuda, Mexico, India, South America and United States will be prominent at this year's Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto.

The Canadian National Exhibition waterfront is 1 1-2 miles long.

FIND "MISSING LINK."

PEKING, Aug. 2.— Limestone deposits 35 miles from this city have given up what scientists believe to be the "missing link" connecting the present and the past. About 20 teeth and parts of the "Peking Man," thought to be present man's ancestor have been excavated in this limestone deposit. The fossils are in the museum of the China Survey here.

China has an area of 4,000,000 square miles and only 80,000 automobiles.

NO SCARCITY OF FISH IN LAKES CLAIMS NEW YORK CITY ANGLER

Game Fish Have Had Plenty To Eat, Says Capt. Lausier.

BAIT IS BIG PROBLEM.

Captain E. B. Lausier of New York City, an ardent and expert fisherman, in an interview on the subject of this sport, has shed a new light on the question of whether or not the Kawartha Lakes have been fished out. While Captain Lausier admits that the waters have not nearly as many fish now as in earlier days before the district was so thickly populated in summer, he expresses his belief that most anglers have wrongly jumped at the conclusion that Stoney Lake has been fished out in the past few years.

The poor luck that fishermen have been having, he claims, is due not to a lack of fish but to an unwillingness of the fish to take the bait offered. The situation in the matter of availability of feed for fish in Stoney Lake is different from in other lakes, he says. It must be remembered that due to the large number of islands in the lake a great deal of food is washed into the water off the islands after every rain storm. The bass and maskinonge thus get a good supply of insects, grubs and worms to feed on. With plenty of food to be had, already in the waters, the fish are not attracted by bait.

However, this season they seem to be well fed and at the same time willing to take bait. The bass and maskinonge that are being caught all all plump fish and yet they are biting well. Investigations of the contents of their stomachs that they have taken a preference for crawfish in the last couple of weeks but are still fond of minnows. Captain Lausier states also that the fish are free of sores this year.

Fishes All Over Continent

Captain Lausier spends a considerable part of each year in his search for the game fish. He has fished in the waters off California for the fighting tuna and has experienced the thrill of struggling with the tarpons of Florida waters. For many years he has visited the Kawartha Lakes for several months of each year.

"Of all game fish," he states, "the small mouth black bass is the gamiest. No other fish provides the genuine sport that a black bass does. It is also one of the most wary of fishes and therein lies the element of sport for the angler.

"I have seen a bass in the water swim right by a live minnow and ignore it when it is already fed. But if you wait for a few minutes the bass will return and often, angered by the sight of the minnow still swimming about unmolested, will attack.

"A bass under any circumstances when it attacks a minnow approaches from behind and seizes the minnow about half way up its body and kills it by crushing. Then he ejects it from his mouth and turns it around to swallow it head first in order that the gills and fins of the minnow will not stick in its throat. Even at this point the black bass is very canny about swallowing its prey, holding it in its mouth for some time.

Fishing Facts

Captain Lausier went on to show from these facts how an angler must manipulate his line and rod to overcome the wariness of the fish. When the fish is first felt attacking the minnow, he explained, the fisherman must allow him plenty of opportunity to kill it and then get it into his mouth. After the line starts moving through the water, showing that the bass has the bait in his mouth, it is time to jerk the line sightly and set the hook. Then the fish must be allowed plenty of line in order that it may tire itself out and yet at the same time the line must never be slack. Not until it is tired out should attempts be made to haul it in.

In arranging the crawfish on the hook when it is being used as bait for bass, the method which the bass attacks must again be considered, Captain Lausier stated. A bass approaches a crawfish also from behind and first bites off its claws. Thus the angler must arrange his hook so that the fish will be caught while doing this. The bass observes the same wariness with the craw-fish as with the minnow.

The maskinonge is not the wary fish that the small-mouth black bass is in the matter of attraction to bait. It is more of a bull fish and rushes at anything that it considers worth eating. However, once it is hooked it displays all the brains and cunningness of the bass. It knows and will try a great assortment of tricks to get rid of the bait and hooks. Such fish as the pickerel that do not display this cunningness and activity when hooked are not classed as game fish.

CENTRE OF FIRE MENACE

The map here shows areas of Northern Ontario where forest fires are raging at present and where rain is badly needed to check their progress. Thunder Bay district is said to be dotted with blazing areas to which high winds have added a greater hazard.

THAT'S TOO BAD

CLEVELAND, Aug. 2.—Miss Helen Filbin, 22, is a business woman, but she don't know her directions so well. She had a stand on the west side of Ridge Road, the city limits of Cleveland, where she was selling fireworks. Their sale in Cleveland is illegal. On driving from her home to her stand, however, she had to travel on the east side of the road, within the city limits. Police caught her with $300 worth of fireworks.

Alaska is now exporting 500,000 pounds of shrimps annually, valued at about $200,000.

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

THREE NEW MAIL TRUCKS.

Painted flame-red color, the three new trucks of the Post Office Department, are a necessary part of the city's mail delivery and collection. The familiar inscription, "G. R. Royal Mail, Canada," with the Royal coat of arms, is a novel sight on the city streets, as one distributes express parcels, and the other two will be used for collections from the boxes, one in the northern section, the other in the southern section of the city.

GRAIN SHIPMENTS LIGHT.

At this time of the year grain shipments are lightest. The visible crop being held until the grain exchange shakes itself and waits until the 1929 crop is ready. The shipments of structural, building and general merchandise material is quite heavy for this time of the year.

NEARING COMPLETION.

The paving of the streets in the west end of the city is rapidly being completed and the final layer of asphalt is being put on the streets. Monaghan road, Gilmour street, Walton street and part of Homewood avenue are finished.

FENCES REPAINTED.

The fences around the Convent and St. Peter's Cathedral are being repainted, and this lends the finishing touch to the park-like appearance of the well kept grounds and flower beds that surround this church.

THIS IS WRONG.

Mrs. Wm. .....
Hotel Olympic.

This was addressed on an important letter that came to the Peterborough Post Office, from a local collection box this morning and was stamped with a five cent air mail stamp. Letters of this nature are quite frequently received at the local centre, both with air and ordinary stamps on them, and if the return address of the sender is on the outside of the wrapper the P. O. officials can communicate with the sender and the work completed. There was no return address on this letter and where Hotel Olympic is, is a question, so this evidently important communication will be delayed until further particulars are found out about it.

CONDITIONS ARE AVERAGE.

Labor conditions in Peterborough are very satisfactory and the number of applicants is about forty which is the average for this time of the year. The number of employers who are seeking any help are very small, the greatest number being among the farmers who are wanting extra help with the crops that are maturing at this season.

It is stated that the better class of men are employed and that the drifter is always present seeking a job which he never seems to find. There is a little spell of unemployment among the carpenters of the city. This class is effected by the ups and downs of the trade and various other causes which seem to be active at present.

The list is composed mostly of out-of-town positions and there are wanted, auto mechanics, a furniture trimmer, furniture finishers, cabinet makers, textile color designers, stone masons, cleaners and pressers, domestics and farm help.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

It pays to advertise in The Examiner. This was proven recently when a wheel which disappeared from a west end residence for over a month and which was recovered the next day after it was advertised for in the paper. The police had been notified and after a month they did not find any trace of it but the next morning after the ad was inserted in The Examiner a man telephoned that he recovered the bicycle under the bridge at the corner of Downey and Smith streets.

SPEEDY RESCUE

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, of Murray Street Baptist Church effected a speedy rescue while the guest of A. Zavitz at the latter's summer home at Bala.

Mr. Sutcliffe heard screams coming from the lake and on running down to shore saw a young lady struggling in the water. Without hesitation he plunged into the water and although only a fair swimmer himself he quickly reached the spot where the girl was going down for the last time and brought her quickly to shore, in safety.

MOVING A HOUSE

A house 20 x 28 feet and 25 feet in height is being moved from the corner of Townsend and Rubidge streets to Braund square, one block south, a distance of about 400 feet. The new siding laid for the Canadian General Electric, necessitated the removal of this structure to some point out of the way. The moving is being done by V. A. Hufman, moving contractor of Port Hope, and he started the actual travelling down the street yesterday after noon and expects to have the job completed by to-morrow.

The height of the house makes necessary the removal of seven pairs of electric light wires and one street light. The wires are merely deatched until the house is moved under them and then they are atached again and the residents suffer no inconvenience from darkness during the night.

A winch and a horse supply the motive power for the moving.

he method of recruiting for the C. E.F. resulted in men from the same area serving in many different units and it has been almost impossible to arrange re-unions of old overseas pals.

The Ex-Service Men's picnic, including it does, seven counties or parts thereof, offers an opportunity of a get-together such as has not been had in the ten years since the war. How do you suppose your old side kicks look now after ten years? How are they standing the years? Also they want to see you; so don't disappoint them. Come to the picnic and meet them again, and see and hear for yourself.

WEDDING BELLS

MEIN—WALKER.

The marriage was solemnized yesterday very quietly (owing to bereavement in the family of the bridegroom), of Marie Quaenie Elizabeth Marion Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Walker of Dalhousie street, and Donald George Foster Mein of Stewart street. The ceremony was performed at All Saints' church by the Rector, the Rev. J. D. Paterson.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of white georgette, with pink hat, white kid slippers and white silk hose. She carried a bouquet of sweet roses and love-in-a-mist.

The bridesmaid, Miss Rachel Walker, wore blue silk crepe, with white hat, shoes and hose, and carried a bouquet of roses

Mr. Keith Mein acted as best man.

Mr. Mein and his bride left later by motor for a honeymoon trip, after which they will live at 262 Dalhousie street. They received many useful and beautiful gifts.

Of the German war vessels sunk in Scapa Flow during the World War, 25 destroyers and 3 battleships have been raised.

WHO SAID CIGARETS?

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Dr. Friedrich Bosser, German specialist, will never make his fortune signing his okeh on a certain brand of cigarets. He says to eat more chocolate to grow thin and healthier. He claims, it is said, that chocolate effects a permanent cure of weak hearts, neurasthenia, neuralgia and nerves.

CANNON CLOCK

CLEVELAND, Aug. 2.—An odd clock that is displayed in a local jewelery store here is novel enough, but it would be inconvenient to be caught with it when the sun wasn't shining. It consists of a toy cannon with a burning lens mounted so as to strike the powder. When the sun crosses the line at noon, it ignites the powder and the cannon booms, depoting lunch time.

DAY OF HOPE FOR MEDIATION FINDS 13,000 MORE ON STRIKE IN LANCASHIRE COTTON AREA

Mayors of Ten Boroughs Initiate Effort To Re-establish 500,000 Workers.

NEW SECTIONS WALK OUT.

Additions To Ranks of Idle Indicate Difficulty of Winning Peace.

MANCHESTER, Eng., Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—A new move toward mediation in the great Lancashire cotton industry stoppage affecting more than half a million workers was initiated to-day by mayors of the ten principal Lancashire boroughs following conversations at Blackburn.

The Mayor of Blackburn is to-day establishing contact with all parties to the trouble and should mediation prove acceptable plans wil be continued.

The Blackburn official in an interview expresed hope that this preliminary step might lead to sucessful efforts to settle the dispute.

The first week of the cotton industry stoppage however will end to-day with indications that additional numbers will be added to the idle rather than an early peace obtained.

A further 13,000 will be added to the unemployed to-day when operatives in the cotton waste, spinner and other sections remain away rather than accept the wage reductions called for in notices effective at that time.

To Execute Six Men Who Attacked Girls

LONDON, August 3 (Canadian Press).—A Reuter's News Agency message from Moscow states six inmates of the underground monastery have been sentenced to death after trial for attacking young girls and murdering a monk who exposed them. Several other monks were sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from one to eight years. The action was taken by the Regional Court at Samara.

HYDRO PROMISE IS OLD STORY IN NEW DRESS

Hon. J. R. Cooke Tells Belleville Audience About Division of $15,000,000.

ALWAYS KNOWN HERE.

Gain To Municipalities Is Contingent Upon Theire Buying Distribution Systems.

The statement made in Belleville last night by the Hon. J. R. Cook, provincial government member of the Hydro-electric Commission, to the effect that fifteen million dollars in physical assets and reserves would be apportioned among the municipalities of the Central Ontario system, when all the municipalities have bought their local distribution systems, is prominently displayed in to-day's papers, but it is simply an old story dressed up in an attractive style.

The government, through the Hydro-electric Commission has repeatedly promised the Central Ontario towns and cities that the Central Ontario system will become their property when they have placed themselves on the same basis or relationship with the Hydro-Commission as Peterborough, Lindsay, Oshawa and other cities have done.

In other words these municipalities will own the system when they have eventually paid for it.

System Cost $15,000,000.

The average Peterborough citizen who is interested in the Central Ontario power system, and its ultimate acquisition, has often been told that the government bought the system for $8,300,000, and that extensions and improvement which have been made by the commission as agents or managers for the government, have increased the government's investment to approximately $15,000,000.

This money was raised by the sale of government bonds which are be-

BUFFALO BOY HAS BIG LEAD; YOUNG QUITS AT END OF MILE; MARTHA NORELIUS FIRST GIRL

American Invaders Clean Up All the Money in the Big Swimming Race—Two Pritchard Brothers Capture First and Second, With Lyle Hubbard Third.

VIERKOTTER FAILS TO MAKE AN APPEARANCE MARTHA NORELIUS, OF NEW YORK, FINISHES FOURTH

Thirty-eight Entrants Answered the Starting Gun of Elwood Hughes—Spectators Disappointed in Performance of George Young—Time 1 Hour 18 Minutes

CAMPBELLFORD, August 3.—American invaders cleaned up all the money in the three-mile swimming race, which was the high light of Old Home Week's enterprising program, and to add a sting to it two brothers, Frank and Stanley Pritchard, of Buffalo, grabbed the long end of the prize money by finishing in first and second places respectively, while George Young quit at the end of the first mile. It was announced that he had hurt a foot in the take-off plunge from the starting boom.

Lyle S. Hubbard, of Toledo, was third, and Martha Norelius, of New York, in her first professional effort, was fourth, and Byron Summers, of San Francisco, fifth, and no one paid much attention to the order in which the others who were outside the money finished, or whether they actually did finish.

Young a Disappointment.

The crowd was disappointed by the absence of Ernst Vierkoetter, the German swimmer, who is now living in Toronto. Renewal of the natatorial feud between him and George Young was expected to be the feature of the race, bu. while Central Ontario's thousands, at least seven or eight of them along the river up in front of the Exhibition Grounds, focussed their interest and calculations on these famous Wrigley Marathon winners, the talent from Toronto predicted that Frank Pritchard would kick his heels at the field, and that Lyle Hubbard would not be far behind him.

RAIN DOWNPOUR SOAKS FORESTS DROWNS FIRES

Menace Definitely Checked in Sections of Ontario and Manitoba.

ALBERTA UNRELIEVED.

Port Arthur and Fort William Report Four and a Half Hours' Rain.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 3. —(Canadian Press). — Forest fires in north-western Ontario and eastern Manitoba are believed to be definitely checked this morning after a night of steady rain which spread over the entire flame-stricken area. While reports from Kenora district were meagre. Weather officials declared that a rainfall lasting 10 hours and continuing to-day was experienced from head of the lake to many miles east covering the whole forest fire district.

Port Arthur and Fort William reported snowfalls that lasted four and one-half hours, last night. The fire menace was completely obliterated in that vicinity. If the steady downpour in other sections did not altogether stamp out the fires, it was believed they would certainly be well under control of the fire rangers and volunteer forces, who for days had fought to keep them checked.

Cool in Northern Ontario.

Weather in north-western Ontario will clear up this afternoon but the heat wave has passed and bill be replaced by decidedly cool temperatures.

Thunder showers in southern Alberta last night were of great benefit to crops but did not extend enough northward to be of any use in drowning the worst forest fires Alberta has suffered in years.

The situation in that Province is considered very critical even with hundreds of fire fighters working day and night. Rain is badly needede there.

Farmers' Prayers Bring Rain To Parched Crops

CHICAGO, Ills., Aug. 3. —(A. P.)— The farmer's prayers for rain were answered yesterday with torrents which brought relief to parched crops in most sections of the middle west.

'ALL IS WELL' REPORTS GRAF NEARING U. S.

Zeppelin Expects To Reach Lakehurst Sometime Sunday Afternoon.

PICKS UP SPEED.

Several Steamers and Land Stations Receive Radio Reports From Airship.

The trans-atlantic air liner Graf Zeppelin, two and a half days out, was far over the western atlantic to-day making steady progress toward Lakehurst, N. J., on her second voyage to the United States.

Radio advices indicated that Dr. Hugo Eckener, the ship's commander, expected to reach Lakehurst Sunday afternoon.

The ship, which had been averaging 45 miles an hour during the night, had picked up speed considerably, and was averaging 70 miles an hour this morning.

She was on a course that would carry her north of Bermuda on a bee line from Gibraltar, with the possibility that she would make her American landfall in the neighborhood of Norfolk, Va., and would then swing northward as she did on her last trip.

During the day, the Zeppelin began to get in touch with United States stations more frequently. She was first in direct communication with naval communications at Washington, last night, and to-day was picked up at Chatham, Mass., and Philadelphia.

All reports from the ship indicated that the eighteen passengers were enjoying the trip.

Reports All Well.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 3. —(Canadian Press. — The naval radio station at Bar Harbor, Me., to-day informed the Navy Yard that a message from the S. S. Scythia at sea indicated that all was well aboard the Graf Zeppelin.

The Scythia's message was "heard Graf Zeppelin working last night and early this morning. His position is latitude 36.20 north and longtitude 37.20 west. All well."

THIRD PARLEY STRIKES SNAG

Chino-Russian Discussion Fails To Agree On Basis of Conference.

MORE CHINESE RAIDS.

TOKYO, Aug. 3. —(Canadian Press). — The third parley between Chinese and Soviet representatives took place Friday night at Manchuli, Manchuria. B. N. Melnikov, Soviet Consul General at Harbin, crossed the international border to confer with Tsai Yun-Sheng, Commissioner for Foreign Affairs at Barbin.

They met aboard a train, heavily guarded by Chinese troops. It was understood that besides withdrawal of troops the two virtually agreed upon resumption of International Railway Traffic between the Trans-Siberian Railway and the Chinese Eastern.

The chief disagreement was said to be upon the question of restoration of the status quo before seizure of the Chinese Eastern as a preliminary condition to formal conference.

Chinese Continue Raids.

MOSCOW, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press). — Bands of Chinese soldiers continued to make small raids near Pogranichnaya and had seized carts, horses and other property.

It was also reported the Chinese authorities of the Chinese Eastern Railway had dismissed forty more Russian employees.

Railways Report New Spirit of Safety Consciousness in Peterborough.

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC HEAVY.

The week-end toll of deaths and serious injury on the highways this season is reflected in the railway traffic out of Peterborough, and especially on last night's and this morning's trains.

E. L. Bowes, C.P.R. depot agent, told The Examiner to-day that one of the commonest expressions he hears across the wicket at week-ends —and particularly within the last two days—is usually in these words: "I'm not going to take a chance driving through the highway traffic on Saturday and Sunday. The car is going to stay in the garage. It's a whole lot safer."

The public is apparently becoming safety conscious. At the C.N.R. Station to-day traffic out of Peterborough was noticeably higher than on the usual week-end, and J. B. Doran, uptown representative of the C. N.R., confirmed the experience of of the C.P.R. Station.

"Quite a number of people have volunteered the remark to us that they were travelling b ytrain, particularly during the week-ends, because they were travelling by train, particu-hazards,' Mr. Doran said this afternoon. "We didn't even think of asking them about it. They told it of their own accord, and it is this comment that drew our attention to the feeling of quite a number of peonle that the highways and their accidents are getting a lot of publicity every Monday."

SMUGGLER CAUGHT.

PROCEDURE HITCH BROKE RELATIONS

Rumors That Russian Ambassador Left Through Unpleasantness Denied.

LONDONO, Aug., 3. — (Canadian Press). — The hitch in the British-Russian negotiations for resumption of diplomatic relations was said in official quarters to-day to have arisen over the question of procedure and not of policy.

Rumours that the departure of M. Dovgalevsky, Russian Ambassador in Paris and Russian representative in the negotiations, was connected with unpleasantness in the discussions with Foreign Secretary Henderson were denied emphatically.

Misunderstanding as to the nature and scope of the initial conference is believed in informed circles to have been the cause for suspension of the discussions. It is known that the questions of propaganda and Russian debts were not broached.

The next move in the effort to renew normal erlations between the countries is expected to come from Moscow.

RAISING AGRICULTURE RATES CAUSES POLITICAL REVOLUTION

Senator Moses Throws Threat To Finance Committee On Proposals.

EAST DISLIKES IDEA.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 3.—(By The Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Senator Moses of New Hampshire, president pro tem-pore of the Senate, and probable chairman of the Republican Senatorial Committee, has served notice on the President and on Leaders of the Finance Committee that the east will not stand for the "boosting" of agricultural rates and reduction in industrial rates which is the program of the Senate Progressive Republicans and Democrats. He declares any such plan will mean a political "revolution" in the east and will defeat the Republics in the Congressional elections next year. Senator Moses says revision must be equitable for all interests.

The significance of Senator Moses' attitude is that it represents the views of most of the Conservative Republican members of the Senate and House. The plan of the Senate Conservative Republicans will be to allow agricultural increases to meet the wishes of the farm organizations, provided industrial increases are made and especially provided the big textile and shoe and leather industries of the east get what they want.

In concluding the agricultural schedule, finance Republicans increased the rate on hay from $4 per ton to $5. Increase straw from $1 to .50 a ton and increased the rate on broom-

STEAMER BEOTHIC BATTLES ICE FLOES

Gov't Expedition Finds No Word of Inspector and Companions at Craig Harbor.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 3. —(By the Canadian Press).—The steamer Beothic, Canada's patrol ship in Arctic waters, is battling heavy ice in Smith Sound on the way to Bache Peninsula, the farthest North Police Post, Custom House and Post Office satuated on the west coast of Fesmere Island about 700 miles from the pole.

Wireless despatches received yesterday in the north west territories and Yukon Branch of the Department of the Interior sat that the government's 1929 expedition reached Craig Harbor, Southern Ellesmere Island on Thursday.

No record was found at the Cache at Craig Harbor of Inspector Joy, Constable Taggart and the Eskimo Noocapungwah, who on March 12 left Dundas Harbor on Devon Island for a patrol westward to Melville Island. Inspector joy had left word at Dundas harbor that if he did not return in sixty days he would be either at Craig Harbor or Bache Peninsula. Members of the expedition are hopeful of receiving news of the party at Bache Peninsula.

It will be forwarded to the Dominion Congress whose president, Tom Moore, ardently supported the suggestion here.

CHEMIST HOLDS FATE IN HANDS

What Was in Girl's Stomach Will Decide Whether Professor Goes To Chair.

BODY ON RIFLE RANGE.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—C. F. Long, Columbus City chemist, held the pivot position to-day in the murder trial of Dr. James H. Snook for the killing of Theora Hix as the State moved from the establishment of the crime to the definite effort to fasten it on the 49-year-old former Ohio State professor.

Long holds the story upon which the State rests much of its case. He made the examination of Miss Hix's stomach, which the State maintains contained an emotional excitant given her on the night of the killing by her profesor-lover.

NO LOVE FOR ZEPPELIN STOWAWAY; LAKEHURST POLICE AWAIT COMING

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—The stowaway who jumped aboard the Graf Zeppelin as she was leaving her hangar Thursday morning is anything but a hero to Dr. Hugo Eckener, the ship's commander, and will find himself in the hands of the authorities as soon as the airliner reaches port.

A wireless message picked up here from the Zeppelin said that the stowaway was being held a prisoner in the crew quarters and would be turned over to the Lakehurst port authorities. Dr Eckener's position was that he had endangered the lives of the passengers and the ship's safety by jumping on the Zeppelin's envelope in getting aboard.

TWO MOST FAMOUS SURGEONS RETURN FROM DEDICATING WINDOW TO FATHER

MONTREAL, August 3. (C.P.) —Montreal harbored for a few hours this morning, probably the most famous surgeons in the world —the Mayo Brothers of Rochester, Minnesota, who returned to-day on the Canadian Pacific liner Montrose, from a visit to England. It was generally thought that the principal reason for the visit of these famous men was to attend and read papers at the British Medical Association meeting last week. Dr. Will Mayo, speaking to the Canadian Press, just after the ship tied up, explained that in reality it had been more of a sentimental journey. "We went over to attend the unveiling and dedication of a memorial window to our father in a parish church at Eccles, near Manchester."

$15,000,000 FOR HYDRO SYSTEM

ELECTORATE MUST OWN ITS SYSTEM

Each of Municipalities in Central Ontario Will Get Share of $15,000,000.

ABOUT FIFTEEN ENTITLED.

Own Distributing Systems Must Be Established Before Distribution.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 3.—(C.P.)—Fifteen million dollars in physical assets and reserves, now held by the Provincial Hydro Commission, will be split among the municipalities of the Central Ontario Hydro power zone as soon as all set up their own distributing systems, it was announced here last night by Hon. J. R. Cooke, Provincial Government member of the Provincial Hydro Commission.

Mr. Cooke made this announcement at a large public meeting in the City Hall held in connection with the plebiscite taking place here on August 8, when Belleville citizens will decide by vote whether or not they shall purchase their own Hydro distributing system for $186,000.

Legislation effecting this distribution has been promised by Premier Ferguson, Mr. Cooke stated. Each of the 14 or 15 participating Central Ontario municipalities, he explained, would be credited with a share of the $15,000,000 on the basis of the size and earnings of its local distributing system.

Follow Peterborough.

Oshawa, Peterborough, and Lindsay are three Central Ontario municipalities which recently have taken over their own distributing system. If the present vote is favorable, Belleville will participate with them and such other towns as Cobourg, Trenton, Picton and Napanee, which are expected to follow Belleville's example. When all have voted and have been credited with the shares of the $15,000,000 so-called unscrambling or dismembering of the Central Ontario system will be complete. In addition the Provincial Commission then will be able to boast that each of its component municipalities, numbering more than 500, owns its own local distributing system. For these Central Ontario towns are the last Hydro-served municipalities in the province to take over their own distributing systems.

Belleville is fully expected to take over its own system. Local speakers at the meeting last night, including Mayor W. H. Greenlee, all were favorable, and while many questions were asked by the audience after the speeches were over, every questioner declared himself in favor of the transfer.

BLIND SCOUTS GREET PRINCE

First Week of International Gathering Proves Big Success.

SEA PAGEANT TO-DAY.

ARROWE PARK, Eng., August 3.—(C.P.) — The first week of the biggest International gathering of boys in history drew to a close to-day with 50,000 Boy Scouts able truthfully to say good times had been in Arrowe Park.

In a few short days the boys have been witnesses and victims of an astounding variety of weather, including a storm that tried to wash and blow their tents away, and a drizzle that attempted to drown their boyish enthusiasm.

Much more remains to the Scouts before August 13, when the jamboree ends, and the boys scatter to the world's four corners carrying with them first hand knowledge of what international brotherhood means in practical operation.

The feature of to-day's program of the jamboree is the pageant of the sea scouts. The great thanksgiving service comes to-morrow.

Numerous incidents of the Princes's visit yesterday were told over and over again to-day by the boys.

The Prince at one time was greeted by a party of deaf and dumb scouts who waved their hats on sticks and made him understand how deep was their regard for him. The blind scouts also pressed forward in a crowd at another point.

Every phase of industry will be represented at the 1929 Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto.

ITALY VIBRATES WITH SCANDAL AS MUSSOLINI REMOVES BELLONI FINANCIAL EXPERT FROM OFFICE

Provincial Secretary Claims American Bank Compensated Belloni For Milan Loan.

CHARGES UNFOUNDED.

Mussolini Scores Denouncer As Giving Opening For Opponents Against Fascists.

ROME, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press)—Italy reverberated to-day with its greatest public scandal in years, involving Ernesto Belloni, former Mayor of Milan and Italian Financial Expert at Versailles and the reparations and debt conferences, and unnamed advisors.

Belloni was removed summarily late yesterday by Premier Mussolini from all public and political activity and various of his advisors, whose identity has not been made known, were imprisoned. The action followed report of a special committee into Belloni activities as Podesta (Mayor) of Milan.

The charges provoking the investigation were levelled by Roberto Farinacci, former Secretary of the Fascist Party and now Provincial Secretary at Cremona. Farinacci claimed Belloni favored the American Banking firm of Dillon Read and Company, in return for a large money compensation in alloting a loan of $30,000,000 to the City of Milan in 1927.

Belloni Cleared.

The comimttee, although still investigating the loan, exonerated Belloni on this charge, but found he had used his office as Podesta to increase greatly his private fortune.

SCHOOL DAYS ARE RECALLED BY OLD BOYS

Old Boys and Girls Gather in School in Big Reunion.

HAPPY EVENT..

Old Students Return From All Parts of Continent For Big Event.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 3 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).— More than one school boy stopped short and gasped for breath yesterday morning at 9.30 when he tried to figure out whether or not his ears were playing him false. There was a sound penetrating the air that should not have been heard till another month had passed. The trouble was, the school bell was ringing. Nor was it the usual hour of 8.30, but an hour later, 9.30, when the first bell rang and the school children of many years ago began to scramble for their books and slates just as they used to do. Half an hour later school was called and some real old readin', ritin', and 'rithmetic were reviewed by teachers who had long since ceased to teach and by scholars whose school days were many years behind them.

There was a teaching staff of four teachers, Mrs. Neil Thompson (nee Williams), Miss Edith Archer, Mrs. A. (Dr.) Haig, and G. A. Kingston. Robert Boyes was the inspector, and said he was having a day off just looking around. Mr. Boyes has been associated with the Campbellford schools both as teacher and inspector. If any teacher with as long service as Mr. Boyes is as popular with every student of former years, he was not present. Mr. Boyes is known to all and sundry of his scholars and friends as Bobbie. Everyone speaks well of him as a schoolmaster and friend. Yesterday his hand was shaken frequently by his former class members who had come back.

Well Planned.

There was fun galore. Everyone enjoyed it. Sammie Abernethy came late and tried to sneak in, but the teacher caught him and he was duly punished. Little Neddie Nancarrow was late, too, but he had a note. It explained that he had been sent to catch some fish and hadn't caught them, so his mother had kept him late while she whipped him. That let Ned off with the teacher. "Sharkie" Irwin tried to kiss Marge Archer. He did kiss her and someone told on him. Sharkie hid his face for shame but the teacher came down and applied the strap. Johnnie Irwin misbehaved and tried to start a fight when another boy stole his lollypop. Both of them were sent out of the room. The other boy was Oscar Young. Don Graham from Detroit got a "lickin'" for cuttin' up and he didn't like it. He told the boys at recess that it hurt awful, but he wouldn't cry. Of course there was one bad boy who wanted to smoke, but the teacher caught him and took his cigarettes away. As a rule, the little girls were well behaved. Miss Calnan recited "Mary Had a Little Lamb," and she did it without a mistake. Her brother wasn't quite as smart as his sister. He was there in his bare feet, but he didn't have his lessons prepared.

Well Prepared.

There were not many pupils dressed as small children, but all came prepared to do some work. Some had slates and other had scribblers, rulers and pencils. They sangs the songs of long ago, Row, Row, Row Your Boat; The Little Cock Sparrow, and others. Bob Cumming from Haileybury was asked not to sing because his voice was out of tune. This pleased Darrel Longmore from Vancouver. Doc and Bob had always argued as to who was the best singer and Bob claimed the honors because he had lead a school boy choir one night when the Gang was on its way to steal strawberries after an

CALGARY FIRES OUT OF CONTROL

Over Fifty Men Fighting Blaze At Elbow River and Rainy Creek.

BIG HORNE RESERVE OUT.

CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—Further reports to Calgary from the fire area at the junction of Rainy Creek and the Elbow River, about 40 miles south-west of Calgary, stated that the fire was still out of control. More men have been sent to fight the blaze and there are now about 50 men attempting to prevent the spread of the fire, forestry officials in the city stated.

A forest fire on the Big Horn Reserve, south of Sheep Creek, is now under control, officials said. A fire near the Burnt Stick Lake in the Red Deer area is being investigated but no details have reached the city.

Additional lookout posts have been established in the forest areas and are doing good work in reporting fires which have been extinguished before much damage has been done.

MEXICO IS ANXIOUS OVER TARIFF LAWS

U. S. Senate Raised Duty On Winter Vegetables Not in U. S. Competition.

MAZATLAN, Sinaloa, Mexico, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—This land of tomatoes, peas, peppers, string beans and other succulent winter vegetables has an anxious ear cocked toward Washington these days, listening for something in the way of concessions from the Senate tariff hearings. When the Ways and Means Committee of the House voted to increase the duties on tomatoes from half a cent to three cents a pound and doubled the one-cent duty on peas, it hit the west coast of Mexico a staggering blow. To make the "one-two" punch complete would need only similar action by the Senate and the imposition of proposed duties of three cents on peppers, egg plants and cucumbers.

What makes the situation especially irksome to tomato growers is that the crop from here reaches cities in the United States and Canada chiefly from December to April, inclusive. In these months there is little competition from growers of Florida and West Texas, to whose agitation for protective duties the vegetable man of this section ascribe their present dolorous outlook.

The winter vegetable industry has grown up here only since 1907.

SIMCOE COUNTY WHEAT YIELDS OVER AVERAGE

Estimated Average is 35 Bushels to Acre with Little Rust.

The total crop, with increased prices, is expected to bring $3,500,000. An estimated average, judging by the grain already cut, is 35 bushels to the acre, with very little rust to decrease its xalue.

BRAZIL BUYS FIREARMS.

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press). — Recent reports from Washington that Brazil bought more firearms in the United States than any other country in the early weeks of the year has caused surprise here. Carrying revolvers or other concealed weapons in this country is forbidden, but in many sections the law is not enforced.

In Pernambuco there is strict enforcement and the state police seize arms carried illegally. There was a dumping at sea of such confiscated revolvers to the number of 7,288 by the Pernambuco police recently. The seizures covered a period of several months.

AUTOPSY SHOWS BODIES IN LAKE NOT DROWNED

Oshawa Mystery Increases On Findings of Dr. Rundle in Autopsy.

TWO YET MISSING.

Inquest Will Be Held But Coroner Refuses To Reveal Whether Any Foul Play.

OSHAWA, August 3 (Canadian Press). — Mrs. Edwin Gomme and five-year-old Robert Beckwith, whose bodies were found in Lake Ontario last Tuesday morning, were not drowned. Coroner Dr. Rundle stated yesterday that an autopsy performed on the bodies showed that drowning had not been the cause of death.

Mrs. Gomme and her little grandson, together with Walter Stapely, and her daughter, Mrs. Robert Beckwith, went out for a row on Oshawa Harbor on Monday evening. The bodies of Mrs. Gomme and the little boy were found the next morning, apparently drowned. The others are still missing.

Coroner Rundle would not say that the autopsy had revealed any sign of foul play. "The information we secured made further investigation necessary," he added.

An inquest will be held, it was announced, although the date has not been set.

BUFFALO BOY HAS BIG LEAD

Division of Prize Money.

The prize money was distributed as follows: Frank Pritchard, $500; Stanley Pritchard, $125; Martha Norelius, $75 plus $100 for the first woman crossing the line; Byron Summers, $50.

When the school of thirty-eight entrants answered the starting gun fired by Elwood Hughes, of Toronto, Frank Pritchard stroked his way into the lead and was never headed. Martha Norelius was behind him at the end of the first of the six laps that comprised the three-mile triangular course; Stan. Pritchard was third; Hubbard, Summers, George Young, Carlton W. Adler of Boston, Bill Sadlo of Toronto, Leah Riley of New York, Alf. Sully of Toronto and Tommy Walker of Toronto were strung out behind.

Stan. Pritchard was up in second place at the second turn. George Young took himself to the boom at that stage, and the struggle was plainly confined to the Pritchards, Miss Norelius, Hubbard and Summers for the money places.

Hubbard Hung On.

Hubbard passed Stan. Pritchard on the third lap, but on the fifth lap he was trailing the second Pritchard by ten feet, while brother Frank was streaking smoothly along 300 yards or more out in front. His unofficial time was 1 hour and 18 minutes. Apparently there were no official timers. The start was at 3.20 p.m. standard time, and Frank Pritchard finished the three-mile course at 4.38; Stan. Pritchard at 4.40; Hubbard at 4.41; Martha Norelius at 4.45 and Summers at 4.46.

The real battle was between the second Pritchard and Hubbard.

McArthur Finished.

Bill Sadlo claimed sixth place at the finish, with Adler seventh, Leah Riley eight. Sadlo had kept the leaders in sight all the way. Don McArthur, of Campbellford, was announced as twelfth to finish.

Dr. O. C. Watson, who had charge of the barge, which included in its equipment a telephone connection with a microphone ashore, found his big float dragging its anchors upstream before a strong breeze. The telephone wire was cut, and the barge ended its unplanned cruise just beyond the extreme easterly flag of the course. Exceptin that unforeseen separation from shore crowds and the long boom where the swimmers started and finished, the race was well managed and provided a spectacle that Campbellford has rarely duplicated.

Shier Mendelssohn, of Toronto, was prominent among those on the officials' stand and Johnny Walker manned the microphone and did a fine job of it. The crowd could see only heads and arms, but Johnny Walker new the leaders and many of the other entrants, and kept the crowd informed.
